No Place Found In Ulster For Those Who Are Neutral

By LARRY SMITH
Canadian Kemsley Scholar in Journalism

BELFAST, Feb. 4 — Eire, that strange republic of the coast of Britain, owns the Blarney Stone and perhaps that's why she has so far outstripped still-British Ulster in the partition propaganda campaign being waged around the world.

At any rate, to cut down that lead is the chief aim of the forthcoming six-week lecture tour of the United States and Canada by Sir Basil Brooke, genial, soft-spoken Prime Minister of Northern Ireland. He has cut out for himself a large task, but if anyone can do it, he is the man.

Sailing into Belfast Lough on the overnight packet from Glasgow, I hastened for an early morning view of Belfast, the city of hills. The only thing I saw was fog, which slowly gave way in the face of a persistent drizzle as the day wore on.

But if the weather was foggy, the political situation was free from fuzz and sharply defined. One has only to be in Northern Ireland a few hours to learn that it is a case of black versus white Unionist versus Nationalist, Britain versus the rest, and, to a far lesser extent but still tragically bound up in politics, Protestant versus Roman Catholic.

Few Are Neutral

Few people are neutral in Ulster, and one can't blame them for taking sides. Divisions are not merely on the basis of internal political programs; they involve the Union Jack, the King, and the British Commonwealth. Feelings on those subjects run deep, and mean a sharp cleavage through the tiny country. The lines of division are not always as sharp as listed above—not all Protestants are Unionist and pro-British, and not all Roman Catholics are Nationalist and anti-British—but on the whole they are true.

For years the Irish question has troubled British statesmen, but it is significant that in Ulster north-east province of the old united Ireland, proposals to give Home Rule to Ireland in the 1880's and later brought vehement protest. The people felt themselves British, and wanted to remain British, no matter what other sections of the population, nursing bitter memories of the past, might feel.

When in 1920, after bloody risings in Dublin in 1916, the British government did set up two governments, one for Northern and one for Southern Ireland, the northerners were quite happy. A year later they voted themselves out of the chance for Dominion status, which was conferred on Eire. The years have rolled on, and today Eire is a self-governing republic outside the Commonwealth.

Want United Ireland

Since the twenties, Eire has carried on a vigorous campaign for abolition of partition, and creation of an all-Ireland government. Mr. De Valera led the cry for years; it has been maintained by his successor, Mr. Costello.

In the North, such a suggestion makes most of the people red—or green. They feel that Eire would like to control Ulster because the latter, with one half of the population (1946 figures—1,347,000) is a thriving community, partly industrial and partly agricultural. She has an overall favorable balance of trade, is self-sufficient in food, and is able to export large quantities of food and manufactured goods to Britain. There is little poverty, although there are small pockets of unemployment. In Dublin, on the other hand, barefoot kiddies pressing their face against restaurant windows was a common sight not long ago.

Sir Basil will have to counter many charges by Eire, but he has the necessary facts. For example Eire has repeatedly said that Ulster is financed by contributions from the British Exchequer. The facts are that 90 percent of the taxes are collected directly by Britain, and then payments are made to Ulster to finance all-British services there and to administer other local service—in other words, to run the country. True, it comes from the British Exchequer but in the first instance it was raised in Ulster.

The amount of revenue then remaining in the Exchequer represents Ulster's contribution to Imperial services—defence, war pensions, foreign and colonial relation, the national debt; and so on. This "Imperial contribution" has varied with the times, but for the year 1948-49 it was estimated at $21,500,000. When Eire broke away, her contributions to defence and repayment of the national debt disappeared too.

13 Members to London

Ulster is in rather a unique position. It sends 13 members to British House of Commons at Westminister, 10 of whom at present are Unionist. Then it has its own Parliament consisting of a 26-member Senate and a House of Commons with 52 members. Parliament has jurisdiction over a wide range of local affairs, and there are Cabinet ministers for agriculture, commerce, education, finance, home affairs, labor health and local government.

The Parliament Buildings stand in the suburb of Stormont, high on a hill looking out over the rich green countryside. Nearby is Stormont Castle, where Sir Basil has his offices.

Over a cup of coffee in front of a glowing fire, he chatted informally about some of these problems, and spoke of the need to counteract the rather vicious propaganda from south of the border.

Welcomes Troops

"Utter nonsense" was Sir Basil's reply to the charge that partition is forced on Ulster by British troops. "The presence of British troops is welcomed by us. They are United Kingdom troops—our troops."

Eire repeats the claim that referendum in Ulster would show a majority in favor of ending partition and forming an all-Ireland government. To answer this, Sir Basil has only to point to the results of the election in February 1949. That produced 40 members pledged to maintain union with Britain (39 Unionists and one independent) while the Nationalists gained only nine seats, and have the wavering support of three other members.

What about charges that this is not a fair representation? An analysis of figures shows that anti-partitionist votes formed 27 percent of the total poll, and their representation in Parliament is 23 percent.

The minority claims that proportional representation would give a truer picture.

"That's an interesting statement," Sir Basil says. "In 1921 when we did have a proportional representation system the Parliamentary division was 40 Unionists and 12 Nationalists, just as it is today."

In view of continued charges that the majority wished an end to partition, would it not be wise to hold a special referendum to end the argument, once and for all, the Prime Minister was asked.

"I couldn't possibly agree to a referendum," he declared. "It wouldn't end the argument, as some people suggest. The last few elections have proved beyond all doubt that Ulster does not want to join Eire in an all-Ireland republic. We strongly desire to retain our own unique place as part of the United Kingdom and Commonwealth. The anti-partitionists are merely out to propagandize their views by any means, and a referendum would be just what they want. They know they wouldn't win it, but they could make a lot of fiery speeches."

Played a Noble Role

Sir Basil can speak proudly of the role Ulster played in the war—reception centre for 300,000 American troops, a valuable naval base in the Battle of the Atlantic, a heavy food output, and high production of warships, tanks, guns, ammunition and bombers.

He quotes the tribute of a fellow Ulsterman, now Governor-General of Canada, Said Viscount Alexander after the war: "Only one great channel remained open. It remained open because loyal Ulster gave us the full use of the Northern Irish ports and waters and thus ensured the free working of the Clyde and the Mersey."

Had those ports been denied the Allies, as were the Southern Irish ports, the war story might have been vastly different. Mr. De Valera, defending neutrality, says Eire would have gone to war had she been attacked.

"By attacked, presumably he means invaded," says Sir Basil. "Of course Eire would have been at war if the Germans had invaded the country. Why didn't the Germans do it? Because they couldn't. Again why? Because the Royal Air Force and the British Navy, operating in alliance with the American forces, saved Eire in saving Britain and civilization. Eire accepted the protection of Britain and the United States but declined to join the Allies in the struggle."

Northern Ireland rejects completely all claims by the south that they should unite as a republic, or in any other form. Ulstermen regard the border between their two countries not as a mere physical line but as a separation of two peoples of greatly different ideologies and temperament.

Here is Sir Basil Brooke's statements of the position:

"We in Ulster intend to remain within the United Kindom and the British Commonwealth, giving our whole-hearted allegiance to the Crown, standing side by side with our fellow citizens in Great Britain in peace and war, and playing our part in the struggle for European recovery and the economic stability of the world. Our people are no less resolute in opposing separation from Britain than they were a generation ago. Ulster's true destiny in with Britain and the British Commonwealth."

That, in essence, is Sir Basil Brooke's case—the case this politically astute and personally charming man will be presenting in Canada and the United States shortly. On historical as well as modern grounds, and from both ideological and practical viewpoints, it's a good case for Ulster.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

QUEEN OF THE FOLLIES for 20 years of the early Twentieth Century was Nora Bayes, seen above in a dainty negligee. Noted for her caprices, her gay romances and impulsive marriages (there were five), Miss Bayes was sometimes called "the most difficult" star in show business. She lived as she thought a big star of her day should, spent money lavishly, travelled in private cars, covered herself with jewels, and conducted herself like a queen. No one disputed her right. She had superb talent, a wonderful voice and a great stage personality. One of her husbands was Jack Norworth, actor, songwriter and for a time her vaudeville partner. Most lasting monument to their teamwork is the classic "Shine On, Harvest Moon," which they wrote and made into a hit together.

DOROTHY DIX

Says Wife Silly To Stay With Philandering Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for twenty years to a woman who has always been of a jolly, lively, loving disposition. We have always been devoted.

Dorothy Dix

But now she is 47 and I am 51 and she has lost her good looks, so I have found a sweetheart on the side. Not so long ago, my wife found out about this.

She has never said a word to me about this, but she just looks stricken and never laughs or sings any more. When I try to kiss her she doesn't pay any attention to it. I have told her that it is all right with me for her to go out with anyone she wants to. I bought her a car and some new furniture which she has been wanting a long time, but she doesn't seem to care for them.

I cannot give up my sweetheart, but I want my wife to liven up a little and take an interest in things like she used to and make things pleasant around home. Don't you think she is being foolish?

H. R. T.

ANSWER: Indeed, I do think she is acting foolish, H. R. T. I don't see why a woman such as your wife is should waste a single regret on losing such a miserable husband. If she had any sense, she would sweep him out of the house with a broom along with the other refuse and think it a good riddance.

But women ARE silly creatures, and when one sets her heart upon a worthless man there is no arguing with her. And I don't wonder that you are annoyed at this foolish creature who is so illogical that she won't go on making things pleasant and gay for you at home when you choose to return to it after you have been out showing your sweetheart a good time.

A Rotten Deal

Think of a woman who has worked side by side with a man for twenty years. Then she finds out that this man whom she has so adored, for whom she has done so much, has forsaken her for a young girl because she has got middled-aged and is no longer young and pretty. Can you think of any woman getting a rottener deal than that? Can you think of any man lower than the man who plays her such a trick? I can't, and I have a lively imagination in good working order.

But watch out, H. R. T. Your pretty, young sweetheart may pay you back for the way your are treating your wife. Many a bad woman avenges the wrongs of a good woman.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young man in my late 20's, hopelessly in love with a married woman much older than I am. Her husband treats her shamefully but she hesitates to bring any divorce action on account of her religious considerations. I am able to support a wife and nothing would make me happier than to marry the girl of my dreams, yet I am wondering if I am doing the right thing in meddling in a family situation of which I am not in the least the cause. I am bewildered.

EUGENE.

ANSWER: Don't be bewildered any longer, Eugene, for the road lies straight before you and it leads away from the married lady's domicile. Let her and her husband fight out their differences, and do you reflect that you are not ordained to be a consoler of wives.

Don't ever try to persuade a woman to do anything against her religious convictions. It is wrong in the first place, and in the second place she never stays persuaded or convinced. This woman may yield to your pleas to get a divorce from her husband, and marry you, but if she does, the ceremony will hardly be over before her conscience will begin to reproach her and she will make not only herself but you miserable.

And, anyway, you will be making a mistake to marry a woman who is much older than yourself. Two or three years or possibly five are negligible, but beyond that the time limit expires.

DEAR MIS DIX: I have been going with a young man for three years. He says he loves me and that we are going to be married, but he never sets the date. Do you think it would be right for me to ask him when? I think a girl has a right to know where she stands.

DAISY.

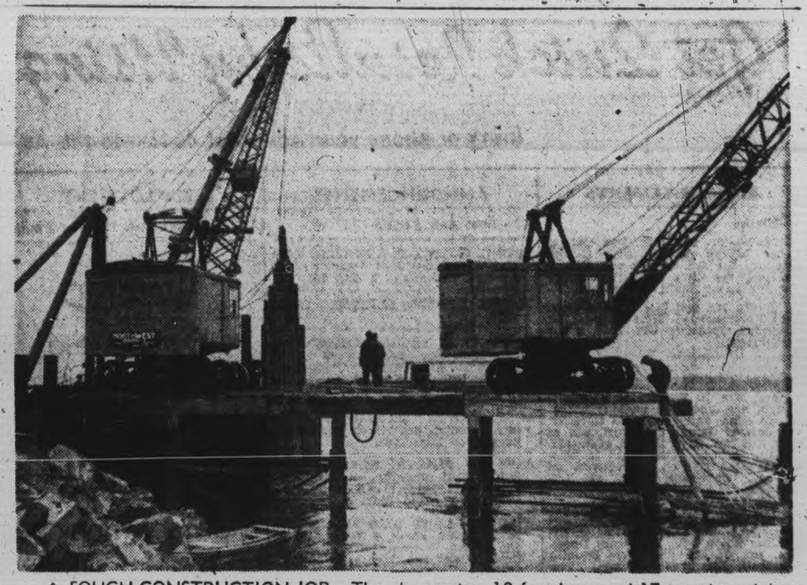
ANSWER: Right you are, Daisy. Have a showdown with the young man and find out exactly where he stands on the matrimonial proposition.

Getting married is just as much a woman's business as it is a man's, if not more. So I think you are quite within your rights to ask your dilatory lover when he proposes to ring the wedding bells, and if he continues to put it off, your cue is to break it all off. There is nothing to this love-making that leads nowhere. In matrimony a man should either put up or shut up.

Gets 3 Scientists

ON BOARD JOHN BISCOE, Antarctica, Feb. 7 (Reuters)—A rescue plane piloted by Peter Borden St. Louis, of Ottawa, Monday took off three more of the British scientists who have been marooned on Stonington Island in the Antarctic. A week ago St. Louis flew out two other British scientists. Six more still remain of the 11 men marooned on Stonington Island more than two years ago.

The Mennonites are members of a religious sect founded by Menno Simmons, a Dutch religious reformer, born in 1492.



A TOUGH CONSTRUCTION JOB—The $3,000,000 water intake job being handled for the City of Montreal by Atlas Construction Co. has turned out to be a combined pipe-lowering and trestle bridge building project. Some $500,000 worth of huge water intake pipes, each seven feet in diameter, 18 feet long and 17 tons in weight, must be placed along the bottom of the St. Lawrence River by large power cranes, shown above. The cranes travel along a slim trestle bridge, that in time will stretch almost 2,000 feet from shore, and lower the heavy pipes into open coffer-dams, where workers connect them.

Gallantry Gone Actresses Sigh

LONDON (CP)—Theatre folk have noted two casualties of the changing times—the quaint old custom of drinking champagne out of a lady's slipper and the "Stage Door Johnny" with his silk-lined cape and his bouquet.

One of the many old time actresses who still sigh for their return is 60-year-old dramatic actress Ruby Miller.

"I pity the modern stage girl who has to do without the attention of the Edwardian gallants," said Miss Miller at a party given by The Daily Mail for the best broadcasters of 1949.

"A foregin prince once drank out of my shoe and I must say my vanity was flattered. There was a thrill, too, in playing to properly dressed houses when tails and white ties were the rule for people in the stalls."

But the oldest of the Gaiety Girls—Sylvia Grey—who is now in her 83rd year, says she avoided the "stage door Johnnies" and went straight home to bed after the theatre."

"I always did my exercises morning and night," she said. "That is how I've kept my figure."

Miss Grey, who first appeared at the Gaiety Theatre is a dancer in 1886, is a dainty little woman with only one handicap—failing sight.

Theatre folk say shoe-drinking has fallen out of fashion for three reasons: (1) the rise in the cost of champagne; (2) decline in the standard of chivalry; (3) toe-less shoes make poor containers.

Ordered To Die

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP)—Fred Strobie Monday was ordered to die in the State's gas chamber for the brutal sex slaying of six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoff. Judge Charles W. Fricke pronounced the sentence, abruptly ending the 68-year-old ex-baker's fight for a new sanity trial.

Delegate Appointed To WMS Presbyterial

OMEMEE, Feb. 7 — (ENS) — "In Christianizing The Social Order," a chapter from Kenneth J. Beaton's "Growing With The Years" proved an interesting subject of study for the Trinity United W. M. S. last week at the home of Miss Jessie Lamb.

Group Leader, Mrs S. Northey led in the worship service which she closed with prayer. Assisting her in the presentation of the study were Mrs. R. Clifford, Mrs. G. Overholt, Mrs. H. Graham and Mrs. H. McKee. "God Will Take Care of You" was sung as a duet by Mrs. H. Griffin and Mrs. S. Northey.

The president announced the World Day of Prayer service Feb. 24, in the United Church, also the Presbyterial in Queen St. United Church, Lindsay, on Feb. 15. Mrs. S. D. Vaughan was appointed delegate to the Presbyterial.

Letters were read from Mrs. Wm. Connell and from Mr. S. H. Faulkner and family thanking the Auxiliary for sympathy extended on the occasions of recent bereavements.

Mrs. S. Moyer reported purchases made by the supply committee and offered her home for the March sewing meeting. Lunch was served by the group in charge of the program.

Away from sorrow, care and pain;
May you rest in peace, dear father,
Until we meet again.
—Ever remembered by his loving daughter, Alta, son-in-law Deb and grandson Billie.

7—Cards of Thanks

The family of the late Isabella Fallis wish to thank all their kind friends, neighbours of Elm St., Rev. E. C. Moore, the attending doctor and nurse, for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy and all who sent cards and floral tributes during the loss of our loving mother.

The nieces and nephews of the late Mrs. William Hatherly wish to express their appreciation and thanks to the Rev. Dr. Semple, attending doctor, neighbours and friends for the many acts of kindness during her recent illness and death.

United Church In 25th Year

TORONTO, Feb. 7 (CP)—Services celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the United Church of Canada will be held Sunday, June 11, in 6,454 preaching places across the country, it was announced today. The actual anniversary is June 10.

In addition to commemoration services in smaller communities, big religious gatherings are planned in several main centres.

In Winnipeg, where the Manitoba conference of the church will be in session, a rally will be held in the civic auditorium with a 500-voice choir and a large symphony orchestra. The Very Rev. Dr. George C. Pidgeon, first moderator of the United Church, will preach.

About 15,000 are expected to attend an evening service at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto. The Toronto Symphony Orchestra and a 2,000-voice choir will highlight the service.

All living former moderators, except Dr. Pidgeon, will be there. Present moderator, Rt. Rev. Willard Brewing, will preach.

Man To Be Successful Requires To Have Purpose

One must have a purpose to be successful, said Earl Putman, president of the Canada Health and Accident Assurance Corporation, Waterloo, while speaking to the Rotary Club, Monday. His topic was "The Common Denominator of Success."

The purpose, built on logic and emotion, should be identified and then surrendered to, said Mr. Putman. Logic alone will not provide success, he explained. An illustration of logic and emotion was given by Mr. Putman when Winston Churchill rose to lead Britain in the Second World War after Chamberlain's efforts for peace with Hitler failed at Munich.

The common denominator of success is forming the habit to do what failures do not like to do, said Mr. Putman. Success, he added, was perishable thing which could be here today and gone tomorrow. Some term success in money while others term it in power and serving fellowmen. A man who is happy daily throughout his life, he said, whether he gets happiness from his success in any one of those three things can easily write a period to the end of a successful life.

Put Full Effort Into Job

To be a success, Mr. Putman suggested that one put all his energy into his work, to have a keen driving desire for success, to expect to pay a price for success, to give consideration to appearance, to have good morals, to be enthusiastic in his work, to have a good home address, to have a good credit rating, and to have dignity. Success, he said, come through 50 per cent hard work, 35 per cent enthusiasm, and 15 per cent good luck.

Failures, he said, do not give consideration to the body. To have success one must have a proper living balance. Interest must be taken in the physical body. Mr. Putman said he tries to walk between three and five miles a day.

Failures don't like to get things done, but just talk about getting things done. Further, they don't like to be optimists. To attempt to be a success. Remember "to avoid inferior thinking." Other things failures don't like, he added, were: to have a proper mental attitude; to take part in public activities; to have to self-discipline themselves; to develop good working habits.

Mr. Putman was introduced by Paul Irwin, program chairman, and thanked by Roy Girven.

Burritt Smitheram introduced the guests and Charles Allen led the club in a brief singsong.

Institute Discuss Village Clinic

NORWOOD, Feb. 7 — (ENS)— Mrs. R. D. Fuller was hostess to 26 members and three guests of the Women's Institute at her home Alma Street on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Fred Gardner presided.

Discussing was held regarding themodern dressmaking course to be held in Town Hall, February 10-15.

Mrs. F. R. Barrett addressed the ladies on the high mortality rate of children under one year, and asked for a donation to be sent to headquarters. After some discussion it was deemed advisable to apply for more literature on this subject, of a free clinic for the village, if at all possible. This matter will also be presented at the district annual in May.

Mrs. G. A. Brethen gave a brief talk on the first Women's Institute, of which organization she was the first president in 1908. The first meetings were held in the Roxborough Block where the Register office is now. Then it was the Department of Agriculture Office.

Miss Ruth Cuthbertson gave a piano solo.

The Women's Institute pins ordered last month by the secretary were distributed, all twenty four of them.

Tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Wesley Lywood, Mrs. R. J. Leeper, Mr. Walter Hagerman and Mrs. Alec Innes.

Arrest 3 In Argentine

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 7 —(AP) —The British and United States consulates Monday reported Argentine officials have arrested two men from the United States and one from Britain on charges of "crimes against the security of the state." Both consulates said police declined to give details of the charges against the three men, held incommunicado.

Dr. Bland Dies

TORONTO, Feb. 7 (CP)—Dr. Salem Goldsworth Bland, noted preacher, writer and professor, died Monday night. He was 90. For more than half a century he was a minister of the Methodist Church of Canada, then joined the ministry of the United Church of Canada.

Distinguished Officer Dies, 83

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(CP).—Sir George Kirkpatrick, 83, former career army officer, died Monday night at his suburban Putney home after a three-year illness. Born in Woodstock, Sir George had been an invalid during most of his illness. The son of a former Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, he graduated from the Royal Military College, Kingston, and entered the army in 1885. He held many important commands in the Far East.

Sir George, son of the late Sir George Airey Kirkpatrick, attended schools at Port Hope, and Haileybury, Ont. He entered Royal Military College, went from there to Britain to join the Royal Engineers. He served with the Engineers in Gibraltar from 1889 to 1892.

He served in the Boer War, participated in the relief of Kimberley, and returned to Canada for garrison duty in Halifax 1902-04.

Inspector-General

He was Inspector-General of the Australian Army from 1910 to 1914 and then became director of military operations in India. From 1916 to 1920 he served as Chief of the General Staff of the Indian Army and in 1921 was promoted to Lieutenant-General and made Officer Commanding the British forces in China.

He returned to India in 1923 as Chief of the Western Command. On his retirement from that post in 1927, he was raised to full General, a rank which only a few Canadians have ever held.

But his old unit, the Royal Engineers, kept him active by giving him its highest distinction. It made him Colonel-Commandant, which he remained until his final retirement in 1930.

City Authorizes

Two properties which were bought by the council several years ago were the John Williams house and land on the west side of Erskine Ave., and a parcel from the estate of the late James Graham, on the south side of Lansdowne St., west of Erskine Ave. and the C.P.R. That land is still in the city's hands. With the proposed 150 acres, the total property in that area for factory sites would be enlarged to 170 acres.

City Solicitor Huycke was asked for his opinion by Ald. Doug. Miller, presiding as chairman of the committee of the whole in the second reading of the bylaw.

Mr. Huycke said the practice suggested by the council was not unusual. In the council's own experience they had authorized the borrowing of funds for the new Civic Hospital, and finally had to apply to the Municipal Board for authority to raise more money.

"There was not much argument about it," Mr. Huycke said. "You could not let the construction of the hospital stop, and the board agreed to increase the amount of the debenture. In this case I don't think there is any cause for worry about being sued in person."

Mr. Huycke said he thought the board would pass it. "Before any of this land can be sold or leased an application has to be made to Judge Smoke showing that the amount received in the case of selling or leasing is a fair value of the property. So, the ratepayers are protected at both ends, by the Municipal Board and the County Judge."

"But," Ald. Sands argued, "this bylaw says a further sum of $57,000 is required. On the face of it we are asking the Municipal Board to give us $7,000, but the bylaw says the sum is $57,000. That is why I think it should be made clear."

Buy Under New Authority

"We have no thought of spending $107,000," Ald. Waddell replied. "We are not going to buy under the old bylaw, but under the new authority. Forget the program is under the old $50,000 bylaw, and pick up this block."

Ald. Miller said the present bylaw impressed him as a practical approach to the Municipal Board "I don't think we are going too far. It would be costly to have a vote taken."

"If we want industries, we have to support the Industrial Commission," Mayor Swaston remarked. He mentioned the $20,000 that was spent on the site the city bought, and also the fact that two of them were now in industrial use.

Ald. Sands did not raise his hand when Ald. Miller called for the vote.

A clause in the report of the committee of the whole was directed at one of the lots owned by the city: "That Ald. Braund, Mr. Outram and Mr. Huycke confer with Robert M. Peirson regarding details of the lease to Mr. Peirson's manufacturing company with option to purchase certain industrial lands owned by the city."

That property is the former Harstone lot on the west side of High St. and north of the C.P.R. The Timber-Rib Company has already completed the erection of a building there.

Vestry Meeting Bright Reports

HASTINGS, Feb. 7 — (ENS) — The ladies of St. George's Church served supper to the church members, who gathered for the annual vestry meeting.

The rector, Canon C. R. Spencer, reported a very busy year, during which many important repairs and improvements were made to the church property. He commended the W. A. and the Junior W. A. for their accomplishments, and also the other organizations and officers.

Mr. C. B. Plant read the financial statement for the year, which showed a balance on hand, as did also the report of the W. A. given by Miss D. S. Plant. The Sunday School and Junior W. A. reports were encouraging.

The officers of 1949 were again elected: People's Warden, Mr. C. B. Plant, Rector's Warden, Mr. A. E. Warrington; Sidesmen, W. Gillespie, Rate Pulfer, R. Williamson, Bert Gillespie, G. Marryat, Robert P. M. Glass, W. Abbott, Clayton Radford, C. M. Baker, Lay Delegate to Synod, W. Gillespie. Mr. Marryat was again appointed auditor for 1950.

Canon Spencer noted that A. A. A. was fully subscribed also the Archbishop Owen Memorial Fund.

Helicopter Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—R(AP). —A proposed Helicopter service for the New York metropolitan area has won wide backing at a hearing, which continues here today. The plan, recommended by the Port of New York Authority, calls for rapid Helicopter transit of mail, express and passengers between key points within the city, and nearby communities. The Civil Aeronautics Board is holding the hearing to determine whether the fast air-shuttled service is in the public's interest.

2nd Winter Rally Of Rover Scouts

Three Peterborough Rover Scouts last weekend joined about 150 others from Ontario and Quebec at the second Ontario Winter Rally, held at Camp Sumac, Oshawa.

Discussion centred on outdoor sports and winter camping.

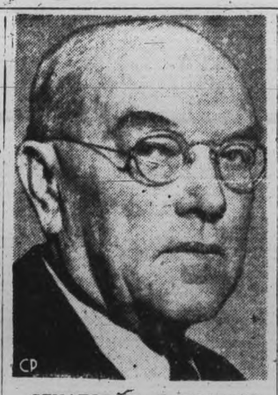
Seventeen of the Rovers decided to give the talks on winter camping a practical application, and they slept outside in sleeping bags. A small number had the additional shelter of tents but the remainder decided to play it cosy and occupied warm cabins for the night.

Representing the All Saints' Rover Crew at Camp Sumac were Douglas Harrison, Bob Laing and Bob Miller. Limited accommodation at the camp meant that only those three could stay overnight, but next day five other Rovers and George Greenbridge, district commissioner, and Peter Dominick, assistant district commissioner for Rovers and Cubs, motored to Oshawa for the day.

Moot In September

The next Ontario Moot will be at Kashabog Lake, near the Blue Mountains, on the Labor Day weekend. Hosts at that time will be the Peterborough Association. It will be the first time in more than 10 years that a Moot has been held in this district.

Next weekend All Saints' Rover Crew will be hosts to 10 Rovers from Orillia. Entertainment will include a tour of the city, supper, and a social evening on Saturday. Sunday will be given over to outdoor activities.



SENATOR W. H. GOLDING will move adoption of the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the Upper Chamber after parliament reconvenes this month. Senator Golding, who lives at Seaforth, Ont., was Liberal member of parliament for Huron South from April 1932 until appointed to the senate last spring.

Alliance Church Names Officials

Receipts for 1949 for the Park Street Alliance church totalled $9,669.12, D. W. Hewitt said in his financial report at the annual meeting. Support of foreign missions amounted to $2,034.48.

The Rev. Ralph Hobson in presenting his annual message reviewed the events of the past year touching on the building of the church. He reported an increasing attendance at the services. The heads of the various departments presented their reports.

Officers elected for 1950 were: elders, William Welsh, F. W. Welsh, C. W. Collins, H. C. Pullyblank; deacons, Waldemar Kornelson, Joseph Skelton; missionary treasurer, Miss Dorothy Hooey; senior young peoples president, Ernest Hayes; intermediate young peoples president, Gilbert Hayes.

Past Presidents Carve Dinner

Tossing aside all club business for that meeting about 90 Lions and their guests from Bowmanville, Millbrook and Newcastle had a social evening Monday. It was the annual past-president's meeting held at the Kawartha Club.

The program was under the chairmanship of the immediate past president Simpson (Sim) Gledhill. At least seven other past presidents were on hand: Mayor M. J. Swanston, Stanley Darling, J. E. Girven, James Dutton, Jr., Patrick D. Scollard, Arnold Deyell and Douglas Anderson.

Among the guests were 23 members of the Bowmanville Club, five from Millbrook and a couple from Newcastle. Entertainment was provided by Douglas Romaine, consisting of skits and impersonations.

Robert Johnson entertained at the piano.

Seven prizes were awarded — five by means of lucky draws, and two on a "chinese auction." Rules of the latter were explained to the uninitiated: the bidder pays the difference between his bid and that of another, the time element being decided by the ringing of a Four past presidents, each pre-set alarm clock, dressed in a chef's attire and having a roast of meat to cut, performed the annual past president's rite of carving.

Herb Jamieson was in charge of entertainment.

Two Handcuffed Men Give Policemen Slip

TOONTO, Feb. 7.— (CP). — Two men, one wearing handcuffs, are being sought today by suburban York township police for questioning about an automobile theft.

A policeman stopped the car, stolen Monday night in Toronto, and questioned the two occupants The officer had just handcuffed one of the men when the other started the car and drove off, throwing the policeman to the ground. The car was later found abandoned.

Young People Lead Sunday Church Service

GORE'S LANDING, Feb. 7 (ENS)—The Sunday evening service at St. George's was in charge of the Young People's Club. The girls and boys were in the choir; Bill Meggs read the Psalms; Miss Alice Harris and Miss Genene Thompson read the first and second lesson respectively; Eric Harris sang The Holy City and Miss Selina Gilpin sang Bless This House.

The rector, Rev. A. W. Smith, preached the sermon on Church Worship emphasizing the necessity of attending church. He welcomed the young people to the service and hoped they would repeat this service in the near future.

Fear Ruinous Rate War If Railways Not Checked

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—(CP). — A "ruinous rate war" may emerge if the railways are allowed indiscriminate use of power to eliminate competition by means of low-rate offerings, a Canada Steamship Lines lawyer said today

Hazen Hansard of Montreal, in a brief presented to the royal commission on transportation, said that steamship lines have their competitive backs to the wall because of the "unfair" rate-cutting advantage in the railways' favor.

He alleged that under the "agreed charge" method, railways can obtain a monopoly or near-monopoly of a shipper's business by offering him unusually low rates—rates which may be far below the normal rates in that area.

The Canadian National Railways, he said, had suggested that this power be extended by allowing the carriers to "employ the agreed charge, indiscriminately and without control, for the purpose of capturing business from its competitors."

Disrupt Structure

This would not only have the effect of "completely disrupting the established rate structure," but it also "could, and in all likelihood, would provoke a ruinous rate war between the railways themselves, with the agreed charge as a weapon."

"Moreover, it could and would place the water carriers in an impossible position." The agreed charge method was available to the water carriers in theory, but not in practice.

"Unrestricted use of the agreed charge," said Mr. Hansard, "would enable a carrier to quote entirely unremunerative rates solely for the purpose of driving its competitors out of business."

Mr. Hansard told the commission, which resumed its probe Monday after a recess since mid-December, it was significant that the proposal to extend use of agreed charges had come from the C.N., a government-financed organization that was least concerned with producing net revenue.

It is also "ihghly significant" that the privately-owned and operated Canadian Pacific Railway had not made a similar request, Mr. Hansard said.

He belived, that if anything, the agreed-charge method of meeting competition should be restricted. Water carriers could not implement that method because they did not operate all year round, and operated in only parts of the country.

It was in the public interest that faair competition between the water and rail carriers be continued, said Mr. Hansard.

Roseneath YPU Rehearse Play

ROSENEATH, Feb. 7 (ENS) — YPU meeting was held in the township hall on Monday night The president, Neil Adams presided with Miss Lois Arthur as pianist.

Morganston YPU had presented their play "Here Comes Charlie" in the LOL Hall on Friday night under the auspices of the local YPU. Proceeds were thirty-two dollars.

Play practice has begun for the new YPU play "The Man in the Green Shirt," under the supervision of Mrs. Earl Waldie.

After a brief business period the meeting adjourned for play practice.

Two Young Thugs Rob, Beat Man 62

TOONTO, Feb. 7.—(CP). —A 62year-old man was beaten and robbed of $5 by two young thugs today as he was leaving his downtown home to go to work.

Melville Culp, a widower who lives at a home for men suffered a broken nose, had almost every tooth of his denture rammed through his lips and had his left ear ripped.

A witness to the assault said one man held Culp while the other beat him.

Archbishop Of Canterbury Wants British Marriage Laws Clarified

By WILLIAM BOSS

LONDON, Feb. 7. — (CP). — When is a marriage not a marriage?

The archbishiip of Canterbury says that on this point British law "is in a frightful muddle." He is going to have a Church of England commission look into it.

Lord Merriman, president of the probate, divorce and admiralty division of the High Court of Justice, says there is nothing wrong with the law.

Chairman R. S. Pollard of the Marriage Law Reform Society supports the archbishop, but says nothing less than a royal commission would satisfy his organization. The church commission, he says, would be of use only to members of the Anglican Church.

The archbishop started the discussion by addressing members of the London Medico-Legal Society. His commission would inquire into nullity in marriage because "judges have not the slightest idea of what the law now means."

Church Has Views

He said "the church has views on what is and what is not a proper marriage, and when all the conditions are not fulfilled it is, in their eye, null and void."

Without amplifying his reference, he said medical men would be invited to help the commission since "the medical profession has brought it about that it is quite possible for a marriage to be both consummated and non-consummated at the same time."

Lord Merriman, speaking in Edinburgh, told the Scottish Agents' Society that the archbishop was referring to a 1947 decision by the House of Lords. It dismissed the case of a man who wanted his marriage nullified because his wife refused marital relations without contraceptives.

He intimated the man should have asked for a divorce, not a nullity decree.

Such a decree, he said, is "the appropriate remedy for some disability, physical or mental, existing at the time of marriage and so invalidating the contract itself."

Divorce Remedy

He said divorce is "the remedy for some offence against the marriage after it had in fact been contracted."

In the case referred to, he said, a divorce finally was granted, but canonical courts pronounced one of nullity.

"One must either call this sort of thing muddled thinking or assume that it is intended to meet the difficulties of the hierarchy of the Church of England who recognize nullity but profess no to recognize divorce."

Plan Strong Protest

OSHAWA, Feb. 7.—(CP). — The executive council of Local 222, United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) Monday night passed a motion that a vigorous protest be sent Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation concerning the proposed eviction of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vandewalker, and their three children from their wartime house. A request was included that they be allowed to remain until accommodation is found.

US Churches, Citizens Ask Bergman Films Banned

HOLLYWOOD ,Feb. 7 — (AP) —A swelling uproar against the inter-national love affair of Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rosselini—which an Alabama Ministerial Group charges "tends to glorify adultery"—today stormed at the gates of Hollywood.

Roman Catholic and Protestant churches, sensorship boards—even a legislator in taxes— called on theatres to ban the film which sparked the romance, "Stromboli."

As the Swedish actress and the Italian director worried over the weakness of Ingrid's new-born son' protests rose in vario parts of the United States against their conduct. Rossellini had been reported in Rome admitting he is the child's father. Miss Bergman is still married to Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

The Birmingham, Ala., Protestant Ministers Association voted to ask theatres to ban all films in which Miss Bergman appears or Rossellini directs.

At Memphis, Tenn., the city-council censor said all her films would be barred there if officials ruled such action was legal.

Texas Would Ban.

Representative R. E. Blunt of Big Spring, Tex., introduced a resolution in the Texas Legislature to ban "Stromboli" in Texas.

Miss Bergman and Rossellini have announced they will be married as soon as she is divorced from Lindstrom. She has filed suit in Mexico and expects a decree about Feb. 15. Lindstrom has said he will ignore the Mexican action and indicated he would file his own suit in Los Angeles, where he now lives with their 11-year-old daughter, - Ia.

The Albuquerque, N. M., Ministerial Alliance called on citizens to boycott "Stromboli" because of what he called "glamorizing and sensationalizing of adultery."

Sioux City, Ia., Catholics were asked to pass up the film by Bishop Joseph Muller because of what he called "conjugal infidelity." An Indiana chain of six theatres announced it would not show Stromboli. And in Los Angeles the membership of the Trinity Methodist Church voted a resolution banning any movie starring Miss Bergman.

Plan Conference Food Handlers

A two-day food handlers' conference sponsored by Peterborough branch of the Health League and the city Department of Health will be held Wednesday of this week and the following Wednesday at the YMCA.

The program will include lectures, films and demonstrations for the benefit of all food handlers in the city — mostly restaurant workers — and main subject will be hygiene.

A program at 2.15 p.m. will be repeated at 7.15 p.m. and a different program the following Wednesday afternoon will be repeated in the evening.

By holding two session a day it is hoped all those handling food will be able to attend.

Speakers will be Dr. R. A. Kelly, Medical Officer of Health; William Nash, chief chemist at Canada Packers; Dr. Frank Rushton of the Provincial Department of Health, and Dr. Harold Worton, Food and Dairy Inspector of the city department.

Certificates will be presented to all those attending both Wednesdays.

Young's Point Dance Pays Off Hockey Debt

YOUNG'S POINT, Feb. 7 — (ENS).—A successful dance was held in the parish hall, Young's Point recently, in aid of the juvenile hockey team and in charge of David Darling and Jimmy Jones. There was a paid admission of one hundred, which gladdened the hearts of the Young Pointers, because it paid off the debt from buying the equipment for the boys' team. Spot dances were won by Evelyn Garrett and Douglas Heard of Young's Point, and Beverley Trustwell and Bill McMillan of Mount Julian. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brooks donated a dozen water glasses on which tickets were sold, and the lucky winner was Mr. Wilbert Abbott.

Euchre Party

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jones again opened their home to the Young's Point Home and School Association when they sponsored a euchre party last Wednesday evening. Mrs. Elmer Johnston was convener for the affair and five tables of cards were played. Prize winners were: Ladies' high, Mrs. Ran Nicholson; gents' high, Tom Jones of Toronto, on a draw between him and Cyril Young; low prize, Mrs. Finn.

AUSSIE WOOL EXPORTS

During the nine months ended March 31, 1949, 814,395,500 pounds of wool valued at £168,565,000 was exported from Australia.

Al Knipfel Named IUE Organizer

COBOURG, Feb. 6—Al Knipfel, president of Local 534, IUE, will leave his post as local president to assume his new appointment with the international IUE. Mr. Knipfel will be on full time as an organizer and will be leaving the CGE plastics plant here where he is employed as a machinist.

OMEMEE, Feb. 7 — (ENS) — Omemee Farmers' Club did a total business of $279,444.55 during 1949, W. C. Veals reported at the annual meeting last week. C. R. Hart presided.

A membership of 90 was reported. Co-operative shipping of livestock totalled 4,422 head, which was marketed by W. D. Weir.

The farmers' locker storage plant, managed by S. D. Vaughan was reported to be operating at full capacity and showed a satisfying balance at the end of the year. The last payment on construction costs is to be made in June. Two carloads of coal had also been handled.

It was decided to continue charging $1 annual membership fee.

Election of officers was conducted by W. Wilson and resulted as follows:

Bob Reeds President

President, Bob Reeds; vice-president, E. Mahood; sec.-treas., S. D. Vaughan; directors — A. Clancy, J. R. Elliott, J. Rix, H. Griffin and H. Lang; auditors, B. McNevin and W. C. Veals.

Shipping committee—the five highest shippers in 1949 viz.—J. Windrem, J. Rix, W. D. Weir, E. Switzer and D. Kennedy.

Compulsory treatment for Warble Fly in cattle was discussed. Since a considerable number of the farmers had been using the treatment successfully on their own herds for some years, they contended it was unfair to subject them to the extra expense of having it done by a man appointed.

Another objection was having to pay per head for all stock including cows, when the fly germinated only in young stock. Also, it was doubted whether there would be time to get round to all the herds of the township within the time recommended for the first early spring treatment. There were others however who favored the proposed method.

OIL FLOWS FASTER

Alberta oilfields produced 15,728,960 barrels of crude oil in the first nine months of 1949, compared with 9,651,946 barrels during the same period in 1948.

ABBOTT RELAXES IMPORT CONTROLS

Czechs Obey Expulsion, Quit Canada

2 Leave For Europe On Dutch Plane, Nearly Cancel Tickets

MONTREAL, Feb. 8—(CP)—Two Czech mission staff members, ordered out of Canada by the government, took off for Europe by air today, an official of Royal Dutch (K.L.M.) Air Lines, told The Canadian Press.

"They took off at 10.15 a.m., EST, in a plane for Amsterdam," the K.L.M. sourse said.

The two—Richard Bergmann and Hugo Bohounek—had held reservations on this aircraft for the last couple of days but as recently as Tuesday there were indications they planned to cancel their flight plans and remain in Canada in defiance of the Canadian government order.

Bergmann and Bohounek were ardered to leave the country by tonight in retaliation for what the government has termed the "unjustified" expulsion of two minor members of the Canadian Legation in Prague.

Bergmann was a member of the Czech mission staff in Ottawa.
Bhounek was a clerk to the commercial attache of Czechoslovakia in Montreal.

Can't Decide

Bergmann was reported from Ottawa Tuesday as having cancelled his air reservation for his trip to Europe and saying he would be staying in Canada. He was also said to have cancelled the KLM reservation which had been made for Bohounek.

However, at that time, in Montreal, KLM officials said there had been no official cancellation though the airline had received indications that the Czechs "were having a hard time" making up their minds just when they would fly.

Bergmann and Bhounek took off just about the time the External Affairs Department in Ottawa disclosed that the Czech government has protested their expulsion.

The department said the Czechs sent a note Tuesday protesting against the expulsions "as an act of retaliation" by Canada. Such protests, an official said, are "quite usual" in such circumstances.

Money Orders Stolen, 2 Held

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 (CP) — Two young men arrested in Woodbay, Ont., were arraigned in criminal court Tuesday on 17 charges of passing forged documents to a total value of $1,700.

The documents in question were money orders stolen recently from a Canadian Pacific Railway station at Locust Hill, Ont.

Henry Kostinchuk, 28, of Toronto, was charged with passing three forged documents of $100 each. He pleaded guilty and will be sentenced Feb. 14.

Ralph Schlebak, 19, same address, appeared on 14 charges amounting to a total of $1,400. He was held without bail peiding preliminary hearing Feb. 14.

Bill of Rights For Indians

Make Suggestions To Parliament Feb. 16

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP) — A new Bill of Rights for Canada's 135,000 Indians likely will be presented to parliament at the session opening Feb. 16.

The bill, providing for an almost complete rewrite of the Indian Act, has been in the hands of legal experts of the Justice Department for more than six months. The exact contents of the legislation has not been revealed.

The experts have been trying to put into legal form many of the recommendations of a joint committee of the Senate and the Commons which studied the plight of the Indian in 1946, 1947 and 1948.

Some of the recommendations dealing with improved health services and educational facilities for Indians have already been acted upon by the government. But some of the most contentious problems have remained untouched.

At its hearings, the committee heard suggestions that the Indians should be given full citizenship rights including the right to vote. But most representatives of Indian bands showed little interest in enfranchisement. They regarded it as something which would rob them of their treaty privileges.

The Indians told the committee they wanted more schools and hospitals, non-denominational education and repeal of the present prohibition against the purchase of liquor by Indians.

Ask '49 Floor Price For Bacon, Cheese

Federation of Agriculture Presents Brief To Cabinet

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture today urged the government to restore last year's bacon and cheese floor prices and raise the floor under eggs.

In a brief presented to Prime Minister St. Laurent and members of the cabinet, the federation asked the government to reconsider its support prices program.

Farmers in recent weeks, the brief said, had been suddenly faced with loss or reduction in markets and serious reductions in price returns while production costs remained at peak levels.

The brief, presented by federation president H. H. Hannam and CFA provincial directors, was based on recommendations made at the federation's annual meeting at Niagara Falls last week.

The recommendations included:

1. Restoration of the $36 floor prices for Wiltshire sides until July 1 or until the United Kingdom contract is filled. The new floor price announced by the government is $32.50. Following filling of the U.K. contract, the brief urged "an adequate support program for the hog industry under the proposed new support act."

Cheese Floor Price

2. A 1950 floor price of 30 cents a pound for cheese—the same as last year—instead of the new price of 27 cents.

3. A floor price for eggs at storage points of 42 cents instead of the 38 cents recently announced, and floor prices for poultry meats, which the farmers claim have slumped along with egg prices.

4. That the floor price of 58 cents a pound for butter, basis Montreal, be maintained.

5. Continuance of the powers of the Canadian Wheat Board as sole marketing agency for wheat and coarse grains.

6. Freight assistance of feed grains to be established as a permanent feature of Canadian agricultural policy.

The government also was urged to call a conference of provincial and federal agricultural officials with farm organization leaders to clarify marketing legislation.

Fiery UK Election Speeches

Deliberate Lies Told By Attlee—Churchill

CARDIFF, Wales, Feb. 8—(AP)—Winston Churchill today charged the Labor party with deliberate lying to win votes in the Feb. 23 election.

Churchill charged in a political speech that Prime Minister Clement Attlee's followers have adopted a Nazi-Communist principle "that if an untruth is told often enough and widely enough it become as good as the truth."

In a slashing, gloves-off speech prepared for a mass meeting at the Cardiff football field, the 75-year-old Conservative leader offered a point by point rebuttal of Labor claims which he said did not jibe with the facts.

Churchill said Labor and coalfield Communists "continually spread the story" he sent troops to shoot down the Rhondda Valley Mine strikes in Wales when he was home secretary in 1910. He called this a "cruel lie."

Troops Never Sent

Churchill said the fact was that although the chief constable of Glamorgan—the Welsh county mainly involved—asked for troops to put down the strike disorders the soldiers were never sent.

"I made an unprecedented intervention," Churchill said.

"I stopped the movement of the troops and I sent instead 850 Metropolitan Police from London with the sole object of preventing bloodshed."

He said the unarmed police charged rioters using their rolled up mackintoshes as weapons, thus averting any bloodshed "except perhaps some from the nose."

To Spike Story

Churchill said he also wanted to spike what Britons call "the empty bellies story" in the labor party's campaign manifesto.

"This is their official statement: 'Empty Bellies,' one story has said, are the one thing that will make Britons work."

He said Labor seeks by this means to defame the whole Conservative Party by fastening on them the monstrous charge that they wish to inflict empty bellies upon the people to make them work harder.

"Apparently, a Mr. Higgs, formerly a Conservative member of parliament, made this statement three years ago when visiting New Zealand.

"He had no right whatever to speak for the Conservative party. His words were however noted by our vigilant central office and they were promptly, at the time, officially repudiated.

Lewis Agrees To Try Again For Agreement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—President Truman's coal fact-finding board today won agreement from John L. Lewis and the coal operators to try again for agreement on a coal contract through negotiations.

The new bargaining sessions were set for 2 p.m. EST, with the board members sitting in as observers.

The board members were optimistic that the whole coal dispute might be settled before nightfall Lewis said it was "possible."

The operators indicated they were less optimistic.

The board was working under a deadline in their investigation of the 10-month-old soft-coal crisis.

Due to report to President Truman Monday, they worked to clear the way for a federal court injunction intended to force striking miners back to the pits for 80 days. Such emergency procedure is possible under the federal Taft-Hartley labor law.

Nice Donation

In Pittsburgh the United Steelworkers (CIO) today sent a $500,000 cheque to the United Mine Workers "to assist the needy miners and their families in their struggle against the coal operators."

President Philip Murray of both the CIO and the steelworkers said the donation was authorized by the steelworkers executive board.

Murray also sent an appeal to 2,200 USW locals asking them to make additional contributions to the miners in their "no contract, no work" strike.

CATCH UP WITH PAIR

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 8 (CP)—Two men were arrested Tuesday night after driving away from a service station without paying for gasoline they had ordered. They were charged today with breaking and entering. A third man was picked up later and booked on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Attlee Says Britain Shows Greatest Gains

WATFORD, England, Feb. 8—(AP)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee said today that Britain, under his Labor Party, has made greater strides toward recovery than any other European country.

Opening his campaign for votes in the Feb. 23 general election, the 67-year-old Attlee told a Labor rally:

"Without controls we could not possibly have gotten through this difficult time.

"Another thing, we could not have gotten through without is the magnificent spirit of the British people.

"I think one of the reasons for the great spirit shown. . . is that they believe that we have been carrying out the principle of fair shares."

His speech was a defence of government planning and a promise that it would continue if Labor is re-elected.

He said Labor's planning was "classless planning." In his youth, he said, the Socialists thought in terms of planning for the welfare of the underdog. Now the planning is broadened to help people of all classes.

Attlee, beginning a 1,000-mile automobile tour of Britain, spoke before 1,200 in the Town Hall of this industrial city on the fringe of London's suburbs.

"The British people have shown all their old grift," he said, "and the result has been that this country has during the past 4½ years made greater progress to recovery than any other."

Many opposition leaders have said that government controls hamstring the genius of the people at a time when enterprise and effort are needed to save the country from bankruptcy.

'Guinea Pig' Cities

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 8 (CP)—London and Kingston will be "guinea pigs" cities to test a new federal and provincial low cost housing scheme even before the program becomes law, Premier Leslie Frost said here today. Mayor George A. Wenige of London and Ontario Planning Minister William Griesinger will meet in Toronto tomorrow to discuss the details, Premier Frost said.

Says Changes Effective April, July 1

Pork, Pork Products Still Barred, Many Items Freed

OTTAWA, Feb. 8—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott today announced a sharp relaxation of import controls, eliminating most of the outright prohibitions on imports from some countries. Some of the changes will become effective April 1 and others on July 1.

The controls were imposed in November, 1947, as part of the government's program to conserve United States funds. As originally drafted, the prohibited list applied to about $150,000,000 of annual imports.

The principal items that will still be on the prohibited list after July 1 will be pork and pork products, cut flowers, soft plastic sheeting, electric lighting fixtures, and appliances, various kinds of ornaments, coin-operated amusement devices and vending machines and so-called comic and pulp magazine.

Sharp Reduction

The total value of imports affected by the prohibited list then will be less than $25,000,000 on the basis of 1946-1947 figures.

These changes will became effective April 1:

1. All import restrictions will be withdrawn on printed labels of all kinds; on plumbing and bathroom fixtures; on cocoa products and on coffee products.

2. Glass ovenware, other heat-resistant glassware and electric light bulbs will be transferred from the prohibited list to the list of products that can be imported under a quota system.

3. Textile import quotas will be increased from the present 40 per cent rate to a 44 per cent rate.

4. Switzerland, the only European country on the list of scheduled countries, is being transferred to the non-scheduled list. This means that all imports of quota goods from Switzerland will be admitted under open general permit as from April 1.

5. Paper products, genuine or imitation pearls and mineral wool, now on the prohibited list, may after April 1, be imported from non-scheduled or soft currency countries, under open general permit. Such imports from dollar or scheduled countries will be permitted on a quota basis.

Pay In Dollars

Scheduled countries are countries which Canada must pay in dollars and include United States and her possessions, Russia, Venezuela, Switzerland, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Panama, and El Salvador. Non-scheduled countries include all others.

Three major changes will take effect July 1.

Imports on a quota basis will be permitted for refrigerators.

ILL SINCE SUNDAY, Thomas Church, veteran Toronto parliamentarian, died suddenly Tuesday night. He was mayor of Toronto for seven years.

Tommy Church Dies Suddenly, Mayor 7 Times

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP) — A career of 52 years in public service was ended today by the death of Thomas Langdon Church seven times Mayor of Toronto before he entered Parliament to strengthen his reputation as a staunch upholder of Canada's ties with Britain.

The tall, rapid-talking bachelor suffered asthma earlier this winter and entered Wellesley Hospital here last Sunday for a check-up. His death late Tuesday night was ascribed to an asthmatic condition.

Known familiarly to thousands as "Tommy Church," he was never out of public office since he was elected a Toronto school trustee in 1898, the year after he was called to the Bar at Osgoode Hall here. He was Mayor of Toronto from 1915 to 1921 inclusive, and after being elected a Conservative Member of Parliament in 1921 he was defeated in only one general election since, that of 1930, returning to parliament by winning a by-election in 1934.

The adoption of the name "Progressive Conservative" meant nothing to Tommy, proud to be known as a Tory. He often said that plain "Conservative" was good enough for him.

In Hard School

He learned politics in a hard school and throughout his life fought vigorously for his convictions. His rapid-fire delivery at times confused members of parliament and it was the Ottawa press gallery which coined the phrase that there were three official languages in Canada—English, French and Tommy Church.

On innumerable occasions he opposed with all his force whatever he considered to be a move to weaken Canada's empire links. With an extraordinary memory and a genius for retaining names of hundreds of persons, he would rise in the House and deliver a blast that was not always in accord with caucus deliberations.

Double Search Launched In Yukon Area, 2nd Plane Missing With 12

Pick Up Distress Signals Tuesday Night From Latest Casualty; Planes, Men Stand By For Rescue Work

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Feb. 8—(CP)—A double search was launched here today after a United States Air Force Dakota disappeared while searching the bleak Yukon for a missing transport plane. The Dakota carried 12 persons. Distress signals were picked up Tuesday night from the Dakota which disappeared in the Aishihik area, about 100 miles northwest of here. It had been combing the Aishihik area as part of a giant aerial search for the United States C-54 which was lost Jan. 26 with 44 persons aboard.

Three helicopters, one a Canadian craft, were ready for immediate action should either of the missing planes be sighted. Para-rescue and ground troops stood by in full equipment to race to the scene.

While distress signals from the missing Dakota were being picked up repeated SOS signals on the high frequency band were being monitored by radio posts between the United States and Alaska. These may be coming from survivors of the missing C-54.

The search, named Operation Mike, went into its 13th today. Pilots of search planes were briefed on search areas with the main effort concentrated on locating the missing Dakota.

It reported only once after taking off Tuesday, then remained silent during the hourly reports the search planes were supposed to make to search headquarters here.

Couldn't Get Bearing

SOS signals were heard from it Tuesday night about the time it was expected back from the day's search but monitor stations were unable to get an accurate bearing on their exact location.

The Dakota's predicament appeared better than that of the missing transport. Many SOS signals have been heard on distress frequencies since it was lost but none have been established as coming from the C-54 which disappeared while on a flight from Anchorage, Alaska, to Great Falls, Mont.

A bearing on them is difficult to obtain because the mountains interfere with radio waves.

Pearson Reaches U.S. On Way From East

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8 (AP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister for External Affairs, arrived on Tuesday by plane from the Far East.

Pearson is en route home from the Commonwealth Conference of Foreign Ministers at Colombo, Ceylon. He also visited India, Burma, Hongkong and Tokyo.

He said he had many long talks with General Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo, and said he shared "the admiration for General MacArthur's work." Concerning Chinese Communists, Pearson said they are treating Canadian diplomats at Nanking and Shanghai "correctly."

Phone Service Cut

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 8 (CP)—London Bell Telephone officials said this afternoon that all telephone communication east of London was out. One official said a fire had destroyed the main aerial cables and the break seemed to have occurred north of Hespeler and south of Guelph. He was unable to further locate it.

Forbid Papers To Discuss Election Items

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 8 — (CP)—Three senate by-elections will be held in New South Wales on Saturday, but newspapers in the state are forbidden to discuss them until the results are known.

Under the New South Wales Parliamentary Electors and Elections Amendment Act of 1949, no person is allowed to print in public or distribute any newspaper or material of any kind containing electoral matter which will affect the result of the voting.

Labor Premier James J. McGirr, of New South Wales, in defending the bill last year, said:

"To describe the daily press as free is completely misleading. All daily newspapers in Sydney are absolutely controlled by a mere handful of individuals—press proprietors.

"These men use newspapers as instruments of political propaganda. They are as much organs of propaganda as were the newspapers of Germany under Dr. Goebbels."

The act comes into force 70 hours before the close of any state election or by-election and it also forbids candidates or supporters to use public address systems or to broadcast any "electoral matter."

After 10 p.m. tonight, therefore, no newspaper or radio station, publishing or broadcasting in New South Wales, will be able to make any reference to by-elections other than to state that by-elections are being held and to give the locaion of polling places. Even the mention of candidates' names is forbidden.

Accuse Macao Of Meddling

HONG KONG, Feb. 8 (AP)—Pro-Red newspapers said today the Chinese Communists have accused the Portuguese colony of Macao of intervening in China's civil war and have warned "such action will not be tolerated."

Macao is on the South China coast. It is virtually surrounded by Chinese Red forces who could occupy the colony with ease.

Dispatches to the pro-Red Hong Kong newspapers Ta Kung Pao and Wen Wei Pao said the charges against Macao were made by Yeh Chien-ying, chairman of the Kwangtung Peoples (Communist) Government whose headquarters are in Canton.

Yeh accused Portuguese authorities of helping Chinese Nationalist gunboats escape capture by the Reds, these accounts said.

Sees Strongest Red Foes Within Russia

Crushed Peasants Potential Friends Of West Some Day, U.S. Reporter Believes

By EDMUND STEVENS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 — (AP)—In Russia today there are "legions of thinking, intelligent people who chafe under the omnipotent police state and long with their whole beings for freedom," reports a trained American observer who recently left the Soviet Union.

"In coming years, the strongest, most determined foes of the police state are likely to develop east of the Iron Curtain, where not even forcible indoctrination can neutralize the lessons of immediate knowledge and experience," writes Stevens, who has just completed a three-year assignment as Moscow correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor.

From his observations in the Soviet capital, Stevens warns:

"It is essential that the West learn to distinguish between the police state and the Soviet people, for if the former are implacable foes, the latter, unless stupidly antagonized, are potential friends and allies, and it is they who eventually will decide their country's destiny."

Only a relatively small number of Russians are members of the Communist Party which rules with iron discipline. From among the masses, says Stevens:

Deeply Hurt

". . . Thousands upon thousands of people in all walks of life have at some time sustained some deep personal hurt from the police regime. . . .

"While all open criticism of the regime is effectively prevented and the ears and eyes of the MVD (secret police) are omnipresent, such is human nature that every individual has at least one person he fully trusts, and thus an endless chain extends, even though it lacks organized form."

Stevens divides today's Russians into three groups: Those about 25 or under, youngsters who grew up under Stalin and are susceptible to indoctrination; those between 25 and 35, who he says show gradual frustration in the police state, and those over 35, whose disillusionment breeds either cynical resignation or intense inner rebellion.

The cynics are among the party staff, the majority of the citizenry are apathetic, "but many at the least sign of hope would gravitate toward the third (rebellion)," the writer reports.

Two Kinds of Citizens

There are two kinds of Soviet citizen. The elite are the select group of party members, risen from 2,000,000 after the purge of the 1930's to more than 5,000,000 now. The other Soviet citizen is a member of the great conglomerate mass of Russian peoples.

Of the elite, the upper crust includes the ruling Politburo, the military leaders, factory directors, celebrities of letters and the stage and screen and the like. Many of them have their dachas — country houses — in what is called the "forbidden zone" guarded constantly by the MVD.

Well Housed

This upper crust is well fed, well paid, well housed. They live well, if nervously, under the constant vigilance of the secret police, who watch both them and those who would dare approach them.

Now, how about the other side? Stevens describes it thus:

As far as the peasant is concerned, the Soviet Government has evolved techniques of squeezing him far more thoroughly than Czarist landlords did. Save in a few pampered areas, "the peasant has yet to reap most of the benefits enjoyed by the urban intellectual and working class."

"The serf-like bondage of the 'free' Soviet citizen to his job is one element of an unrelaxing economic stranglehold upon the masses. Equally important is the total state control of the production of food and consumer goods, a control constantly used to coerce and cajole, reward and punish, in the interests of the Communist Party line."

Open Project With A Bang

Will Blast Open 500-Foot Pile Of Rock

MATTAWA, Ont., Feb. 8 (CP)—Another step in development of the Hydro project at nearby La Cave—the diversion of part of the Ottawa River—will open with a big bang Sunday.

Tons of earth and rock will be hurled skyward when 35,000 pounds of dynamite blasts open the entrance to a channel which will change the river's course for two years while a huge dam is built across the natural bed of the stream. The shock of the explosion is expected to be felt here, six miles away.

Because of the danger involved, the La Cave area will be cleared and guards will be posted to prevent any would-be spectators from approaching.

With the course of the river altered, a coffer dam will be built to dry up the riverbed while the larger dam is being constructed.

Officials of the damsite say the rock pile which will be lifted in Sunday's blast is nearly 500 feet wide and 30 feet thick.

Big Boulder Falls In Pit, 3 Miners Die

Mining Inspectors To Investigate Why 12-Ton Rock Tips

BELLETERRE, Que., Feb. 8 —(CP)—Mine inspectors today were scheduled to investigate what made a 12-ton boulder break loose from its supporting wall in a gold mine shaft here, killing three of six miners working 20 feet below.

Killed outright were Rene Labelle, 35, of Fugerville, Bernard (Jim) Plante, 35, of Ville Marie, and Jean-Jacques Matte, 30, of Rouyn, Que.

A fourth man, Patrick LeBlanc, 28, of Belleterre, was severely injured when he also was buried under the huge mass of rock.

He was rescued by two companions—Laurente Paquette, 35, and Roland Laberge, 30, both of Belleterre—who barely had time to jump out of the path of the tumbling rock and escape with minor injuries.

Severe Injuries

Leblanc was taken to a nearby Ville Marie hospital with severe internal injuries and several fractured ribs. His condition was considered serious.

The six men were working below the 1,500-foot level of a mine operated since 1934 by the MacIntyre Mining Corporation of Schumacher, Ont.

It was the first fatal accident reported in the mine which employs 180 men.

The mine is on the outskirts of this mining community, 60 miles southwest of Rouyn in the heart of Quebec's northwestern mining country.

washing machines, radio receiving sets, gramophones, outboard motors, small boats—not designed for use with inboard motors — show cases, pianos and organs. The products have been on the prohibited list.

The import quota permitted will represent 50 per cent of the 1946-47 imports of the products.

Also to be transferred from the prohibited list to the quota list are all canned and frozen vegetables, soup preparations, dried fruits and fruit pulps. The quota import will represent 44 per cent of the 1946-47 imports of the products.

Other Relaxations

In the last of the July 1 changes the following items, now on the prohibited list, will be permitted entry from non-scheduled countries under open general permit and from scheduled countries on a quota basis: electric dishwashers, mixers and ironers, juice extractors, and garbage disposal units.

"The general effect of all these changes is to eliminate most of the outright prohibitions on imports" said Mr. Abbott.

Imports subject to quota will represent about $200,000,000 on the basis of 1946-47 imports.

"These reductions in the prohibited list will also have the effect of encouraging some additional imports from the United Kingdom and western European countries," he said.

He described the relaxations as being in line with the government's policy of removing emergency import controls as rapidly as improvement in Canada's exchange position warranted.

Dump US Crop, Buy Canadian Potatoes

New Orleans Finds Dominion Spuds Cheaper Than Own Brand

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 8 — (AP)—One million pounds of potatoes imported from Canada were unloaded from a boat Tuesday while the U.S. Government, with a lapful of price-supported spuds, offered its surplus to farmers for one cent a hundred pounds.

J. Segari, New Orleans food broker and consignee of the Canadian potatoes, said the economics of the dilemma are too deep for him.

"I don't know why I can buy choice potatoes from Canada and have them shipped down here cheaper than I can buy them from Maine or Idaho, but I know I can do it," he said. He did not disclose the price of the Canadian potatoes.

However, he said, he would try to sell them at $4 a hundred pounds in job lots. After paying an import duty of 75 cents a hundred pounds, Waterfreight charges from Canadian ports to New Orleans run 69 cents a hundred pounds.

Segari said Idaho potatoes would cost him $4.40 a hundred pounds delivered to New Orleans.

Others Do It

"I'm not alone in importing the less-expensive Canadian potatoes," he added. "Why, a boatload comes into Savannah, Ga., Tampa, Fla., Jacksonville, Fla., and other places about every two weeks."

The situation sketched by Segari was something like this: The U. S. Government guarantees the farmer a certain price for potatoes. The farmer can't match this price on the open market so he sells them to the government. Meanwhile, the brokers go to Canada for their stocks. Then the government stuck with its high-priced surplus, offers them back to the farmer at a give-away price.

Segari said he plans to sell the Canadian potatoes on the open market. He added that brokers are not allowed to buy the government's surplus, sold only to farmers for livestock feed.

Can't Be Used

"In fact," Segari said, "the potatoes sold back to farmers are dyed so they cannot be used for human food."

The government announced in Washington last week that it would dump between 25,000,000 and 40,000,000 bushels of potatoes which it acquired during price-support operations.

They originally cost the government $1.25 for 100 pounds on a national average. The department last week slashed the support price on the 1950 crop to $1.01 a bushel, an immediate drop of 9 cents.

Charge Cardy Violated US Dollar Regulations

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 (CP)—Complaints charging Vernon G. Cardy with illegal foreign exchange dealings involving more than $500,000, Tuesday were laid against the 60-year-old horseman and retired hotel magnate. Four summonses were issued requiring Cardy, who rose from a night clerk's job to millionaire hotel owner, to appear in court Feb. 13.

The complaints were sworn out before Judge Gerald Almond just a week after Cardy announced he had disposed of his controlling interest in five Eastern Canada hotels and a mountain resort.

The alleged offenses against FECB regulations between Feb. 9, 1947, and last Jan. 28 involved sums ranging from $35,000 to $200,000.

List Complaints

The first of the complaints submitted by RCMP said FECB lawyers alleged that Cardy illegally dealt with, or caused to be dealt with, $200,000 in U.S. currency between Feb. 9, 1947, and last Jan. 28.

The second complaint was that he failed to declare immediately to an authorized dealer between the same dates his ownership or possession of $182,500.

He was also accused of transferring on or about May 28, 1947, $103,500 in securities, or a right, title or interest in them, to a non-resident of Canada without FECB permission.

The fourth complaint was that on or before last Jan. 28 he illegally used $35,000 in foreign exchange to settle a debt with a non-resident.

Still At Loss

Cardy, in a statement, said he was served with the four summonses only after reading about the complaints in the press. He said that the charges contained in the summonses "are not specific," and he is therefore "completely at a loss to understand the basis of the allegations."

He said the charges will be contested.

Last week Cardy disposed of his controlling interest in Cardy Corp. Ltd. to the Sheraton Corp. of America. Control of the Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal, the King Edward, Toronto; the Prince Edward, Windsor; the General Brock, Niagara Falls; the Royal Connaught, Hamilton, and the Alpine Inn, at Ste. Marguerite, in Quebec's Laurentians, passed to the U.S. firm.

The body is at the Mackey Funeral Home, Lindsay, where the funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. Burial will be at the Riverside Cemetery, Lindsay.

MRS. EMMA McCURDY

Mrs. Emma McCurdy, 88, of 39 Stewart St., died today at her residence. She was born at Roseberry Hill, Ont., daughter of the late James and Ann Hawthorne, and was married twice. Her first husband, William Chambers, died two years after their marriage, and James McCurdy, in 1942.

A life member of Knox United Church, Mrs. McCurdy was honorary president of its Missionary Society for many years.

Funeral service will be held at her residence on Frida at 2 p.m. The Rev. H. G. Douglas will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

ISAAC FISHER

There died in hospital here today Isaac Fisher of Cavan Township. Born in Cavan, Mr. Fisher was the son of the late William Fisher and Ann Ingram, and he has resided in that township all his life. He was 76 years old. Mr. Fisher was a member of St. John's Church, Ida.

There survive three sisters, Mrs. E. Lebarr (Carrie), Toronto, Mrs. Benjamin Holloway (Jenny) of Detroit, and Josephine, who is married and resides in Western Canada, and three brothers, Amos of Cavan, Samuel of Omemee, and Nelson of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 2 p.m. from the MacPherson Funeral Home, Millbrook, with the Rev. A. A. Choate officiating. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery, Ida.

Canadian Fencers Third In New Zealand

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Feb. 8 — (Reuters) — Canada's fencing team placed third tonight at conclusion of the three-round British Empire games epee team competition behind Australia and England. The fourth position was taken by New Zealand.

The Canadians, Georges Pouliot, Robert Desjardais and Ed Brooke, all Montreal—started out with a decisive 8-1 first round victory over the New Zealanders and appeared on the way to their first triumph of the games, but they fell apart in the next two rounds. They lost 5-4 to Australia and absorbed a 9-0 drubbing by England.

J. A. Middleton Re-appointed

The re-appointment of J. A. (Bert) Middleton as the third member of the Suburban Roads Commission completes the composition of that body. Its terms of office is five years.

Mr. Middleton was the choice of the two other members—Jeremiah Mahoney for the county and Floyd Curtis for the city. Had the two municipal representatives failed to agree on the third nominee the appointment would have had to come from the Department of Highways.

Mr. Middleton, who looks after the Department's interests, is the only one of the trio on the last Commission. The late M. H. Gainey was the 1945 city representative, and when he died last year his place was taken by Mr. Curtis. And Mr. Curtis Monday night was re-appointed by the city for the full five year term.

Mr. Mahoney was Reeve of Douro in 1949 and a member of the Roads Committee.

The re-appointment of Mr. Middleton was decided on Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Commission members in the office of County Engineer J. D. Kean. Mr. Kean has been retained by the Commission as its engineer.

The Suburban Area Roads Commisison operates on a budget of $56,000 a year, looking after those heavily-travelled roads in the county which carry city traffic. The financing is as follows: $14,000 each from the city and county and $28,000 from the Department of Highways.

Can Reflect In Jail Till $250 Arrives

TIMMINS, Feb. 8 (CP) — The charge was vagrancy, but Louis Michaud, 68, said in court Tuesday he had $250 coming to him from the federal government.

He told Magistrate S. Atkinson that the government owes him the money in refunds from income tax deductions made during the Second World War.

"We can't hurry Ottawa," observed Crown Counsel C. Yates.

"One dollar or 30 days," the magistrate ruled. "The money may be here by then."

Caused Disturbance

Pleading guilty to causing a disturbance by fighting in a laneway off George St., Jan. 30, Alex Richardson, 33, of 1178 Monaghan Rd., was fined $10 and costs in police court today.

His opponent in the fight pleaded not guilty and asked for and received an adjournment until Wednesday.

Urges Farmers Change Building Designs

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP) — Functional designing of buildings should be used by farmers just as it's been developed in urban communities, the Ontario Plowmen's Association convention was told Tuesday.

Dr. H. J. Barre of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., told the convention that too often in the past farm buildings have been erected with an eye to permanence and not much else. "Our farming methods change as do our living habits," he said, "and it's almost impossible to change some of these old buildings."

New types of all-purpose farm buildings were illustrated by the speaker, including the round-roof type which may be used to house livestock and store crops and machinery.

Urges Simpler Machines

Fletcher S. Thomas, Progressive Conservative member of the Legislature for Elgin, urged simplification of farm machinery. He felt that one machine and attachments could be used for preparing the soil, another for sowing and a third for the harvest.

Mr. Thomas, chairman of the Legislature's Select Committee on Conservation, said three things should be considered in relation to soils: soil moisture, how to get it and retain it; function of organic matter and aeration.

In a discussion on plowing, John Hargreaves of Beachville said he would not try to get along without a plow despite what might be said about one-way discs and other machinery.

Roy Shaver of Finch was elected president, succeeding V. C. Porteous of Owen Sound.

Stock Prices Sagging 3rd Successive Day

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP) — Prices sagged for a third successive session on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Most of the steam of the previous two-day decline had been used up but enough remained to push the market a little lower.

Industrials opened on a firmer note but gave ground in mid-session. Early fractional advances in key issues were wiped out and small losses slowly appeared. Papers were firmer under leadership of International Paper, up ⅝ at 40. Utilities and steels showed a slightly brighter tone.

Golds also sagged on losses to market leaders. Seniors were down fractions and key juniors showed penny declines. Upper Canada dipped 10 cents in early dealings but buying suddenly lifted the price to $3.30, up five cents.

Almost all base metal stocks dipped. Consolidated Smelters, Noranda and Quemont were down fractions. Declines ranged up to 10 cents in western oils.

Fought Over Hydro

He was one of those responsible for public ownership of hydro-electric power in Ontario, along with Sir Adam Beck and John R Robinson, then editor of the Toronto Telegram. During his mayoralty Toronto also acquired public ownership of the street railway and motorbus system.

Partial deafness was an affliction which he bore with equanimity, frequently turning it to his advantage when he did not wish to hear objectors.

He became a Toronto legend in the First World War, when he made it a point to visit every troop train, to visit troops in training, to hear everyone's problems and give advice. He was instrumental in city council voting insurance of $1,000 for every Toronto man who was killed.

Wants Curbs On Spying

Drew Charges Government Fails To Act

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP) — George Drew Tuesday charged the government with failure to act on the recommendations of the 1946 Royal Commission report on espionage. He said in an interview that Britain's case of atomic spying "emphasizes the dangerous possibilities of that failure."

The Progressive Conservative leader's statement indicated that government methods of counteracting Communist espionage will be questioned by members of his party at the session of parliament starting next week.

It was prompted by reports that Conservative members will criticize the government on that point. Mr. Drew called attention to Britain's charge of atomic spying against Dr. Klaus Fuchs, 38-year-old native of Germany, who was interned in Canada for part of the Second World War as an enemy alien and later released to work on the Allied atomic bomb effort.

Mr. Drew said the Fuchs case "emphasizes the dangerous possibilities of the failure of the Canadian government to act on the recommendations which were made by the Royal Commission inquiring into Communist activities in this country."

"The recommendation that certain people should be prosecuted which was carried out, was only one of several that were made. No action has been taken on the other recommendations and the complacency of the government may have had consequences which go far beyond our own domestic security.

"During the last session, we, (the Progressive Conservative Party) did make a persistent effort to obtain some information as to what steps were being taken to deal with suspected Communist activities which were under investigation.

"The negative and evasive answers of the government gave little or no real information beyond the fact that some government departments were being screened and that secret work was not then being done by the National Film Board.

Forecast No Change In Textile Prices

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP)—Textile importers here foresee little change in prices as a result of today's announcement of an increase in textile import quotas.

"It will mean we'll have to operate on a smaller margin of profit," said one manufacturer.

"But we're using mostly Canadian-made cloth in turning out clothing these days. The change probably won't make much difference there.

"Cotton and woollen goods have been going up in price and they're still going up. As far as we can tell, the quota change probably won't mean any price reduction."

Hospital Debentures Authorized In Sarnia

SARNIA, Feb. 8 — (CP). — The Ontario Municipal Board today granted permission to the City of Sarnia to issue debentures for $1,500,000 for a new general hospital without a second vote of the people.

A by-law calling for the issue of debentures on a 30-year term was approved by a vote of 2,395 to 960 last December. This by-law did not receive the approval of the Municipal Board and a new by-law calling for the issue of debentures on a 20-year term is now before City Council.

By the action of the Municipal Board, which sat here today, no vote will require to be taken on the new proposal.

Girl Acquitted In Mercy Killing Doomed Father

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 8 (AP)—Carol Ann Paight, acquitted in the mercy slaying of her cancer-doomed father, planned today to return to college as soon as she rests up from the ordeal of her trial.

The 21-year-old blonde, who pleaded temporary insanity, was freed Tuesday night by a jury of 12 parents.

She spent her first night at home in nearby Stamford since she shot her father, Police Sergeant Carl Paight, last Sept. 23 as he slept in Stamford hospital.

"Oh God," the attractive six-foot girl sobbed as she broke down at the verdict. She was near collapse.

Her lawyer, David Goldstein, termed the verdict "Just and fair," but added:

"This is no precedent for a mercy killing, in my opinion."

He said the case was tried solely on the issue of whether Carol was insane at the time of the shooting.

Deliberated 4 Hours

The jury deliberated four hours and 51 minutes. The trial lasted two weeks.

She was charged with second-degree murder in Connecticut's first mercy slaying trial. She would have gone to prison for life if convicted.

Mrs. Mary Paight, 52, widowed by her daughter's mercy bullet, stood staunchly behind her daughter throughout the trial.

Carol testified she could not remember shooting her 52-year-old father as he lay in a drug-induced sleep after an operation that revealed his incurable cancer. He never knew he had the disease.

Doctors told Carol Sept. 23 her father had cancer and could live no more than three months. She went into hysterics at the news.

Then she went home, took her father's service revolver from a closet and smuggled it back into the hospital in her jacket.

Back in the hospital, Carol stood from two to five feet away and put one bullet through his brain.

Mental Hospital Distant Future Patient Tranfer

COBOURG, Feb. 8 (ENS)—The proposed new mental hospital in Cobourg will not be built until the future, perhaps the distant future, the Hon. William A. Goodfellow, Provincial Welfare Minister told the Examiner Tuesday.

He announced, however, that 100 patients will be moved as soon as possible — probably in the spring—from the Ontario Hospital at Brockville to the recently acquired property next to the girls training school, Cobourg.

It was the first official statement from the provincial government about its intentions in regard to expansion of mental hospital facilities in Cobourg, although rumors had been prevalent that something was in the offing.

Mr. Goodfellow said he could throw no hope towards counties homes for the aged in respect to the government taking senile patients off their hands and placing them in mental institutions, as there was an overcrowding already in the prevailing Ontario hospital institutions and this backlog had to be taken up.

Group Captain Baker Veteran Flier Dies

COBOURG, Feb. 8 (ENS)—The death occurred suddenly this morning of Group Captain W. E. Baker in his 59th year. Group Captain Baker had been ailing from a heart condition for some time and had recently returned from Kingston Military Hospital.

He was born in England and had resided in Canada since 1919 and had served for 33 years in the permanent force of the army and air branches. He was one of the originals of the RCAF and in the last war had been commanding officer of the equipment depot at Vancouver and Victoria. He is survived by his widow Molly of Cobourg and a son Tom. A sister and two brothers reside in England. Funeral will be Friday with interment in St. Michael's Cemetery.

Cub Group Expands Divides Into 2 Packs

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8 — (ENS)—The Cub Pack has increased in numbers so rapidly in recent months that the group has been divided into two Packs.

Tuesday the School Board granted permission for a second basement in the public school building to be used by the Cubs, which enables the two groups to function separately.

Talks Under Way

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 8 (CP) —Premier Joseph Smallwood said Tuesday night that talks have begun here on the large-scale industrial development of Newfoundland that he predicted in New Year's message. Although Mr. Smallwood has not said what specific interests are coming to Newfoundland, it is widely believed here they are connected with the Rockefeller interests.

Asks Bigger Police Force More Firemen For Cobourg

COBOURG, Feb. 8 (ENS)—Cobourg is in need of more police constables and the fire department requires more equipment, council has been told by Mayor Joe Smith and Deputy-Reeve George Galbraith. The Deputy-Reeve informed the council that when people called the police office there were times when they could get no answer because the men were out on their rounds. He notified council that he was going to ask for another constable.

"You will remember I said the same thing last year," Mayor Smith said. 'It is utter nonsense to have a force so small that when two men go out on patrol in the cruiser at night there is nobody left in the office to take incoming calls.

"Suppose there was an emergency? What could be done? They could blow up all four banks at night after they lured two constables out on a fake call and slugged them. There would be nobody in the office or any record of where they went and somebody could be murdered and nobody would know anything about it until the day staff came on.

"I'd like to see the police force strengthened so that we could have somebody on duty in the office at all times.

"Perhaps the fire alarm calls could be routed through the police office too," the deputy reeve suggested. "I am not criticising the men at all but we need more equipment. It is false economy to skimp on such essential services," he said.

Remain Voluntary

Councillor Charles Johnstone, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, said he had forgotten to tell the council that two more men were being taken on the volunteer fire department. He said that by the end of the year it might become a case of deciding whether the fire department should remain a volunteer one or be on a permanent basis.

Council recalled a resolution passed last year which proposed that street cleaning, oiling, etc., be placed on the tax rate instead of assessed against those receiving the services.

It was said that it would be unfair to those who had paid for street paving to be paying taxes on oiling and calcium chloride, and it was decided to leave the matter of oiling and calcium chloride the way it was and to discuss at another meeting, the matter of street cleaning.

Three False Alarms

The report of fire chief Jim Campbell revealed that in 1949 there were 73 fire alarms with 67 local and three out-of-town fires and three false alarms. Property loss was $26,985.95. One hundred inspections were made of premises in the interests of fire protection. The report recommended purchase of two aluminum ladders, a siren for the hook-and-ladder truck, 250 feet of hose and other items. This would cost $1,600. Council accepted the report.

Councillor Alex McKinnon gave a report on the efforts to obtain the National Theatre Rehearsal Centre for Cobourg and a special brief is being prepared to send to Ottawa.

A number of requests for pavements and sewers were referred to the committee and the town engineer.

Council granted the request of the recreational centre directors for a $12,000 advance on the grant to the new recreational centre.

The report of the committee showed that to date $77,808.98 had been received from various sources, and $76,653.90 had been expended.

Several requests were received for tree removal and the town engineer urged that these requests be considered carefully. If not, the town would be bald of trees, he said.

A deputation from the recreational directorate asked for a grant this year of $3,000 as last year's grant of $1,500 was not large enough to carry on the recreational program. The request was filed for later consideration.

Legendary Boat Buried 600 Yrs. In New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP). — Maoris in New Zealand are arguing about the advisability of digging up a sacred canoe which, tradition says, has been buried at Kawhia, on the west coast of the North Island, for over 600 years.

It is the Tainui canoe, most famous of the five canoes in which the Maoris came to New Zealand in a great migration across the thousands of miles of open ocean about the year 1350.

The spot where it is reputed to lie is in a grove of manuka trees near the sea. Stones which the migrants are said to have erected to mark the bow and stern of the canoe still stand. They are enclosed with a fence to ensure that nobody walks on the sacred ground.

Some of New Zealand's leading Maori tribes are descended from the migrants who arrived in the Tainui canoe and the Maoris are convinced that the petrified remains of the canoe still lie beneath the ground at Kawhia. They claim that part of the hull was uncovered many years ago in a landslide, but many Europeans regard the story as a myth.

A party of Europeans once attempted to dig up the canoe, but were prevented by local Maoris, traditional guardians of the relic which means so much in the history of the race.

To Mark Anniversary

Now, however, the Maoris are planning to uncover the remains as part of the celebrations to mark the 600th anniversary of the arrival of the race in New Zealand. The trouble is that nobody can be found with sufficient prestige to undertake the ceremony of uncovering the canoe. A highly complicated and involved ceremony would be necessary before such a treasured relic could be disturbed.

Princess Te Puea, the greatest woman leader the Maoris have ever had and herself a descendant of the commander of the Tainui canoe, has been asked to undertake the task, but she has refused to disturb the remains. She says the place where the canoe lies is sacred and that it would be an infringement of ancient Maori law to desecrate the spot.

Many Europeans consider it would be inadvisable to search for the canoe. They think it preferable that the tradition should remain whether the canoe actually lies at Kawhia or not, and that if the effort were unsuccessful it would destroy a treasured legend to which large numbers of Maoris look with pride in tracing their ancestry.

There is more authenticity in another Tainui relic held by the Maoris of Mokau. They claim to possess the original anchor stone of the canoe. Certainly it has been handed down in the tribe for many generations and it is jealously guarded. It has been set in concrete and is an object of veneration by visiting Maoris from all parts of the country.

Fifty At Farm Forum At Atkinson Home

WEST DARTFORD, Feb. 8 — (ENS)—Monday night's meeting of the farm forum was held at the home of W. A. Atkinson when around fifty people sat down to enjoy an oyster supper. A discussion followed the broadcast "Are Canadians well fed?"

The next meeting will be at the home of Stuart Atkinson with the men and boys under 30 years of age putting on the program or paying a penalty.

Lunch commitee: Sandwiches, Raymond Richardson and Mrs. Cliff Broadhurst; cake, Mrs George Broadworth and Mrs. Arthur Ward.

Mrs. Arthur Ward gave a solo, the toast to farm forum was proposed by Aureen Brown and responded to by the president, Raymond Richardson.

Mrs. John Goodfellow accompanied at the piano.

The Almanac Is Out Of Date About Peterborough

Yesterday we received our 1950 copy of The Canadian Almanac and Directory, a volume which we use extensively every year, and which we trust, up to a point. But our trust is somewhat shaken when we find that the only figure given in the book for the population of this city is that of the 1941 census, which is 25,350. The population of Peterborough at present is 35,682, and the City Clerk is able to provide adequate authentication for that estimate. If the Almanac is so far out about Peterborough, can we trust it about any other place?

• • •

During the war there was a remarkable shifting of population in Canada, and for a while several of the larger places grew and dwindled with surprising speed. But that shifting is now at an end, and figures which were accurate in 1941 are wildly inaccurate now.

• • •

The Almanac could check population figures by sending a postcard to municipal clerks across the country, and would greatly increase its usefulness thereby. After all, what is the use of bringing out an almanac every year, if it is going to include information which is nine years out of date, and extremely misleading?

Lili Marlene

The most famous soldier's song of the late war was Lili Marlene. And it was undoubtedly the greatest, with its simple poignant tune, its easy rhythms, and its nostalgic words and the atmosphere and armies out of which it came. Lili Marlene may be sung no more, but its tune and the occasions of its being sung will haunt tens of thousands of German, British, Canadian, yes, and even American soldiers to their lives' end. The song had a strange initiation, a migratory career in wartime, and a droll finale.

The original words were written by a German poet and painter Hans Leip in Hamburg in 1923, but the tune which gave it life did not come until 1938—from a Berlin tune-maker named Norbert Schultze. It was turned down by thirty publishers before being printed in a limited edition the year war broke out.

A Swedish singer in dingy night-clubs named Lala Andersen used it without much public acclaim, and recordings were cut. When German troops occupied Belgrade and German technicians took over the radio station, they found Lala Andersen's record, in German, and used it as a signing-off tune to their broadcasts to German troops. The song became immediately popular with the nostalgic German soldiers of the Afrika Korps. Soon they were all humming it, and even Frau Herman Goering in Berlin sang it on the concert stage.

The Afrika Korps was finally defeated by the Desert Rats, and they of the Eighth Army took over the song (which they had heard the Germans singing, and had tuned-in from German wireless) as war booty. They took it to their hearts, and called it their own. So the song went with the Eighth army to Italy, by which time, of course, the First Canadian Division (and later the Fifth Canadian) were integrated with the British Eighth Army—a part of it.

All Italy learned the song, and it spread over the world:

And in my dream, I know that you are there,
The lamplight still shining, upon your golden hair;
Our tears are mingled with the rain;
I will come home and stay again
With you, Lili Marlene, with you, Lili Marlene.

And where is the song now? The copyright holder of the music and of the original German version is, by the fortunes of war, none other than the Attorney General of the United States.

The Expositor And The Flight Of Time

The Brantford Expositor is one of the best provincial papers we see. It is so good, in fact, that it is sometimes referred to as "The Peterborough Examiner of Western Ontario". But it has a few fads, and one of them is the Perpetual Calendar. We twitted it on this subject a few weeks ago, and the Expositor replies with evangelistic seriousness in these words:

If The Examiner really disdains a sensible calendar, why does it bother with one at all, or why does it not go back to the Julian or its remote predecessors? As for time being an illusion, will the management of our esoteric contemporary discard its time-clock? That it can do, if it pleases, of course, but it had better not try that line of argument with the Income Tax Department when it submits a dunner commencing: "According to our records your income tax for 1948 has not yet been paid . . . ."

We have no time-clock in this office. We work until there is no more work to be done, and then we go home. And we never send in late Income Tax returns. The Expositor has fallen into the old error of imagining that those who are not the slaves of time are therefore slow and inefficient workers. Nothing of the kind: the Examiner staff, living fully and richly every day, and burning with a hard, gem-like flame, achieves its ends without stewing over Perpetual Calendars and other mathematical puzzles and time-wasters.

We would have no objection to a revival of the Julian calendar. The sun would rise and set in exactly the same way, and we would be just as happy. We do not suggest that our contemporary is neurotic on this subject, but certainly it shows a tendency to be a fussbudget about it.

How To Live To 100

We read with interest about a club in England, the members of which are all determined to live to be 100. Their average age at present is given as 37. We commend their ambition, and present our readers with their rules, which are three: (1) Eat only garlic, lentils, fresh meat and large quantities of fruit; (2) Be cheerful, read the comics and don't worry; (3) surround your home with a pleasant garden.

These are excellent rules, and very old ones, for longevity. Simple food, cheerfulness and gentle exercise—these will bring happiness, even if you are cut off at a mere 85. But the curious thing about a great many people is that although they talk about happiness as though they valued it, they will make very little effort to achieve it. They feel that happiness will come if they can get more from life; very often happiness comes to those who ask little, but take steps to see that they get what they want.

Blue Potatoes A Cent A Bag

The American Government, through its price support plan for farm produce, has twenty-five million bushels of potatoes more than it knows what to do with. This surplus of the 1949 crop is an expensive weight on its hands. Not only did the Government pay a ripe price for the spuds; it may have to pay out millions to get rid of them.

Potatoes are perishable, and bulky and costly to transport. Even if the U.S. Government sent all the potatoes to alcohol manufacturing plants, the cost for transportation alone would be an estimated $25,000,000. It cannot send them to starving Europe, for Europe is not starving for potatoes; anyway, by the time they reached European destinations, they would be pretty dreadful bags of mush. Starch manufacturing plants do not need them. Already some of the surplus has been marked for export, school lunches and public institutions. There still remain 25 million bushels surplus to the usable surplus. To burn them would cost much money (in kerosene). The U.S. Government has found, it seems, a way to avoid transportation costs, burning expenses and unhelpful storage charges of the unmarketable spuds. It will 'dump' them at one cent a bag, on the spots where they are now collected. But in order to protect the commercial market (and price), the potatoes will be coloured blue before ... at the bargain price.

They should be of some use as fertilizers. Perhaps American farmers should begin to raise more pigs. Pigs eat potatoes; and at one cent a bag, cheap husky porkers could be produced, even from blue potatoes. The Irish raised good pigs on purties. Another Irish tip for the Americans in their potato surfeit: potheen. Not the best of tipples, but in a crisis even a still can have its day.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Toronto announces that an average convention visitor to that city stays 4.5 days. Judging from the way they romp around the hotels at night "average" is the wrong word for most convention visitors.

From The Critic's Notebook

A MENCKEN CHRESTOMATHY (Knopf).

THIS is a selection from various books by H. L. Mencken which are now out of print, and it also includes articles which are only to be found in the files of the many magazines t. which Mr. Mencken has contributed in the course of his career. A chrestomathy, we hasten to explain, is a word of Greek derivation, meaning "a selection of choice passages from an author". These passages by Mr. Mencken fully deserve the tribute contained in the word "choice".

It is not a book to be read at a gulp. It is a book to which the reader will turn when he feels the need of the special stimulation which H. L. Mencken can give. It was received for review in June, 1949; the review appears today. We have taken that long to read the book from cover to cover, in what we consider to be the proper spirit. Having taken so long over it, we are ready to recommend it without qualification.

That does not mean that we are in perfect accord with H. L. Mencken on everything, or that we are so beglamoured by his brilliant prose that we dare not gainsay him. It means, rather, that we think that every opinion he expresses in this book (and it is composed entirely of close-packed opinions) is well worth expressing, and that the writer has expressed them admirably. He puts forward opinions about men and women, religion, government, morals, death, crime, the U.S.A., history, literature music, and a great number of other things. In the opinion of the present reviewer he is crass in his attitude toward religion and poetry, and ignorant in his discussions of psychology. But his crassness is vastly more interesting than many a man's burning belief, and his ignorance is that of a man of powerful intellect lambasting something which he hates, rather than a simple vacuum. His soul is ravished by music, and he turns obedient Germanic handsprings at the very name of Beethoven. He despises the theatre, which accounts for the fact that he was amusing but useless as a drama critic, and a failure as a playwright. There are a score of things about which his opinions are intolerable, but he is so sprightly, so engaging, and so utterly free from stupidity that it is impossible to be angry with him. And the whole book is a feast of that strange, jewelled, barbaric prose style—so complex in appearance and yet so wonderfully accommodated to the exact expression of Mr. Mencken's meaning—of which it is impossible to get too much.

This is not a book for people who want to be left alone. But if you want to be charmed, abused, irritated, convulsed, struck dumb, flummoxed and transported, it is just the thing for you. R.D.

THE STUMBLING STONE, by Aubrey Menen (Scribners).

ABOUT two years ago a remarkable first novel called "The Prevalence of Witches" was reviewed in this column with enthusiasm. It was with keen anticipation therefore that I took up this second volume from the pen of Aubrey Menen. Unhappily to report, it is a disappointment. The author has taken what he plainly considers a great theme; but its greatness has not been made manifest in this book.

It is the story of Colley Burton, who returns from several years of work as a lay missionary in India, to find that the report has been circulated that he is dead, and that a popular play on his life has raised him to the status of a saint. He is astonished by the world of professional good-doers in which he finds himself, falls in love with a girl who has the prettiest legs in the world, and helps a boy who seems to be a criminal to make a pilgrimage to Rome.

The mystical belief which appears to have inspired the book is muddled, and the saint is not convincing. However, "The Prevalence of Witches" is still a good book, and there is every likelihood that Mr. Menen will do better next time. O.B.C.

WE'LL HEAR A PLAY, by J. C. Trewin (Carroll & Nicholson).

THIS is a collection of theatre criticism by J. C. Trewin, successor to James Agate as drama critic for The Sunday Times. If you like theatre criticism this is your meat. Mr. Trewin has the real critic's ability to convey to his reader something of the quality of a fine play or a fine piece of acting, and to explain why it was above the ordinary. He writes well, though with that confusing wealth of allusion which makes the work of certain English writers resemble literary acrostics, and his enthusiasm for the theatre never flags. T.J.A.

The Busy Beaver Defended

Dr. Leonard Butler, assistant professor of genetics at the University of Toronto, has something to say about the busy beaver. According to Dr. Butler the beaver is a poor and wasteful woodsman. He does not fell trees particularly skilfully and only uses a fraction of the trees he fells. Of course Dr. Butler is following the old axemen, who referred to a novice who hacked a ring around a tree until it fell somewhere or other as a "beaver". Maybe the beaver has his weak points, like the rest of us. And maybe it is more important to work with an intelligent purpose than merely to keep working. But in these days the example of the industrious beaver is not likely to lead many of us astray.

Heads For Sale

A curious German industry is undergoing a revival these days, along with better-known enterprises like coal mines and steel mills. It is the manufacture of excellent imitations of shrivelled human heads. For many years before the war, a Hamburg firm used to ship these ghoulish objects—actually made out of pigskin and Chinese hair—to the Indians in some of the ruggeder parts of South America. These wily natives would resell them for fancy prices to unwary travellers, representing them as genuine human heads, allegedly taken by the notorious head-hunting tribes of the Amazon jungles, and "shrunk" to minute size by a secret process they are known to possess.

LIKE OLD TIMES, AGAIN, EH, GUV'NOR!"

Letter To The Editor

ARE HUSBANDS PANTYWAISTS?

Sir: I have been following with avid interest the recent correspondence regarding the employment of married women, and feel the new phase introduced into the argument by the Editor's own column, is distinctly a challenge to those who feel they fit the picture he paints so consolingly. How sweet at last to find a sponsor for our cause! An understanding soul-mate for the unhappy frustrated houswives, who abhor domestic drudgery, who find the rearing of children a boring and nerve-wracking business, and the monotonous and thankless household tasks too time-consuming to be worthy of their effort. On the surface, this life offers little satisfaction to the woman who has once tasted the joys of financial independence, and who, after a limited number of working hours, could tuck her job out-of-sight and out-of-mind until another day, then give herself up to hours of leisure and relaxation quite away from her business environment. Any type of work undertaken in limited quantities is tolerable, and how many of us are there who don't periodically yearn for the good old days when we had no one but ourselves to consider? Some of us have scant sympathy for husbands who come home actually complaining of their heavy 8-hour day at the office or the factory (and for 5 whole days a week too!), after which they are literally free to come and go as they wish. And this to us—who have already experienced such a life, and have found it a perfect paradise in comparison with the tedious working hours (on 24-hour duty, 7 days of the week) still expected of most women who have been indiscreet enough to trade their individualism for a life of slavery, to become a human doormat doing menial chores far beneath their intellect and sense of dignity, to be forced into becoming introverts from sheer pressure of duty.

I know, all too well, the absolute sense of fatigue and failure which persists in a vocation to which one is not adapted by nature, the weariness of long hours, the dissatisfaction over uncompleted tasks. The irritations and constant interruption which normally accompany child-rearing and homekeeping, the innumerable decisions and responsibilities which wear one down, are enough to split any personality in twain, if there are no intervals of release. Why not scuttle back to the peace and serenity of a job where someone else gives the orders, and does our worrying—where our work can be pigeonholed and confined to a manageable limit instead of the consistent muddle of unfinished business, clutter and havoc in which we find ourselves when doing housework?

Why not, indeed! ! At the opposite swing of the pendulum I seem to recall most vividly that I was equally frustrated and dissatisfied after struggling faithfully for several years in a large industrial office, where every path to advancement was blocked, (and still is), by these same married women! This, too, was back in the pre-war depression days when we clung to our jobs for what they were worth, and violently resented the intrusion of such parasitic females with all the venom in our souls. What right had those with husbands well able to support them, most of them childless, to be usurping our places, and accepting the cream of the pay merely to satisfy their own ego and provide an outlet for their energies, as well as supply themselves with luxuries and comforts the single girls could ill afford while helping out at home? Must we uphold those who selfishly want to have their cake and eat it too? Should we condone a policy that smiles on women who hide behind the excuse of inadequacy and frustration in the home life to foist themselves back into the business world, and evade their responsibilities as a wife or mother—both of which are full-time jobs in themselves? Qui s'excuse, s'accuse! Whatever the reason volunteered for the continued employment of such a person, the fact remains that (except in the case of dire necessity for the essentials of living) no man and wife should feel entitled to draw a double salary for one home as long as there is unemployment in our midst, and no supplementary jobs available for such families who receive inadequate pay to furnish their requirements.

At the risk of sounding socialistic, it is definitely anti-Christian. Whatever the motive,—whether it be to get established and find security faster than the average couple, or for the purpose of acquiring luxuries otherwise unattainable or to "keep up with the Joneses", or even (as the Editor suggests) for the purpose of giving frustrated womanhood happiness and release from an arduous self-appointed task — the result is always the same. It is all done at someone else's sacrifice and expense, and who presumes to have this right? For, in my opinion, the average (or even better-than-average) working woman is NOT irreplaceable, as so many of them seem to contend. (Such egotism in any walk of life is better to be ignored!) Nor is she necessary to the successful furtherance of any business, unless self-owned, of course; there is that very rare case, a "genius", whose light should never be hidden under a domestic bushel; but such individuals are relatively few, and their continuance in the public eye should be regulated by popular demand.

Otherwise, let those who feel they have exceptional abilities and spare time on their hands, find other outlets for themselves in religious and social welfare, or political and community group organizations, where there is a growing demand for intelligent and capable volunteers. At the very least, such versatile females could re-direct their interests to other fields of endeavour, and hobbies which do not interfere with wage distribution. Those women who persist in using their homes as glorified hotels with maid service, should evacuate them completely and relieve the housing shortage for families who are still homeless and could use the premises to far better advantage. Many of us who have suffered this experience, and other rehabilitation difficulties, could certainly use extra money too, to catch up on arrears, but we have learned to be grateful for what we have now, and are glad to try and get along on a minimum.

As for the women who find themselves with so much time on their hands they feel forced into job-seeking, I have nothing but contempt. They would be well advised to take a more active interest in their homes and communities in an attempt to curb the current wave of delinquency developing from lack of home supervision, and the teen-age "indifference" which we are all so prone to criticize, and spurn from the business world. Where were the mothers when these same teen-agers failed to mature to sufficient responsibility befitting their age? That should be enough answer to our present discussion.

If the lot of the homemaker was viewed with the pride and respect it deserves, instead of the usual condescending pity and regret extended to those who are tied down and must stay out of the thick of things temporarily, it would induce far more stability into the home where the roots of the nation are planted. If all the "Madame Career" girls would return to their homes to operate on a more competitive basis, it might be more encouragement to those of us who have to be content with last year's wardrobe in order to rear our children toward what we hope will be a fairer and a better world. Constant jealously, resentment, discouragement and criticism are very undermining influences. Naturally, too, all work and no play (or stimulating mental pastime) tends to make Jill a dull girl. Why not make the home front more attractive, instead of luring us from our dens? There would undoubtedly be fewer separations and divorces if the avenues of escape were narrowed, and a more serious attempt at readjustment had to be contemplated. What are the real values in life any more?

While we are in a philanthropic mood, why not loosen the reigns on the moral code as well, and release a few more frustrated souls to a pleasurable existence sans a guilt complex? I imagine these same married businesswomen would be the first to complain if their husbands shirked responsibilities along any of the lines which tradition has cast for the male member of the matrimonial partnership. Such women are merely evading a distasteful step in advancing maturity and use any excuse to condone their channels of escape from unpleasant obligations. They are the maladjustments of society! If necessary, we could set up an exchange bureau for the single girls who long for the pleasures of housekeeping and small children, and the joys of being their own boss at last. Or how many domestically - minded husbands wouldn't be more contended to stay at home and do the chores, rather than suffer as misfits in their jobs while conforming to convention?

All arguments are fruitless unless backed by the voice of authority, so unless the Government sees fit, as an emergency measure, to prohibit married women from unnecessary employment, this deplorable state will continue to stir up resentment, jealousy and dissatisfaction on all sides, which is extremely bad for the morale of the nation as a whole. A nation which continues to encourage an influx of immigrants for whom they are unable to supply adequate employment, or housing. A nation which prefers to support the unemployed, rather than establish a marriage bounty, or at least investigate the security and adequacy of each job held by the head of a household. This present economic system with its high cost of living is far harder on the family man than any depression ever could be.

It is not a change of jobs—but a change of attitude—which is required to eliminate the disturbing factors. Happiness consists of being contented with what we have. A husband should be made to realize that his wife is equally entitled to a shorter hour week, with regular time off for the pursuit of her own pleasures and interests, if she is to remain sweet and reasonable. If they can't afford outside help, then he should be willing to share the mutual burden and sacrifice some of his surplus leisure to alleviate her constant attention to duty. A woman gets heartily sick of being taken for granted as a fixture in the home, and seeks outside employment where her efforts are noticeably appreciated, and she can always feel at her best.

I would certainly like to hear how other frustrated wives manage to keep struggling under the continued criticisms of their poor housekeeping attempts, and why they aren't doing something about it, as suggested. A general exodus of all unhappy women from their places would present an overwhelming problem, and a definite "back-to-the-home" policy. I would also like to see a few more letters from the employed married women who are willing to quote any plausible reason for their continued presence in the field of labour. Where are the husbands silently huddled while this discussion is on? Have they become such anaemic pantywaists they are afraid to voice an opinion in matters of such public concern?

Yours sincerely,
"ONE NEUROTIC WIFE"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jacob said, O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac, the Lord which saidst unto me, Return unto thy country, and to thy kindred, and I will deal well with thee. . . . Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of Esau: for I fear him, lest he will come and smite me, and the mother with the children.

And Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day. And when he saw that he prevailed not against him, he touched the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wrestled with him. And he said, Let me go, for the day breaketh. And he said, I will not let thee go, except thou bless me.

And he said unto him, What is thy name? And he said, Jacob. And he said, Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel: for as a prince hast thou power with God and with men, and hast prevailed. And Jacob asked him, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name. And he said, Wherefore is it that thou dost ask after my name? And he blessed him there.

And Jacob called the name of the place Peniel: for I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved. (Gen. 32: 9, 11, 24-30.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. . . . Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day. (Ps. 25: 1, 5.)

High Office Forecast For R. A. Butler

By The Canadian Press

Richard Austen Butler, who likely will win high office if the Conservatives are reutrned to power in Britain, is a member of the party's inner circle.

He is one of the authors of "The Right Road For Britain," Conservative policy pamphlet on which the party is basing its campaign.

"Rab" Butler is 48, has been in the House of Commons for 21 years. He was elected without interruption from 1932 until the end of the war brought Labor to power.

In the 1930s, Butler perhaps was more often in opposition to Winston Churchill than any other junior member of the governments successively headed by MacDonald, Baldwin and Chamberlain.

From 1932 to 1937 he was under-secretary of state for India. That was the period that saw a sharp cleavage between Churchill and the Conservative leadership over Indian constitutional reforms.

Part of the time the secretary for India was the Marquess of Zetland, sitting in the Lords, and Butler had to hold the fort in the Commons. Later he occupied the same position under Lord Halifax.

During the war Butler was minister of education and gets credit in large measures for preparing the post-war educational set-up which has given the underprivileged a better break. Last year Butler headed the British delegation to the unofficial Commonwealth Relations Conference at Bigwin Inn, Ont.

Be Courteous To Blind; White Cane Wk.

During White Cane Week, which opened throughtout the Dominion on Sunday, the Canadian Council for the Blind and Canadian National Institute for the Blind are bringing to the attention of the public the every day services which, unobtrusively rendered, can make the lives of the blind people in the community happier.

Both organizations report that as a result of previous White Cane Weeks a better understanding already exists between blind and sighted.

Children have become more aware of the value of courtesy and helpfulness towards the blind. They are learning to offer an arm, rather than to take the arm of the blind person wishing to cross the street. They are asked to be more watchful of carelessly left bicycles, tricycles and wagons on a sidewalks, which could endanger the progress of a blind person.

In addition to offering assistance to a person with a white cane, who is waiting to cross the street, or experiencing any difficulty, individual members of the community are asked to remember to include their blind friends in their enjoyment of lectures, concerts and other recreative activities.

In a busy, hurried life the additional steps or minutes required call for a blind friend may sometimes seem difficult to accomplish, but the reward of friendship in which one supplies the need of the other is great.

In Peterborough city and county there is a total of 84 blind persons. Among their group activities is a bowling team which meets every week. Saturday the blind team will play a team of Knights of Columbus. The Knights will play blindfolded.

Lady Meagan Lloyd George MP 20 Years

By The Canadian Press

Lady Megan Lloyd George, Liberal M.P. for Anglesey since 1929 is the younger daughter of the late Earl Lloyd George, Britain's First World War prime minister.

She has inherited not only her father's campaigning zeal out much of his eloquence as well.

The only woman M. P. representing Wales, she is a vigorous crusader for all Welsh causes and has made a special study of agricultural housing problems.

Now in her 40s, Lady Megan is small and dark with twinkling blue eyes and a bright smile. A forceful speaker, she emphasizes her points with a stabbing forefinger—another inherited characteristic.

From the age of six until she was 20, Lady Megan lived at Downing Street—first at No. 11 when her father was chancellor of the exchequer then at No. 10 when he became prime minister in 1916.

She remembers with pride the hardest days of her political career when at the 1931 general election, the Lloyd George family alone of the Liberal parliamentary party, came out against Britain's National Government. Lady Megan, her father and her brother, Major Gwilym Lloyd George, fought and won against Conservative opponents.

In her 20 years as a member of parliament Lady Megan has taken a close interest in unemployment, agriculture, housing, health, women's questions and the House of Lords.

Woman Decapitated

THORP, Wis., Feb. 8 (AP)—A one-legged war veteran Tuesday found the decapitated body of his wife, mother of two infant children, on the railroad tracks near their trailer home. Police said the woman, Mrs. Robert Rottier, 25, apparently distraught over crowded living conditions, had cut her throat and wrists, walked 300 feet to the tracks and had placed her head on the rails.

Ask Tamblyn's

ST. VALENTINE'S GIFTS: Is Valentine's Day another commercial project set up by druggists and florists or has it any real meaning?

Ask any newly engaged girl or indeed any romantic woman if Valentine Day is commercial. Her answer is a resounding No. Valentines have been given and received as romantic gifts since a springtime festival of the early Romans. Anything that has lasted 1900 years seems to be pretty well grounded.

S. A. IMMIGRANT: I have a relative in South America who wants to come to Canada. Where can we get information about papers, etc.?

Call in at Canadian Immigration Department, 302 Bay Street, Toronto, with all information. Officials there will set you straight.

FOOD FOR WOMEN: What should 3 women spend per week on their food? We have breakfast and dinner at home, we take home-made sandwiches.

Drop in to your nearest Tamblyn Store and pick up one of our food budgets. While it will not be ideal for three women, it will give you some lead plus good menus and recipes. You can hardly manage on less each than five dollars.

DRY EGG WHITE: What is meant by beating egg until dry? Mine never go dry.

It's only egg whites that are beaten till dry. That means until all the moisture of the white has been beaten to dry froth. Test is this: tip the bowl with beaten egg whites upside down; if they slip, egg whites are still not sufficiently dry.

Habs Banished To Farm Keep In Shape

By VIC MORRIS, Jr.,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Operation pitchfork is the target set for Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League for today.

No, they are not joining the Army in any big scale manoeuvre to Alaska or hoping to add more power to the H-bomb, although at times they sure could use some.

Coach Dick Irvin faced with a week's scheduled layoff from games came up with a novel plan to keep his hands (players) busy.

To keep the boys in top form despite the lack of ice for practices, the wily coach decided to put the boys to work for a week on the farm of their old teammate Murph (Hardrock) Chamberlain.

Of course, Murph, who is presently getting into plenty of hot water with referees in the Cape Breton Hockey League where he is non-playing coach Sydney Millionaires, was not told about Irvin's plan until it was too late to do anything about it.

Needs Looking After

But Irvin figures it is a bit of helpful co-operation in behalf of old Murph. The farm at St. Sebastien, 50 miles from Montreal, has been suffering in Murph's absence. Before Christmas his brother-in-law, Ross Schwartz, who has been looking after the farm, had an accident while driving a tractor. It collided with a truck and Schwartz is still laid up with a broken leg.

Murph's sister, Mrs. Schwartz, and her youngsters have been carrying on as best possible under the conditions, milking cows and doing countless other farm chores always to be done.

But the barn and stable need a cleaning and some of the buildings and fence posts need repairs.

Meanwhile, good news was received at the New York Ranger camp—Defenceman Wally Stanowski may return to action within two weeks. He has been out for some time with a floating cartilage in his left knee.

His return is eagerly waited by the Rangers, who have won only one game in their last 13 starts.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

Aurel Joliat, hockey's mighty atom, played his 500th National Hockey League with Canadiens at Montreal 16 years ago tonight. The 136-pound Ottawan, a master stickhandler and one of the smartest players in the game, made that season one of his best, finishing eighth in the scoring lists. He retired in 1938 after more than 700 NHL games.

Hastings Juveniles Take First Game

HASTINGS, Feb. 8 (ENS) — Hastings juveniles defeated Wellington on Tuesday night 9-4 in the first of a two-game series, goals to count. Wellington started strong, going into a quick two-goal lead, but Hastings came back and tied it up, then went ahead to stay there. Morrow was high man with four goals, while Laver was right behind with three.

Ackerman scored the hat trick for Wellington and both goalies made some fine saves.

The return game is being played in Wellington on Saturday night.

Hastings—Goal, A. West; defence, B. Chambers, J. Fairman; centre, M. Laver; wings, A. McMillan, H. Lynch; alternates, K. Forde, J. Morrow. D. Fairman, W Wartman, R. Lockhart, R. Isaac, D. Forde

Wellington—Goal, J. Ingraham; defence, K. Stacey, Bill Greer; centre, Bud French; wings, V Cassita, A. Pettengill; alternates, L. Cunningham, J. Lighthall, J. Tripp, J. Ackerman, J. Walker, J. Simpson, J. Moreland.

Ray Best Rink Captures Neill's Trophy

By HERB MARTIN

Those big shots that the experienced veteran Ray Best got on the seventh end were enough to pull him through to win the Neill Trophy from his younger and less experienced opponent Herb Bradburn, in the final game last evening. It was a real game from start to finish and well played.

Bradburn started off with a lead and at the half-way mark was leading 6-3, but then on the seventh end, Best, by some nice curling, got a five, and went ahead 8-6. Bradburn squared the game on the eighth end with two and then Bert scored one on the ninth to make it 9-8. Bradburn came back with a one on the 10th end and then Bert scored on each of the last two ends to make the score 11-9.

A Big Crowd

The game was witnessed by a big crowd and if next week's final in the consolation event is as well played, the spectators should be satisfied.

Winners Neill Trophy: B. W. Jones, F. L. Johnson, W. J. Cripps, R. P. Best, sk.

Men's scores:

H. Michaelson 1, J. Richmond 18; J. Adams 18, E. R. Shirley 6; J. W. McDermid 14, F. Patterson 2; E. Brown 6, N. Hamley 11; A. Aitkenhead 7, Dr. McKee 6; C. Crowe 11, A. W. Smith 14.

Ladies' scores:

Mrs. Martin 7, Mrs. Dunkerly 10; Miss Gladman 7, Mrs. Holt 11; Mrs. Welbourn 9, Mrs. Selkirk 10; Mrs. Fanning 9, Mrs. Hall 8; Mrs. Steer 9, Mrs. Green 7; Mrs. Westbrook 6, Mrs. Doughty 7.

Canada's Boxers Find Games Bit Too Tough

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Feb. 8 (CP) —Canada's boxers made their British Empire Games debut here tonight and—just as the swimmers and track athletes have found out—Commonwealth competition was too tough. Three of their four starts ended in defeats.

The ring men closed out the day's program of swimming, fencing and lawn bowling and at the end of the front-running Australians practically clinched the Games' unofficial championship. The Aussies added two more B.E. titles to their already-impressive list of 13 first places, each good for 10 points.

Australia's unofficial point-total, based on the 10-5-4-3-2-1 point distribution for the first six finishers, now stands beyond the 300-mark with Canada in the fourth slot behind New Zealand and England.

1st Round Victory

Only Len Walters, 18-year-old Vancouver bantamweight, was able to gain a first-round fight victory—a three-round decision over New Zealand's Bobby Broadhurst.

Flyweight Ronnie Muir of Toronto started the night's proceedings with a three-round loss to South Africa's Marcus Temple. Walters came up with his triumph in the next bout but Canada lost the next pair, featherweight Frank White of Winnipeg going down to A. Vercuell, Rhodesia, and welterweight Johnny Ravenda losing to Terry Ratcliffe, England.

The swimmers were active, but the best Canada could get was a second place, manufactured by Dr. George Athans of Vancouver in the men's tower diving.

Togs Lead Way In Lasses' Loop

Towne Togs took scoring honors this week in the Girls' City Bowling League with 3255 pinnage and high single of 1153. D. Martin of Marines had best three of 774 and top single of 312, A. Anderson having 747 and B. Goldie 749 triples. M. Stephenson's 660 took the 659 blind score. Marines blanked Brintons, Arcos whitewashed Dickson's, as 2-1 wins were marked by Curtin's over Aces, Collis against Sevenaires, and Togs over Cardinals. Results:

10 Rinks Survive Second-Day Curling

SUDBURY, Feb. 8 (CP)—Ten rinks survived second-day play in the main event of the Northern Ontario Curling Association's 63rd annual bonspiel here Tuesday.

Play in the two other events is well advanced with many rinks still having a chance to cop top honors.

Results included:

Silver Foam — Preliminary Round:

Copper Cliff, W. McConnell, 15; Pembroke, G. W. O'Brien 3; Granite, C. D. Elliott 11; Peterborough, Dr. C. McKee 9.

Cochrane Dunlop Cup—Second Round—Fenelon Falls, J. H. Curtis 12; Kingston, J. A. Shamess 6.

Boys' Town Tussle

The Boys' Town peewee puck league started this week on the Optimists' outdoor rink, the teams being named after Senior B entries, Petes, Legion, Kingston, and Belleville. Legion defeated the Petes 3-1 to open it up, Garvey scoring two goals and aiding Tate on another, Tate having two assists, also. Towne tallied for the Petes, Kelly aiding Teams:

Legion—Goal, Ayotte; defence, Mountney and Dunsford; centre, Garvey; wings, Tate and Mills; alternates, Legros, Lloyd. Dinsdale, Douglas.

Petes — Goal, Harding; defence, R. Whitton and W. Whitton; centre, Towne; wings, Paul and Harding; alternates, Dixon, Pollard, Fowler, Killen, Alton, Kelly, Morgan.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Extra police will be on hand tonight at 8.30 in Civic Arena when Legionnaires and the Petes tangle in their windup OHA senior "B" schedule scrap. The two referees here at the last donnybrook were quite emphatic on that point, insisting on more police protection and threatening to report to the OHA if this wasn't done. The refs can handle the game pretty well, and toss off combatants raidly enough, but they can't be expected to halt a mob scene when rival players tear into each other from all sides, and fans come over the boards. However, that may not occur this time. One must take precautions, though.

* * * * * *

Once again, the Peterborough puck enemies—and the word is used advisedly—will be playing for keeps. The schedule is almost over, and this game won't affect the Petes in the standing, but you'll think a world's championship is at stake the way these clubs tear into each other. Every minute of every game, and many a person-to-person feud has built up during the schedule grind. It is also a fact that Legion could be nudged out of top spot by the Nylons by a single point. That mathematical chance is still there, owing to an early tie game Legion had. So, get your ducats early for this fray as it should be a sellout or close to one.

Legion At Warsaw

Gananoque declined to have Legion down there last Saturday as scheduled, for some reason or other—perhaps no ice—but now want 'em this Saturday. However, Legion have promised to play the Marmora TVL-ers, bolstered with other loop stars, in an exhibition to open the new arena at Warsaw this Saturday. The Warsaw advertising is spread all over the county, and it should be a rousing opening for that rink. It might be that Legion and the Gans can reach some agreement, but Legion insist they'll stick to their promise and play in Warsaw, this being a county event. That's the way it'll be, and the OHA senior "B" schedule winds up Monday, with playoffs due the end of next week.

* * * * * *

Comes a copy of the Adirondack Daily Enterprise from Saranac Lake, N.Y. Gives quite a writeup of the Petes' two exhibitions at Lake Placid, saying it was a good club that lost out. However, they would have been really impressed had the Petes been at full strength. Bill McMaster got a special mention as being heartily liked and disliked in turn, the 210-pound husky bumping all and sundry in a rugged showing, but proving an affable chap off the ice. He loves his hockey and he can both hand it out and take it. Quite a showman, Bill is a capable performer and sometimes gets in wrong with fans by talking back to them. Still, he made quite an impression at Lake Placid.

About The Cagers

Bev Goulding's young junior "B" basketeers kept in the group race last p.m. in Port Hope by taking a 28-23 victory o'er the leaders as that schedule hits the home stretch. Lindsay plays St. Peter's tonight at 7.15 in the Collegiate, while Lindsay has a game here Friday 'gainst the "B" PCI-ers. Oshawa junior "A" and senior squads are here that night, also, to play PCVS. A couple of colleens' contests at the YW on Friday, and no doubt some action around the YMCA this week-end for hoop fans. Nothing definite yet on the next LOBA tussle for Towne Togs in their lakeshore grouping.

Stan Houlihan advises us that the local blind bowlers have challenged a K. of C. team to a match in the Knights' alleys on Saturday afternoon, with the K. of C.-ers blindfolded. Jerry O'Donoghue has up and accepted the challenge, and will captain a team in opposition. The match is being staged in conection with "White Cane Week" activities. These blind bowlers have been trundling among themselves for some time now at the Knights of Columbus lanes, and have a lot of fun in their games. Wonder how the blindfolded fellows will stack up against them.

Here and There In Sport

Ted Williams' new baseball contract for a reported $125,000 tops the late Babe Ruth's best salary by $45,000. But the take-home pay for the Boston Red Sox' slugger in 1950 will come out just about even with Ruth's net salary for 1930 and 1931. Washington tax experts estimate that out of the $125,000 salary, Williams will have about $70,000 left after paying federal income tax.

On the other hand, based on 1930 and 1931 tax deductions, Ruth gave the government only $10,513 of his $80,000 salary which still left him with $69,487 for each of those years. That does not take into account the dollar value today and 20 years ago. The buck today is worth only 58 cents as compared with 1930. But Williams' salary tops anything ever paid to a ball player before.

Forced to abandon classes due to lack of snow last month at Huntsville, the Canadian travelling ski school hopes to reconvene next Friday, Feb. 10, at Flesherton, to complete the course of the southern Ontario section.

Ed Lopat, top Yankee pitcher in the earned-run averages, has signed his contract, the New York club announced Tuesday without disclosing the terms. Lopat, in his second season with the Yankees, hung up an ERA mark of 3.27, fourth best in the American League. He won 15 games and lost 10 for the world champions.

Top skiers from 14 countries are testing breath-taking runs down Aspen Mountain at Aspen Colo., preparing for international downhill and slalom championships starting Monday.

One jockey was badly hurt and two others shaken up in a spill in the third race at New Orleans' fair grounds track Tuesday. Coming into the stretch Miss Russell fell, throwing jockey John Glisson and causing Wise Policy and Adan also to fall. Glisson was taken to hospital where attaches said he suffered a broken collar bone and possible concussion.

George Kell, American League batting champion, Tuesday signed his 1950 contract to highlight a full day's activity around Detroit Tiger headquarters. The third-baseman signed for an estimated $37,500 about a $9,500 increase over what he got last year.

The Jamaica, N. Y., spring racing season, April 1 through May 5, will feature the same 12 stake events and the same added money —$270,000—as prevailed last year, the Metropolitan Jockey Club announced Tuesday. Leading the list of events will be the $40,000 Wood Memorial, traditional trial for the Kentucky Derby, on April 22, and the $50,000 Gallant Fox April 29.

The National Small-bore Rifle Association of Great Britain announced Tuesday it has challenged the National Rifle Association of America to a match for the Pershing Trophy in 1951. The trophy, donated by the late Gen. John J. Pershing, in 1931, now is held by the United States.

Feb. 13—Lindsay at Port Hope.

The PCVS Junior "B" boys' basketball team handed the group leading Port Hope Juniors their first defeat of the season in Port Hope last night and thereby stayed in the running for group honors. The final score was 28-23 in an exciting close checking game played on the small high school floor. Port Hope broke in front at the start but holding fouls called against the home team kept PCVS in the game. During the second quarter the visitors forged to the front to stay and led 16-8 at the half. During the second half PCVS stretched its lead to as much as nine points. A closing Port Hope rally narrowed the margin to five but failed to reduce it further in an exciting finish.

Creighton Johnston with seven points, Bill Stewart with six and Bob Jameson with five led the PCVS scorers. Karl Lenahan had nine points for Port Hope and was always a threat. Seventeen fouls were called against the home team with PCVS converting 10 out of 18 free shots. Eleven fouls were called against PCVS with Port Hope converting seven out of 13 of these free throws.

The teams:

PCVS "B"—Batley, Buckland 2, Ferguson 1, Elcombe, Fortner 2, Halliday 3, Jameson 5, Johnston 7, Stewart 6, Britnell 2, Pullen, Dewar. Total, 28.

Port Hope—Pike, Ross 2, Sisson, Kearns, Jordan 3, Plummer 1, Howe, Lenahan 9, Trawin, Carson 3, Ashton, Brockenshire, McFarlane 3, Porter 2. Total, 23.

Referees—H. Blow, Port Hope; H. Hempstead, Peterborough.

Lakefield Wins

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 8 (ENS) — Blanking Campbellford 7-0 here last night, the Lakefield Lions won their OMHA juvenile series 15-6, and now meet Ajax. Wilford scored two goals in the first, with McCracken aiding twice, while Heffernan got another from Montgomery. Calberry counted in the second from J. Sloan, D. Sloan scoring on a solo try. J. Sloan got another in the third from D Sloan, and Twist tallied by himself in a fast, clean tilt. Teams:

Campbellford—Goal, Ingram; defence, Sheppard, Bennett; centre, Jeffs; wings, Iber, Dooker, alternates, Kempt, Reid, Billen, Heard, Kay, Dunk Darrah.

Lakefield—Goal Blake; defence, Morrison, Montgomery; centre, McCracken; wings, Wilford, Heffernan; alternates, Calberry, Coyle, Twist, Geraldi, Pue, J. Sloan, D. Sloan.

Referee, Wilson; linesman, Junkin.

Confederation Wins

Confederation Intermediates won a School Hockey League game 5-1 over Queen Alexandra at the Arena, scoring three in the first when Floyd hit the mark twice and Brown once. J. Brown got another in the second, as did Olmstead of Q A, while Druery finished it up in the third of a lively scrap. Teams:

Confederation— Smillie, Jones, Goldie, Floyd, J. Brown, Scharf, R. Brown, Druery, Parnell, Rose, McArthur, Douglas, Chesney, Kimball.

Queen Alexandra — Johnston, Cuffe, McNamee, Olmstead, Stewart, Whitton, Reid, Conway, Druce, Jackson, Carter, Baker, Grosse.

In another Intermediate game earlier, Confederation blanked King George 5-0, Floyd getting four goals in a fine showing, and Parnell one. The winners had the same lineup.

King George — Ellis, Clark, English, Innes, Mountney, Barker, Baptie, Pollard, Grills, J. Harding, G. Harding, Hale, Dorrington.

Referee—Mr. Currie.

Main In Semi-Final

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 (CP) — A singles and doubles victory on Tuesday night enabled Lorne Main of Vancouver to move into the semi-final round of the Chateauguay Regiment's International Invitation Tennis Tournament The 19-year-old Main, a member of last year's Canadian Davis Cup squad, first scored a 6-4, 6-1 singles win over J. J. Desjardins of Montreal and then teamed up with veteran Laird Watt to outlast Jean Paul Tofsky and Jean Paul Turgeon, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

EMPIRE GAMES EXTREMES—The long and short of it at the British Empire Games at Auckland, NZ, are shown here. Ronald Muir, flyweight boxer from Toronto, stands four feet 11 inches and is the shortest competitor apart from rowing coxswain. Manasa Nukuvoa, a Fijian sprinter, is six feet, three inches and one of the giants of the meeting.

Cycle Speedway New UK Sport

By MICHAEL O'MARA

LONDON, Feb. 8 — (CP) — British kids have a new sport. They call it "Cycle Speedway."

It's based on motorcycle speedway racing, long a popular sport both here and in Australia. But the teen-agers use stripped-down bicycles and provide their own horsepower.

They also build their own tracks, govern their own meetings and design their own uniforms.

Civic authorities are enthusiastic over the craze, which, they say, is just the thing for keeping adventurous lads with nothing much to do after school from drifting into petty crime.

Cycle speedway can be a tough sport. The kids race on cinders — often on old bomb-sites or in vacant car-parks—and a fall on that surface can ruin clothes and tear elbows and knees to shreds But they love it.

It's estimated nearly 30,000 lads between 12 and 17 are taking an active part in the sport.

They have organized themselves into local teams. The teams challenge one another to matches decided by a number of heats in which two members of one team oppose two of the other.

The idea isn't just to win the race individually, but for teammates to finish one-two. That's what counts the most points, and that's other reason youth leaders approve it.

"It builds the finest type of team spirit," they say.

Higbe Signs

Kirby Higbe, veteran right-handed pitcher acquired in a deal with Pittsburgh in mid-season last year, has signed his 1950 contract, New York Giants announced Tuesday. The Giants also announced the signing of Pete Milne, fleet outfielder who batted 309 in 73 games for the Jersey City club of the International League last year.

Samara And Singh In Main Bout

Barend And Christie In Semi-final

What looks like a stand-out card throughout has been signed for Thursday night's wrestling program at the Brock Arena, when Nanjo Singh, the explosive Hindu mat terror, will oppose Seelie Samara, the jet-propelled Negro grappling star, in the feature event.

Not only has this outstanding headliner been signed, but in addition, by public demand, there will be a return test in the semi-final spot between Joe Christie and Johnny Barend, this time with a 45-minute time limit. These rivals fought to a torrid draw last week and the extended time limit Thursday night should give them ample time to settle their differences decisively.

A scientific, fast, pleasing bout seems in store in the opener, when Bill Stack will meet Bobby Nelson, a capable, good-looking young athlete.

The grapple game is sweeping the continent, now that television has brought bouts into the homes of millions. Local fans are fortunate in having the Brock Arena bring them in person the best men in the game. Another huge city and district crowd should pack the Brock for these three fine bouts.

Ageless Tigers Roll Along Crush Flying Dutchmen 6-4

By The Canadian Press.

Hamilton's "ageless" Tigers continued to roll along last night and the Bengals weren't using wheel chairs. They won their eighth straight Ontario Hockey Association Senior A victory, this time a 6-4 verdict at the expense of the second place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen.

Although the game meant nothing to either club it went as further proof that the Tigers can't be counted out of the championship race.

The Tigers spent an appreciable amount of the senior schedule buried in the cellar but after the OHA executive ruled that only the first three teams could enter the playoffs, the Bengals sprang to life and shoved Owen Sound into the last position.

In the other Senior A game last night Toronto Marlboros squeezed out a 7-6 verdict over Owen Sound. In three Junior A scraps Marlboros outlasted Galt Black Hawks to a 5-3 decision, Guelph blasted Stratford 6-0 and St. Catharines defeated Barrie 9-3.

Explosive Play

Hamilton exploded for four last period goals to gain their verdict over Kitchener-Waterloo.

Max Taylor was the big gun for the winners, scoring three goals and assisting on two others while singles were tallied by Murray Comfort, Clare Shillington and Polly Miocinovich. Art Hurst, Doug Verity, Murray Grasser and Bil Walsh accounted for the Dutchmen's counters.

Last night's contest was the final one of the season for the Mercury's, who failed to make a playoff berth.

Gord Hannigan's goal with less than two minutes remaining was the counter which made the last Owen Sound crusade a losing one. The homesters had led throughout most of the game.

Chuck Blair was a three goal man for the Dukes while Hannigan picked up a pair. Bruno Favero and Frank Sullivan notched the others. Clicking for the losers were Bun White with two, and Pat McReavy, Hub Beaudry, Doug Gillespie and Bill Allum, all with singles.

Hawks Roar Back

Marlboros took a 3-0 first period lead over Galt but the lowly Hawks roared back with a trio in the second session while Marlboros could manage only a single to creep within one marker of the league leaders. Danny Lewicki's single in the third salted the victory.

Lewicki managed two markers in the game while singles went to George Armstrong, Larry Regan, and Lorne Pirie. Lumley, George Gord and Ken Green sniped the losers' counters.

The Biltmores split their six goals evenly throughout the three periods.

Don Oberholtzer was firing the heavy artillery with a pair of markers with singles going to Herb Dickenson, Gord Ashley, Ron Plumb and Gerry Theberge.

St. Catharines pulled up into a tie with Windsor for second place with their win over Barrie.

Scotty Mair Leading Scorer

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP) — Scotty Mair, shifty right winger of Toronto Marlboros, still is top scorer in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Statistics released today show Mair with 57 points—38 goals and 19 assists. Former Marlboro Johnny McCormack, now with Toronto Maple Leafs, and Bill Johnson, also of the Dukes, are tied for second place with 50 points, McCormack with 17 goals and 33 assists, Johnson with 18 goals and 32 assists. Jack Taylor of Hamilton Tigers has climbed to fourth spot with 49 points — 19 goals and 30 assists.

Marlboro's Pat Boehmer, heading the netminders' race, has allowed an average of 2.63 goals a game.

Windsor Spitfires' Earl Reibel is top scorer in Junior A ranks with 101 points—44 goals and 57 assists. Con Switzer of St. Catharines Teepees, in second place, has 97 points from 30 goals and 67 assists. Toronto Marlboros' George Armstrong is in third spot with 51 goals and 39 assists for 90 points.

Don Lockhart of Marlboros, heading the goalie list, fails to live up to his nickname, "The Sieve." He has a 2.53 goals a game average.

Cliff Lumsden Awarded Marsh Trophy

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP)—Cliff Lumsden of suburban New Toronto, 18-year-old world's professional swimming champion, has been awarded the Lou E. Marsh Memorial Trophy for 1949.

Elwood A. Hughes, chairman of the board of judges, announced Tuesday the choice was unanimous. Runner-up is Bill Parnell, Vancouver sprinter.

The trophy in memory of the late Lou E. Marsh, sports editor of the Toronto Daily Star, is awarded annually to the Canadian athlete adjudged best of the year. It was won in 1947 and 1948 by Barbara Ann Scott, Ottawa's queen of figure skaters.

Lumsden won the 15-mile swim at the Canadian National Exhibition here last Sept. 2. At the finish, when only three of 66 starters were left in the water, Lumsden was three-quarters of a mile in front of Ben Gazel, a fellow-member of the New Toronto Lakeshore Swimming Club.

Mr. Hughes said that as general manager of the CNE he did not cast a ballot. The other judges, all of whom voted for Lumsden, are Charles C. Ring, donor of the trophy; Tom Alison of the Argonaut Rowing Club; Oscar Peterson, assistant commissioner of Toronto parks, and C. E. Higginbottom, bursar of the University of Toronto.

Lumsden's feat in the marathon in which he was in the water for seven hours and 54 minutes, won him the decision over a field of 15 nominees.

Second to Parnell in the list of honorable mentions was Frank Stack, veteran Winnipeg speed skater.

Still Has Dream

EDMONTON, Feb. 8—(CP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer-scientist and consultant for the United States Army Military Planning Division, Tuesday night said he has not abandoned hope of a submarine expedition under the Arctic ice from Alaska to Norway. In an interview, Sir Hubert, now en route to Alaska on a mission which he declined to discuss, said he may proceed with the expedition, cancelled in 1940 because of the war, when his service with the United States Army ends.

$110 Raised At Valentine Tea

HAVELOCK, Feb. 8 (ENS) — Colorful Valentine decorations formed the setting in the Sunday school auditorium of Knox Presbyterian Church recently for the annual Valentine tea party sponsored by the Young Women's Association. Proceeds totalled $110.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Robert Sayers, president. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. D. Duncanson and Mrs. Joseph Hoffman at a table decorated in red and white and centred with a silver basket of roses and red candles in silver holders.

Quartette tables were paced in the room for the guests who were served by Mesdames Grenville Rutherford, Fred Rutherford, T. Sanders, James Scott, Donald Anderson, George Sisco, Clifford Scott and the Misses Elaine Graham and Shirley Bennett.

The following were in charge of arranging the plates: Mesdames B. Curtis, G. Kennedy, W. Copp, and F. McKenzie. Mrs. S. Barlow was in charge of the tea.

The novelty booth was operated by Mrs. Isaac Anderson and Mrs Robert Melville, with Miss Maude Sexsmith and Mrs. T. Watson in charge of the bake sale.

The candy booth was in charge of Misses Jean Kennedy, Dorothy Graham and Marilyn Rutherford. Roses arranged in silver baskets decorated all the booths.

Guild Decides To Levy $1 Lent Talent Money

MILLBROOK, Feb. 8 (ENS)—St. Thomas Anglican Church Guild met at the home of Mrs. T. A. Campbell on Monday evening with Mrs. F. Lowery, the president, in the chair conducting the opening devotions.

Miss Anna Fair reported for the visiting committee that two calls had been made on shut-ins during the month.

Following the roll call, a new member, Mrs. Theobald, was welcomed by the group.

It was decided that the meetings hereafter should regularly be held the first Monday of the month rather than the first Tuesday. It was also decided that each member should pay $1 talent money during Lent. There was discussion also about a concert to be held in May, given by a girls' voices chorus from Port Whitby. The matter was left until the next meeting.

Plans were completed for the cold meat supper to be held on Wednesday, Feb. 15.

Springville YPU Give Illustrative Play

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 8—(ENS)—The Young People's Union met on Friday evening in the basement of the church. After the business part of the meeting, conducted by Hazel McIntosh, Doreen Bowles, citizenship convener presented a play with Howard Johnston, Ivan Rowan, Marie Hooten, Roger Hanbidge, Wilma and Myrtle Seymour assisting. Marilyn Bowles sang a solo and Eleanor Bowles read the Scripture.

Myrna Seymour led the group in an hour of games and recreation.

If the weather is suitable, the young people have been invited to skate at Mount Pleasant on Friday evening.

The community is sorry to hear that Mr. Jos. Donaldson is again a patient in Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

Mrs. Carman Seymour went to Ottawa on Saturday to spend a few days with Mrs. Harry Seymour, Ottawa, while the latter's husband is ill in Civic Hospital, Ottawa.

The Farm Forum is meeting Mrs. Elwood Johnston.

Urges Curlers Establis' Hall Of Fame

By ROBERT CLARK

WINNIPEG, Feb. 8—(CP)—Baseball started it, hockey picked it up as a goo idea, and now it seems that curling might follow suit with recognition of its greats in a Hall of Fame.

Maurice (Winnipeg Fress Press) Smith brings up the matter in his column in this way: "While it is a matter for the Dominion body finally to decide upon, we think the Manitoba Curling Association should endeavor to get a movement going toward inducing the parent organization to establish a Curling Hall of Fame."

He remarks that curling has progressed to the point where it now is ranked as one of Canada's major sports, probably topped in the matter of active participants only by golf and bowling.

"It is our feeling, therefore, that something should be done to perpetuate the names of the men who have contributed in various ways to the sport down through the years. . ."

Why Manitoba?

Smith has an answer all ready for those who might argue that such a hall of fame should be established somewhere other than Manitoba.

"While it is recognized that the first game of curling in the Dominion was played somewhere in eastern Canada, it is the west, and particularly Manitoba that has been to the fore front in popularizing the game. . ."

Millbrook Young Folk Discuss Their Reading

MILLBROOK, Feb. 8 (ENS)—The Rev. T. G. Husser conducted a questionnaire of magazines at a meeting of the Young People's Group Monday, in the parish hall. He made suggestions for improving the reading of the group.

The questionnaire followed a contest in magazine titles conducted by Paul Sanders.

Sanders was also in charge of the devotional period when Helen Fallis read the scripture and George Smith led in meditation.

A sing-song followed a brief business period for which the president, Don Spicer, took the chair.

The next meeting, also to be held in the parish hall, will take the form of a basket social, to which young married couples of the three congregations have been invited as well as the YP executive of the presbytery.

Safety Committee Presents Reports

MARMORA, Feb. 8.—(ENS).—The February meeting of the Deloro safety committee was held Tuesday afternoon, with C. H. Buskard presiding.

C. Brooks reported three suggestions received during January. J. H. Hemphill for the competitive committee announced two awards, and the awarding of the star to the general division for the month.

The report of the inspection committee was given by C. T. Nicholson. Routine work of the publicity committee was described by R. E. Neal, and activities of the health and investigation committee were related by A. L. Drew.

The chairman presented the monthly statement of the benevolent relief fund.

$545,000 To Field 9 Best Players

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—It would cost $545,000 to field baseball's "gold dust" team, composed of the nine highest-priced stars on the diamond today.

An outfield of Ted Williams, Joe Dimaggio and Ralph Kiner alone would draw more than some entire major league teams will receive this year. The estimated figure—$290,000—is unparalleled for any three men in the sport.

The line-up for these diamond nuggets, with approximate salaries, would be:

1b, Tommy Henrich, Yankees, $45,000; 2b, Jackie Robinson, Dodgers, $35,000; 3b, George Kell, Tigers, $35,000; ss, Lou Boudreau, Indians, $65,000; of, Ted Williams, Red Sox, $125,000; of, Joe DiMaggio, Yankees, $100,000; of, Ralph Kiner, Pirates, $65,000; c, Birdie Tebbetts, Red Sox, $25,000; p, Hal Newhouser, Tigers, $50,000; totals, $545,000.

Williams, who signed Tuesday, is the highest salaried player in history.

DiMaggio's $100,000 salary is the second such pact the great outfielder has signed in two years.

Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals' one-man gang, would be a logical replacement in the outfield. Stan's salary is $50,000.

Bob Feller ($45,000), Cleveland's once mighty righthander, could supplement Lefty Newhouser on the mound.

What's Going On At C.G.E.

A tussle is going on between two rival union groups for the membership of some 3000 C.G.E. shop employees – and the Company finds itself in the unhappy position of being in the middle. Because there has been so much misrepresentation – it seems wise to make the facts of the situation known.

1.–The Company has repeatedly invited the "new officers" of Local 524 U.E. to establish their credentials in accordance with their own local union constitution – but so far they have failed to do so. The C.I.O.-Congress of Industrial Organizations–expelled the "U.E." from the Congress in October 1949. Subsequently the C.C.L.–Canadian Congress of Labour–took similar action. On November 3, 1949 a general membership meeting of Local 524 U.E. voted to take action so that they could continue to be affiliated with the C.I.O. and the C.C.L. The national office of the U.E. took strong exception to this action and to the officers of the local for being party to it. On November 4 the Company received two letters–one from a number of the regularly elected officers of the local union including the president–and one from the national president of the U.E. and the vice president of the local union. Each letter listed a different group of employees who were to be the only "properly authorized representatives" of our employees. In the face of this difficulty–the Company stated it would not deal with either group as the executive of the local until it was made clear which of the two was the properly authorized one. The new group who claim that they have displaced the regularly elected executive has repeatedly requested the Company to recognize it, but when asked to show that they were properly authorized in accordance with their own constitution they failed to do so. On the request of this group–the Company listed for it the points that seemed essential for this purpose. To date the group has not furnished satisfactory evidence on these points.

2.–The Company filed with the Supreme Court of Ontario notice of it's intention to ask the court to decide to whom it should pay employees' monthly union dues. The present agreement provides for the Company to collect regular union monthly dues and pay them to the financial secretary of the local. But here were two men–one on each committee –each claiming to be the financial secretary. In order to have this question properly settled therefore, after the two groups failed to reach agreement, the Company filed with the Supreme Court of Ontario notice of its intention to ask the Court to whom to send the dues, now amounting to over $12,000 for three months. The Court set a date for hearings, but, with the consent of all parties, these proceedings have been indefinitely postponed.

3.–The I.U.E. union makes application to the Labour Relations Board to become the bargaining agency. Following the events of the general membership meeting of Local 524 U.E. on November 3, 1949 – a new union called the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers–I.U.E.-C.I.O. applied to the Ontario Labour Relations Board to be certified as the collective bargaining agency for the same employees–and filed with the Board evidence which they believed showed that a majority of the employees wanted I.U.E. to bargain for them. The Board has not yet decided which union a majority of the employees now wish to represent them.

4.–Negotiations not to be resumed until the Labour Relations Board de-cides which union represents our shop employees. A Board of Conciliation made recommendations to form the basis of a new agreement for several C.G.E. plants including Peterborough. These negotiations deal with wages and conditions of employment for the next twelve months. Since there is a question that the majority of employees of the Peterborough Works may now wish a different union to bargain for them–the Company feels it is inadvisable to resume negotiations here until this matter is clarified. Negotiations – however – are continuing in those plants where the U.E. is the undisputed bargaining agent. In these plants the Company has offered to grant all the liberalizations the majority report of the Board of Conciliation recommended. To negotiate with either group for the time being at Peterborough–would be to prejudice the question of which union our employees wish to represent them. For this reason we believe the fairest thing is not to resume negotiations for a new agreement until we are informed by the Ontario Labour Relations Board which union will be the bargaining agent for the next twelve months.

5.–Demonstrations will not settle any of these questions. Some 400 to 500 employees out of a total of over 3000 shop employees covered by the bargaining unit "demonstrated" on Thursday last and again on Monday –contrary to the present agreement. This whole situation is not of the Company's making and demonstrations against the Company will not solve the problems involved. On the other hand these attempts to distract other employees while at their work seriously endanger the safety of all employees affected. As a result of this it has been necessary for the company to inform all employees that any employee who engages in any form of work stoppage or other form of interference with work will be suspended for a minimum of the balance of the day and for all of next shift. It is our hope that with the advance notice which has been given it will not be necessary to take any such disciplinary action.

These are difficult days for our employees and are not easy for the Company. We recognize – however –that the right of a group of employees to choose their own trade union and – if they see fit – to change their affiliation is part of the privileges of a free trade union movement. The Company will do business with whichever union is declared to represent the majority of our shop employees. Thus the Company cannot be partisan to either group – in what is essentially an employee affair. Until the matter is settled one way or the other – the Company may be unjustly accused of many things and if from time to time we feel the facts are being misrepresented – we may again feel it necessary to set the record straight. In the meantime we will continue to do our best to be fair to all employees affected.

Ask 5 Billion To Beat Communists Before ERR Ends

PARIS, Feb. 8. (AP)—Western Europe wants another $4,700,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 in Marshall aid from the United States during the next two years to hold the line against communism.

The funds were asked by European member areas surveyed at the half-way mark of the recovery program inspired 32 months ago by former US Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

The 325-page report will be scanned by the US Congress before hearings on the appropriations for 1950-51, due to start Feb. 21.

The report's figures on needs for that fiscal year is roughly $3,000,000,000, not including military aid. President Truman has asked for $3,100,000,000, but European lands fear this will be cut by an economy-minded Congress.

For 1949-50, the total of Marshall aid was $3,778,000,000 plus about $400,000,000 in special assistance for Western Germany.

Aids Immediate Threat

The $8,257,000,000 already poured in, the report said, has removed the immediate threat of "bankruptcy and dissolution, with the political threats which would follow."

Distribution of Marshall plan funds is in the hands of the organization for European Economic Co-operation.

The experts agreed that:

"On this reckoning—the reckoning of life or death for Western Europe—the first two years of the European recovery program have been unreservedly successful.

"The production effort is succeeding beyond expectations," with 1949 figures on everything from artichokes to zinc oxides up 25 per cent from 1947.

"Considerable progress has been made in . . . internal financial stability . . . the habit of working together has been formed in all the OEEC countries."

Still to be solved, however, is the problem of how Europe can get the dollars to buy the American goods it needs after Marshall aid ends in 1952.

Written by a committee under the chairmanship of British Economist Eric Roll, the report keeps diplomatically silent on the widespread European hope for aid after 1952.

"After the middle of 1952", it says, "Western Europe will in any case have to balance its dollar accounts."

But the experts wonder whether this will have to be done by cutting down European imports from the United States. The report points out that, although the dollar gap has been narrowed considerably since the war, it will be more than $2,000,000,000 in 1951-52—a broad gulf to bridge all at once.

The dollar gap is the difference between what Western Europe sells to the US and the much larger amount that it has been buying — and paying for with Marshall funds.

The United States has to work at making trade more of a two-way street, the report suggested. It touched on one of the constant complaints of Europeans who try to sell their goods in the United States—custom house red tape.

Industries Get Latest Methods In Free Service

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP) — A free service designed to give Canadian industries the benefits of the latest scientific knowledge is rapidly gaining popularity in all 10 provinces.

The National Research Council reported Tuesday that almost 400 inquiries a month are being received and answered by its technical information service.

The importance of the service is reported growing due to the current change from a sellers' to a buyers' market, challenging the resourcefulness of manufacturers.

Up-to-date scientific data on such varied questions as how to print designs on fabrics in the manufacture of table cloths and the time required in blast freezing of liquid eggs has been supplied by the service which has agents from coast to coast.

A release from the NRC says the service gives practical aid to innumerable small industries that can't afford a scientific staff.

Have Representatives

The service maintains two representatives each in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa, and one each in Vancouver, Calgary, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Quebec City, Fredericton and Halifax. The Halifax representative covers Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, while others cover the respective provinces.

The representatives are not consultants. They have wide general knowledge but are not specialists in all fields.

At headquarters in Ottawa, the service has a staff of 13 attending to the inquiries and requests for information and reports.

The headquarters staff has practical experience in a number of fields and has access to all technical libraries in Ottawa. In addition it can seek advice from experts in other government departments, including the forest products laboratory, bureau of mines, agriculture, trade and commerce, fisheries, labor and national health and welfare.

"Competition from large corporations, new businesses and present competitors will increase in pressure as shortages of material decrease," the NRC bulletin says.

If Money Not There Wives Won't Get It

LONDON, Feb. 2 — (CP). — British ex-wives are rushing to take out summonses for more maintenance money.

The Married Women (Maintenance) Act, 1949, which came into force January 1, raised the maintenance maximum from £2 ($6.20) to £5.

Magistrates are warning the would-be summoners that "to pay an order of £5 a week a husband would have to be earning about £750 a year.

As few husbands earn this amount, they say few wives will be able to collect the maximum from their estranged husbands.

THIS IS WHITE CANE WEEK

Fifth Nation-Wide Campaign For Courtesy Assistance To The Blind

It Is Up To YOU To Help The Blind !

THE WHITE CANE AS A SYMBOL

As the symbol of blindness, the White Cane signifies the desire of blind men and women for independence and social responsibility. On the street, with the White Cane to guide them, they can travel alone. They are free to come and go as they will. This freedom is conditional to some extent upon the courtesy of the sighted public. But it is freedom nonetheless. Which of us has not become confused in a strange district and asked a passerby to set us on the right road? We don't feel inferior in any way, and once we have got our bearing, we can go on our way. The same is true of the blind man.

The men and women who carry the White Cane are not beings set apart. They seek to enter every phase of ordinary life, finding their way with their White Canes, hoping that those who can see will regard them as the normal citizens that they are.

LISTEN FOR THE TAPPING CANE

- Listen for the Tapping Cane which is the blind man's polite request for assistance. Then "do as you would be done by" and lend a helping hand to the less fortunate.
- A little thought on your part will indicate the right course of action. Don't take things for granted. Always ask the blind man what assistance he needs. He is quite capable of telling you and will not be embarrassed by explaining exactly where he wants to go, what bus he wants to get on, etc.
- Go the whole way. If you are letting a blind man out of your car or have given him other assistance, be sure before leaving him that he knows exactly where he is and that he has his bearings so that he can start off on his own again with confidence and safety.
- If you are driving a car take a little extra time and give that sightless person with a white cane the right-of-way.

Courtesy and Assistance

The use of the White Cane is a practical method of assisting the blind to greater independence through the intelligent co-operation of the sighted public. If you wish to be courteous to those who are blind, assist them whenever possible. The following are a few suggestions:

DO allow a blind person to follow you when guiding him off or on a bus.

DO assist the blind person to locate entrances to homes, stores, etc..

DO remember that the steady tapping of a White Cane signifies that a blind person wishes your assistance.

DO ask a blind person where he wishes to go and be sure he has his bearings before you leave him.

DO remember never to push or forcibly steer a blind person.

DO remind the cyclist that his approach is silent and to allow the blind person to pass in front of him.

DON'T race your car motor while waiting for a traffic light when a blind person is crossing in front of you; as this may confuse him.

DON'T leave obstacles such as bicycles or children's toys on the sidewalk. They cannot be seen by a blind pedestrian and may cause serious accidents.

DON'T leave your car door open while parked. It may cause a serious accident to a pedestrian, and especially to the blind pedestrian.

DON'T back out of a driveway until you make sure the sidewalk is clear of pedestrians.

DON'T GRASP A BLIND PERSON BY THE ARM BUT ALWAYS ALLOW HIM TO TOUCH OR HOLD YOUR ARM FOR GUIDANCE.

Find 12 Mayors Agreeing On Housing Plan

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP) — With one exception mayors and reeves of the 13 municipalities concerned in the plan for amalgamation of the Greater Toronto area said Tuesday that they could work out a sharing of whatever costs might fall to the municipalities under the Dominion-Provincial housing plan.

The exception was Reeve G. H. Simpson, of East York township, who said his municipalities should not be required to share in costs incidental to home-building in other areas because East York had "gone through the throes of housing."

The meeting was that of the committee formed under Ontario Government auspices some weeks ago on which the mayors and reeves of Toronto and its suburbs are engaged in a study of financial arrangements in the proposed amalgamation.

The actual issue of amalgamation which has aroused a warm controversy was mentioned only by Mayor G. Tracy Manes, of Leaside, who said the citizens of his municipality are "aroused" and a plebiscite is planned.

Chairman A. E. K. Bunnell, Ontario Planning Department expert, told the committee that "mere opposition to the city's application will not be good enough" and that the city and its 12 satellites will be amalgamated "unless a workable alternative is found."

Independence Talks

PARIS, Feb. 8 — (AP) — France and the Saar Tuesday began talks designed to lead to eventual independence for the coal-producing valley. The Saar already has partial control of its internal affairs, but is linked economically to France by agreement of the Allied Powers.

Biggest Club In London Tops 20,000 Membership

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Feb. 8—(CP)—What is claimed to be the biggest club in London is housed in a block of stone-fronted buildings near Marble Arch. Known as the Victory (ex-services) Club its membership recently topped the 20,000 mark, with 79 Canadians and 33 from other commonwealth countries. Former servicewomen members number 3,000.

Only qualifications for membership are discharge papers from one of the Allied Armed Services —European and commonwealth There are no restrictions as to age or rank. Former officers and privates from the Boe. War and the World Wars mingle informally in the spacious clubrooms. In one case a former army captain is employed by the man who used to be his sergeant.

Oldest member of the club is 83-year-old James Malcolm with the late Major Arthur Haggard founded it as the Veterans' Club in 1907. Since then more than 1,000,000 former servicemen have been entertained.

A second Home

"The club is my second home," tall white-haired Malcolm said "I come here most days and enjoy talking with young veterans Unfortunately most of my generation has gone."

For only 10 shillings ($1.55) a year service veterans are offered all the comforts of a first-class west-end club—lounges, restaurants, games and billiards room, a ballroom, a bar, an ironing room and 200 bedrooms at prices ranging from five to eight shillings a night.

In addition there is a welfare employment and information bureau which, working in collaboration with other organizations is dealing with cases at the rate of nearly 1,500 a year.

"The charges we make do not nearly pay for the cost of the club," said the Marquess of Carisbrooke, chaiman of the Managemen Committee. "We receive generous donations from people in Britain and overseas But so far we have not made any direct appeal to commonwealth countries."

When the present premises were opened 16 months ago, Winston Churchill in a goodwill message described the club as "a memorial to fallen comrades . . . a tribute to those who returned . . . guardian of the common treasures and memories."

Weather Changes Said Improving

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 (CP)—Dr. George T. H. Kimble, chairman of the Department of Geography at McGill University, told the Montreal Rotary Club Tuesday that changes taking place in Canada's weather are, by and large, all to the good.

"The main thing about our weather is that it is getting warmer," said Dr. Kimble. "Here in Montreal our mean annual temperature has risen from 42 degrees Fahrenheit in the 1880's to 44 degrees in the 1940's, finishing up in 1949 with a mean temperature of more than 46 degrees . . . nor is this warming up confined to eastern North America. It has been characteristic of pretty well the entire North Atlantic region, including Greenland, Spitzbergen, Scadinavia and the British Isles."

Toys For Europe

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8 (AP) —A "tide of toys" started across the Atlantic Tuesday—a gift of goodwill and friendship from the American kids to Europe's toyless youngsters. The 900,000 toys loaded aboard the SS American Defender is headed for the Netherlands. There the 142 tons of playthings will be turned over to CARE, overseas relief agency, for distribution throughout Europe.

Professor Raps Student Union In Montreal

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 (CP)—Dr. Marcus Long, professor of philosophy at the University of Toronto, Tuesday denounced the International Union of Students as a Communist organization "whose political manoeuvring would have done justice to a political mobster of the Chicago slums."

Dr. Long is also chairman of the Canadian Committee of International Students Service.

Speaking before a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club here, he said that the National Federation of Canadian University Students has been "flirting with the I.U.S. for several years and that it now has a live issue on Canadian campuses."

He said that a number of university students had through idealism and a desire to convert them from Communism looked for affiliation with the I.U.S. He added that French - speaking students had been the "most ardent" of this group.

Award Cousin Five Millions

NEW YORK, Feb. 8—(AP)—A $5,000,000 fortune left by an aged recluse went Tuesday to her first cousin once removed—one of 174 claimants to the estate.

Hollis Powers Gale, the cousin, is head of a New York paper-carton company.

The estate was left 18 months ago by the late Mary Bullock Powers, who lived for years in a rich but quiet hotel room off bustling Times Square. She made no will.

It took several months of hearings for Surrogate William T. Collins to winnow the claims and make his award today.

Gale estimated his inheritance tax will be "at least" $2,000,000.

When Miss Powers died in July, 1948, at the age of 72, she had kept herself shut up inthe $30-a-day hotel suite for many years.

Attendants said she wore 1900 fashions, had no radio and didn't read newspapers.

Check Stamp Racket

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—A high United States postal official hes resigned and the government has launched an investigation into reports that "rare stamp investment" deals he engineered have cost "investors" hundreds of thousands of dollars, it was disclosed Tuesday night. The official was identified as Harold F. Ambrose, special assistant to Postmaster-General Jesse Donaldson.

Still Buying Eggs

WASHINGTON, FeFb. 8 (AP). —The United States government anonunced Tuesday it will continue to buy eggs although it already has around $100,000,000 worth and does not know what to do with them. The Agriculture Department said it will continue through March to support egg prices so that producers will be guaranteed an average of 25 cents a dozen on the farm.

Police Hold Mother On Wounding Charge

SARNIA, Feb. 8—(CP)—Mrs. Mamie Sparks, 60, was charged Tuesday with wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm in connection with what police say was a knife-and-hammer attack on her adopted daughter, Marie Louise Sparks, 8.

The woman and the girl were found unconscious, bleeding from numerous cuts and wounds, at Mrs. Sparks' home at nearby Bluewater last Friday. Since then, the child has regained consciousness but has not spoken.

The girl, still in critical condition, suffered a skull fracture and numerous slashes on her face and neck.

Expect 2 Icebreakers

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 — (CP).— Harbor officials reported that the two government icebreakers H. B. MacLean and Ernest Lapointe are expected to arrive in Sorel, Que., today. Sorel is about 50 miles from Montreal. Officials said they anticipated one of the earliest harbor openings in history here this spring.

Food Crisis Strikes

HONG KONG, Feb. 8 (AP). — The long-predicted food crisis in Communist China appears to have struck. The Communist news agency Tuesday in a dispatch from Shanghai said that "in East China north of the Yangtze alone there are more than 16,000,000 famine victims." Of this number, 2,790,000 are said to have exhausted all food stocks and face starvation.

Campaign Sidelights From Britain

LONDON (CP)—Political parties campaigning for Britain's Feb. 23 general election are paying special attention to the 1,500,000 young people who have become of voting age since 1945.

Labor's League of Youth is active in winning as many as possible for the government ranks. It has 700 branches, compared with 415 a year ago.

Because of Britain's strict election law, more than 60 children at Writhlington, Somersetshire, will miss their annual visit to the pantomime at nearby Bath.

Each year the local Labor party organizes the outing. But with the election coming up, legal advisers say it might be considered "treating" within the meaning of the Corrupt and Illegal Practices Act.

Newsreel companies which have allowed a little political bias to creep into their programs in the past are exercising a voluntary censorship "for the duration" of the election campaign.

Party favoritism in the events and people shown on the screen has been banned. Commentators have been told they must keep "political inflexion" out of their voices.

Major Cyril Tolley, 54, twice British amateur gold champion has been adopted as Liberal candidate in Hendon South. Before he declared himself a Liberal last year, golfer Tolley had been chairman for 26 years of the Conservative club's billiards committee.

Three men serving time in Belfast jail have been selected as general election candidates for Northern Ireland seats at Westminster.

Named by the Sinn Fein, which seeks to join Northern Ireland to the Irish Republic, they are Hugh McAteer, Londonderry, James Steele, Belfast West, and Liam Burke, Mid-Ulster. They are serving sentences for political offences.

Liberal candidate for New Forest is Howard Fry, 36-year-old test pilot who has flown 10,000 hours in 18 types of aircraft. He has represented pilots in many conferences and negotiations.

Scottish homerulers will use election meetings for collecting further signatures to the Scottish Covenant. Nearly 1,000,000 signatures so far have been collected for the home-rule petition.

Prime Minister Attlee is a paid up member of the Clerical Administrative Workers' Union. On the books he is classed as an "administrative worker." His affiliation dates back 3 years when he was a social worker in London's Limehouse district.

Change In "Hill-Crest" Chick Prices

TO OUR CUSTOMERS AND OTHERS:

Our earlier drastic reduction in Chick Prices to stimulate early ordering in a chick buying stalemate, has accomplished its purpose.

As increasing egg prices with reducing feed costs are bringing about a near normal condition in the chick-buyers' economy, we are therefore advising you that while all orders received prior to February 20th will be honored at the reduced prices as advertised, all orders booked on and after above date will revert to our last year's price levels (see circular).

Several of our customers who have already accepted our offer of a better market for their eggs are delighted with their increased returns. If you are interested, write or phone us.

Girl Dashes Onto Highway Killed By Truck

Curiosity over a passing freight train cost a six-year-old Trenton girl her life Tuesday afternoon. She ran across Highway 2, a mile and a half west of Trenton and was killed almost instantly by a passing transport.

The child was Margaret Mary Boulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Boulton of RR 4, Trenton, Murray township.

On her way home from school the little girl is believed to have suddenly darted across the highway, from the south side to the north to see a freight train go under the overhead bridge.

An iron railing may have partially obscured her view of the eastbound transport driven by Willard Judge, 23, of Brighton. Judge was unable to avoid her and she was killed almost instantly.

Dr. Duncan Campbell was called to the scene of the accident and pronounced her dead. Coroner Dr. F. M. Dure authorized the removal of the body.

It has not yet been decided whether an inquest will be held Provincial Constable Harry Cook of Brighton investigated.

Thief Takes $15 From Chambers Home

Fifteen dollars was stolen from the home of Richard Chambers, 295 Townsend St., Tuesday evening, by a thief who used a key to get in the front door.

Mr. and Mrs. Chambers left the house at seven p.m. and returned about nine p.m. They found a living room blind had been pulled down and $15 taken from a wallet kept in a desk.

Next door neighbors told Constable M. D. Traynor they heard someone moving about in the Chambers house at 7.15 p.m., but assumed it was Mr. Chambers.

Zone Ski Meet Called Off Unless Snowfall

All eyes, especially those of the Peterborough Ski Club members, are watching the grey clouds roll by hoping perhaps one of them will be loaded with snow for Peterborough.

This week-end could be the most important in the last 11 years for the local club is scheduled as hosts to 35 clubs from the Southern Ontario Ski Zone. The meet would be the first four-way zone championships meet to be held here since 1939.

But there is no snow. Officials agreed Tuesday morning to call meet off but hopefully said that if there is a good snowfall before the week-end telegrams will be sent to all clubs to rush to Peterborough. If the meet is not held this week-end, it is doubtful whether it will be at all. Other meets such as the Central Canadian Championships at Collingwood next week-end fill week-end dates well into March.

Recalling other meets held in this area, a ski club official said the largest was the zone meet in 1939, a four-way meet. Two years ago half the zone championship events were staged in this area, the jumping and cross-country, and the downhill and slalom events were at Collingwood.

Clubs within the boundaries are Huntsville on the north, Owen Sound on the West, Niagara Falls on the south and Kingston on the east will meet Saturday morning at Kempt's Hill for the cross-country events—if there is snow. In the afternoon the skiers will compete for the jumping championships at Nassau—if there is snow. Sunday will see the slalom and downhill events at Bethany—if there is snow.

Cruel Treatment Of Dogs, Cats

In his report to the Peterborough Humane Society at the monthly meeting Inspector Gerald Dunford told of several cases of inhuman treatment to pets, which he had recently investigated. These acts of cruelty varied in form. In several instances the animals had been given food well seasoned with strychnine, in another a dog had been scalded by boiling water, and in still another acid solution had been thrown on the dog. There were other cases where the services of a veterinary were required to extract air-gun pellets from both dogs and cats.

January records listed 61 dogs and 40 cats humanely destroyed four dogs and seven cats killed by city traffic.

Preliminary plans were discussed for the annual meeting which will be held in April.

The society reported the enrolment of many new members thus far in their current drive for members.

A request was made to the public to not forget to feed the birds that stay through the cold winter months. Foods suggested include: Porridge, scraps of pastry, cooked potatoes, pieces of suet and other fat, mixed seeds, bread and biscuit crumbs, little bits of meat. Fresh water should be provided, a few drops of glycerine will keep it from freezing.

Attempted Robbery

GUELPH, Feb. 8 (CP)—Laverne French, 16, was today sentenced to serve from six to 18 months in the Ontario Reformatory on charges of attempted robbery of a woman cashier in a Guelph restaurant and theft of a wrist watch from his step-father French bolted from the restaurant empty-handed when some patrons entered.

Toronto Plants Of CGE Vote Strike Action

Workers in five Canadian General Electric Company plants in Toronto have voted in favor of strike action following collapse of contract negotiations, the United Electrical Workers Union announced today.

The vote was taken among employees at the company's Davenport Works, Royce Works, Ward Street Works, Carboloy Works and Premier Vacuum Cleaner.

C. S. Jackson, Canadian director of the U.E., said the vote puts full power of strike action in the hands of the negotiating committee.

Declines Comment

He declined comment on whether a strike call will be issued but added: "The workers are demanding action."

K. J. Corkery, company vice-president, said the vote was taken only among hourly-rated employees. On the basis of figures issued by the union less than 62 per cent favored strike action, he said. The UE announcement did not indicate individual plant totals in the vote.

Mr. Corkery said the company has offered to carry out all the recommendations of a conciliation board. These included a reduction in the work-week from 44 to 42 hours and an increase of 4.77 per cent in wage rates to maintain take-home pay.

Negotiations between the U.E. —suspended last fall by the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the Canadian Congress of Labor—and the company have been in progress since May 4, 1949.

The U.E. announcement said the company offered a "watered down" version of a conciliation-board majority report as a basis of settlement, "providing the union would forget its 1949 rights."

The union claimed this would have meant collapsing two years' negotiations into one and accepting for the two-year period recommendations made for the period June 30, 1949 to June 30, 1950.

Union demands include a 40-hour week with an increase in take-home pay; full protection on seniority rights; protection against speed-up and wage-cutting and an improved health and welfare plan.

The vote announcement said 1,458 workers cast ballots in favor of strike action; 434 were opposed.

Order Post-Mortem Into Woman's Death

A post-mortem has been ordered into the death of Mrs. Harold Birks who was found dead by her husband in their hotel room at eight o'clock this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Birks have been registered at the hotel about a week. Dr. Herbert Young, coroner was called and pronounced her dead.

THOUGHTLESS THINKER here was marketing, then remembered he forgot something across the street. Now he crosses in mid-block darting out between two parked cars, ready to be picked off by a third. One of Peterborough's most dangerous jay-walking practises.

Court Sentences Inadequate Temperance Leader Claims

HAMILTON, Feb. 8—(CP)—The Rev. M. J. Aiken, president of the Ontario Temperance Federation, today criticized the "inadequate" court sentences imposed where drunkenness was advanced as the sole extenuating circumstance. "If the administration of justice is influenced by such a plea," he told the 59th annual convention of the Federation meeting in Westdale United Church, "then the administration of our justice would seem to stand upon a very shaky foundation."

"The authorities should not forget that in a case of death the victim is just as dead as though slain by a sober hand," said Mr. Aiken, minister of St. Andrew's United Church in Peterborough.

Drinking and drunkenness among juveniles was rampant as never before, he said, adding that such an extent had this problem grown that some municipal authorities were pleading for help to seek to preserve "decency in their municipalities." Drinking among women was also alarmingly on the increase. Mr. Aiken charged that crimes against the person, murders, assaults and indecent assaults had reached the proportions of a national scandal and most of these were undoubtedly attributable to alcohol.

Words of Commendation

"For the first time in many years a word of commendation is due to the provincial authorities," said Mr. Aiken.

"Premier Frost and his government seem to be making an honest effort to minimize the ravages of the drink traffic....but it will require heroic efforts to remedy the situation."

Rev. Albert Johnson of Toronto, general secretary, in his report said the need of an educational program in the churches was "painfully clear." Very few congregations had an organized progressive education program and very few ministers gave time to educational sermons on the subject.

The Liquor Control Board was criticized by Mr. Johnson, although he acknowledged "improved relations" between it and the federation.

He said "the board has allowed itself to become the instrument of routine rather than the director of policy."

In six years of operation the board had never offered a statement of over-all policy in regard to the issue of licences.

Youth Damages New Model Car

Driving a car without lights he said he had out on trial, Lorne Bolton, 17, of 206 Edinburgh St., met in collision with a parked car on Sherbrooke St., a short distance from Rubidge Tuesday evening.

Constable John Conlin reported he found the car Bolton said he was driving smashed into a 1950 model car owned by Frank Scott, 406 Mark St., parked at the north curb.

The force of the impact had bounced the Scott car three feet over the curb.

Bolton told Constable Conlin he was driving south on Rubidge St. about 20 miles an hour. He said he stopped at the Sherbrooke St. stop sign and then started to make a left turn into Sherbrooke St.

In making the turn he swung near the south curb of Sherbrooke St., then back across the street to hit the Scott car.

Constable Conlin reported the Bolton car lights were out of order and the brakes were poor. Constable Douglas Stark who assisted in the investigation reported he had seen the car a short time earlier driving with no lights.

The grill, fender, door, hood and parking light on the left side of the Scott car were all damaged. Only the grill of the Bolton car suffered damage.

Hospital Site Still Awaits Ontario Action

The new mental hospital which was announced this week as planned for Cobourg, will not be the long awaited central Ontario mental health centre which the city council, backed by local health organizations, is hoping will be located in Peterborough. This assurance was given today City Clerk E. A. Outram by the Hon. Harold Scott.

Peterborough has been considered an excellent location for a mental hospital to serve some six or eight counties in this part of Ontario and a 50 acre site has been offered by the city to the province, as a further inducement to build the hospital in this city

600 Room Building

The province has not yet announced where the huge five or six hundred room hospital is to be built and no statement is expected immediately, owing to the illness of the Minister of Health, the Hon. Russell T. Kelley.

Public announcement of Hon. W. A. Goodfellow's statement about the proposed Cobourg hospital aroused interest among a number of authorities because it was not made clear whether this was the long awaited decision concerning the central Ontario hospital.

Mr. Scott told Mr. Outram today that the decision to build a mental hospital at Cobourg had been reached some time ago, but Mr. Goodfellow's remarks were the first public announcement of the plan.

Project For Future

Mr. Goodfellow told the Examiner Tuesday that although the decision to build a hospital at Cobourg had already been made, it was a project for the future—perhaps the distant future.

In the meantime, 100 patients will be moved from Brockville to the recently acquired Rowe estate in Cobourg, situated immediately north of the Ontario Training School for Girls. Mr. Goodfellow said the removal would take place as soon as possible, probably in the spring.

He also said that the government intends to move the training school to another centre and to use the two buildings at present occupied by the school, for administration of the proposed new hospital.

The Minister of Health is fully acquainted with Peterborough's claim to being the best location for the central Ontario hospital. On a visit to the city recently, he visited the Hilliard farm site of some 50 acres with Mayor Max Swanston and other civic officials. The site was offered and acceptance or rejection is still awaited.

55 School Pupils Expelled Because of Tax Dispute

BLIND RIVER, Feb. 8 (CP) — Because of a tax dispute, 55 pupils of St. Joseph's Separate School have been expelled since Feb. 1.

Dr. John Pigeon, chairman of the separate school board said on Tuesday they will be denied school facilities until the provincial government meets what he called an obligation to pay for the pupils' education.

The children's parents do not support the separate school. The Blind River Public School will not take them because their parents do not pay taxes there, he said.

"The province backed separate school debentures several years ago on the condition that we educate district children free of charge until they were paid," said Dr. Pigeon. "They now are paid."

Dr. J. E. Althouse, chief director of provincial education, said in Toronto the debentures were guaranteed by the government when Blind River, having defaulted on its debentures, was under supervision of the Department of Municipal Affairs.

Investment Flop Blamed For Shooting

MORRISBURG, Ont., Feb. 8—(CP)—A coroner's jury was told Tuesday how 60-year-old Arthur Cramer, apparently worried about a business investment, wrote a note to his wife saying she might never see him alive again unless "things turn out all right."

Then he waited with a gun outside the office of lawyer Arthur Flynn, Sr., when Flynn refused to sign more documents, his 18-year-old son, Arthur, Jr., was shot in the chest in a struggle for the gun.

Cramer then turned the gun on himself, the youth told the jury.

The jury returned a verdict of suicide Tuesday night. The shooting took place last November and has been investigated since then by inspector W. J. Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The widow of the dead man, Mrs. Hilda Cramer, said she and her husband had borrowed $4,900 to invest in Morrisburg Industries Ltd., of which Flynn was secretary-treasurer. She said there had been no return on the investment and for the last two months of his life her husband had been drawing unemployment insurance.

Mrs. Cramer's counsel, John S. Latchford of Cornwall, produced the note.

Declares Ignorance

The elder Flynn said he found Cramer and his son waiting outside his office in a taxi and "Cramer handed me a packet of documents. I looked them over and after reading the topmost one I threw the packet back to Cramer. The document claimed that I owed Cramer $2,500. I did not know what it was all about."

The package of papers has not yet been found by police.

Arthur Flynn, Jr., said Cramer had called for him at school in a cab and taken him to his father's office. After his father threw the papers back at Cramer, he grappled with the older man for the gun.

"I heard a shot and felt a pain" he said. "I knew I had been shot I sank back into the seat and then I saw Cramer put the gun to the right side of his head. I heard another shot and that is all I can recall."

Mrs. Pitre Denies Trying Suicide

QUEBEC, Feb, 8 — (CP). — Accusation of attempted suicide was denied in court Tuesday by 42-year-old Mrs. Arthur Pitre, important witness in a forthcoming murder trial arising from an airliner disaster that killed 23 last September.

The stout, dark woman who has admitted carrying a parcel to the Quebec Airways plane shortly before it was wrecked on September 9, flatly denied that she took "little white pills" with the intention of killing herself.

Penalty for a conviction of attempted suicide is two years in penitentiary.

Mrs. Pitre told Judge Alphonse Garon that J. Albert Guay, whose wife was among the 23 victims of the crash, had urged her 10 days after the disaster to turn on the gas and leave a note saying she had arranged an explosion aboard the plane.

She testified that she took one pill and part of another after entering the hospital for treatment for abdominal pains, but had thrown the rest down a hospital toilet.

Drop 'Progressive'

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 8 (CP)—The London Progressive-Conservative Association decided at its annual meeting Tuesday night to recommend at the next general meeting of the federal association that the word "progressive" be dropped from the party's name and that it revert to its historic title of "Conservative."

No Mardi Gras For 2 Canadians

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 8 (AP) — Two Canadian visitors, who said they came down for Mobile's approaching Mardi Gras celebration landed in jail Tuesday. Immigration authorities said they failed to get the necessary clearance for their trip across the border.

The visitors, Ralph Bakos, 21, and David Crosgrove, 19, both of Hamilton, Ont., said they saw a newsreel several months ago of Mardi Gras activity.

"We came down to see if people really act the way they did in the movie," they said. "The movie showed everyone yelling, throwing things, blowing horns and having a big time."

Mardi Gras parades start next Monday night, but immigration officials figure Bakos and Crosgrove won't be around to see them. A deportation hearing was scheduled Tuesday afternoon.

Lock Out Workers

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 (CP). — The Millinery Workers' Union (AFL) Tuesday night charged two Montreal hat manufacturers with locking out workers and threatened to strike next Thursday if an arbitrator was not appointed to study the charges. The union, representing 1,200 millinery workers in Montreal, said the two manufacturers involved were the Nadele Hat Inc., and the Lasalle Hat Inc., where about 100 workers were employed.

Scotland Yard Stops Sale Of Toy Police Card Sets

LONDON, Feb. 8 — (CP). — Sale of identification cards in toy police sets intended for small boys playing at detectives has been stopped by Scotland Yard.

Criminals, some of them posing as detectives, had been using the cards to gain admission to houses. At first the Yard men thought a forger was printing the cards for crooks.

Then came a clue. In a large toy store on Oxford Street, a policeman noticed a game for children called "The Detective."

Inside were a false beard, a pair of spectacles, wire handcuffs, a fingerprinting set, a whistle, a tin police badge and a small yellow card—the same size as a Scotland Yard identity card.

On it were the words: "This is to certify that the said ..... is a detective and upon displaying this identification certificate and badge must be given every assistance in the execution of his duty."

"A number of people fell for this show of authority," a Scotland Yard official said, "so we have instructed toyshop keepers to remove these cards from the toy sets."

British Households May Get German Help

LONDON (CP)—A plan for employment of German women as domestics in British households has been announced by the ministry of labor.

Under the scheme, a German placement office will send to prospective employers details of a suitable worker, along with the names and addresses of two persons given by the woman as references.

Later, the woman in Germany may write directly to the employer.

Employers must make their own arrangements for bringing the women to Britain.

The plan applies to single women and childless widows between 18 and 45, to be engaged as full-time domestics on a living-in basis in private households. All women will be medically examined before leaving Germany.

River Project Work Suspended Until Later Date

OTTAWA, Feb. 8—(CP)—The South Nation River Conservation Authority voted Tuesday to suspend all work on the $2,000,000 project until another meeting is held to discuss de elopments.

"Twenty - eight municipalities are members of the authority, set up in 1947 to carry out a conservation and control project on the river which runs in a southwest direction across Eastern Ontario.

The annual meeting of the authority voted to suspend work on the project after Basil Dawley, representative of Winchester township, said three townships were contributing more money to the project than other municipalities.

R. K. Kilborn, president of the Kilborn Engineering Company of Toronto, which has been in charge of the plans, told the delegates that tenders already had been called for two dams along the river.

No date was set for another meeting. Mahlon Zeron, of Iroquois, Ont., was re-elected chairman of the authority and J. P. Meilleur, of Casselman, was named vice-chairman.

Charge Rail Engineer In Alberta Crash

CALGARY, Feb. 8 (CP)—John Fletcher Townshend of Calgary, engineer of a train which crashed into another at Southesk, Alta., Dec. 29, killing three persons and injuring 68 others, was charged with wilfully endangering the safety of persons on a railway.

Townshend appeared in city police court and was remanded for eight days on bail of $1,000.

Townshend was the engineer of No. 8, Canadian Pacific Railway eastbound train, which sideswiped a westbound CPR passenger train at Southesk siding, 95 miles east of Calgary.

At an inquest Jan. 13 the jury blamed Townshend and his fireman, John T. Sparrow, of Calgary, for negligence in the accident. No action has been taken against the fireman.

Says Nurse Shortage Worse In Canada

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP, — Dr. Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa social worker, said Tuesday night the shortage of nurses in Canada is getting worse and threatens to become a crisis. A private-duty nurse working seven days a week, she told the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Nurses' Association, would earn what the city of Ottawa pays its mayor "for dropping in on the Hydro meetings in his spare time."

Dr. Whitton said parliament should vote money for nurses' training.

Hilarious Party Honors Best Writers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 8.—(AP).—The Screen Writers' Guild opened the awards-giving season with a fancy affair to honor the best writing jobs of 1949. They were: Best western, "Yellow Sky"; best comedy, "A Letter to Three Wives"; best musical, "On the Town"; best drama and best treatment of the American scene, "All the King's Men."

The double victory for "King's Men" hints that it will probably be the film to sweep the academy awards this year.

The program was a riot. The writers chortled at a satire on Hollywood life.

Lucille Ball played a funny scene of an actress humming it up as she receives the academy award. "I want to congratulate the two other actresses who were up for the award," she said. "Sorry I don't have time to mention their names."

Capsule Review

"Young Man With a Horn" (WB) is designed to be a tragic study of a great jazz trumpeter. It is entertaining and often moving, but the great picture about jazz is still to be made. Assets. Good work by Kirk Douglas, singing by Doris Day, fine characterizations by Hoagy Carmichael and Laureen Bacall (in a difficult role), Harry James' trumpet work. Drawbacks: A milk-stop ending, lack of insight into most of the characters.

Latin America Laying Claim To Body Of Christopher Columbus

By HENRY BUCKLEY

MADRID (Reuters).—A newspaper report from the Caribbean's Dominican Republic has touched off a new controversy between Spanish and Latin American newspapers over the whereabouts of the remains of Christopher Columbus.

For today, more than 400 years after his death, the remains of the discovery of America are as much a subject of controversy as those of the 20th-century dictator, Benito Mussolini.

The newspaper report which has revived the present controversy, came from Ciudad Trujillo, and after stating that a huge monument to Columbus is to be unveiled there this year, added: "At the base of this monument will be buried the remains of the great discoverer."

The report referred to the remains found at Santo Domingo, (the island on which the Dominican Republic and Haiti are situated) in 1877 and since held there. The authenticity of these remains has never been admitted by such authoritative bodies as the Spanish Academy of History which has made two separate investigations into the question.

Most Spanish, and some Latin American, historians continue to consider the remains in the tomb of Christopher Columbus in Seville Cathedral to be the only genuine mortal remains of the man who opened the doors of America for Spain.

Historians Differ.

Other historians, however, both at Santo Domingo and elsewhere, argue the case in favor of the authenticity of the remains discovered in the cathedral at Ciudad Trujillo in 1877. These authorities deny the argument of their opponents — namely that the remains found in 1877 were those of another Christopher Columbus, the grandson of the explorer.

Those who consider the remains found at Santo Domingo were those of the discoverer's grandson declare that among these remains were traces of naval uniform. They argue that the discoverer was buried not in his uniform but in the habit of the Franciscan order.

Christopher Columbus died in Spain in 1506 and was buried at Valladolid. His body was removed later to Seville and, about 1540, to the cathedral at Santo Domingo. But the peace signed between France and Spain in 1795 gave part of the island of Santo Domingo to France (now Haiti), and the Spaniards decided to remove the remains of Columbus to Cuba. This was done in 1796.

To Seville

They were again transferred from Cuba to Seville in 1898, when Spain lost Cuba after her war with the United States.

In this connection, Spanish newspapers cite at length historical documents made at the time which are preserved in the Archives of Indies, at Seville.

Spanish historians cite these documents to show that the transfer was the subject of much discussion between civil, religious and naval authorities and that the transfer was carried out with great care and solemnity and in the presence of a notary.

Part of the remains found in Santo Domingo and which are the subject of such hot discussion, were presented to the Italian city of Genoa where Columbus was born but where, as Spanish writers are quick to emphasize, he failed to find the opportunity, which Spain was to give him, to achieve fame. So, as the Madrid newspaper "Arriba" declares, "there are three alleged tombs of Christopher Columbus."

Council Cuts Health Grant Discontinue County Unit

PICTON, Feb. 8. — A wav of protest is sweeping across Prince Edward County following County Council's announcement that its grant to the county health unit will soon be discontinued.

In January session, councillors voted 9-4 to stop the health unit grant on April 1, as an economy measure. Council's share for this health service is $11,000—one mill on the tax rate, with the province paying a similar amount.

As a result of Council's action, the Prince Edward County health unit has suddenly become one of the chief topics of conversation throughout this island county of $17,000 people. Various organizations have altered their programs in order to obtain the opinions of the membership regarding the unit.

A petition asking Council to continue the grant is being widely circulated by Picton Home and School Association, and the executive of the county Women's Institute will send a delegation from each branch in the county to the March session of Council to express opposition to any move to discontinue the health unit.

From present indications, Council's March meeting will be one of unusual interest. Dozens of women representing county organizations will fill the Council chambers when they appeal to councillors to reverse their stand.

Although there have been several individual criticisms concerning the health unit voiced in the local press, to date not one organization has officially expressed disapproval of the unit.

Among the groups which have gone on record as in favor of the health program are Bloomfield West, Cherry Valley and Shannon farm forums, Bloomfield Public School Board and the residents of SS 11, Hallowell.

Thomas Walker, deputy reeve of Ameliasburg Township and a member of the county health board, says it will be the policy of the board to stay out of the present controversy concerning the value of the health unit to the people of Prince Edward County.

"We will remain neutral," he said, "and let the people settle this matter themselves." One of four councillors voting against cutting off the county grant, Mr. Walker said he personally felt the unit can be of great service to this county.

The county health unit has been in operation here four years. Dr. John P. Wells is medical officer of health and director of the unit. The staff consists of Kenneth Spencer, sanitary inspector, and Public Health Nurses Isobel Petrie, Helen Jordan and Jean Moynan.

Details of the unit's activities during the year 1949 have been listed by Dr. Wells. Last year the unit's sanitary inspector paid 219 inspection visits to restaurants and lunch counters. Also inspected on various occasions were: Canning factories, frosted food lockers, retail food stores, beverage rooms, dairies, milk products plants, dairy farms, raw milk retailers, slaughter houses, tourist hotels and homes, ice cutting areas, bathing beaches and swimming pools.

The inspector last year made 284 tests of public and private water supplies. Found unfit were seven bathing beaches, two houses, eight refuse disposals, two water supplies, and seven communicable diseases were discovered.

Last year, 1,990 immunizations were given children against diphtheria, whooping cought, lockjaw and smallpox at 121 child health clinics. To the unit tuberculosis register were added 18 new names, most of these as a result of 2,694 X-ray and 897 patch tests taken.

Clinical visits to schools totalled 105. Medical examinations were given to 743 children with public health nurses assisting. School activities of the public health nurses included inspection of class rooms, special physical inspections, vision and hearing tests, interviews with collegiate pupils, conferences with teachers, first aid treatments.

Nurses last year made 4,921 visits to private homes and hospital in connection with various diseases and social welfare.

Doctor Praises Labrador Life

MONTREAL (CP)—Labrador to some may mean gloomy cold winter days, but to Dr. W. A. Paddon, it's home, sweet home.

Born in Labrador, the son of a doctor who settled there in 1912, the trim, dark physician covers by dog-sled a call-route of 1,000 miles, probably one of the longest and most arduous followed by any doctor.

In Montreal to see about one of his patients, Dr. Paddon said few people realized the possibilities of Labrador.

"Labrador has truly beautiful summers, only six weeks of really cold weather, and ground that will grow anything," he said.

A former student in New York and a veteran of the Second World War with the Royal Canadian Navy, Dr. Paddon returned to live with his mother in a home "not luxurious, but as comfortable as in any community in Canada."

Life in Labrador is not different than in any other Canadian region. "We have electric lights and running water," he said.

An amateur gardener, Dr. Paddon grows all the vegetables on his patch of ground and still has plenty to give away.

He is one of four brothers who all think a great deal of life in Labrador. Two of them already are there, jointly running a sawmill, while the third is planning to give up a good job in New York in order to go home again.

Dr. Paddon admitted, however, that the region was experiencing freak winter weather. "I can't recall anything like it," he said, "it has been about 35 degrees below zero for several weeks and we have plenty of snow."

Great Reservoir Of Wealth Within Canada

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Add business prospects, this one from Earle C. Brockett, vice-president and general manager, Canadian Johns-Manville Co., Ltd:

"Probabilities are that 1950 will be a good business year with the peak levels of 1949 approached but not maintained.

"Internally Canada's economic status is at least as healthy as that of any other country on earth. Historically, however, one-third of our economy is wrapped up in foreign trade. And to say the least the latter is in a state of chaos."

Great Reservoir

But Mr. Brockett stated, his company, which has huge asbestos developments at Asbestos, Que., and now is embarked on others in Northern Ontario, has invested an additional $18,000,000 in Canada since the end of the war. For:

"Canada still stands as the greatest reservoir of undeveloped wealth in the world, with a population far less than she can sensibly support.

Mr. Brockett spoke to this week's three-day meeting of company salesmen at Toronto.

Paint Triples

Meantime, Canada is painting up, as revealed at another Toronto convention. M. J. Palmer, editor of Canadian Paint and Varnish magazine, told the Ontario Retail Hardware Association that Canadian paint sales will likely maintain last year's pace, which was more than three times that of 10 years earlier — $79,000,000 against $25,000,000.

Says "Trade Topics," issued by the United Kingdom Information Office, Ottawa:

"The collar-attached shirt has had, until now, one big disadvantage—the collar invariably wears out before the rest of the garment. A novel idea by a Yorkshire firm obviates this problem by providing a spare collar which can be simply attached."

Ontario Title Play Starts Saturday

Ontario senior volleyball championship play begins on Saturday in the YMCA gym. Squads from Toronto Central YMCA and Toronto YMHA will play the first round-robin series with the local YMCA team. A return series will be held in Toronto. Teams from Kitchener, Toronto and Hamilton will be playing a similar series in the western Ontario area. The winners will meet for the championship honors.

Two regular Saturday afternoon YMCA house league games will be preliminaries for the Ontario series. Ken Kingston's squad will meet Ab Dryland's team at two o'clock, while Stan Payne plays Howard David at 2.45 p.m. Ontario play begins at 3 30 p.m.

The other two regular Saturday games will be played Wednesday night at 7.15 and 8 p.m.

In the Ontario championship series for the past 16 years Kitchener has been victorious 14 times and Peterborough twice.

70 Families Living In Cellars, Garages

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP) — A report by the medical officer of suburban Etobicoke township today showed that 70 families are living in cellars, garages, and condemned houses, because of the acute housing shortage.

Dr. W. K. Fenton in his annual report said people are living in 29 cellars, 16 garages, 14 condemned houses, one chicken coop and an unfinished house.

"All are contrary to existing bylaws and are more or less fire traps," the report said.

Winnipeg Skater Hungarian Star

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2 — (CP).— You need not be a champion figure skater to do a convincing prat-fall on ice—but it helps. So says Denes Patasky, professional at the Winnipeg Ice Club.

Patasky, who does a comedy routine with Winnipeg's Harold Snell in the ice club's annual carnival, was skating champion of his native Hungary for five consecutive years. He was once runner-up for the world figure-skating title.

Starting at the age of four in Budapest, the Hungarian skater studied figure skating for more than 16 years under European professionals.

He came to Winnipeg from overseas a few months ago.

Patasky says he prefers comedy skating because "it helps to make people laugh."

His partner, Snell, is a former hockey player who has gained a reputation in many countries as a skating comedian during the last four years. He plays the fe- made part in their routines

Parliamentary Tradition In UK Ends At Election

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Feb. 8—(CP)—A parliamentary tradition started by the Stuart Kings ends with Britain's Feb. 23 general election.

For the first time in 347 years, there will be no university members among successful candidates when the House of Commons reassembles in March.

University members were chosen by a mailed vote among graduates of universities concerned. Since this gave graduates two votes, one in the Universities and one in their own constituencies, it was decided two years ago that university representation should be abolished.

Under representation of The People's Act, Britain's electoral system now is based on the principle of "one man, one vote."

There were 12 members, representing seven universities, in the parliament which was dissolved last Friday. Only four are standing again in other constituencies.

Temporary Exiles

Among prominent personalities thus exiled from Westminster, temporarily at least, are Sir Alan Herbert, poet, wit and playwright, and Sir John Anderson, former Chancellor of the Exchequer and Home Secretary.

Two newspapers mourned the passing of university representation.

"Whatever may be said for or against abstract justice of one man, one vote," said the Liberal Manchester Guardian, "there is no denying that the sacrifice of university representation means a sad loss of the personal side."

The Independent Times said the disappearance of university seats marks an end of a distinctive parliamentary tradition "which has sent to the Commons many prominent figures."

University representation started in 1603 when King James I gave Oxford and Cambridge the right to send two representatives each to the Commons. Later, other universities followed suit. The Conservatives are pledged to restore university seats if elected Feb. 23

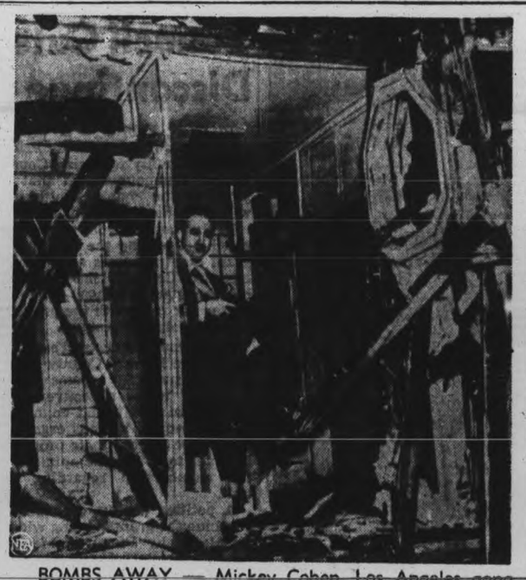
Among those who will not return is Wilson Harris, editor of the independent weekly, The Spectator, whose formidable supplementary questions and deadpan humor made him a conspicuous figure in the 1945-50 parliament.

TTC Offering New Proposal

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP) — A new proposal aimed at settling the wage and contract dispute between the Toronto Transportation Commission and the Street Railway Union (AFL) will be submitted to the union membership next Sunday.

Streetcar and bus employees of the civic-owned system previously rejected an offer of five cent an hour increase. Their original demand is for an increase of 11 cents. Present rate is $1.19 an hour.

The new proposal from the TTC was reported to make no change in wage rates over the last offer, but to include concessions on other points. About 4,500 employees are affected.



BOMBS AWAY — Mickey Cohen, Los Angeles gang leader, looks a trifle downcast as he stands amid the wreckage of his exclusive home which was blasted by an explosion. The dapper mobster, warned by an alarm system, escaped with a scratched hand, but the damage in this latest attempt on his life was estimated at $50,000.

Collingwood Man Elected ORHA Head

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP) — Walter Chambers Gorsline of Collingwood was elected president of the Ontario Retail Hardware Association at the 45th annual convention today. He succeeds J. W. McMaster of Welland.

Other officers: Vice-president, Lorne Fowler, Sudbury; treasurer, Arthur H. Lake, Toronto; directors, George Silcox, Ridgetown; Gordon Cawker, Toronto; Roy Gilmour, Carleton Place; M. A. Johnson, Grimsby, and J. Maylor, London.

Agree To Repatriation

PRAGUE, Feb. 8 — (AP) — Czechoslovakia and the Allied High Commission of Germany have agreed to the repatriation of 20,000 of the 200,000 persons of German blood remaining in Czechoslovakia, it was announced Tuesday. The movement to Western Germany will begin in March.

Four Men Hurled Off Jigger In Crash

BRANTFORD, Feb. 8—(CP)—Four Brantford men, members of a section crew on the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway, today were hurled off a jigger they were riding when it was overtaken and struck by a Diesel locomotive hauling a westbound freight.

The mishap occurred near Papple's Crossing, about one mile east of Cainsville.

In hospital with severe head cuts and other undetermined injuries is Umberto Riga. Badly shaken up and bruised were Albert Hoof, section foreman, Sam Olesiuk and Boris Lebid.

All four were taken aboard the train's caboose and brought here where a waiting ambulance rushed Riga and Hoof to hospital.

It was believed the freight train was running ahead of schedule but the report was not confirmed.

Alberta Asks Royal Commission To See Books Of CN Railway

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP)—Alberta wants the government-owned Canadian National Railways to open its books and show the Royal Commission on Transportation how it runs its business.

This request is embodied in Alberta's submission to be aired before the commission today.

By opening its books to the commission, says Alberta, the commission will be in a better position to make a thorough criticism of the railway's capital structure.

The commission is studying national transportation problems. It will make recommendations to the Cabinet when it completes its studies some time next spring.

Alberta says the CNR has based appeals for freight-rate increases on financial need, but it is difficult to tell whether there actually is a need for more money unless all the financial factors are studied.

Should Be Separated

The province believed that in general terms the rail and non-rail activities of the CN should be segregated.

It also believed that the Board of Transport Commissioners should be allowed to enforce implementation of a uniform system of accounts which the board could supervise.

It also should be made clear just how far the CNR has gone in the government policy of bringing about greater co-operation between the CNR and the CPR to save money on rail operations.

Canadian National books should show clearly what the company earns and spends on its various activities—each in a separate account.

The separate accounts should include one on the operation of hotels, another on express lines, a third on investments in other railway business, and so on

Cruiser Pays Visit

RANGOON, Feb. 8—(AP)—The British cruiser, Kenya, first British warship to enter Burmese waters since Burma became independent two years ago, arrived today carrying holy Buddhist relics from Ceylon. The 2,000-year-old relics were presented by Ceylon for an exposition here.

Mrs. G. Sanders Oldest Attending Grandmas' Day

HAVELOCK, Feb. 8. (ENS) — Grandmothers' Day, an annual event of Havelock Women's Institute, was observed Monday with the largest attendance in years.

There were 30 grandmothers present, 14 of which were in costume representing three groups the old-fashioned, the flapper and the modern grandmother.

The committee responsible for the success of the meeting comprised: Mrs. George Rigby, the convener; Mrs. Samuel Southward, president; Mrs. H. W. Roche and Mrs. William Rice, all of whom are grandmothers.

After a short business session conducted by the president, the remaining three members of the committee took charge of the program, each conducting a portion of it.

Mrs. Rigby recalled she had been the program convener for the first Grandmothers' Day observed by the Havelock branch 20 years ago.

The prize for the oldest grandmother present went to Mrs. G. B. Sanders, 80, who was only a few months older than the runner-up, Mrs. R. Sarginson. To Mrs. Cecil Toms went the honor of being the youngest grandmother. A corsage was presented by Mrs. Roche to the judges, the grandmothers in the 70 and 80 year group and to all who were in costume.

Honor Miss Seeney

As a mark of appreciation for her work in the society over a long period of years, a corsage was also presented to Miss Mary Seeney.

The grandmothers in costume were called to the front and asked to give details about the age and origin of their outfits. A marchpast was held and the judges, Mrs. S. Barlow and Mrs. F. R. Vanderburgh, announced the winners as follows:

Best dressed old-fashioned grandmother: Mrs. W. H. Hill, who was wearing a bustle dress more than 50 years old and a cape 75 years old.

Best dressed flapper grandmother: Mrs. R. Brown, who was wearing a costume belonging to her mother. Best dressed modern grandmother. Mrs. W. Rice, who wore the wedding gown of Mrs. Mervin Preston (Evelyn Rigby).

Wear Old Costumes

Among other costumes worn were Mrs. Robert Anderson's tan costume with hoop skirt and black bonnet that belonged to her mother. Mrs. Joseph Hoffman was in a dress, bonnet and cape, a hundred years old, which had belonged to her grandmother Scott. Mrs. Chatterton was wearing a costume belonging to the '70's.

Mrs. Harry Pollock was wearing a bonnet which had belonged to the mother of the late John A. Sexsmith, MP, and a cape belonging to Mrs. J. Wilde's grandmother. Mrs. Wesley Johnston wore a shawl which came from her great great aunt in Ireland.

Mrs. H. Buchanan's bonnet was 125 years old and Mrs. G. W. Chiles was wearing a beautiful shawl which came from Italy and had been a present to her mother from her brother.

The president, Mrs. Southward, was the only one to complete her costume with an old time frilled parasol which had belonged to Mrs. W. Platt's mother and was more than 60 years old. Mrs. Southward's bonnet was 80 years old and she was wearing a gold watch and chain from Latvia, which was loaned to her by Mrs. Y. Pikelis.

Family Pictures

On the piano were displayed old-time and present-day pictures of various family groups of the grandmothers present. One of these included Mrs. G. Rigby's maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. David Johnston of Cartwright Township and Mrs. Rigby's costume was a replica of the one won by her grandmother in that photo.

At the beginning of the program Mrs. Rigby introduced her small grandson, Gordon Rigby, as the fifth generation.

Four of the grandmothers present had three generations of their families at the meeting. They were Mrs. J. Haryett, Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. R. Jones and Mrs. W. Rice.

Other items on the program were a monologue, presented by Mrs. G. McGowan; recitation, Jean Kennedy; a waltz-clog dance, by Kenny Kirk, with Mrs. Kirk as accompanist; a song, Mrs. S. Southward, with Mrs. Platt at the piano.

The dancing of Toki-Oki by a number of the grandmothers, under the direction of Mrs. G. Kennedy and Mrs. R. Sayers, with Mrs. Kirk at the piano, caused much merriment. Mrs. Vanderburgh was the winner of a contest conducted by Mrs. Roche.

Refreshments were served and Mrs. Roche and Mrs. Jones poured tea.

Plan To Honor Veterans Of South Africa

A dinner for all the veterans of the South African War now living in Peterborough and the surrounding district is being planned by the city council.

The dinner will be celebrating the Battle of Paardeberg in February, 1900, in which Gen. Cronje surrendered his army to the British army. Canadians were in Lord Roberts' and Kitchener's army marching from Kimberley through Bloemfontein to Pretoria when the Paardeberg surrender took place.

The committee planning the dinner has a list of about 20 South African war veterans, but it wants all those who live in the city and the surrounding district to communicate with James Foster, 589 Reid St. The committee wants to be sure no veteran is missed.

Police Hide In Cellar Capture 2 Thieves

BRANTFORD, Feb. 8 (CP)—Surprised by two police officers after they had broken into the home of Vern Evans, two Brantford men were arrested at gunpoint Tuesday night and charged with housebreaking.

Detective Carl Sudden and Constable James Davison, concealed in the coal bin in the basement, surprised the two men, James Thompson, 41, and Edward Walsh, 35.

They offered no resistance. Police decided to watch the house five days ago after previous attempts to enter the home had been made after a man had been spotted perched in a tree on the front lawn.

Women In Position To Control U.S. Statistics Show

GREENWICH, Conn., Feb. 8 — (AP)— There's nothing to stop the women from running the country if they wanted to, a leading United States business man said here on Tuesday night.

Herman V. Steinkraus of Bridgeport, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, discussed the present position of women in an address delivered before the annual meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce.

From the economic standpoint, he said, women control 70 per cent of the country's private wealth, purchase more than 80 per cent of the goods, own more than 50 per cent of industrial corporation stocks, more than 44 per cent of public utilities and more than 40 per cent of all real estate.

"Finally, there are more of them," Steinkraus said. "That means they could control the vote if they wanted to. They could demand any kind of performance they wanted and see to it that they got it."

Home and School Observes Founder's Day

HAVELOCK, Feb. 7.—(ENS).—Founder's day was observed on Monday in the town hall by the Home and School Association in memory of the founder, Mrs. A. C. Courtice.

Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Knox Presbyterian Church offered the founder day's prayer, and Mrs. Fred Gibson told the life story biography of Mrs. Courtice.

During the candle-lighting service, Reggie Scott represented the students as he lit the candle in memory of the founder. Mrs. R. Backus, representing the teaching staff, lit the candle in honor of the Ontario Federation of the Home and School Association. Mrs. Burness Johnston, a member of the local branch, lit the candle in honor of the National Federation of the Home and School Association. Mrs. H. J. McNeely, the president, lit the candle for the local branch.

Mrs. F. McKay, program convener, presided when three movies were shown by Rev. R. D. Duncanson.

Sings Hymn

Mrs. W. Cornell sang "My Task," a favorite hymn of the founder, with Mrs. D. Kirk playing the accompaniment for it, and also the waltz-clog, which was danced by her small son Kenny.

A pantomime was preesentd by Margaret Ann and Evelyn Stevenson, under the direction of Mrs. W. M. Platt, with the following girls from grades three and four singing the hymn: Helen Anderson, Marilyn Jack, Carolyn Anderson, Doreen Whitney, Donna Johnson and Fern Emery.

BLOUSES ARE OUT in the open this spring. Able to shed the concealing shelter of a suit jacket and lead an independent life of their own, new blouses are as pretty as important styling and fine fabrics can make them.

Exaggerated revers which plunge to a low V and short sleeves with wide turned-back cuffs give the cinnamon crepe blouse (left) its smart look. Topaz jewel buttons sparkle down the front. It is designed so that it may be worn as shown as an overblouse for a dressy skirt or shirttails may be neatly tucked into a skirt band for informality.

Another blouse to top a simple skirt in fine style is the one of dove grey crepe (right). A wide yoke drops over the shoulders and releases voluminous cuffed sleeves. Crowning a tailored petal jabot is a tiny club collar.

Colours In Shoes Striking Feature All Types Open

MONTREAL, Feb. 8—(CP)—With skirts inching up these days, the Canadian Shoe Retailers' Association in its fourth annual convention took note today that attention is being devoted more and more to the foot and the shoe is in focus both day and evening.

The association's style show, for the exhibit of new spring shoes, gave prominence, in line with the trend toward a wave of color in ready-to-wear, and shorter skirts, to color in shoes, the very open or naked look in all types.

Suit shoes in polished calf, suede and reptiles, in a wide range of heel heights, ties, pumps, and sling-back types, are given a light and airy look through use of perforations, cutouts, or punch-work on the vamp. Many of the tailored shoes are cut lower in the vamp. Open toes and sling-backs offer comfort and freedom in warmer months.

There are numerous strap arrangements such as the sabot, broad or double or triple straps crossing the instep at an angle.

In high-grade welts there is a trend toward smarter, lighter, more opened- up effects, and greater flexibility. Sling-backs have entered the picture, some open toes. Wall toe lasts, square tipped extension soles, saddle stitching, cutouts and decorative matching leather ornaments, as well as off-sided lines, distinguish these welt types.

Indications are that 1950 will be a bigger than ever casual shoe year, with the most conservative women wearing the well-made casual type as a many purpose shoe.

First color for spring would appear to be navy, and the lighter blues, in both calf and suede.

Re-elect Mrs. Harry Northrop Head of IODE Chapter

Fifteenth annual meeting of Jeanette Scott Chapter, IODE, took place Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Donald Aitken, Gilmour St. The regent, Mrs. Harry Northrop was re-elected and inducted at close of the meeting.

Secretary Mrs. Jim King's report showed the Chapter had quite an active year. A most successful fashion show was staged, two rummage sales, and the Winnipeg Ballet presented. Various IODE projects were supported and donations made to the Endowment Fund, National Shipping Fund, British and European Relief, Seamen's Amenities and Provincial workroom maintenance.

Assistance was given in the community by canvassing for the chest clinic, and financial aid was given a student at the Collegiate as well as to adopted school pupils. Also, a donation was made toward furnishings of a private room at the new Civic Hospital and an oxygen tent in the present children's ward. Financial aid was also given the Health League, Canadian Legion and Blind Institute.

Mrs. Phil Turner's report as treasurer gave evidence of an exceptionally good year. Fifty three members are enrolled. All have assisted by selling match folders during the year, also the IODE calendars, sale of which was reported by Mrs. C. Cadd.

Appreciation of the members to honorary regent Mrs. F. E. Hooper for her hospitality at the April meeting was mentioned.

Reports were also read by Mrs John Davern, assistant treasurer; Mrs. John Archibald, education secretary; Mrs. Jim Turner, Echoes secretary; Mrs. Ross Matthews, films; Mrs. Ken Robertson, post war convener who stated 345 knitted and sewn articles valued at $176.25, one afghan at $3, 42 used articles of clothing at $217.85, and 32 food parcels valued at $122.75 were sent overseas.

Mrs. Andrew Rutter, child and family welfare worker, stated $90 had been given to local families. Other reports were by Mrs. Cliff Boate, bulletins; Mrs. Jack Richardson, press convener; Mrs Grant Gillespie, membership; Mrs. Jim Turner, Empire study; Mrs. Cliff Cadd, flowers.

A vote of thanks to the regent and last year's executive was moved by Miss Anne Heideman

Mrs. Aitken took the chair for installation of the following officers: honorary regent, Mrs. F E. Hooper; regent, Mrs. Harry Northrop; first vice-president, Mrs. Ross Matthews; second vice-president, Mrs. A. Mrs. Northrop expressed her thanks to the members, as she again took the chair.

Current business included the appointment of Mrs. Ross Matthews and Mrs. Wm. Garner to represent the Chapter at the VON meeting and tea on February 15 Members were reminded to attend St. Paul's Church Sunday evening for the Golden anniversary celebration and to be on hand at six-thirty that evening.

A children's clothing exchange will take place at Mrs. Ross Matthews' home at the end of March, for Chapter members. A tea and bazaar will be held in the fall.

Refreshments were served under convenership of Mrs. Ken. Kingston.

3 Young Peoples Meet at Mark St.

As the scientist proves that his invention or device will improve everyday living so did the young people from three societies prove that uniting under a common bond can improve their lives and give a better understanding of their fellow young people.

Monday night in Mark Street United Church the members of Mark St., Murray St., and St. Paul's Young People's Societies united for an evening of worship and fellowship.

The program opened with a sing song. Members from Murray St. led by Vaughn Taylor conducted the worship service and Miss Leitha Kidd gave an inspirational talk.

Following was a period of recreation with the members from St. Paul's responsible. Various games brought a great deal of amusement.

Refreshments were served by Mark St. Young People, and the Rev. B. Morwood pronounced a benediction and Bob Clarke led in the closing song.

For Bad Cough, Mix This Splendid Recipe, at Home

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this easily prepared mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It is no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup.) Get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a 16 ounce bottle and fill it up with your syrup. The 16 ounces thus made gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and is a very effective relief for coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This splendid mixture soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm and helps to clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known as a soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Husband's Business Life Often Wife's Biggest Rival

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is 41. I am 37. We married very young, and both of us gave all that was in us into getting a start in the world. In those years we were very close to each other, and very happy. Now we are well off, and I, at least am very miserable. For my husband has absorbed himself so in his business that he hardly realizes I am alive. He is kind and generous, but cold and utterly uninterested in me. I have kept myself young-looking and up to-date. I make my husband a comfortable home and wear a bright smile for him, but my heart is very sad. Is there no way to regain the old comradeship?

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: One of the common tragedies that befall wives is to discover that in their husband's business they have a more deadly rival than any blonde half their weight and age would be For to the American man business is not just a means of making money. It is a sport, a diversion, something that thrills and stimulates and absorbs him. It is sitting in on a big game in which he matches his brains and skill and experienec against those of other men equally clever and shrewd, and he gets so absorbed in this that he forgets everything else in life.

Forgets Family

He forgets his wife and children and his duty to them. Or rather he absolves his conscience by saying that he is working for them, and he atones for not giving them any of his time or his thoughts by lavishing money upon them. There are thousands upon thousands of women who have no husband but a chequebook, and multitudes of children whose only conception of their father is as a cash register.

Men make a terrible mistake when they let their business wean them away from their wives. Business success does not compensate for failure in marriage. You cannot make a happy home just with money. A man must give his heart and his soul to that. The really rich man is not the billionaire, but the one who is rich in the love and respect of his wife and children.

But when a man has once made business his god there is no way in which he can be separated from his idol, and his wife had as well reconcile herself to taking second place in his affections.

DEAR MISS DIX: A friend of mine is engaged to marry a fine girl, one of the best ever. As the man makes only a small salary and is the sole support of his mother, it is planned that they should all live together when they are married. But the mother thinks the girl is not good enough for her son and they have had some hot words, with the result that the girl refuses to go to live with the mother as they had planne. I have tried to convince the girl that she should overlook what his mother has done, but she says that she could never be happy with the mother and the mother would always try to boss her. Should the man give up the girl and stay with his mother or marry the girl and let the mother get along the best she can? X.

ANSWER. If this young man and woman get married and go to live with the mother after the attitude she has assumed toward the girl, it will be miserable for all concerned. The young wife would start out with a chip on her shoulder and the old woman would have her fist doubled up to knock it off. They would begin with an antagonism that would grow into hate and that would make the home a place of perpetual strife.

On the other hand, if the young man sends his mother to the poorhouse his conscience will torture him. People will look down on him as an ingrate and he will assuredly come to blame his wife for having forced him to do a dastardly deed. Remember that Adam's old excuse, "The woman Thou gavest me, SHE did it," still goes.

My advice is to wait until the boy and girl between them are earning enough to provide for the old lady outside of their own home.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Lately I have found that I care too much for my employer, and that it makes me jealous and fills me with hate when I hear him talking to his wife and planning dates and parties with her. He has shown some interest in me, but I know that he loves his wife. Should I keep my job? S.F.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Why do you waste yourself upon a married man instead of saving yourself for a single one with whom you will be the whole thing? You know well enough, because you have seen it happen over and over again in offices, that the boss who philanders with his pretty girl employee bodes her no good, as old-fashioned melodrama used to say. One would think that the minute a girl discovered herself taking the faintest interest in her boss, she would give notice and quit.

Wm. Garbutt Wins New York Tickets On CJL Draw

Catholic Junior League president Miss Rita Young discussed items of business at the regular meeting Monday evening with the large number of members present. Anticipation ran high as she prepared to have the draw made which would decide the winner of two trip-tickets to New York city on Easter week-end Tickets have been on sale for some months and sellers brought all returned to the meeting. The winner is Mr. Willie Garbutt of Lakefield whose tickets was selected by new member Miss Marjorie Stevenson.

Speaker of the evening was Rt Rev. Monsignor P. P. Butler who was introduced by Miss Mary Clancy.

Monsignor Butler gave an interesting account of his trip to Rome last year. He spoke of the beauty of his first view of Quebec city and mentioned his visits to different parts of Ireland, Scotland and England. He visited many churches and schools and mentioned the terrific war damage which had not been repaired

During his visit to Ireland he was particularly interested in Skerries which is the town where Bishop Berry's father lived. He mentioned seeing Princess Elizabeth in London and remarked on how lovely looking she is. Of Holland he spoke well kept country and of Germany he mentioned the beauty of the country side as compared to the terrible ruins in the cities. In Switzerland he was impressed again by the beauty of the country and the homes.

In Paris on November 1st, he noted the great preparation for all Souls Day. He told of trains crowded with people to cemeteries and spoke of the beauty of the cemetaries with all their flowers

High-light of the trip was a visit to Lourdes, he spoke of the great feeling of penance which one felt there.

In Rome they spent a great deal of time at St. Peter's Basilica and he described its great beauty and also that many other churches in Rome. He visited the Vatican before seeing the Holy Father who was at his summer home. Castel Godalpha.

Monsignor Butler described in detail his audience with Pope Pius. The Holy Father told him that times were serious and he needed the prayers of people here.

Further visits included the Catacombs and he travelled along the same road as the early Christians which is known as the Appian way. He visited the Church of St. Peter-in-chains in which the very chains are kept Monsignor Butler's talk was deeply enjoyed by the Junior League members and their appreciation was expressed by Mrs John Black. A similar account was enjoyed by the members of the Catholic Women's League at this month's meeting and he was thanked by their president Mrs S. J. Houlihan.

After the meeting Monday evening Miss Genevieve Murray and her committee served refreshments.

Princess Cheered As Sisters Sang

LONDON — (CP) — When the singing O'Keefe sisters — Joy, Catherine, Pat and Carol — set off to entertain troops abroad they little dreamed their biggest thrill would be a "command performance" for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

"It was the biggest thrill of our lives," said Carol, youngest of the sister act, which has given 70 shows to troops in Mediterranean camps.

"We had hardly got into Malta when a naval officer slipped along to our hotel to ask us to do our show. We went along to the captain's cabin aboard H.M.S Surprise and were introduced to the princess and the duke.

"We were a bit scared. We imagined that the show might be just a little stiff-shirted, as the boys say.

"On the big night, Elizabeth and her husband were right there for a front-row view But within a few minutes we were absolutely at ease and romping right into the latest numbers The princess the duke led the cheering and clapping and things just got wonderfully friendly.

"Next day we were invited on board again, thanked, given a little party and asked to sign the ship's books."

Pleated Dresses Shown Straight Line Coats

By ALISON SETTLE

Correspondent For London Observer

PARIS, Feb. 8—Christian Dior the master of fashion has scored yet another outstanding success At the dress openings which are now running in Paris he has a collection which provoked a burst of applause from an audience which consisted not only of writers but of artists and musicians.

Dior's clothes are for and of today, owing nothing to past periods The day dresses and suits are beautifully wearable, while the evening dresses, are subtle in colour and rich in elegant handwork. They are both slim and full-skirted but almost always the line for evening is short in front

Many pleated dresses are being shown this year. Dior has three day-time lines, one pencil-slim (though deeply indented at the waistline), one pleated all down, and one gored to be lim to above the knees, where the skirt flows out into an almost umbrella like fullness. But even in his pencil-slim dresses, most of them made sleeveless and with narrow belts, he allows a burst of pleats at the back, sometime from seat level and at other times low down towards the knees. But by contrast the majority of his coats are "just coats", straight and made in threequarter length. For dresses and suits he likes to scoop out the neck-line into what he calls his horseshoe outline, filling it in with soft folds or with a stiffened bib.

Hats on Back of Heads

It is the salvation of the woman of small means who wants to keep in fashion that the designers so often contradict one another Christian Dior places his hats on the backs of the heads, scooping downwards, in a season when all the milliners of Paris agree that their models are to be worn well forward. Similarly, Balmain has dress idess quite different from those of Dior. For him flying panels are not dead: they swing out from the yoke of coats, fall similarly in slim dresses and suits but are caught in under the belt. Panels so narrow that they rank rather as tabs decorate innumerable models of all kinds in his collection for day and evening, some looped, some overlapping one another, others like falling ribbons.

At Balmains house the dresses are again in the main sleeveless, a fashion which is general this year in Paris. They are slim and buttoned up over the shoulder Balmain's short evening dresses are cut in "thistle points" overlapping to make the skirt or a whole dress. He likes dresses shorter in front and in the evening swinging down to the ground at the back. Indeed, many show up the knee in front. His wrap coats are held shut in 1926 style straight and short. You may say that the only fault to be found with this spirited collection is that M. Pierre Balmain looks over his shoulder to the past. He has romanticised the year 1926 to such an extent that women's hair is cut short, cigarettes are inserted into long holders, handbags are clasped under the armpit, hats are cloche-shaped, slave banglos are worn on the upper arm and there is a return to astrich boas and to evening skirts glittering with beaded fringes. Yet with all this the figure happily remains that of the woman of 1950, feminine and quite unlike the flat-busted narrow-hipped girls of a quarter of a century ago.

Shantung and tussore are back for summer-time wear as coats suits or dresses. Organzas, tulles and nets and muslins are superimposed to give greater shading to the colours of dresses. Jean Desses is one of the leading designers who sponsor the return of skirts made in handkerchief points for afternoon and evening, sometimes in shaded colouring He also loves the uneven hemline for evening and his full romantic skirts slope up to the knee on one side, but he compromises by making his afternoon and evening models two-occasion clothes: he makes detachable long skirts to hook over shorter ones, and detachable boleros Even his sleeves come of fand leave the arms bare

Robert Piguet has a tremendous number of pleated dresses, very slim and elegant and with no more sleeve than will cap the shoulder He pouches the backs of elegant clothes, makes the most of his coats straight up and down and like other designers, loves above all the colours of yellow, blue and grey.—OFNS Copyright

6—In Memoriams

SMITH—In loving memory of Pte. Edwin Smith 1st Ba't. North Shore N.B. Regiment, who gave his life on February 8, 1945 in Germany Buried in Nijmegen Cemetery, Holland, aged 21 years.
Loved in life and ever remembered —Ever remembered by parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smith of Apsley and family, also little son Stanley

SWEETING—In loving memory of our father, Jonathan Sweeting, who passed away one year ago today Feb. 9, 1949.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him
Some day we know not when
To clasp his hand in the better land
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by Muriel, Seymour, Kenneth and Chalmer

7—Cards of Thanks

Mr. G. De Noble and family wish to extend their heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the attending nurses and physicians, to the Sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital, and for the messages of sympathy, the beautiful floral and spiritual offerings received during their recent bereavement.

Mrs. Therion MacMillan, 111 Rubidge Street, wishes to thank the doctors and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital, the Rev. B. Greenwood of the Pentecostal Church, friends and neighbors for kindnesses extended during her illness.

The members of Local 519, Peterborough Ontario Fire Fighters' Association wish to express their deep thanks and appreciation to the Kingan Hardware and the McGillis Hotel for their very generous donations to their organization.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL

With James Wharry as chairman and all official positions taken over by the men, the father's night meeting of Queen Mary Home and School Association Monday evening was a great success.

Highlight of the program was a comic dancing chorus. In the line, directed by Mrs. J. Hayward, were Mr. and Mrs. Max Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Whiteside, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Skitch.

Guest speaker, Mr. G. Winder Smith, headmaster at Lakefield Preparatory School, was introduced by Mr. Errol Wilson. His talk gave the origin of private, or independent schools, as they are called, but he spoke mainly on the three approaches to education — intellectual, emotional and ethical.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. W. E. Kibblewhite.

Singing was led by Andy Rutter with Stanley Northrop at the piano and they were assisted by Ed. Murphy and the barber shop quartet members, who contributed several songs with Mrs. Oscar Jamieson playing their accompaniment.

Aunt Jemima who had come from Toronto for this occasion was introduced by Mr. Wharry and she then assisted the men of the Association to prepare and serve a pancake and coffee supper, final hit of the evening.

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

Miss C. Wagar, art supervisor in city schools, and teacher at the Normal School, spoke at the Founder's night meeting of Confederation Home and School Association Tuesday.

She stated art was started in schools about 100 years ago. It was chiefly map drawing and coloring. Then came linear art, water colors and crayons. From 1937 creative talents of children were encouraged. There was a distant change of medium, using products easier for the children to handle, temper paints and long brushes being most favored.

Miss Wagar showed examples of pupils' work and gave an interesting demonstration of finger painting.

Mr. Reg. Peters delighted the audience with two vocal solos, "Bluebird of Happiness" and "Rose of Tralee." He was accompanied by Mrs. H. Doig.

The guests were thanked by Mrs. Pilkington.

Mrs. W. N. Thompson gave a home education report on corporal punishment in homes and at school. Mr. J. Nicholls, principal, outlined the policies and difficulties of school discipline.

Miss Wood's class won the attendance prize.

A letter from Mrs. A. W. Nelson, Council president, invited members to attend the PCVS Association meeting on February 27 when the Rev. E. C. McClelland of Toronto will speak on alcohol education.

President Mrs. J. Stewart announced the meeting on March 7 would be in charge of fathers. Also, that classrooms are open this week for inspection of children's progress in observance of education week.

Mrs. N. Moffat was pianist for the evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. P. Aitken and assistants.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP)—Cattle prices were steady on a plain quality supply at the Ontario stockyards this morning. Receipts Cattle, 400; calves, 100; hogs, 500; sheep and lambs, none. Left from yesterday were 200 cattle.

Good to medium light steers and heifers steady at $18.50-$21 cwt. Good cows $16-$16.50 with canners and cutters $11.50-$14. Few fed yearlings $21-$24.50.

Calves steady at $29-$31 for choice vealers and up to $32 for few tops. Common to medium vealers ranged from $17-$27.

Today's hog prices have not yet been established.

Lawyers' Licence Fees Can't Be Deducted

OTTAWA, Feb. 8 (CP)—The income tax appeal board has ruled that barristers' licence fees are not deductable for income tax purposes.

The ruling was made in a judgment today dismissing the appeal of Gordon Kenneth Daley of Toronto from a revenue department decision disallowing a $500 deduction from his 1946 income tax return.

RT. HON. WINSTON CHURCHILL (bareheaded and carrying a cane), leader of the British Conservative Party, arrives at the Town Hall at Leeds, England, to open his election campaign. Police walk with him as another policeman (left) attempts to hold back the crowd.

McKenney Answers Your

Canasta Questions

The latest to join the ranks of Canasta authors is Ely Culbertson. I found his new book, entitled "Culbertson on Canasta," on my desk and he brings forth some very good points in the new book. For example, on page 48, he discusses freezing the pack. Here is an example of his discussion on freezing the pack, which I think will help your game a great deal.

Opponents' melds:
2-2-K-K
2-7-7-7-7
6-6-6-6
Joker-A-A-A-A
Q-Q-Q-Q-Q
5-5-5-5-5
A canasta of 4's

Your side needs 120. Opponents have been taking packs right and left, while you have no meld. Your partner just came down with Joker-10-10-10, 2-9-9, and this is your hand after the pick:

2-2-2-A-K-K-Q-10-10-9-7-5

Complete a canasta by adding 2-10-10, meld 2-K-K, and discard your last deuce, freezing the pack. Your best chance is that partner, who has four cards, will go out before the opponents are able to make many more canasts.

Your freeze enables you and your partner to discard opponents' players with almost complete safety and your partner should be in position to go out quickly. Note that 2-K-K meld. It is a further attempt to help your partner because his four cards are likely to contain one or two kings.

Q—I have two wild cards and a six-spot in my hand. Can I meld these three cards if it will put me out?

A—No, any original meld must contain at least two natural cards. You might be able to place the two deuces on another meld and discard the six spot.

Q—Is it possible to complete a canasta and go out all in one operation?

A—Yes, that is perfectly legal. As a matter of fact, if you go out concealed and have a canasta you do not have to meet the minimum requirements for an initial meld. For example, if you need 120 for an initial meld and you meld seven five-spots and four seven-spots which would put you out, you have your canasta but you have melded only 55 points; but as long as you are going out concealed the minimum meld requirement is waived.

Q—Can you at any time take only the top card of the pack and leave the rest there?

A—No, you cannot. If you legally take one card you must place the balance of the cards in your hand after you have made your meld.

No Overtures To Reds On H-Bomb Control

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson today ruled out any new overtures to Russia on international control of atomic weapons, including the hydrogen superbomb.

Acheson also said the United States should avoid what he called self-reproach in connection with atomic weapons. He said this might paralyze American action in developing a strong American policy.

The Secretary's remarks were made in a press conference discussion of U. S. policy.

He said that if the U. S. can reach its goal of world peace by the process of agreement that will be the best way to do it. "But," he added, "four years of trying have brought us to the realization that is not possible."

Woman Released To Await Sentence

HAMILTON, Feb. 8 (CP)—On the suggestion of Mrs. Edna Fairfield, women's probation officer, Queenie Baker, 40, of Hamilton, charged with concealment of birth, was given her freedom on her own recognizance until next Monday when sentence will be passed.

Mrs. Fairfield told the court the accused had suffered sufficiently and that to release her from custody until Monday would be appropriate and kindly.

The charge was laid following finding of an infant's body in a trunk at Kingston.

Suspended Term On 5 Charges Entry, Theft

Pleading guilty to five charges of breaking, entry and theft, Francis Peel, 21, Peterborough, was placed on a two year's suspended sentence by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today.

His companion, Donald Wood, 19, Toronto, pleaded guilty to two charges of breaking, entry and theft. He was remanded for sentence until Thursday to give local officials time to find employment for the youth.

The pair were intercepted by Sergeant Percy Sexsmith and Traffic Officer Claire McGillen early on the morning of Feb. 3 in connection with a break-in attempt at the Withers and Baird service station.

Co-operated With Police

Detective W. A. Clarke testified that both boys had co-operated willingly with the police and Peel recounted four other break-ins he had made.

The night they were arrested, they had also broken into Ray McWilliams service station on the Chemong Road at Wolsley St.

Detective Clarke said Peel told him of breaking into R. N. Wilson's service station twice, Dec. 18 and Dec. 28. On both trips Peel had taken only $1 in cash and a total of seven packages of cigarettes although there was much more that could have been taken.

Neither of these break-ins had been reported to police.

Peel also confessed to breaking into the office of Boorman's Beverages Dec. 28 and taking a small amount of money.

Good Workers

Detective Clarke said Wood had been working about the country for the past three months. He added that the boy's employers had found him a good worker. Both were out of work when they were arrested.

Grand-Nephew's Visit Saves Two From Death

WIARTON, Feb. 8 (CP)—Only a timely visit by a small grandnephew saved a retired Great Lakes ship captain and his wife from death by asphyxiation Tuesday night when coal gas fumes from a furnace filled their small house.

Elderly Captain John Rutherford and his wife were unconscious when their grand-nephew, Billy Greig, called to pay a visit. The little boy rushed home and told his parents, who summoned immediate medical aid.

Captain and Mrs. Rutherford were revived at the Bruce Peninsula Memorial Hospital. Attending physicians said both would have been beyond aid in another few minutes.

Later, copies of the proclamation were posted throughout the city and in country areas. The dissolution of parliament traditionally is ordered by the King before a general election, but there is no compulsion about the action.

Farmers Asked Yield Of Acre For University

SASKATOON (CP).—The University of Saskatoon wants a Memorial Union Building — and has come up with a novel method of raising funds for it.

With $114,000 of a projected $750,000 already raised the directors of the fund have gone to the farmer — the backbone of Saskatchewan's economy — with a plan they hope will prove painless but effective.

They ask him to contribute the yield of one acre of land in 1950. The payment would be in wheat, not cash, and approaches the 120,000 tillers of the soil in the same gambling spirit which keeps them sowing crops in a land where returns are unpredicable.

The plan was formulated and approved by 700 farmer-delegates to the recently-concluded Farm Week sittings. In adopting it they expressed their appreciation for research and educational work done by the university's extension department and College of Agriculture to better their lot.

Wheat Board Helps

It also has the blessing of the Canadian Wheat Board, which regulates the method of selling wheat and sets quotas which govern its release from storage elevators. The Board will allow farmers agreeing to the scheme to set one acre's yield aside for sale under a ticket issued to the fund.

At least one large elevator company has assured co-operation from its agents, who will keep track of the fund's share. Negotiations with other companies are in a "satisfactory stage," says Rupert Ramsay, fund director.

The Memorial Union Building is a dream of 20 years. It began to take shape in 1945, when student contributions founded the fund to commemorate the 195 students or alumni who died in the Second World War.

Students pay $4 a year into it, and other contributions come from alumni and Saskatoon's business and professional men.

Building of the first wing, which will house a cafeteria, student government offices, a radio and newspaper headquarters, a ballroom, and other student facilities, will begin when $300,000 is in sight. It will be faced with the distinctive greystone which marks most other campus structures.

Grass Buries House

SYDNEY, Australia (CP). — Peter Knight and his two sisters left their homestead at Warrenbri, New South Wales, because umbrella grass blown from the plains to the northward had buried the house. The grass is highly inflammable.

Mason Estate Establishes 9 Scholarships

SUDBURY, Feb. 8 (CP)—Establishment of nine scholarships valued at a total of $4,300 was announced today by G. M. Miller, chairman of the W. E. Mason foundation.

Sudbury and district students will be able to compete for the scholarships during the present school year.

The scholarships are the first grants made in the educational field by the charitable foundation set up by W. E. Mason, late publisher of the Sudbury Daily Star who died in June, 1948.

Two $400 scholarships, open to primary students in remote areas of Sudbury district, are intended to assist the best English-speaking candidate and the winning bilingual candidate to attend high school.

Three scholarships of $500 each are offered to Grade 13 graduates who intend to go to normal school. One will go to the graduate from Sudbury High School with highest standing, another to a student with best standing in a district high school and the third to an outstanding graduate from Sudbury High or Technical School who completes the bilingual course and is ready to enter the Ottawa University Normal School.

Russian Activity In United States At Highest Peak

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—Russian undercover activity in the United States was reported today at an all-time high.

The report came from a United States Congressman familiar with evidence on the Klaus Fuchs case which J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has been placing before Congress.

Hoover, seeking enough funds for 300 more FBI agents, was said to have told a Senate appropriations sub-committee there are 540,000 Communists and fellow-travellers in the U. S., 54,000 of them card-carrying party members.

He also is understood to have said that Fuchs, the German-born British scientist now under arrest in London for passing atomic secrets to Russia, had many opportunities to carry out his operations here.

Senator Homer Ferguson (Rep-Mich.) disclosed Tuesday night that he is asking Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath to try to extradite Fuchs from Britain for trial before an American court.

Such a move already has been explored by the Senate-House of Representatives atomic energy committee. The committee's lawyers have expressed doubt that applicable treaties between the two countries would permit extradition.

Mayor Dislikes Amalgamation

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP). — Mayor Hiram McCallum said today he personally would like Toronto to steer clear of amalgamation with 12 suburban municipalities, but that he sees no other solution to common problems.

Housing is the prime factor in the need for a common metropolitan administration, he said in a by-lined article on the front page of a Toronto paper.

"In the search for housing sites, water and sewage problems have also begun to achieve prominence," he said.

"Personally I would like to find some other answer than amalgamation, because I am not one who enjoys enforcing my opinion on others. But at the present time I can see no other answer unless we have a government by commission under a metropolitan scheme."

Transportation, education and school construction also called for a unified effort.

Stole Electric Saw From Building Pastor

Stealing an electric saw and motor from Rev. Robert Coghill earned Walter Sanderson, 24, of 173 Dufferin St., a two year suspended sentence in police court Tuesday.

Police said the theft took place some time between September 1 and Nov. 30 from a house which Rev. Coghill was building on Dufferin St.

Constable Allan Edmison testified that with Sergeant Leo Murphy he recovered the saw and motor from Sanderson. When asked about it, Sanderson simply went and got it for the policemen.

COAL PRODUCTION UP

Alberta's coal produces for the first 11 months of 1949 rose 7,746,029 tons, a 500,000-ton increase over the corresponding year of 1948.

Canadian Clerics Hold High Post In City Of Rome

By WILLIAM BOSS

ROME — (CP) — Canadians are encountered almost as frequently in Rome as in Paris or Amsterdam.

In religious, artistic and commercial life, either as temporary or permanent residents, their presence keeps aglow the spark of affection felt by Italians for Canadians since the war.

Although most make the Canadian Embassy on Via Mercadante and the Pontificial Canadian College on the Via Quattro Fontane regular ports of call, some such as Maj. J. A. Greene of Edmonton have carried on for years without making their presence known.

Formerly in the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, with whom he fought in Sicily and Italy, Maj Greene since the war has settled in Rome, where he runs an export agency through which Italian products are sold to the Dominion.

Msgr. Paul-Emile Leger of Montreal is rector of the Canadian College, founded in 1888, a year after Queen Victoria gave the Sulpician Fathers of Montreal special permission to export 1,500,000 gold francs with which to build it.

Though called a college, no lectures are delivered to the 46 French and English-speaking Canadians resident there, all of whom are students at one or other of the Roman universities.

Quebec Sisters

Msgr. Leger, whose staff consists of Rev. Omer Tanguay of Montreal as bursar, six French-speaking Canadian Sisters of the Holy Family all from Sherbrooke, Que., and six Italian male servants, is in charge of their spiritual direction only.

The monsignor is a familiar figure about the Vatican, where he calls daily, and with whom he acts on behalf of Canadian visitors in need of special offices.

During the war the Fascist ministry of defence occupied the building, and $50,000 has since been spent on renovating it. Of its 700 alumni, 40 have become bishops while more than half the Canadian Roman Catholic hierarchy are former students.

St. John Lateran

A regular father-confessor on the staff of the basilica of St. John Lateran, one of the four churches Holy Year visitors must visit to gain the Jubilee indulgence, is Rev. Bernabe Lafond of Montreal, while other Canadians are to be found in high administrative posts in the various religious communities whose headquarters are in Rome.

The superior-general of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate is a former Ottawa University professor, Rev. Rene Deschatelets, while Rev. Romulus Durocher of Montreal is bursar-general of the Jesuits.

A little known work of Canadian Roman Catholicism is that of the Fraternite Sacerdotale, which runs a home in Rome's Monte Mario quarter for overage, improverished priests of all countries. In charge are Rev. Gerald Buteau and Rev. Romeo Belair, both of Quebec City.

More than 20 Canadians are studying the arts in one or other form in Rome, while Canadian screen actress Suzanne Clouthier of Ottawa has been reported on location in Italy with Orson Welles. She is playing Desdemona to Welles' Othello, in the actor-producer's own production of the Shakespearian drama.

Strange Tremor Shakes Welland

WELLAND, Feb. 8 —(CP)—A mysterious tremor, which Tuesday night shook an area within a four-mile radius of this city, today was discovered to have been caused by an ingot of red-hot slag from a factory here. The ingot rolled from the plant's dump bordering the Welland River into the water and exploded.

Police offices and the office of the Welland-Port Colborne Tribune were deluged with calls till mid-morning seeking the cause of the blast, which rattled windows and dishes four miles from the city.

T. N. Morrison, managing editor of the Tribune, said the blast felt like a dynamite explosion.

Bata Business Awarded To Widow, Son

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 —(AP) — Large interests in the huge Czechoslovakian shoe business built by Thomas Bata have been awarded to his widow and a son, Thomas, Jr.

Justice Benjamin F. Schreiber of the New York Supreme Court awarded to the widow and son 826 shares of the capital stock of leader A. G., a Swiss corporation which is the principal holding company in Bata Shoes.

The certificates represent more than 40 per cent of the outstanding capital stock of leader A. G.

They were found in the safe deposit box of a Frank Muska after his death July 27, 1942. The court case grew from claims to the stock by the widow and son on one hand and by Jan Bata, a half-brother of Thomas Bata, Sr., who died in an air crash, on the other.

Justice Schreiber noted that leader A. G., was organized in February, 1941, for Bata assets outside Czechoslovakia.

Complicated Arrangement

Bata was the actual owner of the stock of leader A. G. but, the court found, a stock ownership of the company was "concealed by a complicated arrangement."

The arrangement, the court found, was "designed to make it appear that he (Bata) had no financia interest in Leader, but only a claim obtained by Leader's stock against Swiss lawyers who organized Leader for purported loans made to them."

The manner in which the stock came into Muska's hands was not detailed, but lawyers said Muska was a vice-president of the Bata organization.

Jana Bata's claim to the certificates was based on an alleged oral agreement with his half-brother Under this agreement, counsel said, Jana Bata was to purchase the shoe interests.

Justice Schreiber found that the validity of this agreement had not been proved and that, in effect, Bata died intestate.

Therefore, he awarded the stock interest to the widow and Thomas Jr.

Dash

There was no immediate indication whether the Bata Shoe Company of Canada, Limited, at Batawa, Ont., was involved. The Canadian Company was established Feb. 8, 1939, and manufactures shoes, machinery and tools.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

COWBOY PHILOSOPHER, and for years America's best-loved comedian, was the late Will Rogers. Here he does his original vaudeville act, a rope trick routine, for his young family in their own private home theatre. It was as a rope-throwing cowboy in the Ziegfeld Follies that Will Rogers' fabulous career began. The drawling wisecracks that later made him famous were thrown in to liven up the act when the rope wasn't behaving too well. In the Twenties, Will played homespun roles in silent movies, but it wasn't until the talkies and radio broadcasting arrived to do full justice to his slow drawl and his masterfully comic delivery that he really reached the top. The world was stunned on that day in 1935 when it learned Rogers and Wiley Post were killed in Alaskan plane crash.

Army Speeds Rescue Teams To Yukon Crash; Plane Found In Mountains

Three Out Of Ten Men Aboard Injured In Forced Landing, All Princess Pat Soldiers Reported Safe

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Feb. 9 (CP)—Ten men today huddled in biting cold around a wrecked aircraft on a desolate mountain top northwest of here as a ground rescue party and a helicopter converged on the 7,000 foot peak which has imprisoned them for 48 hours. The temperature hovered around 40 below zero and a light wind was blowing. But the clear sky held promise of an early rescue.

The men, five members of Princess Patricias Canadian Light Infantry and five American airmen from the United States Air Force base at Eielson, Alaska, were stranded on the mountain top when their U.S.A.A.F. Dakota crash-landed Tuesday morning.

The two-motored plane had been engaged in search operations for a United States transport plane which has been missing for two weeks with 44 aboard in the mountainous region.

The Dakota came down about 84 air-miles northwest of Whitehorse.

Three Injured

Three of the Amerigans were injured in the crash. Two suffered fractured arms and one a broken leg. The Canadians were not hurt.

Moving towards the peak from the south was a motorized ground party made up of Canadians and American soldiers, in this area for Exercise Sweetbriar. Flying to the scene from Fairbanks, Alaska, was a USAF helicopter.

Search and rescue headquarters at Whitehorse hoped the crash survivors would be back at the base by tonight.

"If the helicopter gets there first it will shuttle the injured and the others out to the Pon Lake air strip," said Air Commodore Martin Costello of Winnipeg, director of rescue operations. The air field is about 15 miles south of the crash.

The helicopter could take out about two men at a time and air force officers said the evacuation could be done in half a day, weather permitting.

Send Weasels

The ground party, flown to Pon Lake, set out for the mountain in two track troop carriers, known as Weasels.

Global Trip Successful Pearson Says

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP)—Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, came back to Ottawa Wednesday night after a globe-circling flight made in the interests of better relations within the Commonwealth and with far-eastern countries.

"I feel we have laid the foundations for better commercial and other relations with all the countries were visited," he told reporters at Rockcliffe Airport.

He and his party of diplomatic and trade experts were gone from Ottawa a little more than a month. Their primary purpose was attending the conference of Commonwealth Foreign Ministers which opened at Colombo last Jan. 9.

Mr. Pearson was asked about the success of his mission, and he said it was "most successful and, I am sure, very useful."

He was asked about the "crisis" presented by Communist activity in the Far East.

"Here on this airport, at midnight on a frosty night, I am not going to talk about crises," the Minister said. He added: "but of course it is a very serious matter."

He posed for pictures and newsreels and went wearily home promising to give a more complete report of his mission after talking with Prime Minister St Laurent Friday.

Believes Russia Has Most Planes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—An American aviation expert said today Russia is ahead of the United States both in aircraft production and in the number of military planes it has in service

However, said John F. Victory, the U. S. isn't disturbed by that situation because it feels that it has better planes.

"We think we still have supremacy in the air," he said, "because of the superior performance and military effectiveness of our aircraft."

Victory said in a prepared speech that neither the United States nor Russia has a practical military plane of supersonic speed. U. S. planes can go faster than sound now only when unarmed, he said.

2nd Set Of Triplets In Less Than 4 Years

BURLINGTON, Vt., Feb. 9—(AP)—The second set of triplets born in less than four years to Mrs. George Hutchby, 33, wife of a planning engineer, created a family housing problem today.

The new arrivals—two girls and a boy—increased to eight the number of children in the family.

The multiple births sent the father house hunting. The family now lives in a four-room apartment.

The latest set of triplets arrived by Caesarean operation at Bishop de Goesbriand hospital Wednesday night. The first set—also two girls and a boy—was born April 15, 1946. The other two children, both boys, are aged 9 and 1½.

Dr. Gerald Foster, who predicted triplets a month ago, said multiple births are expectable in one of every 7,600 cases.

Sees Sea Serpent

VANCOUVER, Feb. 9 — (CP)—Caddy, the sea serpent with a head "like a snake" is back at Victoria beaches. Chief Justice James T. Brown of Regina said Wednesday he saw the serpent last Sunday and "it looked like a monstrous snake". "I have two witnesses to prove it," he added. "My wife and my daughter."

Claims Windows Fire Trap At Dress Plant

TORONTO, Feb. 9—(CP)—A witness told an inquest jury Wednesday night how she escaped last Jan. 20 from a blazing garment factory in which nine workers, trapped behind barred windows, lost their lives.

Mrs. Dorothy Sutton, employee of the Adorable Dress Company, told the jury under Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson she made her escape through an unbarred window after she discovered the fire and warned others.

Mrs. Sutton said she was in an office separated from the Phillips factory by a plywood partition when "suddenly, I felt warm. A gust of heat hit me. I turned and looked over the partition. I could see flames reaching up to the ceiling, I dropped the phone and yelled, 'Fire'."

"I started through the factory for the back door," she said. "Someone else came with me, but the door wouldn't open . . . then the lights went out and I got scared."

Gets Through Open Window

Mrs. Sutton ran back to the office where other employees had opened a window through which she escaped.

"The fact that your lives were saved," said Dr. Lawson, "is due to the fact that in your part of the basement the windows opened. If the windows in the Phillips place could have been opened, then others would have been saved, too."

R. B. Lightbown, an inspector of the Factory Inspection Division of the Ontario Department of Labor, told the jury that the type of construction of the windows in the basement would have made it difficult to get out, regardless of whether they were barred.

Mr. Lightbown was replying to Dr. Lawson's question whether the barred windows should have had cross bars which would have permittted them to open from the inside.

"The windows were not designed as exits," Mr. Lightbown added. He also said the steel sash and wire glass construction of the windows was difficult to break.

No More Red Tape

NEW DELHI, Feb. 9 — (AP)—There will be no more red tape in the government of India. Red tape—of the variety used to tie up letter files—is being replaced by white tape. Officials explain red is a British Imperial color and has no place here now that India is a Republic. Besides, white tape is cheaper.

30 Private Bills

TORONTO, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Some 30 private bills were filed with Maj. Alex Lewis, clerk of the Legislative Assembly, for consideration at the forthcoming session by Wednesday last day on which bills could be filed without penalty. Most of the bills deal with minor amendments to existing legislation.

Relaxation On Imports Will Cut Cost

Will Break Monopoly In Many Lines, Give Britain Chance

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(CP)—A decline in the retail price of manufactured goods was predicted today by government and industry spokesman, as a result of the latest relaxation of import controls.

Removal of most of the controls, on April 1 and July 1, will step up competition in Canada, said the spokesman, and with this "inevitable competition" there were "bound to be lower retail prices."

The government official said some Canadian refrigerator manufacturers, for example, have had a "virtual monopoly" on the sale of refrigerators in Canada in the period that the import of this product had been prohibited.

Refrigerators, washing machines, radios and a host of other consumer goods were prohibited November, 1947, in a dollar-saving program that cut mostly into the United States imports.

Lift Restrictions

United States exporters will be allowed to ship refrigerators, washing machines, and radios on a quota basis next July 1. At the same time United Kingdom exporters will be able to ship without quota restrictions.

The net effect, said the spokesmen, will be that the UK exporters will be able to compete against US exporters for the Canadian market. Devaluation will favor British commodities and it appears likely that Britain will be able to widen her foothold on the Canadian consumer market.

Arrest 2 Men In Rose Robbery

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—Two men have been arrested and have admitted participation in the daring $25,000 gem and fur robbery at the home of showman Billy Rose, police said today.

The announcement came after the two had been questioned for hours by top-ranking members of the police department.

Police said that three other men were being sought.

The value of the loot taken from the fashionable Rose home first was placed at $100,000 but the figure later was revised to $25,000.

The burglary occurred Jan. 26 while Rose and his wife were attending a Broadway show. Three gunmen entered the residence trussed up the Rose butler, then leisurely stripped the home. They missed some $200,000 in jewelry which Mrs. Rose was wearing at the time.

THEY GOT THE DRIFT—This picture tells the story of why four South Dakota counties have been designated as disaster areas. Taken at Eureka, SD, it shows a house up to its eaves in snow. Blizzard-driven drifts reached as high as 18 feet, with rural areas even harder hit.

Abbott Urges Lowering Trade Barriers

MONTREAL, Feb. 9 (CP). — Finance Minister Abbott said today he believes that "the only appropriate policy for Canada with respect to tariffs and other trade barriers is to get them down, both here and abroad."

"This does not mean free trade in the classical sense, but it does mean freer trade," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the Canadian section of the International Chamber of Commerce.

"I believe that the prosperity of Canada as well as other countries will be fostered, if by removing excessive trade barriers, countries will specialize in the production of the things they are good at and exchange them for the goods that other countries produce more cheaply.

"'For this reason we must encourage by every means at our disposal policies and practices which make possible the broadcast exchange of goods. Of course this means that we must in our own country practise what we preach.

"I think that Canada has in the main practised a reasonable and moderate tariff policy—with the exception of a short period during the great depression of the 1930s."

It Didn't Pay

In 1930 and 1931 Canada increased all tariffs substantially. In 1932 Canada entered into exclusive Empire trade agreements which raised tariffs against foreign countries still further.

Some industries may have benefited from the government's action, said Mr. Abbott, But for the country as a whole employment slumped even further and investment remained in a depressed condition.

"'For those who may still believe that Canada can isolate itself and prosper, the experience of the early 1930s provides more than adequate evidence of the unfortunate consequences of such a policy," he said. "Canada cannot live unto itself alone and hope to maintain anything like its present living standards....'"

2 Rail Unions Vote To Strike

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 — (AP) — Members of two operating railway unions in the United States have voted to strike for a 50-hour week, the unions announced today.

A spokesman, however, said that does not mean a strike is imminent. He said that under procedures of the National Railway Mediation Act a strike could not possibly occur before late spring.

The two unions are the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors. Together they represent a total union membership of about 200,000 railroad workers. The spokesman said 99.5 per cent of them approved a strike. No strike date has been set.

Top-Flight Tariff Expert Promoted To Trade Adviser

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(CP)—The Trade Department went through another organizational change today as it geared to battle with the growing complexity of international trade. Hubert R. Kempt of Woodstock, the government's top-flight tariff expert, was promoted to a new position of Trade Adviser within the Economic Research and Development Branch.

The Department also announced the promotion of Dr. Claude M. Isbister of Winnipeg as Mr. Kemp's successor as Director of the International Trade Relations Division, which deals with commercial relations and foreign tariffs.

Both have been advising the government on economic and trade problems for the last several years.

A few months ago, the department reorganized its foods division, bringing in more staff to concentrate on the problem of selling Canada's agricultural surpluses.

Interprets Developments

Mr. Kemp's principal job will be to keep a close check on international trade departments and interpret these developments in accordance with Canadian trade policy. Hi studies will be used to train other departmental officers and particular trade commissioners moving to foreign points.

Mr. Kempt is a graduate of the University of Toronto and the London School of Economics. He was a professor of commerce at the University of Toronto before the war, leaving this post in 1939 to become economic adviser to the prices board.

When the Foreign Trade Service was created in 1945, he was appointed director of the commercial relations and foreign tariffs division, representing the department at a number of international conferences.

Linked with the organization of Canada's recent international tariff pacts, he played a major part in trade negotiations at Geneva in 1947 and at Annecy last year.

$50,000,000 Housing Scheme

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP) — A $50,000,000 home building scheme is being planned for suburban North York, a building trade source said today.

The plan would bring North York's building boom, the largest in Canadian history, to a total of close to $100,000,000.

The source said the plan, soon to be revealed, will provide an additional 3,500 homes in North York to sell between $10,000 and $20,000. Some 2,400 homes now are under construction in North York and 1,000 are in the drawing board stage.

The source said a large syndicate plans to start construction of the homes now that water has been granted North York by the City of Toronto.

A threatened water shortage recently brought a ban on all new building in the township The township council stopped issue of building permits as an emergency measure.

At present, buildings valued at $40,000,000 are being constructed in the suburb

The construction ban was lifted after Toronto Wednesday promised the suburb a 20,000,000 gallon daily water supply.

BULLETIN

TORONTO, Feb. 9—(CP)—Lorne R Cumming, city solicitor of Windsor, was today appointed chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board, Premier Leslie Frost announced.

Japanese Delegation Will Visit Ottawa

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP)—A delegation of Japanese members of parliament, now in the United States, is expected to visit Ottawa Feb. 22, 23 and 24, the External Affairs Department announced today.

The department said an invitation to visit this country had been extended to the delegation made up of members of major parties, with the exception of the Communist party, from both houses of the Japanese parliament.

Little Brown Pup Flies On Yukon Search Missions

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. Feb. 9 (CP)—Prince, a seven-week-old shepherd dog, who would rather chase fluffy white clouds around at 10,000-foot levels than bark at the heels of fluffy white sheep on solid ground, today was at his accustomed post at daybreak.

When the crew of a United States Air Force B-17 clambered aboard their four-motored search plane, they found the little brown pup sitting up in the co-pilot's seat. The sight wasn't unusual.

For the last two weeks the aircraft has been engaged in the giant aerial search of the Yukon for the missing United States G-54 transport and its 44 passengers and crew.

Prince has made every search flight with the B-17. He now has about 100 hours of flying time including flights aboard rescue gliders in Alaska.

The pup is the only airborne mascot at this northern search base. Eight hours every day he accompanies Lieut. Jim Keel of Chicago, Ill., as the American pilot and his crew search treacherous mountain tops and valleys Between search sorties, Prince catches the odd wink of sleep aboard the aircraft.

"We've got him along as protection against wolves in case we have to come down somewhere in this rugged country," joked one crew member.

Coal Talks Collapse In Capital

Hundreds Of Trains Being Cut, Plants Curb Work

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 9—(AP) United States industry tightened its belt today as soft coal peace talks collapsed in Washington. More steel companies announced cutbacks.

U.S. railroads pushed to juggle train schedules. Under an Interstate Commission ruling hundreds of runs must be cancelled at 11.59 p.m. (local time) Friday.

These were some of the developments:

1. Inland Steel Company at Chicago said its coal supplies "have dwindled to the critical point." It announced the shutdown of a second blast furnace.

2. Republic Steel Corporation said it will close one of its Youngstown (Ohio) district blast furnaces immediately. The firm previously had announced shutting down two furnaces in Cleveland.

3. The coal shortage started to hit small schools. At Delphi, Ind., which has a population of about 2,500, schools were closed.

Cancel Overtime

Industries which use coal kept a close watch on developments. In Detroit, General Motors Corporation cancelled all plans for Saturday work and any scheduled overtime because of what it called "the emergency in the coal situation."

Ford Motor Company reported no change in its overtime plans but a spokesman said "we are keeping a day-to-day watch on the situation."

The railroad industry didn't have to watch the situation. It knew it faced a crisis. A Pennsylvania Railroad spokesman said his road had "about 11 days" supply of coal on hand.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered that railroads make 25 per cent cut in their coal burning freight services. And they were told to cut coal burning passenger services to 50 per cent of the services operated last Dec. 1.

Although it was generally quiet in the coal fields, upwards of 100 pickets were reported to have attacked a division superintendent at the Island Creek Coal Co.

Nab 2 Gunmen After Holdup

MONTREAL, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Two gunmen who robbed a branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce Wednesday were captured 10 minutes later in their car by a rookie constable.

Police identified the bandits as Herbert Marlowe, 27, of Ottawa, and Frank Johnson, 25, of Montreal.

A telephone call to police from the bank manager notified them quickly of the hold-up. Constable Marcel Deguise of the town of Mount Royal force, cruising about in a patrol car, picked up the police broadcast.

A few minutes later he forced a suspected car to the curb and arrested the men at gunpoint.

Toronto Has Applied For Amalgamation

TORONTO, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Toronto today applied to the Ontario Municipal Board for an order to amalgamate 12 surrounding municipalities with the city. The order would implement a Toronto bylaw passed Feb. 1.

The application seeks to bring within the borders of Toronto certain portions of the villages of Forest Hill, Long Branch and Swansea; the towns of Leaside, Mimico, New Toronto and Weston; the townships of York, East York and North York; and portions of Etobicoke and Scarboro townships.

Warden Clive M. Sinclair, of York County, which includes the municipalities concerned, today filed an objection to the application. He urged that any action by the board be stayed until ratepayers can be informed of the cost of the project.

Russians Live Well If Toe Party Line

Writers And Musicians Enjoy Luxury If They Jail Thoughts

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—Soviet writers, musicians, artists and scientists live well, so long as they consent to wear an intellectual strait-jacket, an American reporter has found.

These intellectuals share the top rung of the social ladder with the leading politicians, says Edmund Stevens, who covered Moscow for the last three years for the Christian Science Monitor.

Stevens found that Soviet morality is predicated on the idea that anything promoting Communism is moral. Thus, he observes, the cultural strait-jacket is no more startling than the assumed right of the government to distort or withhold the truth, break agreements, subdue alien peoples and outstrip the Czars in imperialism

The artists, writers and scientists have cars—like Stalin they seem to prefer the American to the Soviet models. They have town flats in addition to country homes, despite the critical housing situation. They are the pampered social lions of the Soviet scene.

Better Than Doctors

They do much better than doctors, lawyers or other professional men, who earn the ruble value of $194 to $582 monthly. They soar above the white collar people, who earn the equivalent of $97 to $184 a month, enough for a sufficient but monotonous living.

But, Stevens reports, the pitfalls are many and the road is treacherous. The intellectual must be nimble enough to catch and ride the current party drift.

Denouncing Americans is the surest key to literary success, even for a writer of children's books, and "no Soviet play or novel nowadays is complete without American diplomats, newspaper men, engineers or business men who are at the same time spies and provocateurs."

But as an example of what can happen, last March Tamara Motylova, leading Soviet female literary critic, was fired from Corky Institute's faculty and had her doctor's degree revoked. Her offence: She urged Soviet literature to be critical of Soviet surroundings, and she referred favorably to the German-Jewish author Lion Feuchtwanger. This, branded her a "bourgeois cosmopolite."

Monotonous Life

Newspaper writers lead a monotonous life. Pravda is the country-wide model and other papers seem like carbon copies, echoing and re-echoing through the country.

"The over-all Soviet practice of doctoring facts to fit the party line determines the nature of Soviet news coverage," Stevens says. The press is regarded as a propaganda weapon, not as a means of informing the people.

Stevens reviews the plight of Soviet composers forced to confess publicly that their music has been tainted with western ideas. Dmitri Shostakovitch and others bowed and confessed. Serge Prokofiev did not. He did try to write music which might pass Communist inspection, but it was howled down. Today, says Stevens, the once-gay Prokofiev, outstanding among modern composers, is a frustrated, sullen and broken man.

Adopt Hitlerite Methods In Eastern Germany To Control Young People

Revive Youth Organizations With Purpose Of Developing Spy Ring, Boys, Girls Must Join Or Lose Privileges

BERLIN, Feb. 9—(AP)—Eastern Germany Wednesday night rolled the calendar back to 1933, creating a new gestapo and drafting the young into a regimented organization resembling the old Hitler youth. The Volkskammer (people's chamber) enacted both laws without a word of dissent. No one has voiced a nay in that hand - picked, non - elective body since it was set up last October as a parliament for the Communist republic in the Soviet zone.

The bill for a new ministry of state security to direct a secret political force with unlimited authority to arrest and imprison is modelled after Russia's own secret police, the MVD.

It may embrace a vast network of informers as in the days of Hitler's gestapo. The Communist press called the measure necessary to direct defensive espionage in all walks of life because the East German state was endangered by saboteurs of Anglo-American imperialism.

Must Join Group

Henceforth, a boy or girl in the Soviet zone must be a member of the "Free German Youth" organization or be unable to take part in sports, picnics, hikes, travels, certain school work and even in the choice of a profession.

By the language of the act, the youth also would be encouraged to become a gigantic internal spy ring, just as the Hitler Jugend was taught to tattle even on parents if they were anti-Nazi.

The law authorizes democratic youth to develop its initiative in the fight against bureaucracy, sabotage and the deficiencies of labor—terms which the Communists employ in attacks on their political opposition.

Adoption of the measures coincided with reports from West Berlin sources that the Communists have heightened a purge of minority party members who observe a nominal co-operation with the Communists.

The reports said Christian Democrat and Liberal Democrat holders of government jobs in Saxony, Brandenburg and Sachsen-Anhalt have been ousted, and that key members of these parties were rumored to have been arrested.

UK Market Loss Said Creating Unemployment

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 9 (CP)—Unemployment is growing in Canada because of the loss of markets in Britain and other sterling-area countries, Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew said here Wednesday night. He claimed that the Liberal government failed to tell parliament and the people that serious losses would come in overseas markets, although Agriculture Minister Gardiner knew of the situation for two years past.

"As leader of the opposition I will want to know and I intend to find out why parliament did not get those facts as to the loss of our markets," Mr. Drew said in an address at the one-day annual convention of the Western Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Delegates also heard Premier Frost of Ontario demand an early start on large-scale Niagara and St. Lawrence River power projects to ensure Ontario of new power sources for industrial expansion. He appealed to the Federal Government for assistance in obtaining the agreements with the United States necessary to launch the developments.

Mr. Drew asserted that Agriculture Minister Gardiner for two years had known that serious losses would come in the United Kingdom and other sterling markets for Canadian exporters. "He didn't tell parliament, nor did he tell the people of Canada, that this would come about. Not only is the government withholding the true figures as to the number of unemployed in Canada, but they withheld for two years the fact the Canadian farmer would be looking for a market to sell his product."

Declaring there never was a time in history when the need for forthright criticism was more urgent than now, Mr. Drew said "if any government claims the right to hold all the facts to itself, that isn't real democracy.

"The very life blood and basic safeguard of democracy as we know it, rests on the vigor and vitality with which the opposition examines things that are being done, and which are not being done."

Recover Car, Bodies

LABELLE, Que., Feb. 9 (CP)—A four-day search for the bodies of two men drowned in nearby Lake Labelle ended Wednesday with the recovery of the automobile which carried the victims to their death. The men, Lionel Cedilot, 22, and Laurent Therault 40, both of Labelle, were trapped inside the auto when it plunged through the ice about one-quarter mile from shore Saturday.

Boy Helps Robber

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP)—Fear that his mother's life was in danger prompted a seven-year-old boy to disclose to an armed robber the location of cash receipts in his parents' grocery store Wednesday night. The thief escaped with $15.

Trying To Link 5 In Detroit With Big Holdup

DETROIT, Feb. 9 (AP)—Five persons were arrested here Wednesday with $37,150 in cash in a paper bag and police immediately began an attempt to connect them with two Boston hold-ups, one of them the $1,500,000 Brink's robbery.

Detective Inspector Walter Wyrod said the five refused to talk except to say they got the money from gambling.

Police questioned the quintet—four men and a 22-year-old blonde—about the Brink's, Incorporated, robbery Jan. 17 when nine men escaped with $1,500,000, and the Jan. 16 Statler Hotel hold-up when bandits got $48,000. All five were booked for investigation of armed robbery.

They were picked up in the early morning hours, after police stopped for a routine check of their parked car and saw the driver attempt to force a paper bag containing the $37,150 under the seat with his foot.

Similar Denominations

The bag contained $28,000 in $100 bills and $9,150 in $50 bills. Police said they were similar to denominations and series taken in the Brink's hold-up.

Both the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the secret service were called in by police. Boston police sent particulars of their hold-ups, but said names of those held do not appear in police records there.

Wyrod listed those held as:

John Gach, 35, driver of the car and former associate of Purple gangster Harry Fleischer; his wife Dorothy, 22; Menico Depietto, 29; Steve Settas, 29, and Steve Vitale, 25.

All were listed from Detroit, except Depietto, who detectives said was from Grand Rapids, Mich., and wanted in Chicago for questioning in a burglary and shooting.

Expelled By Smoke She Turns In Alarm

A smouldering fire in a vacant room Wednesday afternoon caused about $250 damage to the home of John Donoghue, 308 Park Street.

It was discovered by Irene O'Reilly, housekeeper, who smelled something burning, opened the door, and was driven out by thick smoke. She turned in the alarm.

The room in the large house is often used by the children while playing. When firemen investigated the blaze, they found some burned matches among a group of toys and some live ones as well.

Two of the children were at scohol at the time, but the third, a four-year-old girl Mardi, had been playing there 10 or 15 minutes before the fire was discovered.

The floor of inlaid linoleum was burned and the walls scorched and blackened. Smoke damage will be the principal item on the bill of repairs. Only other furnishings in the room were an old table and a few chairs.

Industrials Steadying On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Industrials steadied from recent declines on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Slight demand lifted a handful of industrial leaders into fractionally higher ground while the remainder of the market sagged.

Volume for the first three hours was 493,000 shares.

Papers led the mild recovery movement in industrials. Bell Telephone tended slightly easier in a weaker utility list following the company's annual report showing lower earnings. Steels, constructions, textiles and foods showed a brighter tone. Liquors continued declining.

Junior gold producers slipped pennies in the dullest activity in some time. A few generally forgotten stocks were comparatively active. Features of Wednesday's market, Upper Canada Mines, Chemical Research were among the active stocks. Upper Canada sagged under pressure of profit-taking sales. Chemical Research recovered from early pressure to chalk up a strong advance.

Base metals settled slightly on small losses. Western oils showed signs of recovery from mid-session declines.

Statistics show that the chances against your being an auto accident fatality are only 3,600 to one.

Plowmen Lose Out

BELFAST, Feb. 9—(CP) Canadian plowmen competing in the International Plowing Match had to content themselves Wednesday with the visitors' cup, which went to Jim Eccles of Brampton, Ont. Most awards in Wednesday's matches were won by northern Ireland farmers. Alex McKinney, manager of the Canadian team, said the poor showing of the Dominion plowmen was due to their unfamiliarity with the soil.

Cottage Thieves Hear Sentences

LINDSAY, Feb. 9.—Jack Oulette, 21, of Sorel, Que., and Clement Martin, 24, of St. Adolphe de Howard, were sentenced on Wednesday by Magistrate E. A. Gee to six months in jail on two charges of breaking and entering cottages, and theft, as well as stealing a car at Rhinestone Lake, Haliburton. Pierre Lebrun, 21, of Visitation, Que., was given suspended sentence for two years.

The three escaped from the Don Jail some time ago, and Martin and Oulette picked up a car at Oshawa, meeting Lebrun by accident at Haliburton.

James Topley and Robert Bester of Toronto were at their summer cottages when they spotted the men and held the trio at shotgun point until police arrived.

Missing Plane

Early today the Weasels were threading their way 17 miles across open and rugged terrain, following the Aishihik Creek bottom which is closed in by high cliffs.

Aboard the carriers, which are to be used in Exercise Sweetbriar, were 10 Canadian and American mountain-climbing troops. The Canadians were members of the PPCLI based at Calgary.

The winterized vehicles will go as far as possible up the mountain, then the troops will set out on snowshoes and skis, hauling sleds. A doctor is with them.

Reason For Crash Mystery

What caused the Dakota to crash was not known here. Search authorities said only that it appeared the pilot was in complete control of the aircraft when it set down—fellow pilots described it as a "damn good landing in such high real estate."

The Canadians aboard the Dakota as search hunters, were Pte. R. R. Sweeney of Halifax; Pte. R. H. Clappison of Hamilton; Pte. O. O. Carter of Ochre River, Man.; Pte. J. E. Shaw of Winnipeg; and L. Cpl. M. Chimko of Kelvington, Sask.

The Dakota came down on a slope of about 30 degrees, with its nose pointing towards the mountain peak several hundred feet up. The survivors built campfires and took equipment out of the aircraft to construct a crude cross in a clear patch of snow.

Redistribute Food Products Oliver Suggests

TORONTO, Feb. 9.—Some way must be found on the international level to distribute food products some countries have in abundance to others that are in want, Farquhar Oliver, Grey County farmer and former leader of the Ontario Liberals, said at the 18th annual convention of the Ontario Agricultural Council Wednesday at Queen's Park.

For his produce sold in Canada, the farmer should get a price in keeping with the returns to other lines of endeavor. The remainder should be sold or disposed of under government auspices to other parts of the world.

The federal or provincial governments could not be blamed to a very great degree for the loss of markets in Britain, he said. He had a feeling, though, that the federal government should have acquainted farmers with what was in store for them on the termination of food contracts so they could regulate their production accordingly.

Farmers had been asked to take a 10 to 15 per cent loss in returns almost overnight. The implements they used to produce their goods had held or increased in price. The farmer grumbled at being alone in taking a cut in return while industry and labor which contribute to his costs take none.

Lay Off Labor

As farm receipts dwindle, farmers will buy less machines and other manufactured goods, with the result the manufacturer has no alternative but to lay off labor. The result, he said, was depression.

All factors being equal, farmers should not get subsidies. But they were not equal, he said; the machinery industry was protected by tariffs, and it was reasonable the farmer should be protected.

When much of the British market was lost, it was said let's find other markets, Mr. Oliver continued. The Canadian farmer could not, however, produce beef as cheaply as Argentina, where cattle do not require stabling, unless he suffered a lower standard of living such as we would not want to see.

Mr Oliver said he did not believe in a policy of national sufficiency—producing just what was needed for the home market. There was no escaping the fact that half the world was in need of food today. A system would have to be devised to give the farmer a fair price at home, and to make available food abroad at competitive prices.

Miner Returns To Work In Pit

BELLETERRE, Que., Feb. 9 — (CP)—Hardrock miner Roland Roberge said today that, despite a close call he's set to return to work in a Belleterre mine where three of his friends were killed in a 15-ton rockfall Tuesday.

The 33-year-old driller, who escaped unscathed, said in an interview the rockfall was so sudden he was unaware of it until he turned away from his drill and saw most of the six-man crew had disappeared.

Pat LeBlanc, another survivor, who was working on the same drilling machine as Roberge, was buried under the fall. But Roberge and the third survivor, Lawrence Paquette, dug him out.

"The machines make a lot of noise, and I thought at first that the sound was a busted air hose," he said.

The accident happened on the 2,300-foot level of the Belleterre Gold Mine in this northwestern Quebec mining community, 72 miles east of Haileybury, Ont.

Withdraw Program To Aid Chest Drive

First effort to ensure the success of the Community Chest drive scheduled in Peterborough for the week commencing March 3, has been made by a business firm in Toronto.

The Procter and Gamble Company of Canada Ltd., whose Jack Smith and Beulah shows are broadcast over CHEX between 7 and 7.30 p.m. have agreed to withdraw their programs on the opening night of the Community Chest drive, in order that the speech to be delivered at the opening dinner at the Empress Hotel by James Scruton, vice-president and general manager of H. J. Heinz Company Ltd., may be broadcast.

In a letter to the Community Chest organizers C. W Hart, representing the Company writes:

"It would certainly seem from your letter that you have a very aggressive Community Chest campaign committee and we were delighted to learn that you have developed a pattern in Peterborough which enables you to achieve your quotas year after year."

Canadian Diplomat Upsets UN Formality

Taboos Shattered When Lively Chance Bangs Committee Gavel

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 9 (CP)—When Leslie Chance bangs the gavel in the United Nations, delegates aren't surprised if some diplomatic taboos are shattered.

As head of the consular division in Canada's External Affairs Department, Chance knows the niceties of diplomatic formality. But he keeps them to the required minimum as chairman of the UN committee on stateless persons.

As for getting the assigned job finished, UN officials say the committee is setting records for dispatch. Chance's handling of the meetings is given most of the credit, although some goes to the fact that east-west friction doesn't hamper the work—Russia and Poland walked out at the opening because Chinese Nationalist diplomats were present.

Most Informal Session

UN officials say the 13-member Ad Hoc Committee on statelessness and related problems—the group's formal title—is conducting its most informal session in UN history.

Their work is anything but spectacular. Since Jan. 16 they have been, as Chance said recently, "trying to get onto paper the draft of a convention which member governments of the United Nations will be invited to accept, which will set forth the standards. . . by which civilized nations agree to deal with the refugees which are within their gate."

Wide Experience

This is the Sauve Chance's first appearance at the UN. At 57 he has spent 31 years in Canadian government service. From 1919 to 1940 he was a member of the Soldiers' Settlement Board. During the Second World War he held high posts in British supply organization in the United States, on loan from the Canadian government.

An example of Chance at work:

Denmark had submitted three minor amendments on three successive days only to see them all voted down. On the fourth day Denmark came up with another. Someone started to raise objections when Chance interjected.

"Aw, c'mon fellows, let Denmark have her way for once."

The committee did.

Hospital Deficit Of $7,943; Grants Offset

COBOURG, Feb. 9 (ENS) — Net operating deficit for 1949 was $7,943 as compared with a deficit of $14,293.50 in 1948, it was revealed at the annual meeting of Cobourg Hospital Board. Offsetting this deficit are grants and donations which place the hospital finances on the right side of the ledger to the extent of $4,889.97.

In 1948, the loss, after grants and donations had been taken into consideration, amounted to $4,556.09. However the reserve of last year is not sufficient to enable the hospital to carry on without these annual grants and contributions, it was said.

Earned revenue for 1949 totalled $60,868.01 and expenditures were $68,811.81 for an operating deficit of $7,943. In 1948 the income was $48,357.51 and expenditures $62,651.08 for an operating deficit of $14,293.50. Last year was an improvement, with a record number of 1,523 patients for an adult days' stay of 8,902 and an average patient stay of 5.84 days.

In 1948, number of patients was 1,383; adult days' stay, 8,144 and average day's stay 5.89. In 1943 the corresponding figures were 973 patients, adult days' stay 8,694 and average day's stay, 8.9.

Institution of eight hour duty among the staff in 1948, boosted costs due to an increase in staff. Cost of drugs, equipment and other supplies, while still high, has levelled off and the hospital board is more optimistic for the future.

Tired Businessmen's Delight Volleyball's 20th Big Year

Members of the YMCA Saturday Afternoon Volleyball League are proud of the league's record. For twenty successive seasons the "Y" has operated the league, which runs from early in the fall until well into May.

Although the league is over 80 years old, the Ivan Lillico Trophy, the prize of the competition, has been in circulation for only 16 years. Some of the men who took the cup for the first time in 1934 were: G. S. Matthews, A. B. Rhodes, A. B. Hood, C. G. Graham, V. S. Foster and Albert Dryland. A large number of the present day players boast of "the good old times" in the early days of the league. Mr. Dryland is one of the team captains of the league this year and was the captain of the 1934 winners. Last year he was president of the Ontario Volleyball Association.

In 1949 Don Crawford's squad took the championship after a torrid series. The members of his squad were: Ralph Carpenter, Howard David, Walker Jones, Dave Kerr and Clark Thackeray.

This year the league started in October, playing in series two out of three games or 45 minutes of play in the four league games each Saturday afternoon. At present the leading teams are Ken Kingston's, Howard David's, Cliff Cadd's and Dave Kerr's.

This league is really an offspring of another group, business men who skip two hours' work each Wednesday afternoon, rock the "Y" gym with their energetic play. This league also boasts of a 20 year record. The league was started by a group of businessmen who wished to have some sort of recreation during the week. Each Wednesday afternoon they telephoned one another until two teams were had.

Championship Play

Out of these leagues members of the team which represents the city in Ontario championship play are chosen. For many years the locals played in the intermediate bracket and finally took the big step into the senior competition. In this group they have been the only team to take the championship away from the Kitchener squad. The latter have been Ontario champions 14 times in the last 16 years, Peterborough champions in 1944 and 1945.

Of the members of the championship squads, C. Elliott, El Jones, William Swiss, S. G. Payne, D. T. Crawford, C. J. Cadd, W. E. Vincent, S. J. Cumrik, R. F. Kitchen, A. E. Dryland, J. N. Stanger and K. N. Kingston, there are five, Cadd, Kingston, Payne and Stanger, playing with the team in Ontario playdowns this Saturday. The local "Y" team enters the first of a home and home round-robin series with Toronto Central YMCA and YMHA. The winner will meet the survivor of the Kitchener-Hamilton-Toronto series for the Ontario championship. Howard David, Errol Hanbidge, Gordon Burns and Don McTavish will also be spiking balls for the Peterborough cause. Claude Elliott will be the official referee.

Wide Popularity

Volleyball is becoming one of the outstanding games in Canada. In the army at the end of the war volleyball and softball were the favorite sports. On the local playgrounds in the summer time children can nearly always be seen tipping a volleyball over the net. This combined with the Collegiate P. T. and squad play YMCA training helps to build volleyball players of tomorrow.

Each year at the Collegiate the students play a challenge game with the teachers. This game has three results: first, the students and teachers have loads of fun; second, a good attitude between teachers and students is fostered, and lastly it swells the Students' Council Fund. Most of the teachers agree that the fun received eases the pains and aches of the day-after.

St. Joseph's Graduates Stage First Reunion

First organized re-union of the St. Joseph's Hospital Nurses' Alumnae was held with splendid success on Wednesday evening. Sixty were present for a festive dinner in the residence auditorium and more friends joined the group for dancing later.

Among the 41 nurses attending were graduates of 1914 and 1915, Mrs. Barbara Hickey and Mrs. Dorothy LaPlante and a tribute was paid them in the presentation of lovely corsages. The gifts were carried by Bryan Young, small son of Dr. R. J. Young and Mrs Young who is a more recent graduate of the hospital.

Valentine decorations for the occasion were delightful in every way. Cupid with his arrow was the key figure in a heart-shaped frame of frilly tulle set at the point of the banquet tables arranged in a V. Pussywillows among entrancing spring flowers were both red and white, and the bouquets, tied with red ribbon, rested on clouds of tulle.

The tables were lighted with red tapers and at each plate there was a stout little marshmallow man with jelly bean limbs and a red heart face, also a lace doilie with red heart centre, and a valentine serviette. Some table novelties added to the general attractiveness and the food was particularly delicious, all of it having been prepared in the homes of Sacred Heart C W L members who were on hand to serve it.

Overhead streamers of red and white were fastened to lights which had been covered with red paper. Large size hearts with silver arrows and comic posters representing the four seasons formed a background for the orchestra. Centering the platform were life-size boy and girl silhouettes in period fashion surrounded by pictures of older graduating classes.

Welcome was extended by Miss Evelyn Barnett, Alumnae president. She explained that St. Joseph's School of Nursing began in 1906 and the Alumnae was first organized in 1920. Purpose of the Association is to have a bond between the nurse and the hospital and to have protection against any legislation that might be harmful to a nurse. The Alumnist often helps in a material way also by sending students to the school from which she has graduated and she can do a great deal to promote the school, as it is judged by her conduct. So the character of the Alumnae reflects on forthcoming student bodies and members were urged to constantly increase their knowledge and outlook.

Twin sisters Margaret and Olive Christian entertained with operatic solos and were accompanied by Miss Barbara Craig. Miss Ann Collins played two pleasing violin selections with Miss Alma LaPlante at the piano.

"I never see nurse alone," made a big hit when sung by a sextette whose costumes indicated the varying social layers from tramp to plug hat and tails. The singers were members of the committee in charge of arrangements, Misses Veronica O'Leary, Leona Shearer Velma Bell, Evelyn Barnett, Kay Doris, and Teresa Walsh. For an encore they sang "In the evening by the moonlight."

Community singing was led by Miss Betty Lake of Lakefield with Catherine Noade, a student nurse, playing the piano. Music for dancing was by Doug. Dobson and his quintette.

A vote of thanks to all taking part was moved by Alumnist Miss Kathleen Hickey.

Others present included:

Warriors' Day Form Part Of Centennial

Participation of war veterans in Peterborough's centennary celebration this year will likely be centred around the Canadian Legion anual Civic Holiday picnic and march past. And a drumhead service on the preceding Sunday is also probable.

These tentative decisions were reached Wednesday afternoon at a joint meeting of the Centennial Committee and the representatives of the various ex-service organizations in the city.

Purpose of the gathering was to co-ordinate the activities of these groups on the Civic Holiday, customarily warriors' day in Peterborough.

No definite decisions were made as some of the representatives did not have the authority to speak on behalf of their organizations, and wished to know their membership's views before proceeding.

It was clearly established, however, as laid down in the resolution, that the participation of soldiers, sailors and airmen would be built around the anual Legion picnic and march past. And the Legion would be the kingpin in this co-ordinating activity.

"Our committee isn't trying to force anything on you," said William Ovens, chairman. "It's your show and you do it the way you want."

The different ex-service clubs will meet with the Legion Committee at 7.30 on February 22 to formulate a comprehensive plan of veterans' activities.

E. A. Outram, city clerk, said the city was not prepared to spend much money on this particular event. The city was trying to keep the tax rate down, he said, and the allocation for the centennial celebration had to be spread over all the activities.

Gil Downer, president of the Red Patch Club, said his club would like to see a three-day veterans' celebration, similar to the post First World War Corps reunions.

Mrs. Albert Mason, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, felt that a drumhead service was an essential.

"We haven't had one for some time," she said. "It would be appreciated not only by the veterans but also by the rest of the citizens."

As an extra inducemennt she pointed out that it required very little money expenditure while giving much satisfaction.

It was found that all organizations but the air force had official representatives. There is no Air Force Association here in Peterborough but steps are being taken to organize one.

Norwood Defeats Hastings By 9-4 Score

HASTINGS, Feb. 9.—(ENS). — Norwood stayed in the race for second place in the Trent Valley League Wednesday night, defeating Hastings 9-4 on Hastings ice. Both teams have played better hockey and at times the game slowed down to a walk. D. Bell was top scorer for Hastings with a pair of goals, while L. Ball and Greenley played very steady defence. Webb found the mark three times for Norwood, and Rogers scored two neat ones in the third period.

Officials were easy with the thumb, and handed out just one penalty, a minor for high sticking.

Line-up:

Hastings—Goal, O. Nelson; defence, L. Ball, Greenley; centre, J. Morrow; wings, D. West, D. Ball; alternates, Edwards, J. Wilson, Carr, Clapperton, S. Stevenson, M. Mueller.

Norwood—Goal, Morrison; defense, F. Payne, G. Payne; centre, D. Evans; wings, V. Clement, B. Kelley; alternates, W. Rogers, B. Webb, J. Brown, Peterson, P. Lonsberry; H. Smith, Hamilton.

Road From Newfoundland To Vancouver Island

The Minister of Resources, Mr. Ross Winters, has returned from a West Indian tour with a confidence that work will be started on the Trans-Canada Highway this spring. We hope so. Canadians have been waiting for the completion of this road for twenty years. There is no good reason for further delay. It is quite ridiculous, indeed militarily dangerous and economically damaging, that no through hard-surfaced road exists from coast to coast in Canada. How can a nation pretend to political and spiritual unity if there is no physical bond of unity except three sets of rails?

• • •

The Federal Government has promised to put up fifty per cent. of the cost of the road—either of new building, or of the original cost of roads being incorporated into the Trans-Canada system. The Federal Government has ear-marked $150,000,000 for its share of the costs. Six of the ten provinces have already agreed on the route it shall follow through their respective territories; Ontario, Quebec, Alberta and Nova Scotia have not. The Federal Government is not putting its voice into the route question; it merely asks that the road follow the shortest practical east-west route consistent with the needs of the Province and Canada as a whole. That leaves enough latitude even for Ontario and Quebec, surely.

• • •

The road should be started without fail this spring, and completed well within the conjectured seven years. One of the big gaps is in north-western Ontario. Let the Ontario Government make its decision, without too much abasement to local politics, and make it possible for Ontario people to drive conveniently and comfortably from Toronto to Winnipeg, without the need of a detour through the States.

The Death Of Dr. Salem Bland

Many people who did not know him personally will feel regret at the death of Dr. Salem Bland of Toronto. He was a Methodist of the old school, a man whose conscience was his guide to conduct, and a tireless crusader on behalf of all who were oppressed or unfortunate. He was never belligerent, as so many crusaders are; he was always quiet and courteous, but firm in his resolve.

Though we did not know Dr. Bland we saw him often, and admired him for a quality which might have surprised him if he had been conscious of it; we refer to his remarkable personal beauty. Though a frail and crippled old man he had a noble head, and his face was of delicate modelling. In his expression was an unusual blending of humility and nobility. It might be said of him, as it was said of the great preacher Edward Irving that "to behold him was to receive a benediction".

Try Hirohito?

We are piqued by Russia's demand made of the United States last Thursday, that Emperor Hirohito of Japan be tried as a war criminal on a charge involving bacteriological warfare. It seems a little unreal. Why, in Canada, all the posters showing a sallow, evil, smirking face alleged to be that of Japan's emperor, came down long ago. In fact, we cannot now adequately describe the poster face. And Emperor Hirohito has become a mild-looking small man in a frock coat moving democratically among his respectful people. It would seem much more real if Russia had asked that he be put on trial as a Cold War instrument of wicked capitalism, an American subversive threat to the New Democracy of communism. Perhaps Russian, anxious for headlines which have been stolen by the American hydrogen bomb, has so little up its sleeve, that it must call up Hirohito. It is rather a weak response.

A Spain Of Indo-China?

French Indo-China is already torn by civil strife as bitter as that waged in Greece in the first post-war years. In this Viet Nam war, the French-supported government (aided by French troops) is battling with Communists who under the leadership of Ho Chin Minh have set up a "Democratic Republic of Viet Nam". This week the Soviet Union threw a hot hammer into the bloody business by giving full diplomatic recognition to Chi Minh "government". It is possible that the "Greek incident" can thus become, according to C. L. Sulzberger, writing from Paris in the New York Times, an eastern "Spanish civil war", with outside nations taking active if unofficial parts on behalf of either the Communists or the Bao Dai conservative government. If China, the Soviet Union or other outside countries send foreign troops into Indo-China, as was done in Spain from 1936 to 1939, an Asiatic "Spain" could result.

Diplomatic recognition of a regime does not necessarily imply approval of that regime. When Britain recognized the new Chinese Communist government, it did not automatically commend it. However, the Soviet Union is unlikely to recognize a new regime of which it does not approve. In any case, the recognition the U.S.S.R. has given Chi Minh in Indo-China is premature; Chi Minh is far from having established complete control over the country. It is not a regime. Russia is bluffing with diplomatic weapons. Will these be forerunners of her military ones in Indo-China?

T.C.A. To Fly New York Route

The nationally disturbing question of the Montreal-New York air route has been settled, because the obstreperous American company which had held the monopoly and fought tooth and nail to keep it—even to the extent of challenging its own government's authority to deal in international matters—has decided not to continue the American Supreme Court action it began. Probably wise heads and stern counsel from American quarters prevailed over Colonial Airlines' stubbornness.

By international agreement negotiated last year, which Canada honoured but the Americans did not (because of Colonial Airlines), T.C.A. was to be allowed operating rights from Montreal to New York. It is at long last to have them. Trans-Canada Air Lines announces that it is prepared to begin operating on the Montreal-New York run within a fortnight.

Thus an unpleasant incident is closed. That it developed at all shows a weakness in the American legislative and executive system, noticeable by all countries which have dealings with the U.S.A. In Canada the executive is backed by parliamentary authority. In the U.S.A. the President and his Cabinet are not; often Congress vetoes what a government department has agreed to. Sometimes it is difficult for other Governments to know exactly whom they should deal with, because of the division between executive and legislative authority in the U.S.A.

Thin Ice

Ice-cutters who ordinarily by this time would have half finished their work of filling cottagers' ice-houses in preparation for the hot summer holidays, have hardly sawn a cube. The lake ice is so thin that there is not enough, and what there is would not be sufficiently durable. Some men have thrown in the sponge—so to speak—and are chopping out nine-inch stuff. Others continue to wait and hope. And there's always hope when there's still February. The winter is not over, by a long shot; nor can it be said that the worst (i.e. the frostiest) has passed—not this odd winter.

Thin ice on the lakes should be a warning to children and parents. The river with its current,—and even the canal, as a news story last week emphasized—cannot be considered safe for walking. There are not nine inches of ice on the Otonabee, its bays, or the canal; they are definitely unsafe.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A New York physician says that a diet of animal charcoal will drive an alcoholic to give up drinking. Probably discourages him from eating and working (those other fatal vices) as well.

A beggar who tramped the roads of the U.S.A. has died leaving accounts in forty banks. By receiving he made it possible for a lot of people to enjoy that special blessing which goes with giving.

A Detroit paper accuses the Canadian city of Chatham of showing four different houses as the one in which John Brown sheltered runaway slaves before the American Civil War. This shows civic enterprise. We understand that Chatham is also going to open a branch of that other local tourist-squeezer, Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The Art Of Stanley Spencer

By ERIC NEWTON

THE easiest way to explain Stanley Spencer, to account for his power and also for his occasional lapses into unintelligibility, is to say that he is the only contemporary artist of the first rank to whom subject-matter is not merely important but all-important. Almost every other painter is content with the little fragment of the visible world that excites him, stimulates his creative impulses and, after the usual process of digestion, becomes a picture that adequately expresses his initial excitement. This is the process that accounts for ninety per cent. of contemporary painting, both good and bad. Such painting is, fundamentally, no more than a record of the artist's experience as he goes through life. It could be compared to the jottings in a diary. To say that is not to belittle it. The diary of a great man can be a great work of art.

In order to understand the achievement of Stanley Spencer it is necessary to establish this essential difference between him and his contemporaries. He is not a diarist. It is true, he has painted landscapes and still lifes with no other object in view than to express his delight in the isolated fragment, but it is not on these pictures that his reputation depends. They are like the passages that a great pianist will sometimes practice in order to enlarge his pianistic technique. If he had painted nothing but these he would be a popular academic artist instead of a strangely imaginative painter of parables, a narrative painter, and, in the best sense of the word, an illustrator.

Spencer has devoted his life (he was born in 1891) to illustrating the themes that seemed to him important, and any approach to his art must take into account not only what those themes were, but also what was his attitude to them. With most artists it is sufficient to say "At an early age he fell under the influence of such and such a painter and gradually produced a personal variation of his style". But to use such a phrase about Spencer would be meaningless. Spencer, at an early age, fell under two influences and neither of them was a painter. One was a book—the Bible—the other was his environment, the village of Cookham-on-Thames, Berkshire, England, in which his formative years were spent and in which he still lives. With one massive exception to which I shall refer later, all his best work has been illustrative of one of those two themes and often he has painted both in the same picture. He has interpreted the Bible in terms of Cookham, or, to be more accurate, he has taken the universal themes of Christianity and given them a particular setting in the village of his boyhood.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE one exception to the rule that Spencer's paintings are based either on life in his native village or on an interpretation of Christianity is the interior of the memorial chapel at Burghclere near Newbury, Berkshire, England. The chapel was built for him by two of his admirers, Mr. and Mrs. Behrend, in order to give him the opportunity of realizing on a large scale, a scheme for an interior filled with mural paintings for which he had made small sketches immediately after World War I. The chapel was built and the murals were completed in 1934. They form the largest and most impressive single work of art done by an English artist in this century—a fact that would be more widely acknowledged if the chapel were better known and easier of access.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE two side walls are divided into arcaded panels, each showing some aspect of World War I in the Near East, where Spencer served as a soldier in the medical services. They are crowded with incident, vividly depicted, with the usual picturesqueness of detail and sharpness of draughtsmanship. The theme is the sharing of daily toil and the comradeship engendered by co-operative work. Work, not war is the theme, and on the east wall is a kind of apotheosis, a big Resurrection in which each man lays down his cross and wanders away to his well-earned rest. The whole interior is both a sermon in paint and a formal, disciplined design on a large scale.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE idea of the Resurrection has always fascinated Spencer and he is said to be working, at present, on a vast canvas on the same theme. It will be interesting, when it is completed, to see in what way it differs from the two earlier versions of the Tate Gallery and Burghclere.

❖ ❖ ❖

DEVOTION to labour has also fascinated him as a painter's theme, and the most important canvases he produced during World War II were a series of long, frieze-like panels which, fitted together make a kind of epic in paint, of shipbuilding in Scotland's Clydeside shipyards. The urgency and intensity of Britain's war effort is certainly caught imaginatively in these panels. No one but Spencer could have done them for no other contemporary artist has the kind of imagination that could be so fired by the spectacle of man and machines.

❖ ❖ ❖

SPENCER is not a "fashionable" artist. His paint, though handled with conviction, is not fluent. There is something dogged in his use of it. Yet because he is convinced of the importance of what he has to say and of the validity of the way he wishes to say it, he can afford to dispense with "fashionableness". His real stature is not yet apparent.

Grass Buries House

Peter Knight and his sisters, the Misses I. and B. Knight, left their homestead at Warrenbri near Wee Waa, New South Wales, because umbrella grass blown from the plains to the northward had buried the house. This grass is highly inflammable and the kitchen fire could not be used to cook meals because a spark might set the grass on fire. The umbrella grass, also called "blow away" was heaped against the fences and telephone posts over a wide area. The Knight homestead was the only house buried. — Australian News.

Civil War Cripples Viet-Nam

By MICHAEL DAVIDSON
(From Hong Kong)

SAIGON, capital of Vietnam (Indo-China) whose insurgent "government" under the Communist Ho Chi Minh has just been "recognized" by Peking (Chinese Communist Government) and whose French-backed official government under the ex-Emperor Bao Dai is clamouring for Western recognition, might be any French colonial town between China and West Africa—if one ignores the delightful physiognomy and raiment of its native inhabitants.

The same "ambiance de province" (provincial atmosphere) stubbornly resisting its exotic setting; the same Sunday aperitif session between Church and lunch on the cafe terraces; the hordes of anxious-faced boys hawking openly black-market American cigarettes; the tiny imploring hands clutching toward your bread as you dine on the pavement; the passionate bicycle racing so valuable to the factories of St. Etienne and Paris; the colonels and "colons" (French colonists) discussing Paris politics over drinks and gazing at the patient beggars as if they do not see them.

And there is the same atmosphere of drowsiness and dust and siesta—but here it is broken by sporadic bursts of gun-fire not so far away. The restaurants are walled with thick wire-netting against grenades; behind these grilles the richer officials and businessmen consume good food and wine at a formidable cost. One difference between this airless city and, say, Fez (French North Africa) or Dakar (French West Africa) strikes the visitor; here an "indigene" (French word meaning native) at a French cafe table is a rare sight. The colour bar was strict before the war and the Annamites have not forgotten it; today they boycott the hotels and cafes from which they were once barred.

The tiny, dignified Annamite women, their white satin trousers shimmering below a long coat of coloured silk divided at the sides and fitting close to a slender figure, their jet hair done in a shiny bun, are less coquettish than Burmese ladies, more elegant than the Chinese; their smooth, modelled faces are the colour of buttercups.

Vietnam, today "united and independent" is an uneasy synthesis of Tonkin which in the north lies against the Chinese border, Annam and, in the south, Cochin China. Tonkin and Annam are former French protectorates and Cochin China was a colony for a hundred years.

Its people hate almost equally the Chinese, the French and their Hindu-influenced neighbours of the Kingdom of Cambodia, all of whom dominated them for some time during their thousands of years of history.

That is why the influence of the Communist-controlled Viet Minh — a Nationalist movement which has been fighting French imperialism for years—is so great: people who are emotionally nationalist without knowing or caring much about Communism, believe Ho Chi Minh's Viet Minh means "freedom".

Viet Minh's influence is such that a great number of people, even in Bao Dai territory controlled by French arms, contribute willingly or unwillingly to its funds. When forty thousand peasants rather glumly marched past Bao Dai last December 30, exhorted by cheer-leaders one high French official murmured, "I suppose half of them are Viet Minh".

Yet in Cochin China, I heard some village elders (old men with long hair done up in buns like old-fashioned English charladies, and ardently nationalist) vow they would resign their position of leadership if French troops were relieved as planned in their village by Viet-Nam troops. They had more faith in the French than in their own soldiers.

They know, too, that Viet-Nam disunity is not only a matter between Bao Dai and Ho Chi Minh. In Cochin China, for example, whole areas are exploited by Fascist-like organizations masquerading as "religions"; one of them, "Cao-Daiism" includes in its pantheon, besides all the deities of the world's great religions, Victor Hugo and Joan of Arc, and some say, Maurice Chevalier.

Now that most of the roads of Cochin China are open again the French and village elders together are doing fine work in rebuilding villages devastated by the Viet Minh. Schools and village centres are going up; temples are flourishing—Buddhist, Confucianist, ancestral and animist.

I went one night when it was full moon to a Confucianist feast offered to the dead. By the light of candles and the moon, an ancient scholar read out from an immense parchment the names of villagers killed by Viet Minh—and summoned them to join the village for a meal. Priests, dressed in the elaborate robes and headdresses of old Imperial China, pranced and side-stepped in a slow, ritual dance, carrying to the ancestral altar the ingredients of the feast—tea, rice, fruit, salt, incense and, of course, that potent rice spirit. It was a pagan ceremony, pathetic and preposterous, which its dignity and sincerity made moving.

This flat delta land, immensely rich with its rice fields and vast, gracious groves of feather coconut palms, would be one of the earth's happiest corners if it had peace. It is as beautiful and generous as are its people. Going up its brown, swampy rivers you would suppose yourself in some conventionally African scene.

But there is not the cruelty of Africa here. These gentle people love to see plenty of artificial blood in their village theatres—it drips off the swordsmen in their operatic melodramas.

But they hate blood in real life. Proud, they want no foreign rulers. Above all, they need peace in which to enjoy their rich earth, fish their rivers and practise their curious mystic cults.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

WORKMEN IN THE HOUSE is another example of the work of Stanley Spencer. This picture is the property of W. A. Evill, Esq. and is reproduced by his permission. (See Third Column).

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered. And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him. But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; Is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it? And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other....

And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God. And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples: and of them he chose twelve, whom also he named apostles....And he came down with them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judaea and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases; and they that were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed. (Luke 6: 6-10, 12, 13, 17, 18.)

Don't Try It Here!

That seems a very doubtful extension of the telephone service which is reported from Hamburg and by which people "who need cheering up" can dial a number and be told "the latest joke." If all applicants are to get the same joke it cannot be very long before the jest loses its freshness; or are those who hear it supposed to be sworn to secrecy? But suppose they have heard it before? There used to be a theory that there were only 20 good jokes in the world, to which was added a warning that the majority of them could not be told outside a smoke-room. That would not leave many blameless jests for telephonic transmission, and it also increases the risk of revived chestnuts. It will be a little bleak for the joke-merchant if his effort is received with "Call that a new joke? I heard it in the schoolroom — and I didn't laugh even then.—Manchester Guardian.

Send 1,000 Troops

AGUSTA, Sicily, Feb. 9 (Reuters)—A vanguard of 1,000 Italian troops and officials sailed from here Wednesday to take over the Somaliland mandate from Britain. They left in two troopships which had been standing by here for two days, awaiting parliamentary approval for their departure.

Mrs. H. M. S. McBain Entertains WMS

FAIRMOUNT, eFb. 9 (ENS) — Mrs. H. M. S. McBain was hostess to Fairmount WMS on Tuesday. Fourteen were present. Plans were made for the World Day of Prayer service to be held in Fairmount Church on February 24, when Springville and Mount Pleasant branches will join with Fairmount.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Lloyd Hooton as arranged in the Missionary Monthly. Mrs. Downes and Mrs. Fair, delegates to the Peterborough Presbyterial, gave reports of that meeting. Mrs. R. F. McIndoo had charge of the study book.

Those assisting Mrs. McIndoo were Mrs. H. Ball, Mrs. Fair, Mrs. W. Edgerton, Mrs. Downes, Mrs. McBain, Mrs. Roy Hooton, Mrs. Fallis and Jean Hanbidge.

Mrs. Roy Hooton, leader of the Mission Band, had scrap books on display made by the Band. Some will be sent overseas and some to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. Lunch was served by Mrs. Windrim, Mrs. H. Ball and Mrs. Lorne Fallis.

Testimony Concluded In Attempted Murder

CHATHAM, Feb. 9 (CP)—Testimony was concluded Wednesday in the trial of William Marchand, 23, of Tilbury, charged with attempted murder and robbery of Adelard Rivard, of Detroit. Mr. Justice G. A. Gale announced he would deliver his charge to the jury this morning.

Defence Counsel W. B. Beardall did not put the accused on the stand to tell of the events of Nov. 12 which led to discovery of Rivard, victim of a severe beating, stuffed in the trunk of his automobile abandoned in a ditch near Coatsworth.

Investigate Procedure In Brantford Election

BRANTFORD, Feb. 9—(CP)—A judicial inquiry into the procedure followed at the time of municipal nominations in Brantford township last November was opened before Judge D. J. Cowan and later was adjourned to Feb. 14.

When the qualification deadline arrived, Charles G. Gurney was declared elected reeve by acclamation, as the only candidate who had qualified. The other nominee, Sheldon Coulbeck, expressed surprise and said he was under the impression he also had qualified.

Stops Ferry Service

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 9 — (CP)—The Dalhousie City, a steamship which was on the summer run between Toronto and nearby Port Dalhousie since 1911 has been sold and the ferry service has been discontinued, it was announced Wednesday. J. P Epringham, superintendent of the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway, which operated the service, said the ship was sold to Lakeshore Lines Ltd., of Lachine, Que.

Gets 3-Year Term

TORONTO, Feb. 9 — (CP). — For what the court called "a most brutal assault" combined with robbery, Gordon Winter 19, on Wednesday was sentenced to three years in Penitentiary, and a 16-year-old companion was given two years less a day definite, plus a year indeterminate, in reformatory. Joseph A. Blois, stepfather of the younger accused, testified he found the two ransacking his home on January 2. He said they beat him up.

Capt. Sharen Dies

SARNIA, Feb. 9 (CP) — Capt. George A. Sharen, veteran Great Lakes skipper, died in hospital Wednesday after a brief illness at the age of 76. Native of Middlesex county, he had captained tugs and then freighters for many years before going into semi-retirement 10 years ago. At the time of his death he was manager of the United Salvage and Towing Company here.

Legionnaires End Schedule With 8-4 Win Against Petes

Legionnaires wound up their OHA senior "B" schedule at Civic Arena last night on a happy note, coming from behind to beat the fourth-place Petes 8-4 before a full house. While Legion are still in top place, they can be edged out by Kingston Nylons—who have several games in hand—and this would mean that Petes and Legion would meet in group semi-final playoffs late next week. With extra police on hand and a curious crowd looking for trouble, the two teams crossed up a lot of people by playing a fairly clean game. A few brief roughing-up episodes and the odd bit of high-sticking or butt-ending was most of the damage done, though Ron Horton of the Petes had four stitches taken over an eye early from a high stick—yet he came back to play shortly. The referees handled it well, and the 16 penalties were evenly divided, two being majors for a short fight between Vitarelli and Legrow, and one a misconduct to McMaster for throwing his stick in disgust after drawing a minor.

WINS SHIRT—Freddy Mortimer, of Legion, won a shirt last night as most valuable player to his club as Legion beat Petes 8-4, Freddy scoring two goals and assisting in another.

The Petes tried strategy in starting Bill Edgar in goal, instead of Ray Harding—and Bill did well the whole game. They had Honey Tompkins on defence and used Gus Leonard at centre in the first line, besides having Don Padgett out with them. It looked like this setup would pay off, as the Foley flock outplayed Legion handily in the first period and for most of the second, despite the 3-0 score after a 3-1 Petes' edge in the first. But they faded and Legion came in on their old style to finish strong and tuck it away with a comfortable margin, though their last goal came at 19:57.

Freddy Mortimer played a sound game for the winners, scoring two goals and aiding on a third, while Bob Parnell and Toddie Greenlaw looked good as they figured in a pair each. Vitarelli, D. Mortimer, Godfrey, Hill, Rochetta, Coombs and Crowley were each in on one for Legion. Freddy Garvey and Junior West led the Petes with two points apiece. Tompkins, Legrow and Collins each being in on one. Both goalies were good in this game, and Ross Nicholls had more to do for two periods than Bill Edgar. It could easily have been a much closer score if Ross had slipped on several hot thrusts at point-blank range, and if the Petes had kept up their hustle of the first half.

Legion: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley and Vitarelli; alternates, Montgomery, D. Mortimer, Hill, Coombs, Parnell, Stewart, Greenlaw and F. Mortimer.

Petes: Goal, Edgar; defence, Tompkins and Jopling; centre, Leonard; wings, Collins and Fife; alternates, West, Garvey, Creighton, Coughlin, Legrow, Pagett, McMaster and Horton.

Referees, W. Wilson, Oshawa; R. Wakelin, Lindsay.

Lindsay Rink Winners Of Walker Cup

By HERB MARTIN.

Playing bang-upcurling all day long, J. Beal of Lindsay, winner of this same trophy last season came through with three wins and enough points to once more capture first place and the beautiful Walker Trophy. This feat has been accomplished by other rinks before, but not for some time.

Dr. McCartney of the local club came second with three wins while C. Shea of Bobcaygeon was third for three wins.

V. Selkirk, Peterborough, was high for two wins and H. Baptie got the consolation prize for one win.

With a capacity entry, chairman T. Doughty sent the boys away pretty well on time. The brand of curling throughout the day was real good, but the one that caught the eye was the McCartney-Lowe affair. It was a pippen—went into overtime—and those last two shots of the Doctor just don't belong to this world. They were a curler's dream.

This Lindsay rink, we believe, is one of their district cup rinks, and it was a treat to watch them.

S. Lowe was forced to play extra ends in two of his games, winning one and losing one.

V. Selkirk, who came in r high two wins made history—he wins two and loses one and yet scores the possible number of shots—36.

It would be no bonspiel if Ben Wan of Oshawa, and Bill Potts, Cobourg, were not here. They always give a good account of themselves.

The games were run pretty well on time and were all over just before midnight. It was a great day—lots of fun and lots of good curling.

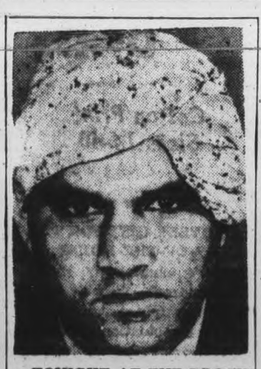
Beat Mount Pleasant

BETHANY, Feb. 9 (ENS) — Bethany Junior Hockey Club have been the hosts for two games this week. On Monday night they were the winners by a 4-3 score against the boys from Mount Pleasant, Maurice Driver starring with three goals, Allan Bigelow scoring the other one.

Tuesday night's game was lost to the opposing team from Cavan, who captured a 4-1 win. Bobby Ryley scored the goal for Bethany.



TONIGHT AT THE BROCK—Nanjo Singh, pictured above, who meets Seelie Samara in the maint bout of tonight's wrestling card at the Brock. The 45-minute semi-final will find Joe Christie tackling Johnny Barend, and Bill Stack goes against Bobby Nelson in the opener. The main bout will see a speedy and scientific grappler in hard-headed Samara meeting one of the mat's worst villains, Nanjo Singh. It should be a hard struggle. The entire card is well-balanced and rates a good turnout of fans.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Bulletin No. 1 for 1950 comes from the OASA reminding the softball leagues that spring is on the way. Annual meeting isn't till Good Friday at Owen Sound. Peterborough is in the population class of 30,000 to 100,000, so must enter as senior "B". Other classes are: Intermediate "A", 10,000-30,000; "AA", same thing; "B" 3,500-10,000; "C", under 3,500. Same classes go in junior "A", "B" and "C", juveniles also being in these three categories, and the midgets of under 16 years and bantams under 14, open to all. The OASA objective is to have more minor clubs sponsored in 1950.

* * * * * *

Viaduct League will meet in Toronto on Feb. 15 and again consider senior ball applications from Oshawa and Peterborough. COBL expects a meeting later in the month to discuss spring plans. The Recreation Commission here will likely meet shortly to deal with the question of lights in Riverside, the proposal being for the Petes to raise $15,000 and for the Commission to loan the club $15,000, being repaid by a percentage of all gates. As Ross Dobbin recently pointed out, time is getting short to place an order for poles, and other requirements, as the winter wears itself along.

Rockets And IOOF-ers

Probably the best OHA junior "B" joust of the season here is billed for tomorrow eve at 8.30 in Civic Arena. It's between Belleville Rockets and the local Oddfellows. These two teams and Oshawa are practically in a three-way tie for first place in their grouping, and all Belleville-IOOF games have been ding-dong battles won by a single goal, last time in an overtime period on Quinte ice. Yes, sir, these husky and hustling young puckists really battle at a hot clip from start to finish, so this one should be a dandy as the schedule winds up in about another week, and playoff positions are by no means settled yet. It rates a real big Friday night crowd.

* * * * * *

We've just received the latest scoring summary from the American Hockey League, including games of Feb. 5. George (Red) Sullivan is climbing steadily in the Hershey list and now has 17 points. Pat Wilson, who played ball for the Petes last summer, is doing well on defence for St. Louis and now has 11 points. Bob Thorpe of Cincinnati has but three, though it must be remembered that it was only a couple of weeks ago the Petes' lacrosse star of last year joined King Clancy's Cincy crew, on a trade from the Buffalo Bisons. We haven't heard lately how playing coach Hank Blade of Kansas City is doing in his setup, but likely okay.

As The Petes Faded

It was 8-4 for Legionnaires over the Petes last eve before a big crowd at Civic Arena—fairly close to a sellout—and the extra cops weren't needed this time. While no love was lost in this go, and Ron Horton suffered a four-stitch cut from a high stick over his eye, no open warfare occurred. A few minor brawls and some stiff bumping, but just the usual good rugged senior "B" fray. And plenty fast and exciting for two periods. You couldn't beat it for redhot hockey till late in the second. It was still fast after that, but the Petes seemed to have shot their bolt. Didn't have the sustained drive as Legion kept fighting in to run up the count.

* * * * * *

It might be a mental condition with the Petes—we just can't figure it. They had a lot more of the play for more than half the game and should have scored a raft of goals, but for smart work by Ross Nicholls. They have plenty of young guys on the team and most of the puckists are in the pink of condition now. Yet, they faded as the Legion kept scrapping away, and you could see the ultimate result early in the third period. It now looks like these two clubs will hit each other in group semi-final playoffs a week from tomorrow, and, with Honey Tompkins rounding into shape and young Don Pagett added to the Petes, the Foley flock might be hot enough to give the classy Ellis outfit a real scrap as elimination faces both teams.

From The Grab-Bag

Nanjo Singh meets Seelie Samara in the main mat bout at the Brock tonight ... Girls' cage games at the YW tomorrow: Neill's vs. Normals, and Nurses Jrs. vs. CGE.... Lindsay junior "B", Oshawa junior "A" and Oshawa seniors play PCVS hoopsters at Collegiate on the morrow; Lindsay Bees beat SPS last e'en.... Fine new bowling lanes down George St. are slated to open Friday night... Secretary Mary Dodds of the ski club sends word that the zone ski championships here this week-end have been cancelled.... Oshawa's junior puckists beat Kingston Vics 9-4 to lead the IOOF-ers by a point .... Oddfellows took a 6-3 win in Port Hope last p.m. in a tidy tussle .... Bowmanville intermediates won 14-8 o'er Lindsay.... Marmora midgets have a playdown joust in Lakefield on Friday ... Industrial frays tonight here, starting at nine bells: De Laval vs. Quakers, and CGE vs. Westclox; Brintons are at Keene tomorrow.... Petes play in Belleville on Friday and end their schedule with Kingston here Monday.... TVL tilts tomorrow: Frankford at Norwood, and Marmora at Campbellford.... Queen Mary school seniors won 10-4 'gainst King George.... And the grab-bag is full.

CITY CARPETBALL

The schedule for the week of February 13 is: Quaker No. 4 vs. Legion 6; St. George No. 2 vs. SOE No. 3; Legion No. 5 vs. Legion No. 7; Big Bens No. 1 vs. Treasurers No. 9, and Glens No. 10 vs. LOL No. 8.

The Big Bens were guests of Legion No. 5 and their recent factory overhaul is still paying dividends as they swept to two victories by scores of 14-3 and 15-11, but their early lead in the second game is all that staved off a loss.

For the rest of the games no result cards have turned up and so the standing will be printed this week. Don't forget this week's play finishes the schedule.

The draw for the President's Cup will be printed next week and these games must be played on neutral grounds; games are 8-ends with the winner being the team to take the first two games. Two extra ends will be played until a tie is broken.

The results of the Gracies' Memorial Doubles of the first heat of the second round are:

The game between R. Ralston, A. Bromley against L. Jackson and A. Pilling was a close contest of three games with the former team taking the third game by one point. Scores were: 8-5, 4-7 and 7-6.

F. Luther and F. Parsons were victorious over A. Wagstaff and G. Gimblett in another contest that required three games to settle the issue. Scores were 12-8, 8-10 and 12-7. A six end in the final game gave the nod to the winners.

F. Branda nd D. Metcalfe secured a bye in the first round and that handicap proved too much for them when they met E. Nicholas and G. Fullbrook as the latter won both games by scores 8-5 and 9-3.

G. Foster and W. Wilson won the first by a score of 6-5 against F. Bell and W. Gracie, lost the second 3-12 and then went on to remove the latter team from the playdowns by a score of 7-4.

The draw for the Memorial Doubles for Tuesday, February 14 is:

N. Lowes and H. Lundy vs. D Bartley and W. Sorrie at 8:00 p.m.

V. Reed and J. Douglas vs. T. Nice and J. Wilson at 9:00 p.m.

Lindsay Hoopsters Gain Win Over SPS

St. Peter's High School, winless this year in the junior basketball league, tasted defeat Wednesday night in the Collegiate gym as they fell prey to the Lindsay junior Bees 38-13. This allowed the Scugog squad to build to their lead for the league honors.

MacDuffee, Lewis and Maidens led the attack in the first half as the luckless St. Peter's boys failed to take advantage of all their opportunities. Richardson tried to rally the locals but the Lindsay squad were up eight points at the half 17-9.

Smith with MacDuffee spelt doom for the St. Pete's quintet in the last half as the Lindsay boys drifted in to sink 13 points between them. O'Leary and Richardson were the only members of the Petes to sink baskets. Lindsay easily out-scored St. Peter's 21-4 to make the final score 38-13.

MacDuffee, with 18 points, was top scorer with team-mate Smith eight. Jack Richardson for the St. Peter's quintet scored seven points.

Lineups:

Lindsay Collegiate—MacDuffee 12, Acheson 4, Georgas 3, Smith 8, Lewis 5, Maidens 4, Taylor, Schenk 2, Gleeson.

St. Peter's—O'Leary 2, Richardson 7, McTeague 2, Killen, O'Neill 2, Jones, O'Reilley, Coughlin, Armstrong, Fitzgerald, Cavanagh, Cupoli.

100F Captures OHA Win Over Port Hope

Oddfellows defeated Bill Crawford's Port Hope juniors 6-3 last evening in the new Peter Campbell Memorial Arena at TCS grounds, in a fast exciting game featuring wide-open hockey.

Benny Mason pulled the hat trick with three neat goals to lead Bun Kingdon's marksmen, the first on a smart pass close in from Millar, the others on assists from Desjardins who turned in another fine game last night.

Referee Hodgetts meted out 15 penalties in all, six in the third, including three majors for fighting as tempers flared when Bud Downey described an arc with his stick near centre that narrowly missed Herb Baker's head. Despite this, the game was fairly clean, most penalties being due to alleged high sticking.

Scored Early

Jack Doris, from Baker on a nice pass back at the 48 second mark, opened for Oddfellows as the former slapped the disc into the corner behind Ashton. Mason's goals followed to give IOOF a 3-0 lead in the first session. The Hopers clicked for the only counter in a slower second stanza as Wilson combined neatly with Medhurst and Campbell to beat Hehn who played well, from close in.

Despite Dotzko's counter at 5.31 in the third to narrow the margin to one, Oddfellows opened up to dazzle the crowd and completely dominate the play in a furious period. Baker, B. Mason and Turner scored glittering goals to put the game on "natural" ice from Doris, Desjardins and Floyd respectively. However, the lakeshore squad put up a stiff struggle till the final bell. D. Goody scored with his team playing five to four, late in the third to wind up a rip-roaring exhibition that pleased the fans.

For Peterborough, the entire team played well with the three forward lines particularly effective both ways. A painful face injury to Jim Millar, star defenceman, early in the first gave his three mates extra work behind the blue line, but Fennell, Richlark and Wasson did yeoman service for the balance of the fray, to ensure victory. For Port Hope, Medhurst, Campbell, Wilcox, Downey, Goody and Flesch were best, with every man trying.

Peterborough — Goal, Hehn; defence, Fennell and Millar; centre, Birch; wings, Doris and Baker; alternates, Desjardins, R. Mason, B Mason, Turner, Floyd, Wyatt, Richlark, D. Wasson.

Port Hope — Goal, Ashton; defence D. Goody and Flesch; centre, Downey; wings, Dotzko and Hessin; alternates, Medhurst, Wilcox, McKeen, Evans, Freeman, B Baker, Stuart, Campbell.

Referee —Bernie Hodgetts. Linesman, Diddy Rowden.

The summary:

First Period

IOOF—Doris (Baker) 0:48
IOOF—B. Mason (Millar) 7:03
IOOF—B. Mason (Desjardins) 16:03
Penalties— Baker (Peterborough), Downey, Wasson, Doris.

Second Period

Port Hope—Wilcox (Campbell, Medhurst) 10:45
Penalties— Hessin, Baker (Peterborough), Richlark misconduct, Baker (Port Hope).

Third Period

Port Hope—Dotzko (Stuart) 5:31
IOOF—Baker (Doris) 6:03
IOOF—B. Mason (Desjardins) 8:40
IOOF—Turner (Floyd) 12:30
Port Hope—D. Goody 19:00
Penalties—Flesch 2 major, Hessin, Wasson, Baker (Port Hope) major, Downey major, Richlark major.

Johnson Collapses In Walcott Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9 (AP) —The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission called a hearing today in the sudden collapse of Harold Johnson during last night's fight with Jersey Joe Walcott.

The 22-year-old Philadelphia negro heavyweight dropped to the canvas in the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder at the arena—unable to continue because of a back injury.

Walcott, the Camden, N.J., negro veteran who tried unsuccessfully three times to grab the world's heavyweight crown, was awarded a knockout victory.

John (Ox) Da Grosa, state athletic commissioner, said after examining Johnson in the ring and later at Presbyterian Hospital he was convinced "the boy was in too much pain to go on fighting."

"I am sure that there was nothing irregular in the fight," Da Grosa said, "but just to be on the safe side, I'll talk it over with all concerned today."

Queen Mary Wins

Queen Mary defeated King George 10-4 in a senior Public School Hockey League game yesterday at Civic Arena. Cullen and Merrett each had two goals and one assist for them in the first period with Brady getting another one, while Withers tallied twice for the losers, once aided by Crowder. Dunn got a pair for the winners in the second and Merrett one, while Fuller and Barker counted for the East City crew. Dunn dented the twine twice in the third, Brady helping on one. Teams:

Queen Mary—Deck, Stewart, Dunn, Cullen, Roberts, Jackson, Houghton, Cuffe, B. Jackson, Brady.

King George—Found, Barclay, McIlmoyle, Fuller, Withers, Fairs, Barker, Crowder, Roote, McKenzie, Thompson, Johnston.

Referee, J. Barnard.

Remember When—

BEST OF THE YEAR—Cliff Lumsden, of New Toronto, 18-year-old world's professional swimming champion, has been awarded the Lou Marsh Memorial Trophy for 1949. The trophy, in memory of the late Lou Marsh, sports editor of the Toronto Star, is awarded annually to the Canadian athlete adjudged best of the year. Barbara Ann Scott, Ottawa's skating queen, won the award in 1947 and 1948.

Canadian Players Spring Big Upset

FALKIRK, Scotland, Feb. 9 — (CP)—A rink made up of Canadian hockey players Wednesday sprang a big upset and advanced into the third round of the British open curling championships. The rink, skipped by Phil Casey of Prince Albert, Sask., defeated a Scottish foursome 13-11 after being three down in 10 ends.

The Canadians now advance into the semi-finals Friday.

Another Canadian team, skipped by Jack Hutton of Calgary was eliminated 15-10 in a stirring match. The Canadians lost out in an extra end after tying the match at 10-10.

Casey's winning rink had his brother, Pat, as second, and William Carlso and Lloyd Penner, both of Winnipeg, as the other members.

Hutton's rink comprised Dan Macdonald of Gleichen, Alta., Hugh McLevin, Red Deer, Alta., and a Scottish player, W. Ferguson, who was replacing I. Richardson, of Regina, sidelined with a bad cold for several days.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Detroit's Jim Peters and Gordie Howe who bagged two goals apiece as the Red Wings smothered Chicago Black Hawks 9-2.

Max Bentley of Toronto who tallied in the second period to spark the Maple Leafs to a 3-1 win over Boston Bruins.

Find Canadiens Game Workers Down On Farm

MONTREAL, Feb. 9 (CP) — Mc... Canadiens are far from being Habitants, but they fared well enough during Operation Pitchfork, coach Dick Irvin commented Wednesday night.

Irvin said some members of the National Hockey League squad were at a loss when handed out farm chores in Wednesday's sortie on the farm of former teammate Murph Chamberlain.

"It was a novel experience for most of my boys," said Irvin.

The farm, at St.. Sebastien, about 50 miles from Montreal, has been in need of a man's touch and the Habitants needed exercise during a week-long layoff from NHL activity, so Irvin thought he'd kill two birds with one stone and offered Mrs. Chamberlain to spend one day at her farm.

Murph now is in Sydney, N. S. where he's playing coach of the Millionaires, Sydney's entry in the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League.

On An Accident

While he was away, Murph left the farm in the care of his brother-in-law, Ross Schwartz. The latter was in an accident just before Christmas and has been laid up since with a leg injury.

Mrs. Chamberlain was most skeptical about the whole thing. She thought it was just a publicity stunt and that nobody would show up, but when she saw the big autobus carrying the players to her house, she was the most surprised person.

All the players borrowed lumberjack shirts, working clothes and rubber boots from neighbors and got down to business as soon as they jumped off the bus.

They put in about three hours work each—all, that is, except Butch (The Senator) Bouchard who thought it more fun just to watch.

Bouchard hired a neighbor to do all the chores that were passed on to him. He just stood around, dressed in his Sunday best, smoking a big cigar and swinging his cane and passed comments on other teammates' work.

"Farming isn't my line," he said, "I'd much rather stick to the nightclub business." His mates dubbed him The Senator because of the high airs he affected while everyone else was sweating it out.

Douglas Divorced

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9 (AP) — Actor Kirk Douglas, whose role of the prize fighter in the movie, "Champion" elevated him to stardom, was divorced Wednesday by Diana Douglas, who was awarded a minimum of $1,550 monthly alimony. She charged cruelty. Mrs. Douglas testified that the actor neglected her and devoted most of his time to his career.

SUSPICIOUS—Joe McCarthy, left, seems cautious in conversation with Casey Stengel at the New York baseball writers' dinner. The veteran manager of the Red Sox isn't afraid of his counterpart with the Yankees. He got that way dropping pennants in play-offs and on the last day of the season.

Detroit Red Wings Wallop Hawks 9-2 In Lively Tilt

By HARRY ECCLES,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Detroit Red Wings have emerged from their National Hockey League slump with a bang, but the bang was supplied by their victims.

The Wings won their first game in nine starts Wednesday night, walloping Chicago Black Hawks 9-2. The bang came after the game, when hockey writer Lew Walter of the Detroit Times told police that he was struck by coach Charlie Conacher of the Hawks in the Chicago dressing room.

The way Detroit hockey writers reconstructed the incident, Conacher was peeved about the defeat and about the officiating When Walter saw him, Conacher is supposed to have said: "You fellows never come around except when we get beat." Thereupon, according to Walter, the Chicago coach hauled off and hit Walter in the face. He complained to a policeman, but by that time Conacher, had left with the team by air for Chicago.

The Hawks had just been victimes of the biggest goal total run up by the Wings this season. Detroit is still 10 points ahead of the second place spot, now occupied jointly by Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens, since Toronto beat Boston 3-1 in Wednesday night's other game.

Improves Lead

Detroit's Ted Lindsay improved his lead in the scoring race with a goal and two assists, giving him 55 points to 53 for teammate Sid Abel, who also had a goal. Marty Pavelich, Gordie Howe and Jimmy Peters each scored twice, and the other went to George Gee. Hawk scorers were Gaye Stewart and Metro Prystai.

Besides the incident with Walter, coach Conacher faces possible repercussions of an argument he had with referee Bill Chadwick during the game.

At Boston referee Hugh MacLean had things well in hand in the typical rough contest between the Leafs and Bruins.

The first period was scoreless, but Toronto scored twice and Boston once in the second, and Toronto got its third in the last frame. Meeker, Max Bentley and Sid Smith were the Toronto goal getters, while Boston's Johnny Peirson spoiled a shut-out for Turk Broda.

Spitfires Paste Irish 7-3, Stankiewicz Star

By The Canadian Press.

Eddie Stankiewicz stole the whole show last night as he pulled off his second five-goal performance of the season in sparking second place Windsor Spitfires to a 7-3 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A conquest over Toronto St. Michael's College.

Eddie's performance shoved the prolific Spits two more rungs up the junior ladder and left them seven points behind the pace-setting Toronto Marlboros.

Windsor and St. Michael's were the only clubs in four games last night that didn't have to go into overtime in an attempt to settle two point issues. In the only senior tilt Hamilton Tigers won their ninth in a row and second in as many nights off the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen, this time by a 5-4 margin.

In two other Junior A scraps Barrie Flyers and St. Catharines Teepees battled to a 7-7 tie and Guelph Biltmores whipped in an overtime tally to take a 4-3 decision from Stratford Kroehlers.

Margin Cut

The Spitfires led 2-0 at the end and the first frame but had their margin cut in half in the second stanza before they blew the lid off in the third session.

Earl Reibel and Earl Johnson scored singles for Windsor while Glen Skov returned to action after a brief stint in the NHL with Detroit and collared five assists. Bob Sabourin, Leo Labine and George Stanutz clicked for the Irish.

Murray Comfort's marker with less than two minutes of the overtime session remaining gave Hamilton its ninth straight victory.

Max Taylor continued his torrid pace with the Bengals, collecting his second hat trick in two nights. The Bengal single was scored by Johnny Conick. Bill Walsh counted twice for the losers with singles going to Micky Roth and Billy Flick.

Coach Art Jackson pulled goaler Douglas and put six St. Catharines forwards on the ice in the dying seconds of the third period and for one of the few times when a team is one goal down, it paid off. Obie O'Brien just beat the blue light and rapped in the tying counter at 19:59, his third counter of the night.

Can't Break Tie

The Teepees and Flyers then battled through a scoreless overtime session for the split in points. Other Teepee scorers were Jack McIntyre with a pair, Wayne Brown and Con Switzer.

Gord Towers notched two for Barrie while singles came off the sticks of Real Chevrefils, Gord Warner, Chuck Wood and Orrin Gould.

Stratford outplayed the fourth-place Bilts most of the way but couldn't click for the important tie-breaker. Ron Plumb's extra period tally gave the Biltmores the two points.

Don Oberholtze was high scorer for the night with two goals. The other Guelph marker was counted by Herb Dickenson. Doug Williams, Dinny Flanagan and Bibber O'Hearn clicked for Stratford.

Barons Edge Hershey Bears

By The Canadian Press.

Finding a reason for Cleveland Barons' good showing atop the American Hockey League standings today, is easy: the club is loaded with goal getters who strike hard, fast and often, the experts say.

For instance, there's Cleveland's left winger Bobby Carse. The 29-year-old Edmonton native came up with a sparkling performance Wednesday night when Cleveland defeated the lowly Hershey Bears 4-3 in Cleveland.

The former National Hockey League player with Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens scored two quick goals in 46 seconds as part of Cleveland's four goal second period drive which gave them the victory.

Meanwhile, Buffalo Bisons, current leaders of the eastern division, took Indianapolis Caps in stride with a 3-1 victory in Buffalo. Ab DeMarco, George Pargeter and Murdo McKay scored for Bisons. Jerry Reid tallied Caps' lone counter later in the third period.

Says Ferguson To Be Outstanding Miler

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Feb. 9 (CP) —Tom Lord, of Montreal, manager of Canada's track and field team, said today young Rich Ferguson, of Toronto, shows promise of becoming an outstanding miler in time for the next Olympics.

But he advised the 17-year-old lad to give up ambitions to become a three-miler and stick to the mile.

Ferguson was eliminated today in his mile heat at the British Empire Games. But his time of 4:17.2 was seven seconds faster than he had ever done before and he just missed a qualifying berth by one place in finishing fifth.

"Ferguson has great potentialities and would be smart to drop the three miles and concentrate on the mile," Lord said in an interview. He predicted Rich should be about at his peak for the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki.

Ryleys Entertain Women's Association

BETHANY, Feb. 9—(ENS)—The United Church Women's Association met at the home of Mrs. H. H. Ryley and Mrs. Bruce Ryley on Tuesday.

Mrs. W. Fallis read the scripture lesson and Miss Elsie Richardson gave the lesson explanation and led in prayer.

Members were asked to make a quilt block before the next meeting, the quilt to be used for missionary work when completed. Mrs. Ona Thorndyke and Mrs. G. Waddell were appointed conveners of the flower committee.

It was planned to hold a special meeting of the ladies from the circuit in June, commemorating the 25th anniversary of the United Church of Canada. The newly-elected president, Mrs. T. J. Jackson, urged all members to make themselves more familiar with the work and growth of the church since union and to study the book "Growing With the Years."

Miss Elsie Richardson gave a reading on faith. Mrs. Jackson read a poem and Mrs. Clarence Rowan conducted a quiz on Women in the Old Testament.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, assisted by members of the group and Mrs. H. Challice moved a vote of thanks to the Ryley family for the use of their home.

Relaxing Import Restrictions Stiffens Outboard Competition

With the relaxation of restrictions on the import of outboard motors from the United States, the Outboard Marine Manufacturing Company of Canada will have a fight on its hands to capture its share of the market, Clarence B. Neal, president of the company said at the second annual employee meeting Wednesday night.

The meeting was held to familiarize employees of the financial position of the company and its progress during the fiscal year which ended Sept. 30.

". . . . the final results are slightly better than those of the previous year, and are considered to be quite satisfactory insofar as the final profits for the year are concerned," Mr. Neal declared.

During the past year, Mr. Neal continued, "we had the entire Canadian market to ourselves, and also enjoyed a substantial export business which does not appear now to be forthcoming this year, due to the shortage of dollars in the countries to which we sell."

"It would also appear that the sale of Iron Horse motors this year will be down 40 per cent from last year . . . (which) necessitated a reduction in our working staff," Mr. Neal explained.

He said 1950 would be a reconversion year in which the backlog of orders had been largely filled. The company will be facing normal competition he said.

Production Costs

The company's aim was to produce the highest quality products at the lowest possible cost to customer. But high production costs were a stumbling block in that policy. He stated employees could help tremendously in overcoming that obstacle by cutting the amount of scrap and salvage which last year amounted to $135,000. He said employees could accomplish this by taking more care in their workmanship and being constantly on the lookout for means of cutting the cost of operations.

"We are proud of the good employee relations which have always existed at Outboard Marine," he declared. He said problems were continually arising, but these could be solved.

Financial Statement

Bruce Payne, secretary-treasurer of the company, presented the company's financial statement in which he showed the company had shown a profit of $396,708. He said that the company's income for the year was $5,530,356. The two largest factors in the costs operating were $2,483,192 for materials and supplies and $1,988,744 in wages, salaries and money paid out as direct benefit to the employees.

He said the company had paid a dividend of $250,606 to its stockholders and added that in the previous year no dividends were paid.

He said a true indication of how Outboard Marine had expanded could be seen from the number on the payroll since the company was formed in Peterborough in 1928. At the end of the first year's operation the company had employed an average of 40 workers. In 1939, the number had jumped to 160 and in 1949 it hit 600.

Vice-president in charge of manufacturing Hy Wood said the employees had produced a fine record in spite of occasional lack of materials, a schedule change and moving to new quarters.

Larry Tremblay, vice-president in charge of merchandising and a recently appointed member of the Board of Directors, declared that the company kept up the job of merchandising when it had the Canadian market to itself and it intended to stay in the lead in selling outboard motors.

Joe McGuire, president of Independent Outboard Marine Union said, on the whole, the union was well pleased, but there were still some things to be ironed out. One of those things was a slight raise in pay next July when negotiations begin. He said he thought the scrap and salvage was not the fault of the men working on the machines.

Personnel manager Reg. Reid acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the heads of the company, who spoke.

A group of professional entertainers staged a program which the audience received enthusiastically.

In the afternoon, members of the night shift had a meeting and heard the company heads and were entertained.

Decentralize Taxation

QUEBEC, Feb. 9—(CP)—Premier Duplessis Wednesday told a delegation of the Quebec Provincial Retail Merchants Association that taxation powers must be decentralized. The Association, representing 6,000 members presented a memorandum to the premier which suggested fiscal reforms, credit sales, the liquor laws, and the law regulating the College of Pharmacists.

HALIFAX, Feb. 9—(CP)—Robert A. Bryce of Toronto, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday night he is "looking forward to a greater flow of trade between Canada and the United Kingdom."

Get Added Setback

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Feb. 9—(CP)—New Brunswick's $840,000 smelt fishing industry, already hard hit by a price and catch slump, is taking an added setback from the weather. A spokesman for the industry said Wednesday night that about $32,000 damage had been caused by drifting ice conditions, resulting from mild weather.

Education Costs Jump $76,000

OSHAWA, Feb. 9.—The Oshawa Board of Education has set its 1950 budget calling for expenditure of $451,573.17, an increase of approximately $76,000 over the 1949 figure. The 1949 budget was $375,030.36, Business Administrator W. Gordon Bunker said today. The increase would mean the education tax rate would be up a little more than two mills over that of last year. He pointed out that last year's increase was less than one-third of a mill over that of the previous year. The 1949 surplus was only $947.83, as compared to roughly $20,000 the previous year, he reported.

Included in the budget are funds for the hiring of an assistant business administrator. An additional maintenance man was hired last December.

HOTEL MAGNATE SUMMONSED — Summonses have been issued in Montreal requiring Vernon C. Cardy, horseman and retired hotel magnate, to answer charges of illegal foreign exchange dealings. The summonses were issued just a week after the 60-year-old millionaire disposed of his interest in the Cardy hotel chain to an American corporation.

United States Worrying About Surplus As Alberta Oil Development Expands Beyond Dreams

BY FORBES RHUDE.
Canadian Press Business Editor

While Canada goes on her merry way trying to produce enough oil for her own needs, the United States contemplates a surplus, and 'tis worry, worry, worry Some of the worry is ours.

For oil, that precious, strategic material of which there cannot seem enough in wartime, is coming out of the ground these days faster than it can be used.

In this hitherto oil-hungry country it is coming out of Alberta lands in greater quantity than western Canada can consume and is reaching out by pipelines to find its place in eastern Canada.

We are too new in its supply to worry unduly—we are just thankful to have it, because, until the Leduc field was discovered near Edmonton three years ago, we didn't expect to have it. We have before us a growing Canadian market, and we hope that the United States won't panic so much that we can't make sensible arrangements.

Sensible arrangements would be either to supply our own Canadian needs or the equivalent The equivalent might mean shipping some oil to the western United States, while American oil continued to come into the east.

Examine Anxieties

But while we tend to our knitting, let us look at furrowed American brows. Wall Street Journal expresses it in this graphic way:

"In the land of the Arabian Night, south of Baghdad on the Gulf of Persia, is the sheikdom of Kuwait.

"The sheikdom has only about 100,000 citizens, but it has a mighty oil field, so rich that it could supply the oil needs of the entire world for nearly three years without running dry. It's symbol of the earth's biggest petroleum shakeup since the age of oil started 91 years ago."

It means that every one, and particularly the United States, has been trying so hard to produce oil at home and abroad that for the moment more oil has been found than can be used in peacetime at present world demand Over-all, this is all to the good but if your living were dependent on producing and selling oil, you might be embarrassed.

U.S. Wells Embarrassed

American wells have been embarrassed to the extent that several thousands of them have cut down their production, and, naturally, they don't like the idea of American companies bringing in oil from properties which they have developed in the Middle East.

They are further embarrassed by the fact that Britain apparently is trying to stop sterling area countries from spending scarce dollars for American oil when they can get it plentifully for their ample sterling.

There is even a bill before the United States Congress to increase the American tariff on oil imports from 10½ cents a barrel to $1.05, and there are further proposals of import quotas.

It is such things that make Canadians worry that the most economic flow of our own oil may be upset. It probably is not too great a worry, because the official view of the United States, so far as we can see it is that North American oil development should be driven ahead as a defence measure. Accordingly it is unlikely that the United States will do anything which would retard oil development in Canada.

A. WARD SMITH EYE TOPICS

EYES ON THE JUMP

Today we read at least five times as much as our grandfathers did. A forty-page metropolitan newspaper contains about 144,000 words, more words than there are in the average novel.

Yet few people know how to read correctly. The rest are eye stumblers, and most are unaware of their stumbling. If they fail in their examinations or have difficulty in absorbing knowledge in post-school life, eye stumbling is often to blame. If we cannot read well, we cannot learn well.

When we read, the eye does not run smoothly across a line of print. It jumps, pausing to take in a group of letters and then jumping on to the next group. An efficient reader rarely has to retrace his eye-steps, or read back. A slow reader often does. He is an eye stumbler. In spite of popular belief, a fast reader comprehends the text as well as—if not better than—the slow reader. A seventh-grade child, it has been learned, should read about 230 words a minute, a high-school student from 260 to 300, and a college senior or adult from 300 to 350.

The amount of print read in one fixation of the eyes is called the "spand of recognition." Thus if ten fixations are made in reading a line of twenty words, the average span of recognition is two words.

Both eyes should function together in the process of jumping along a line of type. But if one eye is better than the other it will do most, if not all, of the work. That is why some eyes tire more easily than others.

The eye winks frequently when we read, and winking relieves fatigue somewhat. But even normal eyes tire under present-day reading demands.

Why not test your reading speed? If you are an eye stumbler, you can be helped by expert advice. Good vision is the primary requisite for good work in school, business, industry and nearly all human activities.

Australia Hits Jackpot, Sets 4 Records

AUKLKAND, N.Z., Feb. 9 — (Reuters)—The trail-blazing Australians set Eden Park's grass track on fire today, leaving a mounting trail of smashed British Empire games records and assuring them of their second straight games title. It was one of the most amazing performances in the 20-year history of the Commonwealth sports meetings.

They hit the jackpot for four Empire records, tied another and came up with a world-equalling performance — second of the week-long 12-country get-together—of 24.3 seconds by Marjorie Jackson. The new South Wales comet in the 220-yard final her 10.8 seconds in the century sprint earlier in the week also equalled the world mark.

And while the athletes from the vast "down under" Commonwealth paraded in a steady stream to the winner's dais in midfield, winning six of the seven first-place medals of the day—the other was taken by little Fiji in the shot put—Canada's track athletes came up with only one cheering note. At that, it wasn't surprising.

Advance To Final

Big Bill Parnell and dark-haired Jack Hutchins, both Vancouver, advanced to the mile final. Parnell clocked a 4:15.2 to win his heat, exactly four seconds faster than Les Eyre of England who won the other semi-final, and Hutchins eased up in the stretch to finish fourth and won a spot on Saturday's closing program.

Parnell and Hutchins are tipped as the men to beat in the event.

Toronto's 17-year-old Rich Ferguson, tagged as a comer by Canadian team officials, finished fifth in his mile heat and he will watch the remainder of the seven-day games from the sidelines.

Otherwise, Canadian track athletes had to be content with final third and fifth places. Leo Roininen, the bespectacled shot put and javelin throw from Sudbury, captured the third spot in the shot and Calgary's Don Pettie eased into fifth place in the men's 220 yards.

In other preliminary rounds, it was the familiar story of "failed to qualify." Gordon Crosby of Toronto bowed out of the 120-yard hurdles with a fourth position; Bill Larochelle, Chatham, finished fifth in the quarter mile and Montreal's Rosella Thorne could do not better than a fourth in the 80-metre hurdles.

A Big Blow

The Dominion suffered a big blow when lanky Ez Henniger of Vancouver, counted on for a leg in Saturday's mile relay, pulled up lame in his 440-yard heat after going only 50 yards.

On other fronts, Canada's luck was mostly tough.

In boxing at the Town Hall the Dominion suffered three straight setbacks, two of them loudly booed by a crowd of more than 3,000. The results left the Maple Leaf battlers with the prospect that none of the six can do no better than third place.

Bantamweight Len Walters of Vancouver dropped a close decision to Johnny Van Rensburg of South Africa and when the result was announced the crowd jeered and booed. Lightweight Eddie Haddad of Esquimalt, B C lost by a decision to Ronald Latham of England and again the crowd greeted the verdict with boos and the Canadians' night ended when middleweight Bill Pinkus of Winnipeg lost handily to Teuns Van Schalkwyk of South Africa.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Man O' War, a mighty hulk of horseflesh whose blazing speed cut down his rivals 30 years ago and captured the imagination of the sports world, is the greatest thoroughbred since 1900.

So say the sports writers and broadcasters of the United States who voted overwhelmingly for "Big Red" in The Associated Press mid-century poll.

Man O' War polled 305 of a possible 388 votes, and like his races finished far ahead of his closest ballot opponent, Citation, with 36.

Thus the great chestnut flyer, winner of 20 of his 21 starts, takes his place with other sports immortals of the golden 1920s—the Ruths, the Dempseys, the Tildens, the Joneses, and the Weissmullers.

The feats of Citation, acclaimed in 1948 by many horsemen the equal if not the superior of Man O' War, couldn't erase the vivid memories of 1919 and 1920 when "Big Red" ruled.

Man O' War didn't earn a lot of money, as it is counted today. But money's value was far different when Man O' War banked $249,465 in purses—$166,140 of it during his three-year-old campaign in 1920.

McGill Redmen of the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union will play an exhibition game against Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union here Sept. 23, Vic Obeck, director of athletics and head football coach, announced Wednesday night.

The Redmen are also scheduled to play an exhibition contest against the dominion champion, Montreal Alouettes, here at Montreal. The date for this game, however, has not yet been decided on.

Mike Zaduk of Guelph and Elmer (Eager Beaver) Haskell of Toronto fought to a five-round draw at Hamilton Wednesday night in the 145-pound class feature bout of an amateur boxing show. The first ballot count gave Zaduk a split decision but a recheck of the judge's ballots made it a draw.

Joe Louis and Ezzard Charles will meet in a heavyweight title bout in Yankee Stadium this summer, Charles' manager predicted Wednesday at Buffalo Jake Mintz made the statement as he brushed aside any idea that Charles might lose his National Boxing Association crown to Freddie Beshore in their title fight at Buffalo Feb. 28.

The University of Mexico's touring basketball team made their Canadian debut at Hamilton Wednesday night by trouncing McMaster University Marauders 74-59. The visitors fought back from a 21-15 count at the and of the first quarter and carried a 49-42 lead going into the final period.

The Mexican team, victors in eight of 13 exhibition tilts in the United States, are scheduled to meet Assumption College of Windsor and the University of Western Ontario in their next Canadian games.

Gordon Maxwell, 51, golf professional at Midland Golf and Country Club for the last 18 years died Wednesday at Midland. Maxwell liked to play in foursomes with his three golfing brothers, Herb of Scarboro, George of Mount Dennis; and Edward of St. Catharines. He is survived by his widow and one daughter.

At Empire Games

By The Canadian Press

Track and field:

Men's 220-yard dash — Don Pettie, Calgary, fifth in final.

Men's 120-yard hurdles—Gordon Crosby, Toronto, fifth in preliminary heat (failed to qualify).

Men's 440-yard race—Ez Henniger, Vancouver, did not finish; Bill Larochelle, Chatham, Ont., fifth in preliminary heat (failed to qualify).

Women's 80-metre hurdles—Rosella Thorne, Montreal, fourth in semi-final (failed to qualify).

Men's one-mile—Jack Hutchings, Vancouver, fourth in semi-final (qualified for final); Bill Parnell, Vancouver, first in semi-final (qualified for final); Rich Ferguson, Toronto, fifth in semi-final (failed to qualify).

Shot put—Leo Roininen, Sudbury, third in final.

Edmonton Winner

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 9 (CP)—Edmonton Mercurys just romped to a 9-0 victory over a Davos team Wednesday night in an exhibition game before 3,000 Swiss fans. Hassie Young scored three goals for the Mercurys, Canada's representatives in the world hockey championships at London next month.

Lakefield Victors

MARMORA, Feb. 9 (ENS) — Lakefield midgets playing the first of their two OMHA playoff games with Marmora on the latter's ice Wednesday won by the score of 8-5. The ice was fast and the homesters had the best of play in the period. In the second period, play was rough and several players of both teams visited the penalty box. At the end of this period the visitors led by 5-4. They established a greater lead in the final period, Coyle scoring twice in quick succession on a pass from Spencer.

Sloan performed the hat trick for the winners. Mantle scored twice for his team and with Brooks and Hickey who also registered once, were most aggressive for the home team. The return game of the home and home series is at Lakefield on Friday evening. Teams:

Lakefield—Goal, Wingett; defence, Pue, Pratt; centre, Sloan; wings, Coyle, Twist; alternates, Heffernan, Henry, Spencer, Hunter, Todd, Darling, Leonard.

Marmora—Goal, Drummond; defence, Brown, Mechan; centre, Brooks; wings, Bell, Mantle; alternates, Paranuk, Hickey, McNally, Shannon, Bonter, Logan, Lynch, O'Connor; spare goalie, Clemens.

Referee, D. Richer, Lakefield; linesman, T. Cousins, Deloro.

Charlie Conacher In Hot Water After Referee, Reporter Run-in

DETROIT, Feb. 9 — (AP) — Charlie Conacher, fiery coach of Chicago's Black Hawks, was in trouble on two fronts today after a pair of incidents involving a referee and a newspaper man last night.

Conacher's troubles matched those of his team which absorbed a 9-2 pasting from Detroit Red Wings in a National Hockey League game here.

The more serious of Conacher's difficulties appeared to be a charge by hockey writer Lew Walter of the Detroit Times that the Chicago coach slugged him in the Black Hawks' dressing room.

Walter said he would seek an assault warrant against Conacher today.

The other was a declaration by Referee Bill Chadwick that he would file a full report with the NHL on an incident involving Conacher during last night's game.

That occurred in the second period when Chicago's Doug Bentley was felled in a collision with the Wings' George Gee.

The Chicago coach wanted a penalty called on Detroit.

Chadwick declined and turned to skate back to centre ice. Conacher grabbed him by the shoulders, witnesses said.

In the dressing room, Doug Vaughan, of the Windsor Star, asked Conacher about the incident and Conacher indicated he was displeased with portions of the night's officiating. Then Walter approached Conacher.

Not Available

Conacher headed back to Chicago after the game and was unavailable for his version of what happened.

This is Walter's story:

"I started to talk things over with Conacher when he suddenly broke in and said 'You never come around here except when we lose a game.'

"I told Charlie that he generally was a pretty hard coach to catch because of his habit of leaving the rink as soon as the game was over.

"Then Conacher blew up and criticized some of the stories I had written about the Chicago club in the past couple of seasons.

"The next thing I knew I was on the floor with Conacher on top of me, with his hands around my throat.

"We wrestled for a minute and then Conacher got up.

"I got up, too, and challenged him to try to hit me while I was ready for him, but he didn't do anything."

Demand Investigation

The Detroit Times writer added:

"Conacher then ordered me out of the dressing room . . . I went out to Police Sergeant Ernest Gildea and asked him to arrest Conacher but he said I'd have to get a warrant . . ."

Walter suffered bruises on the right side of his face in the dressing room fracas and he had X-rays taken at hospital after getting first aid treatment.

Manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings described the affair as "the first time in National League hockey that a team official ever was involved in an assault on a newspaper man."

Adams said he would ask the NHL headquarters for a full investigation.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Detroit's fiery Gordie Howe jumped from fifth to third spot of the National Hockey League scoring race to make it a big-three Detroit line at the top of the list. Howe passed Boston's Paul Ronty and Maurice Richard of the idle Montreal Canadiens.

At the head of the pack is Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings with 55 points—18 goals and a current record of 37 assists. Holding steady to second berth is Detroit's team captain Sid Abel with 53. Abel is tied with Richard in the sniping division, both havng 27 goals to their credit.

Deadlocked in fourth position are Richard and Ronty with 44 each, one point ahead of Chicago's Doug Bentley. Roy Conacher, Chicago, and teammate Metro Prystai follow with 41 each.

The Leaders:	G	A	Pts

Woodstock Bowler Gains Canada 3 Points

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Feb. 9 (Reuters)—Final results of lawn bowling today showed that Dr. Weston Krupp of Woodstock, Ont., earned three points for Canada in British Empire games unofficial team standings.

Dr. Krupp, Canada's lone entry in bowling competitions concluded Wednesday, placed fourth in the singles with one win and three losses. New Zealand took first Australia second, Fiji third and South Africa last.

Pair scompetitions were won by New Zealand, with South Africa, Fiji and Australia trailing in that order. In the fours, South Africa took first, followed by Australia, New Zealand and Fiji.

Thief Has Dinner Of Roast Beef

STRATFORD, Feb. 9 — A discriminating thief who likes roast beef got a free dinner from a Stratford household, and there is everything to indicate that the same thief paid two visits to the house.

Mrs. Leo Davis, 177 Huron street, went to a back kitchen, used as a storage room during winter months, to get the family roast. The waxed paper covering was in its usual place and shape, but more than half of the roast had vanished.

The thief even used Mrs. Davis' paring knife to cut off enough beef to feed about five people. Mr. and Mrs. Davis and their four children had to dig up a substitute dinner. A rear window showed evidence of tampering.

Mrs. Davis recalled an incident about a week previously which indicated that there had been a previous attempted theft of the Sunday dinner. A week ago the roast had been removed from its wrapping and was found in a laundry basket. At that time it was thought the children might have been playing pranks.

Lay Driving Charges

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 9 (CP) — Police said today charges of careless and dangerous driving will be laid against Donald Cummings, said to have driven one of two cars in a head-on collision near here Monday. Eight persons, including Cummings, are in hospital recovering from injuries.

New Mission Band

MILLBROOK, Feb. 9 —(ENS)—On Sunday the 5th of February, the teachers and pupils of Grace Presbyterian Sunday School organized a Sunday School Mission Band. The main object for this addition to the Sunday School was to create more interest for the pupils as they will each have an active part in the service each Mission Band Sunday.

The officers elected were: President, Mr. Don Thompson; vice-president Mr. Allan Thompson; secretary, Miss Margaret MacKay; treasurer, Miss Vanetta Chapman; programme committee, Miss Mae Hubbeard, Miss Vannetta Chapman.

Douro Road Allowance To Be Discontinued

DOURO, Feb. 9 —(ENS)— A portion of the road allowance between Lots five and six are to be sold to the C.G.E. and the allowance is to be stopped, Douro council decided Monday.

B. Q. Dench was appointed assessor at a salary of $1000 a year, postage and telephone to be extra.

"No Kid Of Ours Be Miner" Vows Father Coal Digger

"I've been a coal miner 23 years but right now I'm sorry I ever saw a mine."

That was the bitter statement of striking miner James Ross, 40, as he watched his wife dish out another spaghetti supper to his five children.

Credit Cut Off

"I swear no kid of mine will ever go near a mine," Ross said.

"If he does I'll thrash the living daylight out of him."

The Ross family lives in a five-room frame house that costs them $25 a month in rent. The children need more food and clothes, an unpaid milk bill has reached $75 and credit has been cut off at the company store since the miner began striking sporadically during contract negotiations.

Electricity is about their only modern convenience. They must heat their hot water on the stove, they take baths in a tin tub and they hike 100 feet up a steep hill to an outdoor privy.

Truman "Pushed"

Ross hates the Taft-Hartley Labor Act which President Truman invoked against the miners. But he says he doesn't think any less of Truman now because "I think he was pushed into it."

What is Miner Ross planning to do about it?

"I'll keep on doing what John L. Lewis and my union tell me to do," he said.

"The union is the only thing I can hang on to now. I won't go back to work without a contract.

"The union paid for taking tonsils out of three of my children a couple of years ago. Because of the union I'm making $70 a week in a full work week I can't go back on all that now."

Not The Toughest

Ross wants it emphasized that these aren't the hardest times he's seen as a miner.

"It wasn't easy back in 1932 and it wasn't easy when my wife got sick during the war. And there have been plenty of other strikes. That's why there won't be any more miners in this family."

Ross is one of the 400,000 soft coal miners on strike while the United Mine Workers Union seek a new contract. Truman has invoked the Taft-Hartley Law, by naming a three-man fact-finding board to report next week on the deadlocked dispute. Following this under the act, he can direct the union to halt the strike for 80 days under pain of a fine for contempt.

Four UK Adjudicators Arrive At Halifax

HALIFAX, Feb. 9 (CP)—Four British adjudicators who will visit the majority of Canadain cities during their six months' tour, arrived here Wednesday night aboard the liner Empress of France. They are Alec Redshaw, John Sterling, Russell Green and Dr. C. S. Lang.

First musical festivals for the adjudicators will be at Sudbury and Kingston. From there they will go to Toronto, western cities and Vancouver.

Telephone Company Has Lower Net Income

MONTREAL, Feb. 9—(CP) — The Bell Telephone Company of Canada announced Wednesday record high revenues for 1949 but increased operating expenses cut net income below that of the previous year.

In its annual report for the year ended Dec. 31, 1949, the company reported net income at $7,481,396, compared with $10,567,574 in 1948.

Pay $630,614 For Accidents

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP)—Payments from the Highway's Department's unsatisfied judgment fund for motor accidents from July 1, 1947, when the fund became operative, to last Dec. 31, totalled $630,614, Hikhways Minister George Doucett said Wednesday.

Speaking at an Optimist Club luncheon, he said payments were made to 468 plaintiffs in 292 judgments against 304 persons.

Payment is made when a judgment is obtained against a person who has no automobile accident insurance. Motorists are assessed 50 cents a year to maintain the fund.

Says Winnipeg, Toronto Nests For Red Activities

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9 (CP)—Gordon B. Panchuk, director of the Ukrainian Bureau of Information in London, England, said Wednesday in an interview that "certain intelligence reports in our possession definitely indicate that the Russians have the H-bomb.

The former RCAF intelligence officer, here to address the all-Canadian Ukrainian Congress, said that while the Russians may not be able to stockpile it, the H-bomb is certainly no secret to them. "I have every reason to believe that the Russians are making every preparation for aggression by military force."

Mr. Panchuk said that it is apparent—even in London—that Winnipeg is a nest of Communist activities among a small minority of Ukrainians. It is a fact that Winnipeg and Toronto vie for doubtful honors in that respect."

The Ukrainian Canadian Veterans' Association here today passed a resolution labelling Russian Communism 1,000 times more dangerous and more destructive than Nazi Germany.

The association, one of six national groups at the All-Canadian Ukrainian Congress, passed another resolution urging Ukrainian veterans to join the Canadian Legion and similar bodies.

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, Feb. 9th — One of the best mottoes I know for a comfortable home is "Be Prepared"! Be prepared with soothing SLOAN'S LINIMENT for the aches 'n' pains of sore muscles — rheumatism — neuralgia—stiff neck or sprains. Famous Sloan's speeds relief. Its comforting, soothing heat brings wonderful relief in just a few minutes after applying! Just pat it on and you'll feel so much better! Its deep penetrating heat goes right to the seat of the pain! No wonder Sloan's is a medicine-cabinet "must" in so many thousands of homes! It's economical, too! Just 40c a bottle!

I Didn't Have To Be Told that Raymond Loewy designed the nameplates for FRIGIDAIRE REFRIGERATORS and FRIGIDAIRE ELECTRIC RANGES, just as he was responsible for the exquisite modern beauty of the refrigerators and ranges themselves. The beauty of the nameplates says "Raymond Loewy" all over. But those Frigidaire nameplates say something else: something immensely more important to you as a buyer. They say that here are household appliances built, and backed by the greatest design, engineering and manufacturing facilities in industry: those of General Motors. And right here I would like to correct a popular misconception that "Frigidaire" means any electric refrigerator. It doesn't. The word "Frigidaire" is a trade-mark owned by General Motors. In Canada, only products built by Frigidaire Products of Canada, Limited, Leaside, Ontario, can bear that trade-mark.

Have You A Man In Mind when you cook? Most of us are inclined to plan our meals to the taste of our menfolks — that's why KRAFT DINNER is such a favourite in so many Canadian homes! And there's another BIG reason, too! "Kraft Dinner" is so easy on the food budget! Just wait 'til you taste this scrumptious macaroni-and-cheese combination! ...M-mmm!—it's a real meal! In every package of "Kraft Dinner" is a special fast-cooking macaroni that cooks to fluffy lightness in only 7 minutes. And, in the same package — cheddar cheese, already grated, to sprinkle in for rich cheese flavour! Enough for four — and good enough to make any man you know ask for more!

What's A Youngster To Do when she wants to take mother's advice and eat a hearty breakfast . . . but breakfast is dismal and unappetising? Best way I know to avoid putting your youngster in this unhappy position is to serve delicious 5 Minute "CREAM OF WHEAT" at breakfast! M-mmm! So good—and so good for you! For 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" contains Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. So serve it tomorrow—and often—at breakfast time. What a lot of enjoyment for less than 1c a bowl...and "Cream of Wheat" is extra delicious when it's topped with brown sugar and cream!

The words "Cream of Wheat" and the familiar "Cream of Wheat" Chef pictured on the package are both registered trade-marks of The Cream of Wheat Corporation.

"Married Women Do Need Their Own Bank Accounts" remarked one of my smartest friends last week at lunch. "John and I often used to have — well — words whenever I needed a new dress or shoes or simply the lift a new bonnet always gives me. Trouble was I never seemed to have enough left over from my household allowance to pay for these things when I wanted them. Then I hit on a solution...I opened my own Savings Account at the BANK OF MONTREAL. Each week I put away the dollar or two left over from my household expenses. I've been amazed how quickly my balance grows. And so many of the things I really want I can now afford. Our budget runs much more smoothly too, which keeps John in the right frame of mind for a happy husband."

Is Sunday Your Day For An Enormous Breakfast? You have time to cook it...and your family certainly takes the time to eat it (every last bit) when the main dish is Shirred Eggs in HEINZ CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP! M-mmm!...Here's how for four:— Butter four individual baking dishes. Break 2 eggs into a cup and slip into each casserole. Also to each dish add about 1/3 cup Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup, undiluted. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until whites are firm (about 10 min.). Top with bacon strips.

Three "A"'s For Desserts — Attractive, Appealing, Appetizing — when you make them with JELL-O PUDDINGS. Smooth, melting, deliciously flavored Jell-O Pudding makes dessert the high spot of any meal — be it children's noon snack, or be it "the boss's night to dine at our house." You simply can't go wrong with Jell-O Puddings...mellow-rich Caramel or Butterscotch, smooth, "sheer-delight" Vanilla and that dark beauty Chocolate. And then there are those wonderful Jell-O Tapioca Puddings — Orange Coconut, Vanilla and Chocolate. Enjoy Jell-O Puddings often.

Found!... a quick and easy way to keep hands smooth, white and beautiful always! No matter how "hard-worked" your hands may be, don't let anyone tell you that it takes hours of care and trouble to make chapped skin snowy-white! Just follow me to the nearest cosmetic counter or drugstore and ask for a bottle of JERGENS LOTION! I know you'll be delighted with it! All you do . . . after every watery chore, smooth on Jergens Lotion and your hands will soon have that lady-of-leisure look! Keep a bottle of Jergens handy in both kitchen and bathroom and use it regularly for lovely hands your husband will adore!

A Grand Opportunity to send for this dollar-value Plastic Juice Container that's yours for just 25c and 10c for mailing! This container is unbreakable — non-toxic — spill-proof and it holds five cups of left-over juices. Simply put the juice you want to keep fresh in this container in your ice box! It "seals in" the vitamins! Just send me — a 35c Postal Note or postage stamps and one label from a Bovril Cordial or Concentrate bottle. (The label comes off easily when soaked in warm water for ten or fifteen minutes.) And, remember, BOVRIL not only makes a wonderfully delicious hot drink — it's excitingly flavourful in meat dishes of all kinds!

SPECIAL OFFER!

Getting Ready For A Valentine's Day Party? Then here's a housecleaning tip!...I've found again and again, that when I'm preparing for a crowd, Vel is a wonderful housecleaning "help"! Tighten Rules At Class B Fairs

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP)—The class B fairs division of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies Wednesday upheld a resolution making it tougher to cheat at show rings throughout the province.

The convention voted in favor of a resolution from the Ontario Cattle Breeders Association, asking that grants from the province be contingent on animals being checked before they enter the ring at fairs.

Punishment however will be light. Such a resolution would mean that a man who tries to show an animal in the wrong class would be turned back.

The association elected J. E. Nephew of Woodstock as the president for 1950, while F. H. Bell, Stratford; E. S. Denyes, Belleville, vice-presidents.

Need Better Breeding

EDMONTON, Feb. 9 — (CP).—W. H. T. Mead, Provincial Livestock Commissioner, said Wednesday improved breeding and feeding practices are prime factors in improving dairy cattle. He told the annual convention of the Alberta Dairymen's Association that farmers should explore all new developments in breeding, feeding and management to realize the greatest economy of production.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

British Voting System Misleading On Surface

Britain's voting system can produce a massive parliamentary majority based on a bare majority, or even a minority, of votes in the country, says a British release. It is the aspect of the two-party system, and the single vote, that is apt to excite at least as much remark overseas at it does at home. As past instances have shown, the results of the general election rarely reflect in the House of Commons anything at all close to the distribution of the total voting among the political parties taking part.

"It is almost impossible to show that the present system is just; it is sincerely felt to be fair." With that paradox, the writer of the survey called "The British General Election of 1945" defend the current practice. And while there are those who challenged the fairness of it, these authors—R. B McCallum and Alison Readman—reflect a very widely held opinion and are entitled to make the observation

Revisions Made

Since the 1945 general election, some simplifications have been made in the electoral system of Britain. Their effect is not to make the outcome this time any more predictable. But, at any rate, it will be a little easier after the event to say how, exactly, the size of the parties in the House of Commons reflects the voting in the country.

Sceond votes accorded to university graduates and to owners of business premises have been abolished, and the few constituencies that still returned two members to Parliament have been divided into single-member constituencies. They slightly confused the issue last time. Nearly 25 million voted. Of these just under 12 million voted Labor. On the bare figures it can therefore be said that more voted against the Labor Government than for it. But in taking account of plural voting and one of two other electoral complexities, the figures have been shown to come out about equal.

With a bare majority of the popular vote, the Larbor Party had nearly two-thirds the seats—393 out of 640.

Another Way

Another calculation by that ingenious student of parliamentary arithmetic, J. F. S. Ross, has suggested that if the number of seats won had corresponded with the votes, the Conservatives would have had 43 more than they did the Liberals 45, the Labor Party 87 fewer, and the rest one fewer.

Putting it yet another way, each seat gained cost the Labor Party 31,000 votes, the "miscellaneous" groups 34,000, the Conservatives 47,000 and the Liberals (who in 1945 ran few candidates) 187,000.

There is nothing new about all this. It is calculated, taking the seven general elections from 1918 to 1935, that the Conservatives had, so to call it for simplicity's sake, an average "excess" of 82½ seats, the Liberals a "deficit" of 35½, the Labor Party a "deficit" of 43 and the Independents a "deficit" of 4

The propriety of changing the system was examined in 1944 but was rejected by a majority in Parliament. In a three-parity election the party gaining more than one-third of the total votes can be almost sure of dominating the Commons and very likely with a clear majority. And parties which feel that they have a good hope of commanding such a proportion of the votes have clearly no very great interest in wanting to change the system, even though it may at some time give the minority in the country a majority in the House.

But, considerations of party advantage apart, there are reasons rooted in British political history why the country as a whole still accepts a two-party system which depends on this somewhat imprecise system of voting That is not to say that the system could not be changed—more unlikely things perhaps have happened.

However, the two-party system with the government's majority magnified out all proportion to its electoral poll, is popular in Britain because, by and large, the British people like to have the responsibility for government settled fairly and squarely upon one party. This ensures that the government of the day can carry out its policy without having to make concessions to small parties and "splinter" groups in order to gain their support Thus, there can be no excuse for failure to carry out election pledges.

West Germans Decide To Tend Knitting

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 9 —(CP)—John J. McCloy, United States high commissioner, indicated Wednesday that the West German Government, smarting under the heaviest American criticism since the war, is ready to pay attention to its domestic kitting

McCloy had a three-hour closed conference, described as friendly but somewhat strained, with the West German chancellor, Konrad Adenauer He hinted he had received assurance that the Government would try to solve its economic and unemployment problems instead of pressing a propaganda campaign on foreign affairs.

Blunt Speech

In a speech at Stuttgart Tuesday, McCloy rebuked German officials and told the Germans bluntly that the United States intends to keep a close grip on German political afairs. He emphasized this to Adenauer.

Adenauer's cabinet met in Bonn meanwhile to consider unemployment, newly reported to have soared to a post-war peak of 1,900,000, and increase of 342,000 over the previous month.

Adenauer handed McCloy West Germany's ratification of an agreement with the economic cooperation administration binding the nation to help achieve "through a joint recovery program, economic conditions in Europe essential to a lasting peace." It was signed by President Theodor Heuss February 3.

In West Germany there were many contradictions and denials about the steel ban. One British spokesman said that West Germany imposed the ban after consulting the allies.

Earlier, however, other British officials had denied that the measure had been taken in consultation with the allied high commission and said it was "a purely West German move."

German spokesmen, who said the ban was put into effect because the Soviet zone had fallen down in deliveries of agricultural products, contradicted each other about who made the decision.

Member Concert Marks Advance In City's Music

The audience which attended the Members' Concert of the Peterborough Community Concert Association on Wednesday night was larger than any we have ever seen at one of these functions, and the applause was of the quality which we are accustomed to hear at the concerts given by professional artists. It may be said that this concert marked a turning point in the history of the Concert Association and in the city's music.

It has been our custom in the past to avoid applying any critical standard to Members' Concerts; some of the musicians who appeared were able to sustain such criticism, and others were not. The musicians who appeared on Wednesday evening were all worthy of criticism by reasonably severe standards.

The Coventry Singers, under the direction of John Hooper, sang a group of religious compositions, and also a secular group. This small choir, pursuing a high ideal of chamber singing, has made great advances since it was founded, and now produces some admirable, delicate effects. It may be thought to phrase rather too sharply, but the clarity of the words, and the clear movement of all the vocal lines in such complex music as the Byrd "Ave Verum" show admirable musicianship and intelligence on the part of the leader and individual singers alike. If it can develop a richer, warmer body of tone this will be a first-rate chamber choir.

Violin Solos

Two groups of violin solos were played by Kevin Leahy, accompanied by Max Clark. Mr. Leahy is remarkably dextrous in his handling of his instrument, and he plays with great spirit; particularly in pieces which demand dash and vigour, but it must be said that his intonation is often faulty, and that this offsets the brilliance of his technique. He will undoubtedly improve in this respect, for in playing the violin intonation is basic ot any good performance.

Miss Helen Hajnik, accompanied by Marion Aman, sang two groups of songs, and sang well at all times. But she brought special understanding to the "Eriskay Love Lilt" and to "Annie Laurie." As an encore she sang Schubert's "Ave Maria," with Latin words; it would be an agreeable change at some time to hear this song with the words from "The Lady of the Lake" by Sir Walter Scott for which Schubert composed it, and Miss Hajnik has just the quality of charm and sincerity to sing this pretty English lyric admirably.

A Mozart Sonata (the A major) and two Chopin compositions were played with admirable address and technical command by Mrs. Bridget Fialkowski. She appeared to feel some misgiving as to whether her tone was big enough for the auditorium, but this doubt passed quickly. The charm and ease of her playing was shown to particular advantage in the Nocturne by Faure which she played as an encore.

The concert was the best of its kind that Peterborough has heard, and brings great credit to those who organized it, as well as to the local musicians who performed. R.D.

Murder Charge Court Hearing On February 15

Joseph William Byrnes, 26, charged with the murder of Mrs. Helen Kendry, 26, was remanded today in Police Court until Feb. 15, when it is understood the preliminary hearing will be heard before Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C.

Among spectators in the court room today was Mrs. Byrnes, whose husband appeared for only a short time, to learn the date of the hearing.

Mrs. Kendry was the victim of a shooting incident early Sunday, at a party at Byrnes' homes, 520 Hamilton St.

Legion Cash Box Rifled Of $85

HASTINGS, Feb. 9.—(ENS).—While the steward was away for supper Wednesday night a thief or thieves broke into the Hastings branch of the Canadian Legion and rifled the cash box of $85.

The party apparently waited until Harry Chennel, stewart, locked up the Legion Hall at about 6.10 p.m. Entry was gained by smashing a pane of glass and unlatching a small window on the north side of the building.

After crawling through the window the thief forced the lock on a small door leading to the enclosed bar. Once inside he scooped up the $85 in the cash box and left.

Mr. Chennel discovered the theft when he returned shortly before 7 p.m. The beverage room has been open for two months only.

The one-storey wooden building is located on Front St., between Bond's garage and Parker's restaurant.

Chief Constable Robert Kemp of Hastings and Provincial Constable D. W. Coffee investigated.

India Rapidly Progressing Under Status of a Nation

India has no enemies—she inherited none and she has acquired none—and she does not belong to any group of block of nations. That was the happy position of the new two-year-old republic of India as related Wednesday night at So-Ed by P. K. Banerjee, secretary of the High Commissioner of India for Canada.

Mr. Banjeree continually referred to the beneficence of Gandhi and the influence of his teachings as the shaping influence in the new India.

"If you want to know India well you must know something of Gandhi," he said, "his life is the story of our country and it will be the story of our country tomorrow."

He described Gandhi as a man small of stature who gave the people of India and of all humanity a lasting lesson in the virtues of peace, tolerance and equality.

Tactful Diplomacy

The first democratic step in the formation of the modern Indian state was the transference of Imperial rule to that of the sovereign state "without bitterness." This was made possible, he felt, through the tactful diplomacy of the British and Indian cabinets — the latter with such a leader as Pandit Nehru, present prime minister of India.

After partition there was the problem of transporting the emigrating populations from Pakistan to India, and vice versa. The division was made, he said, primarily along the lines of religious differences between Mohammedans and Hindus.

Mr. Banerjee conceded that this according to the lessons of history, was an insufficient basis for division. When the split between Pakistan and India came about some 15,000,000 people left the former for the latter.

But he had a cheerful note to sound on this quite recent problem: "The problem of rehabilitation has been a gigantic one, but we have practically solved it by settling the refugees."

When the British controlled India there were some 500 princely states, but when the Imperial government handed over its powers in actual fact it also handed over control of these petty states.

Political democracy is not enough by itself, Mr. Banerjee asserted, there must be economic democracy as well. In India some 75 per cent of the people are engaged in agriculture and the task the government has set itself is to substantially raise the present "appallingly low standard of living" by scientific methods of cultivation.

Land Reclaimed

Some 800,000 acres of land have been reclaimed and handed over to individuals or to co-operatives. Mechanization is increasing with a large quantity of farm implements being purchased from Canada. From Britain the state has purchased at least one complete fertilizer plant.

Because of political upheavals in south east Asia, India is suffering from an acute food shortage, he said. The normal supply of rice from such countries as Burma is now cut off. About a third of the net national revenue of the young republic is earmarked for the purchasing of food from other countries.

A change in the Indian people's diet is taking place—partly due to the food shortages and partly to better planning. At one time, he said, the staple diet of the people depended on their geographical location.

Now they are being converted into fish eaters and are consuming more vegetables. The polishing of rice which eliminates some essential food elements has been forbidden by law.

Estates Expropriated

Absentee landlords have had their estates expropriated but they receive compensation in the form of 70 years revenue, either in a lump or installments.

Other achievements of the new regime are the developing of the 90,000 miles of canals and plans for the developing of 360,000,000 h.p. in electricity. Five projects, similar to the American TVA plan are being undertaken.

Young foreign engineers are bringing their skills to help in the technological development of India. Of these at least 20 are Canadian electrical engineers.

"Will India nationalize her industry"? That he said was a question he was continually being asked. And his answer was no.

Foreign capital is being invited into the country.

"All we want is that this foreign capital be directed toward manufacturing and that Indians be allowed to learn the "know how."

There is a three-way division of industry: about six industries, mainly defence, are controlled solely by the government; an intermediate group has 61 per cent government control and 39 per cent private; and the third is completely open to private capital.

Mr. Banerjee did not specify what industries came under these latter two groupings.

"If there is any question of expropriation of foreign holdings," he said, "there will be adequate compensation decided on by an international tribunal."

When India became independent many outside observers thought that there would no longer be any place for Britishers and their capital holdings, he said. But this had been proved wrong as most of the lucrative tea, jute and coal industries—to name a few—were still in British hands.

"They are quite happy, too," he said, "thanks to Mr. Gandhi."

Mr. Banerjee told of plans to vastly increase the output of the steel works and textile mills. About 300 locomotives have been purchased from Canada to help keep India's extensive railway system in good running order.

Indian farmers work under restrictions of weather, different in kind but similar in effect, to their opposite numbers in Canada, he contended. The monsoons which make farming impossible during their three to four month stay are analagous he felt to the long unproductive Canadian winter.

This makes secondary, handicraft industries a necessity. The fine work turned out by craftsmen is encouraged by the government for its artistic and aesthetic contribution to the nation's culture.

Production Increased

In the field of social democracy he contended that India was also growing fast. Production increased 15 per cent in 1949 over the previous year. The trade union movement is encouraged and even three-party conciliation boards, somewhat similar to Canada, have been set up.

And there are facilities for unemployment and health insurance.

Untouchability is now an offence in India.

"In the eyes of the state all are equal regardless of caste, creed or religion."

Publicly, at any rate, the discrimination on the basis of class and creed is gone, he said.

As an example of the republic's tolerance toward minority religions he pointed out that there are 40,000,000 Mohammedans in the state of India, 10,000,000 Christians, and a few million other minority religious groups.

In the Indian cabinet there are two Mohammedans, two Christians, two so-called Untouchables, and two of other minorities.

Mr. Banerjee was introduced by Leo Copp, principal of the Normal School, and thanked by A. E. Borland.

Memorial Plaque To Percy Stinson For Council Room

MILLBROOK, Feb. 9 (ENS) — A plaque to the memory of the late F. Percy Stinson, a former reeve of Millbrook, is to be placed in the council chamber council decided Monday. George Ellsworth, representing the Business Men's Association, told the council the Association had a sum of money which it wished to contribute, in conjunction with the municipality, towards the plaque. The Reeve and Councillor Raper were placed in charge of making the necessary arrangements.

After a discussion on extensive repairs to the Town Hall, Councillors Coulter and Raper were authorized to interview the council of the township of Cavan to determine what should be undertaken during 1950.

Fire Chief Douglas Sheppard reported ten firemen had attended a practice and all equipment in good order.

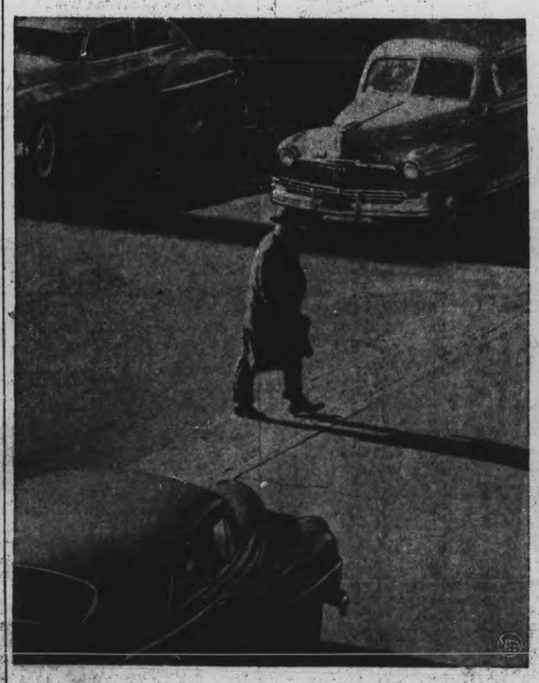
Eddie Nattress, speaking for Millbrook School Board, asked council to consider improvements to car parking conditions at the school grounds. The matter was left in abeyance for further consideration.

Permission for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind to hold a tag day on Sept. 23 was granted.

4-Inch Snowfall Spurs Skiers

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected at Kempt's Hill tonight as skiers will zip down the slopes under the floodlights after a two-week lapse. The four inches of wet snow will provide slow skiing at first until it is packed down on the one-inch base of old snow.

Hopes that perhaps the Southern Ontario Zone meet could still be run off this weekend were high this morning. Some Ski Club officials said that a definite decision would be made today and wires would be sent out to the 35 clubs in the district if it is to be held this weekend at Bethany, Nassau and Kempt's Hill.



OPEN FIELD RUNNER is the true elite of the jaywalking clan. He's at his best when the going is the toughest — in the middle of the street with the automobiles whizzing by on both sides. Note his complete indifference.

Ralph Standish Re-elected Head Law Association

Ralph Standish Wednesday afternoon was re-elected president of the Peterborough Law Association at its annual meeting. The executive was also returned.

Following is the complete list: His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke and Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, honorary presidents; Ralph Standish, president; J. A. Bradshaw, vice-pres.; N. J. Crook, secretary; F. G. Foster, KC, treasurer; W. J. A. Fair, KC, W. B. Gordon and Mr. Foster, library committee.

Peterborough will be the meeting place of the next annual convention of the District 6, Federation of Law Associations, to be held in the fall.

Tribute was paid by the Peterborough Association to the late G. N. Gordon, KC, who died in 1949. Mr. Gordon was at one time president of the Association. The tribute was adopted in a resolution moved by T. J. Carley, KC, and seconded by Judge Smoke.

Osgoode Hall Course

It was observed that the original recommendations of the local Association regarding re-organization of the course of studies at Osgoode Hall were substantially the same as those finally adopted by the Benchers.

The present system involves a part day of studies at Osgoode and a part day of working in a law office. But the new system will include two years study at Osgoode followed by a year in a law office. This will be followed by a final year of study at Osgoode.

Mr. Crook, secretary, reported that the committee on the Planning Act 1946, headed by Mr. Bradshaw, had submitted its report. This report had been presented at the 1949 District 6 convention in Cobourg and had proved one of the highlights.

Gordon Farquharson, a newcomer to law in Peterborough, was welcomed by president Standish on behalf of the Association.

Principal Pappas Speaks At PCVS

Alexander Pappas, principal of a vocational school in Athens, Greece, and at present a representative of the Greek Government in Canada and United States spoke to the senior assembly at PCVS Wednesday. Mr. Pappas is on this continent buying school equipment and at the same time studying the school systems.

Mr. Pappas told the students they were fortunate in having a school such as PCVS and that in Greece the students do not have the advantages this school offers, such schools as PCVS he said are only possible because Canada is a democracy. Democracy and freedom are worth fighting for, he explained, and students should be on the lookout for encroachments on democratic freedom. Education is progress and progress is the result of education, he said.

Two Cars Damaged

Two cars collided at the corner of Sherbrooke and Rubidge Sts. today causing damage to both.

Paul Simmons, 273 Dalhousie St., driving west on Sherbrooke St., met in collision with a car driven south on Rubidge St. by James Jenkinson, R.R. 2, Peterborough.

The front of the Simmons car met the left rear wheel of the Jenkinson car. Damage to the Simmons car was the front bumper bent, and the grill, right front fender and the left headlight damaged. Traffic Officer Gordon Trennum investigated.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

JUMPS CANCELLED

Owing to lack of snow, the Peterborough Ski Club has cancelled the planned Southern Ontario zone ski championship jumping competitions at Nassau this week-end, Secretary Mary Dodds of the local club announces.

SERVICE STATION ENTERED

A break-in in which nothing was taken was reported by Bruce Parker to police Wednesday night. He said someone had forced his way into the gas station at his Monaghan Rd. wood yard. Constable Louis Rodreque investigated.

PETERBOROUGH RINK STILL IN

Dr. E. C. McKee's Peterborough curling rink edged the Bracebridge rink, skipped by T. J. Ball, 11-10 in the third round of the Cochrane-Dunlop Trophy play in Sudbury today. The trophy is one of the prizes in the Northern Ontario Curling Association bonspiel being held there.

REPRESENT YMCA

G. H. Roper and Jack Gillespie will be delegates to the National Council of YMCA's conference in St. Catharines this week-end. The Council acts as an advisor and helper in YMCA work such as training schools, personal service, program and finance.

PRESENT RADIO SERIES

A series of radio dramas built on the adventures of a newspaper reporter, Danny Marsdon, will be presented by the Chamber of Commerce starting Thursday night. The series should help to clear up the countless misconceptions and inspire pride in Canadian institutions and accomplishments, said P. D. Scollard president.

PLAN PANEL DISCUSSION

Plans were started Tuesday night by the executive of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce to hold a panel discussion on Peterborough's housing problem sometime in March. Those in the panel will represent the building supplies, large housing development interests, private home builders, a representative of the Central Mortgage and Housing and the city officials, the engineer and the assessor. It is expected the public will be invited to attend.

Tussled With Truck Car Suffers $100

More than $100 damage was done to a car driven by Mrs. Donald Howell, 576 Water Street, involved in an accident today at George and King Streets with a truck which received only a dented right front fender.

The truck, driven by Kenneth Lee, RR 6, Peterborough, east on King Street, was starting to make a left turn into George Street, Mrs. Howell, driving north on George Street, was passing another car when the collision occurred.

Driver Worked Too Long Hours Employer Fined

Hugh J. Davis, owner of Capitol Taxi, was fined $75, and $8.00 costs, when found guilty of permitting an employee, Wilf Gedge, 548 McKellar Street, to work excessive hours, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in Police Court today.

In giving his judgment, Magistrate Philp said that the records seized from Davis' office were aceptable as true records and the copy submitted in court showed Gedge had worked excessive hours each day from August 1 to December 10.

Act Passed

Davis was prosecuted under the Hours of Work and Vacation With Pay Act of 1944 in what was a test case for a working hours charge.

Evidence at the hearing January 26 showed that Gedge had worked an average of 12 hours a day, six days a week. The Provincial Act sets a maximum of eight hours a day, or a 48-hour week with 100 overtime hours allowed in a year.

In the period under which Davis was prosecuted, Gedge worked more than 600 hours overtime, evidence showed.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked for a fine of $200, but defence counsel T. J. Carley, KC, argued that the Act was a new one and was being enforced for the first time, the minimum of $25 should be imposed.

Maximum $5 a Day

The maximum fine under the Act is $5 for each day the offence was committed for each employee involved.

"This man was warned several times and made no effort to comply with the Act," Magistrate Philp declared.

Two more similar charges involving two other taxi drivers who worked for Davis were withdrawn by the Crown.

Get Extra Water Building Starts

TORONTO, Feb. 9—(CP)—A building boom in suburban North York township can resume as a result of a decision Wednesday by the Toronto Civic Works Committee to suppy North York with an extra 2,000,000 gallons of water a day.

Reeve Nelson Boylen, of North York, said the arrangement ensured that there will be sufficient water to serve 2,400 houses under construction and another 1,000 for which plans have been drawn up. The issuing of building permits was stopped recently in the face of a growing water shortage.

The board reserved decision for two weeks on a request from Scarboro for 2,000,000 gallons of water a day for the next three years.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

WAITING FOR A STREET CAR, perhaps, or maybe just waiting for Lefty. Nobody who saw this unimpressive-looking Georgian peasant standing all alone on a Moscow street corner in the early days of the Russian Revolution could have foreseen that by mid-century he would be the most constantly and most closely guarded person in the world. At the start of this century, Stalin was an obscure Georgian youth of 20 who had just been expelled from a religious seminary and was now preaching Marxist doctrine in the tiflis oil fields. From a Bolshevist revolutionist and a Siberian exile, he has grown to a position of dictatorial power unequalled in history, with his Communist empire creeping over ever-broader areas of the vast continent of Asia.

Robinson Acts In Own Movie Story

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9 (AP)—"It's a challenge," said Jackie Robinson about acting in his own film story. "But I have had quite a few challenges in the past few year."

The hard-hitting negro second baseman for Brooklyn Dodgers is here to star in what might be called his movie autobiography. He freely admitted his inexperience as an actor.

"I've never done any acting in my life," he grinned. "Not even in school. I have done some work on television and radio, whatever that's worth.

"Im not going to ham up the place. I'll just try to be Jackie Robinson and let the professional actors try to make me look good."

Begins At 12

The Robinson story will begin with Jackie at the age of 12 in Pasadena. It will skim over his football days at university and concentrate on his Dodger triumphs.

The film will not make an issue of Robinson's difficulties because of his race. It will be treated briefly in two scenes: When he was ignored during an infield practice and when some of the other Dodgers attempted a protest strike over his presence on the team.

Robinson will have to race through the picture to report to the Dodgers training camp by March 1. He has told his film bosses that he has to be there on time, so his teammates will have no squawks about his languishing in Hollywood.

Convict Actress

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9 (AP)—Jean Wallace, 25, ex-wife of actor Franchot Tone, was convicted on Wednesday of drunk driving and of a separate charge of drunkenness. The actress, who will be sentenced Friday, was arrested Christmas Eve after her car had rammed a parked auto. Officers testified she was attired only in black panties and a red coat.

Conservative Ruled Over First Socialist Parliament

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Feb. 9—(CP)—Strange as it sounds, a Conservative ruled over the first British Parliament to have a strongly Socialist majority. Stranger still, Labor wants him back next time. The explanation lies in the disinterested approach to politics traditionally maintained by Britain's "Mr Speaker," the man in court dress, silk gown and long wig who presides as ruler at Parliamentary debates.

As first Commoner, the speaker ranks in official precedence above the Dukes and next only to the Prime Minister and Lord President of the council. His word is law.

Throughout the 1945-50 Parliament, the first in which Labor sat as a majority government, the speaker's palatial ressidence in the Palace of Westminister was occupied by Col. Douglas Clifton Brown, 70, a Conservative member of Parliament for Hexham Northumberland who likes to do jigsaw puzzles in his spare time.

Walkover

This Conservative in a dominant Labor administration established a reputation for fairness which was never blemished. Once, as Labor back-benchers like to recall, he rebuked Winston Churchill for "gate-crashing" on a lesser member.

Whatever happens in the General Election, Col. Clifton Brown is the only man who is sure to be back in the House when it reassembles early in March. His constituency will be the only "bloodless" one among the 625 seats in the Feb. 23 vote.

In accordance with an old Parliamentary tradition, broken only three times in the last 110 years, the 139th speaker of the House of Commons will be re-elected Conservative member for Hexham without a contest.

Labor opposed him in the 1945 election, but the speaker triumphed handily. Col. Clifton was all set to resign, under the impression that Labor would insist on a speaker from its own party, and told the chief government whip of his intention.

"Oh, I hope not," replied the whip. "The Labor Party has decided to ask you to remain as speaker."

His attitude to the speaker's job was summed up in his inaugural address to the House, containing this quotation from a book by Mme. Chiang Kai-shek:

"When one works for personal glory, the work is bound to suffer. Only work for the sake of work itself and the good it can do deserves success."

Guelph Employees' Vote Favors IUE

GUELPH, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Employees of Copper Wire Products voted 53 to 6 today to have the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers represent them as their bargaining agent in future wage negotiations. The vote today brought to a climax the union jurisdictional dispute between the employees of the Guelph firm and the two rival unions.

Mothers Attend CGIT Banquet

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 9 —(ENS)— More than 60 mothers and daughters sat down at the annual mother and daughter C.G.I.T banquet in the basement of the United Church. The Rev. W. Tonge was chairman.

Miss Margaret Calberry, evening president of Lakefield C.G.I.T introduced the guest speakers, Miss Marion Pogue and Miss Jean Smith of Peterborough.

Miss Smith gave the history of the C.G.I.T. which is based on Christian principles.

Miss Betty Jane Rath contributed a solo accompanied by her mother, Mrs. E. Rath. A sing-song was led by Miss Jean Smith with Mrs. Rath at the piano.

Miss Ruth Bullock and Mrs George Graham thanked Miss Smith and Miss Pogue.

A skit was presented by the girls after which games were in charge of Mrs. W. Fite.

Dinner was served by the Misses Caroline-Ann and Frances Erskine, Anne Samis, Ann Richardson, Ruth Graham and Alta Bullock.

On Sunday morning the C.G.I.T. took charge of the church service which was conducted by Alma Cherry, Barbara Graham and Marilyn Fraser with Miss Betty Brown of Peterborough as guest speaker. The C.G.I.T. hymn was sung by Betty Jane Rath Ruth Bullock, Nancy Doubt and Margaret Calberry.

The Rev. W. Tonge thanked the speaker and the girls and the entire group of C.G.I.T. girls repeated the C.G.I.T. pledge in union.

United Church Minister Raps Liquor Outlets

HAMILTON, Fb. 9—(CP)— Rev. W. A. Beecroft, United Church minister at Wingham, said Wednesday that authorized liquor outlets do the bootlegger more good than harm because they develop an increasing drinking public and provide customers for the bootleggers.

Addressing the 59th annual convention of the Ontario Temperance Federation, Mr. Beecroft spoke of the Canada Temperance Act, which is in effect in only three counties—Peel, Perth and Huron, the latter county including his town. The CTA forbids only sale of liquor, not consumption. The Ontario Liquor Control Act providing government sale and licensed establishments is in effect elsewhere in the province.

Strauss Resigns A-Commission

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 — (AP) —Lewis L Strauss resigned Tuesday as a member of the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

President Truman accepted the resignation effective April 15

In a letter, made public by the White House, Strauss said he wanted to return to his private affairs "from which I have been separated for so long."

President Understands

Truman said that he understands why Strauss after nine years in the public service, wants "to return to private pursuits."

The resignation of Strauss leaves two posts to be filled on the A.E.C.

Chairman David E. Lilienthal, who resigned some time ago, agreed to stay on until February 15 and Truman is still looking for someone to fill that vacancy

Ask Government Re-open Plant

LAKEFIELD Feb. 9 (ENS) — A suggestion that the Government be asked to investigate the possibility of re-opening the cement works, was made by Walter Killowan at this month's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

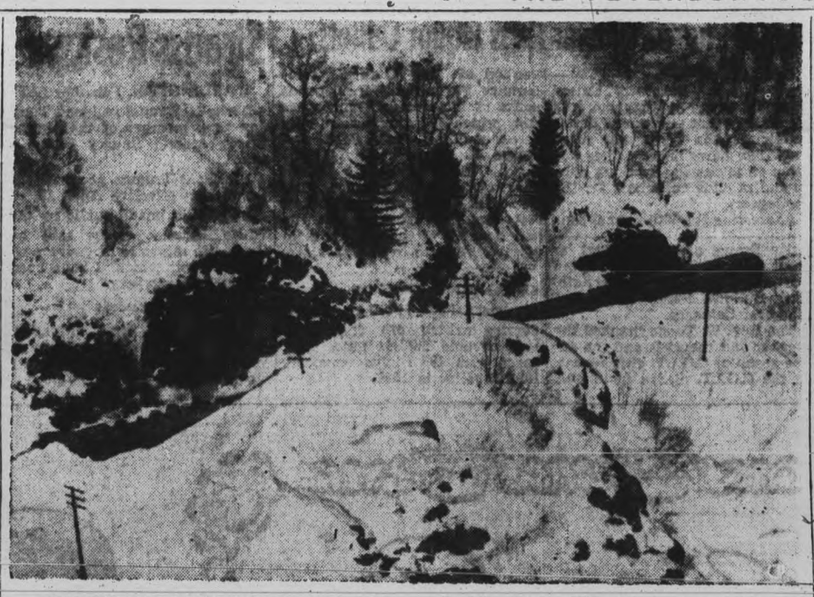
President E. H. Northey presided. J. L. Fraser suggested that the islands be cleaned up, the park be underbrushed and the speed limit enforced in the village.

The members decided a light was necessary at the park corner

Don. Hendren, chairman of the Tourist Committee, reported the tourist booklet is progressing and will be ready in March.

Changes Employment

BONARLAW, Feb. 9 (ENS) — Clarence Wellman of Havelock, formerly of Bonarlaw, has accepted a position with Nelson Construction Company, north of Toronto and left on Tuesday to take up his duties there. He has been employed with the Rawdon Township roads the past 11 years.



CAUGHT IN SLIDE — Sections of this east-bound passenger train were buried under tons of snow that swept across the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Saddle Rock, 127 miles east of Vancouver. Forty passengers were trapped for 40 hours in the slide that submerged seven coaches. All escaped injury.

GUELPH, Feb. 9 (CP) — Bell Telephone officials said Wednesday accidental damage to a cable at Corwhin, 10 miles east of here, caused a breakdown in telephone communication throughout a big part of southwestern Ontario.

Treasurer At Queen's Resigns His Job

KINGSTON, Feb. 9 (CP)—Gordon J. Smith, treasurer of Queen's University, has tendered his resignation, which has been accepted by the executive of the university board of trustees.

Mr. Smith is leaving the university on medical advice. It is expected an appointment will be made at the next meeting of the board of trustees.

Threatens Police

BRANTFORD, Feb. 9 (CP) — Angered by a five-year sentence for breaking and entering, Wilfred Livingstone, 20, shouted in court Wednesday, "When I get out, I'm going to get two guns and shoot every policeman in Brantford." The sentence—his fourth since 1946—was imposed for theft of $3 from St. Mary's church poor box and causing $400 damage to the interior.

Protest Closing Ban

MONTREAL, Feb. 9 (CP). — A petition protesting the recent padlocking of the United Jewish People's Order Hall here was signed by about 100 McGill University students Wednesday. The petition, which will be forwarded to Premier Duplessis, also requested repeal of the padlock law which permits the closing for one year of any place suspected of Communist activity.

Set Bomber Record

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9 — (AP)—A twin-engined United States navy plane landed at San Francisco airport Wednesday after a 5,000 mile non-stop flight. The navy called it a record for bombers launched from a carrier. "We clipped the old record of 4,880 miles, but the next flight will probably break ours," said the pilot, Cmdr. Thomas Robinson.

End Martial Law

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Feb. 9 (Reuters)—New Zealand has decided to recognize the new states of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia in Indo-China, External Affairs Minister Fred Doidve, announced today.

India, Pakistan Fail To Accept Proposal On Kashmir-McNaughton

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Feb. 9—(CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton reported to the United Nations security council that India and Pakistan failed to accept his proposals for settling their dispute over possession of Kashmir.

McNaughton recommended that the security council should give India and Pakistan an opportunity to explain their policies to the council. He indicated there is no clear evidence that further mediation attempts by him will help in face of the views expressed by the two countries.

Proposed Demilitarization

"I do not believe that further activity on my part would serve any useful purpose," McNaughton said. He was handed the job December 17 while president of the council and December 29 he submitted a proposal for demilitarization of Kashmir to pave the way for a plebiscite to decide the ri:h territory s future status.

McNaughton emphasized in the report that he did not attempt to pronounce judgement on the policies expressed by the two countries.

The report included the texts of amendments to McNaughton's proposals submitted by India and Pakistan.

Pakistan accepted the demilitarization proposals with some minor amendments. Indian amendments called for withdrawal of Pakistan forces from Kashmir and disbandment of "Free Kashmir" forces in Pakistan-held territory, before withdrawal of Indian armies.

"Clear Rejection"

Sir Zafrullah Khan, Pakistan's foreign minister, said in a final letter to McNaughton that India's "so-called amendments" amounted to a "clear rejection of your proposals."

Previously India has insisted that their forces are the only one legally in the territory because they were requested by the Kashmir Government. The fighting started in October, 1947, when Moslem tribesmen invaded Kashmir from the north and were later joined by Pakistan forces. A cease-fire was arranged January 1, 1949. But there has been no final truce.

In his conclusions, McNaughton emphasized the "paramount necessity of resolving this controversy."

"As long as the dispute over Kashmir continues, it is a serious drain on the military, economic and above all, on the spiritual strength of these two great countries," he said.

Famous Dr's Niece Loves Her Skating

TORONTO, Feb. 9 — (CP) — France Dafoe, 20-year-old prize-winner in the Canadian figure skating champions last week, skates simply for the love of it and she has no aspirations to be a second Barbara Ann Scott.

A niece of the late Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the doctor who brought the Dionne quintuplets into the world, Frances is an accomplished art designer.

Her design for a prize-winning medal, a skate with wings reposing on a laurel branch, now is being cast in silver and bronze for the Canadian Figure Skating Association and she will be one of the first to receive the medals. She partnered Norris Bowden, 23, to win the waltz title at the championships at St. Catharines last week.

Senator Wilson Re-elected Head

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 — (CP) — Senator Cairine Wilson of Ottawa, Wednesday was re-elected president of the Princess Alice Foundation Fund at the organization's fourth annual meeting.

Some 40 persons attended the one-day session of the Fund established by Princess Alice, wife of a former governor-general, the Earl of Athlone. Activities of the Foundation include the provision of scholarships to train Canadian women as leaders of youth.

Directors elected included: Senator Iva Fallis, Peterborough, Ont., and Mrs. John Labatt, London, Ont.

Advisory committee includes: Mrs. Gordon Conant of Oshawa.

IODE News

LIEUT. COL. AGNES NEILL

Members of Lieut. Col. Agnes Neill Chapter, IODE, met Monday evening. Miss Mary Curry presided. Annual reports showing a successful and enjoyable year were read by officers.

A special 50th anniversary service is to be held at St. Paul's Church Sunday evening, Feb. 12. All IODE members are invited to attend and they should be in the Sunday School room at 6.30 p.m.

Miss Curry thanked all the members for the support and co-operation she had received during her term as regent of the Chapter.

The nominating committee composed of Mesdames Verna Tanney, Marguerite Robinson and Miss Eleanor Chapman read the slate of officers as follows:

Regent, Mrs. Doris Vallery; 1st vice-regent, Mrs. Iris Shaw; 2nd vice-regent, Miss Marjory Benson; secretary, Miss Eleanor Taylor; treasurer, Miss Dorothy Allan; press secretary, Miss Eleanor Jobbitt; standard bearer, Mrs. Kay Messervey.

Conveners: Social, Misses Jean Cranfield and Jean Duignan; education, Miss Jean Hamley; post war, Mrs. Amy Cranfield; Echoes, Mrs. Beth Wellwood; empire study, Mrs. Vivian Graff; child and family welfare, Mrs. Margaret Adamson; overseas, Misses Dorothy Franks and Isobel Shearer.

Councillors: Mesdames Joan Todd, Marguerite Robinson, Verna Tanney and Misses Mary Curry and Eleanor Chapman.

Plans were discussed for the annual spring tea, which will take place April 15 at the YWCA. Miss Mary Curry will be in charge of the tea tickets and Miss Jean Hamley the draw tickets.

Next meeting of the Chapter has been postponed until March 13.

Of Interest to Women

CUPID'S CAKE WALK—After James Klerohomos and Toula Kazakes were married in a Greek Orthodox ceremony in Chicago, they held a reception and led the wedding party of 19 in triumphal march through this pastry arch. The giant cake weighed 540 pounds and stood 10 feet high.

To Sponsor Pictures

Regular meeting of St. Andrew's WA was held Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. I. H. Keefer, presiding. Mrs. Gordon Ham and her group were in charge. The period of devotion was taken by Miss M. Ferguson, who dwelt on the subject of "Faith".

Mention was made of work being done in the kitchenette. It has been remodelled, a new gas stove purchased, cupboards built, and it is being painted.

Voluntary giving under the cent-a-day plan will be continued in 1950.

On March 3, the WA will sponsor the showing of coloured pictures taken in Ontario of flowers, roses, shrubs, etc., which should prove most interesting. Arrangements will be in charge of Mrs. Roy Lewis and Mrs. J. A. McKone. Delightful musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. H. A. Mitchell who was accompanied by Mrs. R. R. Baker and they were thanked by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris. Tea was served at the close.

Further Gifts To Hospital

Regular meeting of Civic Hospital Women's Auxiliary Board, held in the Argyle St. nurses' residence Monday afternoon, was well attended. Mrs. E. Braund, president, was in the chair. Committee budgets were approved by the meeting and plans for the year's work were made. Dates for the annual penny sale were decided on and will be May 25 to June 5 inclusive

Miss E. Morrow, reporting for the new hospital furnishings fund, spoke of the Rotary Club's donation of $2,000 and announced the following donations: Business and Professional Women's Club to furnish a waiting room on the third floor; Eastern Star Order No. 16 wish to purchase four over-bed tables; Mary K Birdsall Chapter, IODE, a donation of $10.

Customers' Corner

Correct prices, plainly marked, are essential to good food shopping.

You can best stay within your budget when you know as you shop how much each item is costing you.

That is why we have a rule in our stores that the price of every item should be marked plainly and accurately on the item, shelf or case.

We hope you will find this policy helpful; and that you will tell us if you should ever find that we have made an error.

We would appreciate any suggestions you might have for the improvement of our price marking system or anything else that will make your A&P a better place to shop.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

Singing of 'O Canada' and the Lord's Prayer opened the meeting of Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association Tuesday evening.

Discussion took place about a social evening to be held in March with Mrs. W. Frise and Mrs. J. Rea in charge.

In observance of Founder's Day Mrs Frise past president, related the history, aims and objectives of the Association she read the Home and School Creed and gave its explanation.

A skit "Sharing the Work" directed by Mrs G. Tweedy was presented by Mesdames G. Astelle, Beeler, Hicks and Martin. A film "Who Is My Neighbour?" was shown by Mr. J. Loveday, principal.

Miss M. Cathcart's room won the attendance prize.

The meeting closed with a social half hour.

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Former members were welcomed to Central Home and School Association meeting as the annual Founder's Night was observed this week.

Mrs. L. Raper, read a brief history of the Association, which is celebrating its 30th birthday. Special recognition was made of past presidents, who were present, having been specially invited for the occasion.

Community singing was enjoyed under the leadership of Mr. S. Hayman with Mrs. W. R. Philp at the piano. Two vocal solos "Holy City" and "Bless this House" were sung by Carol Raper accompanied by Marian Jones. A tribute to the late Mrs. Ada Courtice, founder of the movement, was read by Mrs. S. J. Rowe, followed by the playing of "My Task" by Mrs. D. Munro.

Mr. D. Crawford, recently appointed principal, spoke informally of education its aims and accomplishments. Stressing the importance of character building in education, he spoke of ideals at which to aim, courtesy, usefulness, ability to live with others, happiness, good sportsmanship, thoughtfulness and kindness. He pointed out that no school can function properly without the cooperation of the home. In conclusion, Mr. Crawford read several selections of poetry.

All taking part in the program were thanked by Mrs. S. Redout. Mrs. S. Malsch, presided for business. Attendance prizes were won by Miss E. Dix and Mr. Crawford's classrooms.

Refreshments were served from a table beautifully decorated in Home and School colours and centred with a cake in honour of Founder's Day. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. R. Philp and Mrs. S. Redout. Refreshments were under supervision of Mrs. F. Earle and her committee.

Mrs. J. Arnott New Regent Lakefield Chapter

Annual meeting of Catherine Parr Traill Chapter IODE was held Monday evening with 31 present for dinner at Dyncourt Manor.

Retiring regent Mrs. E. H. Northey presided as the following annual reports were given; Mrs. J. McKerchar, treasurer; Mrs. T. Chaplin, Empire study; Mrs. E. Douglas, educational report; Mrs. B. D. Weaver, post-war; Mrs. E. Waldon, sewing; Mrs. Winder Smith, film committee; Mrs. D. Hendren, child and family; welfare, Mrs. J. Arnott, Echoes.

Miss Ivy Remnant, regent of the junior chapter, presented their annual report. Mrs. Reg. Doubt read the minutes of the last annual meeting and gave the secretary's report.

Mrs. J. Browne and Mrs. W. Coldwell were appointed to send a Valentine and box to each resident of the Old People's Home.

It was decided that the post-war, ex-service and child and family welfare departments be united and called the service department with Mrs. W. Leonard as convener.

Mrs. Northey welcomed three guests, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, regent of Municipal Chapter, and Miss Mary Medd, vice-regent, both of Peterborough; Miss M. Allan of the Margaret Carmen Eaton Chapter, Toronto.

Mrs. Hall as guest speaker commented on the splendid reports, outlined IODE work, and spoke enthusiastically of the phases of IODE work.

The slate of officers was presented and Mrs. Hall installed the following: Regent, Mrs. J. Arnott; first vice regent, Mrs. T. Chaplin; second vice regent, Mrs. J. Browne; secretary, Mrs. K. Lichty; assistant secretary, Mrs. W. Croft; treasurer, Mrs. J. McKerchar; Echoes secretary, Mrs. C. Hunter; standard bearer, Mrs. E. Orr; councillor for service department, Mrs. W. Leonard; councillor for Empire Study, Mrs. W. Todd; councillors for Katchewanooka Chapter, Mrs. Mary Martin and Mrs. C. Coldwell.

Mrs. J. Huddart expressed appreciation to Mrs. Northey for her splendid leadership as regent during the past year.

Following the installation of officers bridge was played. Mrs. Erskine Douglas won the prize for high score, Miss Allan for second high score and Miss Medd consolation.

Conveners for the dinner were Mrs. Winder Smith, Mrs. W. O'Brien and Mrs. E. Orr.

Valentine decorations were predominant, place cards at the dinner table were Valentine bridge tallies, the individual bridge tables were centred with red hearts on lace doilies, and first prize for bride was a heart-shaped box of candy.

Try Rennet Dessert Magic

to make them ask for more!

It's easy to make milk into rennet desserts with "Junket" Brand Rennet Powder (six flavors, already sweetened) or "Junket" Rennet Tablets (not sweetened or flavored . . . add sugar and flavor to taste). Rennet desserts are even easier to digest than milk itself, thanks to the rennet enzyme. Try these "Nest Egg" Rennet Desserts tonight.

"Nest Egg" Rennet Desserts

2 cups milk (not canned)
1 package "Junket" Rennet Powder, chocolate flavor
½ cup shredded coconut (moist)
Jelly eggs

Set out 4 or 5 individual dessert glasses. Make rennet desserts according to directions on package—takes only a couple of minutes. Then chill. Just before serving, make a "nest" of shredded coconut in the center of each dessert and fill with colored jelly eggs.

Cedar Chests In Dual Role

The 1950 cedar chest has a sophistication and dual purpose which the cedar chest of 20 years ago never achieved. Today's cedar chest is undeniably a cedar chest keeping out moths and storing linens, but it may also, with cleverness on the part of a housewife, double as a window seat, miniature buffet in a small apartment night table or telephone stand.

The veneer of a cedar chest now can be painted, opening up all sorts of color harmony and room-scheme possibilities. A chest in a small boy's room might, for example, appear staid. But given two coats of paint in a decorator color and an application of attractive decals, a cedar chest becomes a gay piece of furniture with appeal for the boy who occupies the room. For such a project, be sure to use a paint recommended by your dealer, since veneers differ. Decals go on in the ordinary way and, in case you didn't know, you can get decal remover at your paint store and thus change the scenery whenever you're bored with it.

Giving a lift to a cedar chest for a teen-ager's room is a fairly simple matter, and inexpensive. It involves chiefly a slight knowledge of sewing and an organdy with a permanent finish. By these means, a ruffled skirt can be created to turn the chest into a pretty and useful window seat.

For an ordinary chest whose sides measure 18 inches; front, 43 inches; and depth, 18 inches, you'll need a piece of lightweight muslin 18 by 79 inches. You'll also need five yards of organdy, which you'll cut lengthwise into fourths. Hem one side of each organdy strip, gather the other side and attach it to the muslin foundation in tiers five inches apart. Sew a piece of tape to each end of the skirt so that the skirt can be tied at the back of the chest.

To make the padded top for the chest, acquire a piece of cotton quilting 23 by 48 inches. Give it a one-inch hem all around, leaving a small slit in the back. Work a white tape through the tubular opening made by the hem, pull the drawstring and tie it at the back.

SEASONAL DECORATIONS

Paintings and scrolls on the walls of some Chinese homes are changed periodically to keep them in harmony with the seasons.

Now Many Wear

FALSE TEETH

With Little Worry

Eat, talk, laugh or sneeze without fear of insecure false teeth dropping, slipping or wabbling. FASTEETH holds plates firmer and more comfortably. This pleasant powder has no gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Doesn't cause nausea. It's alkaline (non-acid). Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

CEDAR CHESTS are now called upon to play a dual role. This chest (left) has been painted a decorator color and given gay decals to enliven a boy's room. For the teen-ager's room this chest (right) can take a ruffled skirt and quilted pad, thus doubling as a window seat.

German Fashion Buyers Put French Designers in Rage

By ALISON SETTLE
(Correspondent For London Observer)

PARIS, Feb. 9—A fury of indignation has swept the dress world of Paris. For the first time since the war German buyers are here in force to reintroduce high couture of German women. They have been granted Marshall aid dollars for the purpose.

The cause of indigation among not only the Paris designing houses but to a far greater degree among European buyers, is that they have demanded that, in consideration of their "difficult situation" and the limited amount which they can spend, the Paris couture houses shall give them an advantage of 30 per cent off all prices. More than that, while other buyers, the British among them, pay the full 100 per cent, the Germans also demand that the average of a 100,000 francs (approx. £100) capital "look money" which much be put down before any buyer can view a collection shall in their case be remitted.

This "look money" is the guarantee that trade purchasers coming to view a dress collection shall at least benefit the creating house to the extent of the money put down. Many trained fashion observers have a photographic eye, and can go away and reproduce many of the salient points of fashion without buying. In consideration of this sum being laid down, trade buyers are entitled to receive the "toile" or canvas pattern of one dress, coats or suit out of each collection where they have paid this entrance fee. The Germans demand to receive the "toile" without paying any initial entrance fee.

Like the improverished British the Germans will not be able to buy a model: indeed, all soft currency countries are in the same position. The British dress trade has had to manage with nothing more than canvas patterns each season since the war ended.

Americans Silent

The Americans attending the couture collections are taking no part in the hot discussion now going on. They regard Germany as a privileged country acting as a bulwark against Russia, and are prepared to see them gaining a 30 per cent advantage over even the U.S. buyers.

But the Paris couture itself is divided. There are some who say that Germany should once again have a fashion trade and be aided re-establish it. Those who took part in the Resistance or were captured by the Germans are outraged by the idea that Germany should have a tremendous financial advantage over the European countries who fought against them.

One dress house when asked to give this advantage to the German trade buyers, said that they could see no reason why the Germans should not continue to make the black and white striped models which they had made so successfully in their own interests during the war. This was a reference to the striped clothing worn by the victims in the Buchenwald concentration camp. Several of the personnel of this house happen to have perished in Buchenwald.

DOROTHY DIX

Blames Wrong Upbringing For Selfishness of Children

DEAR MISS DIX: We bring our children into the world, care for them through infancy, work and sacrifice for them, watch them grow into maturity. No matter what they do we stand by them rejoicing over their happiness, grieving over their sorrows But as soon as they are grown they leave us and forget us, and we sit by our firesides alone breaking our hearts for some word of appreciation or affection. How good it would sound to hear them say: "Oh, Mother and Dad, you have been so wonderful to us we can never, never repay you" That is all we ask, just a few words of kindness to make us know that there is still left a tender spot in their hearts for us

A MOTHER

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: I am afraid it will not comfort you much to tell you that your sorrow is of your own making, and that when a mother has children who neglect her it is her own fault She is the one to blame, not they, because they are treating her exactly as she taught them to treat her

Forms Point of View

This seems a harsh and cruel thing to say, but it is the truth Every baby is a bit of plastic clay delivered into its mother's hands and she forms its habits and its manners and its points of view If she exacts nothing of it, it will give her nothing If she makes a doormat of herself for it, it will walk over her. If she sacrifices everything for it, it will think that is what a mother is for and will not even perceive that she is making sacrifices.

On the other hand, if the mother puts herself up on a pedestal the child will burn incense before her. If the mother poses as an oracle, as long as it lives the child will always think Mother knows best and be guided by her opinions If Mother makes her children help her and consider her, they will always feel obligated to take care of her If Mother expects little attentions from her children, she always gets them

The trouble with mothers is that they can spend twenty years rearing a child to be selfish and self-centered and ungrateful and unappreciative and then expect it to turn into a model of appreciation and tenderness when it is grown, but the miracle never happens You determine when a child is in the cradle what it is going to be when it is a man or woman and the way it is going to treat you

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married to the best wife in the world and we were very happy, but somehow I got into an affair with another woman God knows how or why, for I didn't care for this woman My wife left me, but returned to me after I had promised to play square. She never mentioned the affairs to me and we were happy for about two years when I got into another scrape My wife again left me, but finally I persuaded her to return to me again. She warned me that if ever there was another affair of that kind there would be no more making up. I don't know why I did it, but I got into another mess and again my wife left, this time getting a divorce.

Now I realize how much I love her and that life means nothing without her. We are both very young and I have learned my bitter lesson She says she will never love me or want to live with me again Don't you think that we could be happy again together? I promised to do anything and to give up everything for her if she will only return, and I mean everything I have promised.

K. S. D.

ANSWER: I do not thing a man who is as weak as you are is capable of keeping a promise, or of being faithful to any one woman. Evidently you are a born philanderer and you will never be able to resist the flutter of a petticoat You will always get up and follow

I think your wife would be foolish to come back to you unless she loves you so much that she can accept your infidelities, realizing that they are only surface attractions, that they really mean little and will soon be over and that whatever of real honest love you are capable of belongs to her.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My boy friend says that he loves me How can I be absolutely sure of that?

E Z.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: You have to take his word for that You can't see into his heart and know what he really feels, so the best that you can do is to believe him if he sounds reasonably convicing and keep your fingers crossed for luck.

Don't be too credulous, however, The reason that men get away so easily with spurious love-making is because a woman can believe anything she wants to believe.

What's Right

Your child has reached the "telephone age."

WRONG WAY: Let him telephone his friends whenever the notion strikes him.

RIGHT WAY: Realize that when your child makes a telephone call you are not disturbed but the other child's parents may be.

Student Nurses Annual Tea And Bazaar Held

Student nurses of the Civic Hospital have again found time in their busy schedules to entertain their friends at a tea and they held the event Wednesday evening in the Argyle St. Residence. A large crowd of visitors was their happy reward for the effort.

The girls had also prepared articles for sale and they offered some very pretty hand-made aprons. Not many had time to bake for the home cooking table but it was still well supplied with good things that sold quickly.

A fish pond in the corner added to the gaiety of the scene, where hearts and cupids were the theme of decoration. Guessing the number of pills in a box created a lot of fun and Miss Lila Morton was almost completely accurate in her guess and won the prize.

Draw on a woollen blanket on which tickets have been sold was made at close of the tea and the winner was Miss Aileen Morgan.

Red tulips went with the Valentine decorations in the tea room and it was lighted with red and white candles. The tea was poured by Miss A. L. Thomson, Mrs. E. Braund, Mrs. M. B. Pringle, and Miss C. Wilson, and each wore a corsage of white carnations presented by the students' council.

Tea cup reading was an added attraction and the reader was a supervisory staff member, Mrs. T. Willcox wearing an attractive gypsy costume for the occasion.

Guests were received by Miss Lillian Coones. The affair was in charge of Miss Doreen Seney and Miss Joan Smith was in charge of the tea room. Miss A. Bowler, Council president, was attending the fish pond, Miss Merle Dauncey had charge of the bazaar table and Misses B. Allen M Ashmore and B. Barr were at the home baking table. Senior students helped with the bazaar and intermediate and juniors served. Miss Barbara Deyell sold raffle tickets.

Enjoy Box Social At St. Luke's Church Year Party

A Valentine box social following a very pleasing program Wednesday evening in St. Luke's Parish Hall was this month's event for the Church Women's Year. Mrs. M. Mason was the convener and the entertainment was arranged by Messrs. Roland Krant, Bernie Morin and Fraser Watson.

Ted Bradshaw's magical tricks delighted, especially when he produced a rabbit from his hat. The "Four Horsemen" sang several numbers and community singing was led by Fraser Watson. Two piano solos were contributed by Morley Coombes, organist, and Bernie Morin sang two songs. Michael Tunnycliffe and Bill Harvey from Boy's Town sang "She'll be coming 'round the mountain" with actions.

New officers were presented by Mrs. Gordon Maniece and Mrs. D. Wyatt, past presidents, and are: president, Mrs. W. King; secretary, Mrs. A. McIlvena; treasurer, Mr. J. S. Mason; Councillors, Mrs. L. Thomas, Mrs. M. Mason, Mrs. D. Walker, Mrs. F. Watson, Mrs. J. S. Mason, Mrs. E. Ferguson, Mrs. W. Wilshire, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, Mrs. L. Lipsett. Program committee, Mr. and Mrs. R. Krant, Mr. and Mrs. B. Morin, Mr. and Mrs. F. Watson, Mrs. W. J. Gilling.

A gift was presented to retiring president Mrs. D. Wyatt by Mr. Gordon Maniece.

Each guest wore a red heart name card, given by Miss Mildred Storey and boxes were drawn for with hearts. Mrs. Mason and assistants served tea with the lunches.

Board Reports Small Loss At Anson House

Although the rates per person had risen during the year the operation of Anson House showed that expenditures exceeded revenue by $341. This was announced Wednesday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Anson House Board of Directors.

About 35 representatives of local churches and the Salvation Army attended.

The Ven. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour presided at the opening service. As one who had seen many homes for older people he felt particularly impressed by the "different atmosphere" prevailing at Anson House.

He described it "as more of a home than an institution."

In the absence of the president, James Hamilton, the chair was occupied by Mrs. G. S. Cameron. She read the president's report which stated that Anson House had provided a home for some 56 elderly men and women during the year.

Increasing costs had given the Board considerable concern, but larger pensions had permitted an increase in rates charged so that operations for the year had resulted in a credit balance of $358.73, although after the usual allowance of $700 for depreciation there would be an overall loss of $341.

In accordance with instructions from the Ontario Fire Marshal two more fire escapes were installed as well as many other alterations for fire prevention and these comparatively heavy expenditures had to be met from capital account.

Painting of the exterior of the main building and barn has been too long delayed because of lack of funds but will have to be done soon. He paid tribute to the superintendent, Miss Robinson, and her staff for the able and considerate manner in which the affairs of the House are carried out.

Bequests from the following were deeply appreciated: Mrs Mary Payne, Mrs. M. E. P. Lane, Miss E. J Stenson and Miss Helen Bell.

The financial report, audited by Edward Humpage, was read by the secretary-treasurer showing revenue of $16,840 and expenditures (operating) of $16,482. Larger repairs amounting to $2,190 were charged to capital account. A detailed report from the property committee was given by A. L Killaly and for the house committee Mrs. Fred Hills mentioned particularly the open house held in the spring and the successful Christmas party at which Mrs. MacLaren, Mrs. W. B. Brown, Mrs. Walter Perry and Mrs. J. Failkowsky assisted.

The residents appreciated entertainment which has been provided for them during the year by the Drive-in Theatre, the Peterborough Summer Theatre, the Peterborough Automobile Club, Mr. Searles, Mr. Simmons, the Salvation Army and many others as well as numerous gifts from citizens. The Royal Arthur Masonic Lodge have always been generous friends.

The superintendent reported that the women residents are always busy knitting and sewing articles which are sent to the hospital and Children's Shelter as well as to the Grenfell Mission. She thanked the Ministerial Association, the League of Mercy the Salvation Army and all others who have assisted, including the Rev. M J. Aitken who comes every three months to give communion.

James Hamilton was re-elected president.

Following is the complete list of directors: Mrs. F. M DelaFosse honorary president; James Hamilton, president; Mrs. F. M Somerville, 1st vice-president; Mrs. G S. Cameron, 2nd vice-president. Mrs. R. R Hall, 3rd vice-president Mrs. Fred Hills, corresponding secretary; H. C. Sootheran, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Laura Davidson, Mrs. Clarice Suckling Mrs. J. W Pierce, Miss L. Morrow Mrs. G. R. Langley, Mrs. F E Hooper, Mrs. C. C. Pilon, Miss Claire Mason, W C. Ackerman, T A. Mackay and A. L. Killaly.

Bethany Community Honors Newlyweds

BETHANY, Feb. 9 (ENS) — A party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stewart, who were married recently, was held Tuesday in the Town Hall. Mrs. Stewart is the former Betty Beer, daughter of Mrs. Beer and the late Ernest Beer.

An address was read by Mrs. Mansell Wright and a walnut china cabinet was presented by Ernest Cavano, Mansell Wright, Mervyn Porteous and Donald Lowes on behalf of the community. A number of gifts from individual members of the community were also presented.

Earl Argue and Allan Beer expressed congratulations to the couple.

A program of entertainment with A. H. Monk as chairman, included duets by Creighton and Marie Carr, Phyllis and Gayle Bristow, Joyce Bigelow and Peggy Reynolds; solos by Leone Jordan, Ralph Preston, Mrs. T. Jennings, playing her own guitar accompaniment, and Marie Finney. Mrs. Earl Argue gave two humorous readings and the McGill Orchestra played.

Lunch was served after dancing.

Allied Labor Council President C. Johnston

COBOURG, Feb. 9—Charles Johnston was elected president for 1950 of the Cobourg Allied Labor Council. Other officers are Wesley Heigh, vice-president; Ray Waite, secretary; Ralph Holnbeck, treasurer; Walter Allcock, floor guard. The 1949 standing committees were re-appointed.

Husbands Guests Trinity Auxiliary At Valentine Party

The Mothers' Auxiliary of Trinity Baby Band had a Valentine party for their husbands Wednesday evening. Mrs. Oscar Jamieson had contrived to transform the church parlours into a garden where tree branches sprouted red hearts and cupids were hovering all about.

Mrs. John Nicol directed a gay program of games. Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Legon were the lucky winners of a door prize.

From a charming Valentine table, decorated with bouquets of hearts and snowdrops, supper was served to about 80 guests.

Mrs. E. Gregg was general convener of the party, assisted by Mrs. O. Jamieson, decorations; Mrs. John Nicol, games; Mrs. L. W. Thompson, catering; Mrs. E. Malcolm, treasurer; Mrs. E McWilliams, invitations; Mrs. Eric Edmondson, Mrs W. R Philp, Mrs. E. Wilson, Mrs J. Skitch, Mrs. R Springham, Mrs. J. LaBrash, Mrs. J. Marshall, Mrs. K. F. Baritrop and Mrs. M. McCullough.

Dollar Crisis Driven Off Front Pages

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (CP)—A flurry of election activity brought Britons one blessing—the financial crisis vanished from the front pages.

In a common desire to win votes and influence people, the two principal parties sidestepped international economics in favor of such popular domestic issues as work, homes and food. Only the Liberals and some independents felt free to make the dollar dilemma a central campaign issue.

The ruling Labor party's manifesto, "Let us win through together," was criticized for putting the crisis in cold storage. Cited as a conspicuous omission was the absence of any referenc to dollar aid from Canada and the United States.

The Conservative statement, "This is the road," was admired for its greater length and more specific proposals, but some critics contended that it merely promises greater benefits without saying how they can be paid for.

Ignore British Crisis

The Manchester Guardian, Liberal, delivered this verdict:

"The Conservatives recognize a Socialist crisis; Labor will reluctantly admit that there is an inconvenient world crisis; neither side will recognize the British crisis."

If a Labor Government is returned Feb. 23, the attack on monetary problems probably will follow the same broad lines—appeals for greater productivity in industry, coupled with emphasis on the price advantages afforded by the devaluation of sterling.

In the Socialist view, the sterling area's lack of dollars is part of a world "unbalance" and must be solved on a world basis. This explains British hopes that another meeting will be held soon among top Government financial experts from Canada, the United States and Britain.

Meanwhile, Labor will keep on trying to sell more goods to dollar countries, while keeping its own dollar purchases to a minimum. It is not likely to react favorably to a suggestion by the Anglo-Canadian joint trade committee, an unofficial body, that Britain should abandon bulk buying as part of an effort to adjust trade between the two countries.

Mrs. Sarah Heffernan Buried In Grafton

The Rev. C. McCarney of Our Lady of Assumption Church recited mass Monday for Mrs. Sarah Heffernan who died Saturday. The funeral was from her son's residence, Frank Heffernan, Lot 21, Concession 11, Otonabee, to the church, thence to St. Mary's cemetery, Grafton, where the Rev. James Blac said the graveside prayers.

Pallbearers were sons, Frank, Joseph and Thomas, and sons-in-law, Albert Lynch, Harry Lynch and Leo Keogan.

S.W. Steenburgh Dies In States

HAVELOCK, Feb. 9 (ENS) — Stuart Wesley Steenburgh, 63, of New Kensington, Pennsylvania, a native of Belmont township, died suddenly early Wednesday at Fort Myers, Florida, where he was spending the winter.

Mr. Steenburgh was taken ill on Tuesday night with a heart attack and died a few hours later. He was a son of the late William H. Steenburgh and Mary Emily McGinnis of Belmont township.

In his early manhood he took up residence in the U.S.A., where he followed the business of a contractor, being a partner for some years in the firm of R. G. Johnston Company, Washington, Pa. He and his wife the former Mary Croffland of McKee's Port, Pa., spent the summer months every year at their cottage on the Crowe River.

Mr. Steenburgh was a Free Methodist and he was a member of the Orange and Masonic Orders.

Surviving besides his widow are a daughter, Mrs. Bertha Coleman of West Virginia; three sons Watson of Boston, Mass., William of Verona, Pa., and Ralph of New Kensington, Pa., two sisters, Mrs. Norman Johnston (Hattie) of Rice's Landing, Pa., and Mrs. George Barnes (Lena) of Vancouver, B.C.; two brothers, Floyd and Christopher of Belmont township.

The funeral will be held in New Kensington, Pa. Mr. Steenburgh's brother, C. F. Steenburgh and Mrs. Steenburgh, with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Christy Steenburgh will attend.

SUBJECT TO POLL TAX—George Blair, 63, of Detroit, Mich., has willed his entire estate, estimated at $40,000, to his poll parrot "Bob." Blair, a widower with no immediate family, says the parrot has been his constant companion for many years and deserves a good home. Upon Bob's death, the estate will go to an institution for the blind.

Tells History Newfoundland

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP)—State Secretary Bradley said Wednesday night the history of Newfoundland was a "unique and romantic, though at times somewhat sordid" tale

He told the story of Canada's newest province to a meeting of the Queen's Alumni Association here.

For the first century of British settlement on the island, the colony was "left to work out its own salvation without any assistance and not much interference" from British authorities.

But later British adventurers tried to prevent colonization an "infamous and repressive decrees" were imposed to prevent settlement. The reign of King Charles II brought "repression and disaster to the settlers, who were prepared to pay almost any price in order to secure their freedom."

Crashes On Peak

BOGOTA, Columbia, Feb. 9 (Reuters) — A transport plane crashed on a 9,000-foot peak in the Central Cordillera, killing the pilot, co-pilot and mechanic, the Colombian Air Force reported Wednesday. A passenger who had travelled in the plane from Panama was injured.

Wire Breaks Loose One Killed, One Hurt

MERRICKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 9 (CP)—An electric wire on a foundry machine tore loose from its base Wednesday night and one man was killed and another seriously injured.

Ronald Errett, 23, was killed almost instantly by the shock. Harry Durant, 37, was shocked and burned.

The accident took place in a foundry here 40 miles south of Ottawa. The two men were moving the machine when the wire ripped loose from its base and curled around a steel bar of the machine, forming a ground contact.

Police Spend $35, Win $5, Pinball Operators Fined

WINDSOR, Feb. 9 — Nine persons, all proprietors of restaurants, pool rooms or smoke shops, today were convicted of operating common gaming houses after police found them paying off in cash to players of pinball machines in their establishments. Each pleaded guilty and was fined $100 or three months in jail. The machines were ordered confiscated.

The nine are: Harvey Mills, James Foteides, Allan Strickley, Walter Stachowsky, Vasili Croitpri, Michael Senenko, Harry Stednick, Harry Chan and George Penpiluk.

The men were charged following extensive police investigation of the skill-game machines where proprietors were allegedly paying off winners in money. Police testified they spent about $35 on the various games and had won about $5. The crown ordered the plain-clothed policemen reimbursed.

12,400 Phones In City Bell Reports

The Bell Telephone company added 1,178 telephones in the last year E. G Baker, manager in Peterborough said today bringing the city's total to 12,400. At the end of 1939—only 10 years ago—there were 6,051 telephones in Peterborough, or well under half the present figure.

Local telephone calls in Peterborough reached a daily average of 70,640, and some 2,011 long distance calls were originated here on the average day during the past year. Ten years ago telephone users here were making only 34,642 local and 585 long distance calls on the average day

Due to the increase in the number of telephones, and the rising volume of local and long distance calling, the number of Bell employees here has now reached 170.

Drew on Surplus

To pay the regular dividened of $2 per share during 1949 the company found it necessary to draw on surplus to the extent of $5,003,429, according to the 70th annual report of the company issued today.

Continuing upward trends in operating expense and cost of plant investment brought the company to the point where it could no longer bridge the gap between revenues based on 1927 rates and the high costs of 1949.

Revenues rose by 12 per cent to the record high of $109,506,843 but operating expenses rose by 20 per cent Net income amounted to only $7,461,396 or $1.20 per share

New construction expenditures for plant expansion and improvement amounted to $74,300,000 Fixed capital now totals $463,248,589, or $290 for every telephone in service, compared with $272 in 1948 and $250 in 1947.

Say Duke of Windsor Plans To Make Home In England

LONDON, Feb. 9 — (AP) — The Evening Star says today the Duke and Duchess of Windsor plan to end their long self-imposed exile from Britain before the end of 1950.

The Star says the Duke and the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, for whom he gave up the throne in 1936, have real estate agents looking for a suitable country house within easy reach of London.

"When he was here just before Christmas the Duke was impressed by the friendly reception he had," a Star columnist writes today. "He feels, I am told, that he is wanted back in Britain."

The duke and duchess now are visiting in Mexico.

Says The Star columnist:

Confided to Friends

"In the company of old friends in New York on New Year's Eve the duke is said to have spoken freely about his intentions of finding a house in England and making it his home before the end of 1950.'

The Star says three persons including the duke's mother, Queen Mary, have had most to do with his decision to come home. The others, the story says, are Lord Brownlow, a close friend of the duke and duchess, and Lord Dudley, at whose house in Sunningdale they visited in April 1949.

"Previously the duchess has been opposed to living in England on the grounds of possible embarrassment it might cause to herself and members of her husband's family," The Star says. "This objection is now said to be no longer valid."

A press official for Buckingham Palace denied any knowledge of the duke's plans. He told a reporter:

"We only handle the affairs of the immediate Royal Family here."

Lakefield Lions Induct D. Marr

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 9 —(ENS)— Stanley Darling, past district governor and past president of Peterborough Lions Clut was guest speaker at the Lakefield Lions Club meeting recently.

The Lakefield club was invited to attend the past presidents' night to be held in Peterborough and to consider the possibility of inviting the district convention to Peterborough area next year.

Stanley Darling inducted Donald Marr and explained the Lions crest. Past President Eric Anderson read the Lions code of ethics, Jack Ryan read the objects of Lionism, and the Lions lapel button and membership certificate was presented to Don Marr.

A Lions ladies' night is being planned for Easter week.

After the meeting the men attended the hockey game. The Lions Club are sponsoring the midget and juvenile hockey teams this year.

Appoint 3 More To Municipal Bd.

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP)—The five-member Ontario Municipal Board will be increased to eight or more members to cope with an ever-increasing pressure of work it was learned Wednesday.

It also was understood from government sources that a new chairman will be appointed soon to replace R. S. Colter, who has retired. An 18-month extension to his term was made six months ago.

Since Mr. Colter's resignation, the board has functioned with only four active members.

An increase in the board's business in recent years has necessitated the holding of sittings on assessment and other matters in several cities, including Windsor and London.

Because of lack of personnel, on occasion these cases have been heard by one member, who later reported to the full board. It was understood that if the board membership were doubled, one section could hear cases outside Toronto and the other could attend hearings here.

Government sources declined to predict who might get the new appointments.

Rheumatic Pain, Backache Gone 'Feel Years Younger'

This Grateful Man Tells How Syntona Helped Him After Suffering Years. Appetite, Digestion Better, Sleeps Soundly, Praises It Highly.

MR. ELMER SHAW

Hundreds of men and women in this city and vicinity have told of the remarkable results they got by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound. People who formerly suffered stomach disorders, sluggish kidneys or liver, constipation, nervousness and rheumatic aches and pains say Syntona has given them surprising and prompt relief from their suffering.

For example, here is the experience of Mr. Elmer Shaw, of 191 Simcoe Street, London, Ontario, as told in a recent report:

"For a number of years I was troubled with rheumatic pains in my limbs, joints, muscles and back. I got so stiff and crippled up I couldn't walk without a cane. If I sat still in a chair for a while, I had difficulty getting up again. In addition, I had frequent splitting headaches and dizzy spells and my digestion was poor. Food would sour in my stomach causing large quantities of gas and a distressed feeling.

"I tried everything I knew of, and even had my teeth extracted, but the pain and soreness remained and I failed to improve. A few weeks ago, a friend told me how Syntona had helped him and I decided to try it. On finishing the first bottle, I felt some better, so I continued taking it and now the pain and backache are gone and the stiffness and sore aching is gone so I can walk without a cane, and I feel years younger. At the same time, my digestion and appetite have improved and I sleep more soundly at night."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Have No Coal Will Cancel More Trains

U.S. Ban To Affect Some Services From Canadian Points

MONTREAL, Feb. 10—(CP)—Canadian Pacific Railway officials said today that an Interstate Commerce Commission order slashing rail service in the United States because of a coal shortage will not affect CPR service between Canada and the United States.

A CPR spokesman said the line uses diesel locomotives on its Montreal-Boston run and Canadian coal is burned on trains running from Canadian points into Maine.

Canadian National Railways said the Ambassador, operated daily between Montreal and Boston with connections at White River Junction to New York, will be placed on a tri-weekly service effective Sunday.

The revised schedule shows that the Ambassador will leave Montreal at 9:20 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. From North Station, Boston, it will leave at 12:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for Montreal. Connections at White River Junction to and from New York will continue to be available on those days.

In the train service changes made by the Rutland Railroad under the ICC order, the daily morning trains 64 and 65 between Montreal and New York are cancelled effective Saturday.

The CNR announced that it will service the Canadian portion of this route with a motor train between Montreal and Rouses Point, N. Y.

Southern Ontario Hit

Southern Ontario points felt the impact of the United States coal shortage today with the announcement by the New York Central that it would discontinue six trains in its Canadian division at midnight tonight.

Coal-burning railroads in the United States rushed to comply with Interstate Commerce Commission orders to slash service

Hundreds of trains will be taken out of service at 11:59 p. m.

That will mean unemployment to an estimated number of railroaders.

Heavy Guard At A-Conference

HARWELL, Berkshire, England, Feb. 10 —(AP)—A police guard three layers deep kept watch over a meeting of Canadian, American and British scientists at the government's atomic laboratory here today.

The scientists are discussing what further information on atomic energy should be made public.

War department police were posted around the grounds where the laboratory stands, around the building itself, and at the door of the conference room.

All notes and blotters used at the meeting Thursday — first of the four-day conference — were burned by the police last night to guard against the leakage of any information.

Angry Woman Wounds Tenants With Hatchet

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (CP) — A 16-year-old girl is in hospital and her father was treated for face wounds after their landlady Mrs Marie Boyce, attacked them with a hatchet during an argument Thursday night, police said today

Mrs. Boyce was remanded today to Feb. 17 on a charge of wounding.

Joan Burns is under observation for possible concussion suffered when she was struck by the blunt edge of the hatchet, hurled at her father. Her 42-year-old father Sydney, suffered a cut under his left eye.

The 37-year-old landlady is alleged to have struck Burns with the hatchet after an argument developed. When Burns attempted to flee, police were told, the hatchet was hurled at him but struck Joan.

Threat To Jobs

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP)—The United Electrical Workers Union said today that relaxation of import controls of refrigerators, washing machines and radios constitutes a threat to the jobs of thousands of Canadian workers in the electrical manufacturing industry. In a telegram to Prime Minister St. Laurent, the union urged the Federal government to keep the controls in effect.

Rescue Party Inches Way Up Mountain

WHITEHORSE, Y. T., Feb. 10 (CP)—A ground rescue party today inched its way up a jagged Yukon mountain peak to the aid of 10 stranded fliers who have spent hree days and nights in sub-zero weather since their search plane crashed Tuesday.

They were participating in North America's greatest air search — a hunt for a United States Air Force transport with 44 persons aboard—at the time of the crash.

Tending the marooned flyers were five para-rescue men, one of them a doctor. They jumped from an RCAF Dakota late Thursday and landed 300 yards from the crash.

Two helicopters stood by on a landing strip 15 miles away and 7,000 feet below the bleak, snow-covered mountain. A double air and ground rescue may be necessary to bring the men from their chilly perch. Three of them Americans—have broken limbs, while the Canadians, members of the Princess Patricias Canadian Light Infantry, are uninjured.

Weasles Break Down

The ground party, made up of Canadian and American soldiers, began their hazardous trek up the steep, rocky peak in four weasels, caterpillar-tracked vehicles. When three broke down, they continued in the other but were forced to camp on the slope Thursday night.

They were probably the first men ever to set foot in the desolate mountains. If possible, they will evacuate the five para-rescue men and the stranded flyers by weasels. However, an air evacuation with the helicopters may be necessary.

Such an evacuation would mean hauling the men one by one into the hovering helicopter, then transferring them to trucks at the landing strip at Pon Lake on the Alaska Highway.

Huddled Around Fire

While the ground party struggled up the sheer rock facings of the mountain, the 10 Canadians and Americans and the para-rescuers—two Americans and three Canadians—spent the night huddled around the crashed plane, keeping warm with a fire built on wood dropped from planes.

Meanwhile, an intense storm approaching the Yukon area, where the search for the missing transport has gone on for two weeks, threatened to wash out the air hunt.

Afraid Asia Fall To Reds Pearson Says

Conference Officials Alive To Danger Of Soviet Imperialism

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today that delegates to the recent Commonwealth Conference in Colombo felt there is a real danger of the whole Far East falling under Soviet imperialism.

Mr. Pearson, who returned Wednesday from a six-week tour of the Far East, told a press conference that the Colombo conference of Commonwealth External Affairs Ministers had been largely concerned with what should be done about Communit advances in that part of the world.

The conference had felt that the centre of gravity had switched from Europe to the Far East.

There was a general feeling that Soviet Communism had been at least contained in Europe, but there were many trouble spots in the Far East.

Will Make Statement

At other points during the press conference, Mr. Pearson said:

1. He will be making a statement to the Commons on his trip as soon as suitable occasion presents itself following the opening of the session next Thursday, Feb. 16.

2. He will discuss with the cabinet the question of Canadian recognition of the Communist government of China.

3. At Colombo and in Tokyo he had found no disagreement with Canada's feeling that the sooner a peace treaty is concluded with Japan the better.

4. Delegates at Colombo realized that Canada's aid to Asia would have to be considered in the light of commitments already made under such things as the North Atlantic Treaty.

5. Canadian representatives were impressed by the long-range possibilities of increased trade with the East and with the short term difficulties in the way of such trade.

6. One of the things the people in the Far East want most from Canada is technical assistance.

Mr. Pearson said he felt that one of the most significant things about the Colombo conference was that it was held in a sister dominion.

Fifteen or 20 years ago, such a conference would have been held in London. The delegates would have heard the foreign secretary make a report on Europe. They would have made a few comments and then gone home.

Have Big Racket

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (CP)—Two men who admitted burglarizing city and suburban homes and stealing articles police estimated to be worth thousands of dollars today were remanded to Feb. 14 on 15 charges. William Morrison alias Morrow, 25, and James Budd, alias Bray, 32, were arrested January 26 in London, Ont., when police raided their apartment. The pair were reported to have stolen goods ranging from an $1,800 fur coat to jewelry, clothing, luggage, liquor and piggy banks.

Steal Secret Papers

ROME, Feb. 10—(Reuters)—Thieves, believed by police to be in the pay of an international spy ring, today robbed an Italian government official of top-secret documents. The official, Walter Sorbi of the Transport Ministry, was travelling on the Turin-Rome express when he was robbed. A briefcase, containing documents on railway installations described as "of the maximum importance," was stolen from his compartment.

Campbell Rules Conacher Not Be Charged

TORONTO, Feb. 10 —(CP)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said today he would take no action in connection with two incidents in Detroit Wednesday night involving Coach Charlie Conacher of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Campbell said a reported fight between Conacher and Lew Walter, Detroit Times sports writer, in the Chicago dressing room, was beyond the league's jurisdiction. Walter has charged the Black Hawk coach with assault as a result of the incident.

Campbell commented that any newspaper reporter entering a club's dressing room does so at his own risk.

The second incident, in which Conacher is alleged to have grabbed Referee Bill Chatwick by the sweater during a game between Chicago and the Detroit Red Wings, was minimized by Campbell, who said the affair was given undue prominence because of the Conacher - Walter incident which followed the game.

Blames Referee Too

Campbell said the referee was as much to blame as Conacher.

"I've instructed referees that when they're talking to coaches they should stay at a safe distance," he said. "Chadwick didn't, and Conacher's natural reaction was to grab him by the shoulder, because he had something else to say to him."

In the dressing-room incident, Walter claimed the coach struck him and attempted to throttle him when the reporter sought to interview him after the game, which the Hawks lost 9-2.

Conacher said he knocked Walter down after the reporter called him "a bad name."

Ice-Blocked Island Keeps Partial Service

KINGSTON, Feb. 10 (CP) — The ferry Wolf Islander, which links residents of nearby Wolfe Island with the mainland, today continued to shuttle over a route between a Kingston wharf and a point half a mile out in the harbor.

There she meets Wolfe Island residents who cross more than a mile on the five-inch ice to the present end of the ferry run.

The operation could continue all winter if necessary, provided that the channel can be kept open.

Marathon Prayer Meeting At College

Quiet Religious Revival Mushrooms Across Campus For 32 Hours

WHEATON, Ill., Feb. 10 (AP) —A spontaneous religious student revival which started Wednesday night at Little Wheaton College had developed into a Marathon prayer meeting today.

Some 1500 students and 110 faculty members of the non-sectarian fundamentalist Protestant school joined in the prayer service. They jammed the Pierce Memorial Chapel for more than 32 consecutive hours.

Some 50 remained during the early morning hours and there was no indication of an immediate breakup. No classes were held on Thursday, and there probably will be none today.

Nearly all of the students had stepped up to the pulpit at least once and confessed their sins and testified that the spirit of the Lord had cleansed their souls.

Many students returned for the second and third testimonials. Some had waited as long as nine hours to walk to the pulpit to describe their little errors of life and ask forgiveness

Gil Dodds, the famous miler who quit the track to preach the Gospel and teach track at the 97-year-old college, was reported away from the campus

Revival Unexpected

The revival started unexpectedly Wednesday night during one of the regular semi-annual week long evangelistic services at the college. The school offers a liberal Arts course, including considerable Bible study and a Master's degree in theology.

The Rev. Edwin S. Johnson, a Seattle evangelist, was to have adressed the students. It was 26 hours later that he did address them. Before introducing him, Dr. V. Raymond Edman, president of the college, asked if there were any students whose testimony could not wait.

Ten students walked to the pulpit. After they had finished, others crowded into the aisles, and the Marathon prayer session had started.

Still Continues

During the first night, all day Thursday, Thursday night, and early today, the young men and women students—many preparing for the ministry, missionary and evangelistic work—sat bowed in prayer. Every three or four hours all sang hymns The march to the pulpit continued.

The students told of hurting a roommate's feelings, talking behind a professor's back cheating in an examination, or being too proud " Each student spent about five minutes at the pulpit.

Students at the college in this community of 8,000, 35 miles west of Chicago, agree on admission not to smoke, drink alcoholic liquorsm, dance, play cards, or engage in other "frivolous amusements."

U.K. Scientist Confesses Giving Data

Valuable Secrets Sold To Russia On A-Work Since '42

LONDON, Feb. 10—(CP)—Klaus Fuchs, brilliant German-born British scientist who confessed giving vital atomic secrets to Russia, today was committed for trial. He faces a maximum of 14 years in prison if convicted on two charges of violating the Official Secrets Act.

Fuchs confessed that since 1942 he knowingly and continuously passed on to Russia British-American atomic secrets, the prosecution told the court today. Conceivably this could have included information not only on the atom bomb but also the hydrogen bomb.

The Bow Street court ordered 38-year-old Fuchs held for formal trial in Old Bailey criminal court at the session beginning Feb. 28.

Fuchs, reported to be a self-admitted "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" among the master minds of the atom, accepted £100 (then $400) in 1946 "as a symbolic payment signifying his subservience to the cause (or world Communism)," a Crown witness told the court.

The mild-mannered Fuchs, a wartime refugee from the Nazis, merely blinked his eyes as the prosecutor, Christmas Humphreys, labelled him a "political fanatic on the payroll of a foreign power "

Has Split Personality

The prosecution produced a statement it said was signed by Fuchs, describing himself as a U.K. SCIENTIST

Indians Worry Tourist From U.S.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (CP) — At least one United States resident considers Canada the last frontier of the wild and wooly west with marauding bands of Indians posing a constant danger to would-be tourists.

A letter from a Michigan City. Ind., man reached the Canadian Travel Bureau office here today asking about facilities in the North Bay-Kenora area or Northern Ontario for an outdoor camping trip this summer.

"Is there any danger of sneak attacks by Indians or other parties while tenting at night with my wife and daughter?" the Michigan City man asked. He said he was anxious to visit Canada but didn't want to tangle with any "Indians on the warpath."

Travel Bureau officials said they were rushing a letter to Michigan City assuring the timid camping enthusiast that Canada's Indians are really law-abiding citizens.

Nab Two GI's In Red Employ

VIENNA, Feb. 10—(AP)—The United States Army announced today that two American soldiers have confessed they kidnapped an Austrian citizen for a Soviet-directed agency last November.

The soldiers, the Army reported, said they were paid 7,000 schillings ($250) for the abduction. The Army identified them as Sgt. John Frankey, 29, of Brockton, Mass., and Cpl. Paul Abel, 26, of Bolivar, Mo.

The men, both members of a military police battalion, said they abducted 39-year-old Oswald Eder in the British sector of Vienna and took him in an army jeep to a rendezvous point in the Soviet zone of Austria.

Officers quoted the two as saying they voluntarily gave themselves up "because the recent expose of the Soviet-controlled abduction ring in Austria convinced us we would be caught sooner or later."

The Army Jan. 10 announced it had smashed a Soviet-sponsored kidnapping ring engaged in spiriting displaced persons out of the American zone of Austria and turning them over to Russian authorities.

Says Soviet Union Now Going Concern

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Industrialization in Russia has rolled ahead with gathering momentum since the war, and Soviet industry today is far more diversified and better equipped technically than ever before, says Edmund Stevens, until recently the Christian Science Monitor's Moscow correspondent.

Any realistic approach to understanding Russia must be based upon recognition that the Soviet Union is a going concern and no mere visionary attempt at Utopia, Stevens warns. The Soviet system, he says, will not collapse because of unworkability.

"The lower efficiency standards of Soviet performance are to some extent neutralized by the fact that under the Soviet co-ordinated planning, some of the waste and duplication of competitive economy are eliminated, his report says.

The unlimited pool of overproduction has given the Soviet Union's centralized control system an edge over the free economy of capitalism, the reporter claims.

Eastward Shift

Today Soviet industry is continuing an eastward shift begun during the war. In the light of wartime lessons, cities of industry are springing up beyond the Urals in Siberia—such cities as Asbest (for asbestos); Magnitogorsk, iron and steel; Miass, automotive industry; Krasnoturinsk, aluminum and hosts of other mining and industrial towns.

But it is impossible to find out just how Soviet industry is doing Stevens concedes the Russians scored impressive postwar gains in the reconstruction of war devastated areas, in lifting industrial and agricultural production beyond the pre-war peak But the only published material on production is in percentages of planfulfillment of percentages of gains over previous years.

Since the basic figures on which these percentages are calculated are a close secret, the publication of the percentages simply serves to mystify the reader. Not only are the Russians secretive about production of war material, but they are coy about even such peacetime consumer goods figures as galoshes and sausages

Needing Oil

There have been recently, however, frank public admissions from high officials indicating that the Soviet Union is running short of oil. This, says Stevens, explains why the Soviet government "casts a roving and covetous eye on foreign sources of oil" and was chagrined when its oil-concession deal with Iran fell through

On the consumer-goods front, Soviet trade, says Stevens, suffers from waste and inefficiency which "stems directly from the absence in the government trade system of the commercial competitive element."

Domestic production of consumer goods is expanding steadily, but much still must be imported with Czechoslovakia a prime supplier. Moscow stores offer a wide choice of Czech dresses, priced in the neighborhood of 350 rubles ($70); rayon stockings at up to 75 rubles ($13.60) a pair (nylons still were not on the market); men's suits starting at 600 rubles ($113); men's shirts at 60 rubles ($11.30; leather shoes up to 400 rubles ($75.20).

Canadian Fighter Planes Hold Own In Mock Battle

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Feb. 10—(CP)—Canadian Mustang fighter planes more than held their own against American jet aircraft Thursday in a mock dog fight at low altitudes over this northern search base. The "battle" was a training prelude to exercise Sweetbriar, the joint winter manoeuvre in the north which is scheduled to get under way from Whitehorse Feb. 13.

All planes were attached to the Allied forces in Sweetbriar. But for training purposes, four R.C.A.F. Mustangs from the joint air training school at Rivers, Man., acted as a strafing flight from the exercise's "aggressor" force.

Four American F-80 jet planes, based at Anchorage, Alaska, acted as the "Allied" defence. They were to keep the Mustangs from destroying aircraft on landing strips at the Whitehorse air base.

Some Advantages

The Mustangs, flying between 350 and 375 miles an hour compared with the 500 m.p.h. speed of the jets, demonstrated that they could turn much tighter circles than the F-80s, thus eluding planes on their tails.

A Sweetbriar umpire, who watched the dog fight in the sub-zero temperatures from the roof of a hangar, estimated that the Mustangs destroyed seven aircraft on the ground and two F-80s in the air. He said the F-80s "shot down" all but one of the Mustangs.

Car Hits Pole 1 Dies, 4 Hurt

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 10 (CP)—One girl was killed, and four of five other young persons in an automobile were injured Thursday night when the car went out of control on suburban Wellington Road and smashed into a hydro pole. No charges have been laid.

Pauline Neville, 23, died of head injuries on her way to hospital. Police said she was the daughter of John Neville of Chute, Ont. in the Cochrane district. In her purse was a card bearing the address of Mrs. J. Neville of Montreal. She was employed here as a stenographer at Ontario Hospital.

In hospital are Robert Hanson, 25, of Woodstock, said by police to be the driver; and William Seltzer, 22, of London, both with undetermined injuries. Their conditions were fair. Treated in hospital for minor injuries were Doris Matherson and Lois Boger, 25, both of London. John Code was uninjured.

All were members of a So-Ed club party from the YMCA which was returning to the city after a visit to a radio transmitter station.

Only Has 70 Wives Left, Fon Burned Up Wants UN Officials To Mind Own Business

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y Feb. 10 (CP)—The aged and ailing Fon of Bikom, who has only 70 wives left, is burned up at attempts to abolish polygamy in the British African colony of Cameroon.

He has lost 40 wives since his multiple matrimony was first called to the attention of the United Nations two years ago.

And some members of his harem are indignant too.

That is what a special UN mission reported Thursday after travelling by foot and horseback to a little village to visit the 80-year-old tribal ruler.

The UN has been looking into the Fon's domestic affairs since a British Roman Catholic organization, St. Joan's Social and Political Alliance, complained he was polygamous in a big way.

The Fon was particularly irked over a newspaper article cited in the alliance's complaint saying a maiden was taken by force to be the Fon's wife—one of the many.

The Fon told the mission he resented this "libel" against him and said he intended to take legal action. He said all his wives entered his compound of their own free will and that he was not prepared to accept any new wives except under this same condition.

After the issue first came up he offered all his wives a chance to leave. Forty left.

DVA Official Shot In Back At Interview

Two Shots Missed; Man 65 Finally Subdued In Office

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 10 (CP) —Charles Moss, 55, district representative here for the Department of Veterans' Affairs, was shot twice in the back today while interviewing a veteran of the first world war in the DVA office.

Police said that Adrien Gagnon, 65, would appear in magistrate's court later in the day on a charge of attempted murder. Gagnon was subdued after a struggle by Hugh Everson, 30, of the DVA staff. Hospital attendants said that Moss has "every chance of recovery."

The shooting occurred shortly before noon while Moss was talking to Gagnon in the DVA office. Several shots were fired and it is believed that at least two struck the DVA officer, hitting him in the lower part of the back.

At least two shots also were believed to have missed, one striking a glass partition and another hitting a wall.

Lewis Contract May Be Illegal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP) A Federal court decision cast doubt today on the legality of four John L. Lewis contract demands, and a top official expressed hope this might speed an agreement ending the United States soft-coal strike.

Robert Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, said the ruling by Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech might narrow the area of disagreement between the United Mine Workers' president and the coal operators—thus finally clearing the way to settlement of their long dispute.

Some sources suggested, however, that by stiffening the miners' resistance it might have just the opposite effect.

It was at Denham's request that Judge Keech agreed Thursday to issue an injunction against Union contract demands which mine owners complained were illegal.

All four of the contract terms involved were contained in the coal agreements which expired last June 30—setting off the dispute which culminated this week in the walkout of 370,000 UMW members.

A three-man presidential board is due to report to the White House, possibly tomorrow.

Boy Pulls Man From Blazing Car

TRENTON, Feb. 10 (CP)—Jack Yarrow, 14, pulled a 200-pound man from a blazing automobile Wednesday night. Police Chief Jack Taylor said Thursday that the boy saved the life of 30-year-old Auburn Robertson.

The boy, cycling home, saw the man slumped in the burning car, parked on a downtown street. He broke the rear window, pulled the man out of the car and used his own coat to beat out the flames on the man's clothing.

Robertson, being treated at nearby Belleville Hospital for severe burns, Thursday was reported in critical condition.

Stork Derby Leader Mrs. M. Kenny Dies

TORONTO, Feb 10 (CP) — The famous Millar will stork derby of the early '30s was recalled today with the death of Mrs. Martin Kenny, who led the stork race for several years but finally was declared ineligible.

Mrs. Kenny had 13 children during the period of the race, the nine years following the death of Charles Vance Millar, Toronto lawyer-sportsman. All but three of her children died. Because some of her babies were stillborn, she was ruled ineligible for the $500,000 prize but later was allowed $12,500

Frost Orders Toronto Area Clean House

Must Solve Problems Or Government Can't Give Grants

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP)—The controversial plan to amalgamate 12 other municipalities with Toronto in a new, greater Toronto area today had another boost from Premier Frost of Ontario.

It was Premier Frost who first called the mayors and reeves of the 13 Toronto and district municipalities in conference to work out plans for unification of services. He told them the Ontario government's main concern is with housing.

Premier Frost spoke more bluntly Thursday. He said that unless the municipalities in the Toronto Metropolitan Area pull together in settling their interrelated problems "there'll be nothing under the Christmas tree" for them.

He was referring to the federal and provincial government plans for development of low-rental or easily purchaseable homes which the governments are prepared to build. Civic officials of Kingston and London have already opened exploratory talks with the Ontario government on these plans and Windsor officials will be here next week.

Must Settle Problems

"We would be glad to discuss the matter with Toronto and the surrounding municipalities too," said Premier Frost, "but the housing act won't work in these centres until they clean up their own particular problems."

There is no further room for housing in Toronto, he said, because the city is surrounded by an iron band of lesser municipal units. Besides housing, the questions of educational facilities, sewage and water supply, police and fire protection had to be settled.

"It is up to these municipalities to get busy," said Premier Frost. "You can take it from me that until they do clean up shop they won't get anything for housing."

Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto replied that the city is doing everything in its power to bring about a solution of the greater Toronto area problems. The city strongl yfavors amalgamation and has officialy applied for such a measure.

U.K. Scientist

schizophrenic (split personality) who had divided his mind into two compartments. One permitted him to carry on agreeable contacts with those around him at the Harwell atom plant. The other established him as a person completely independent of the forces of society.

Fuchs was the leading atomic researcher during the war at Harwell, Britain's atomic establishment, and was head of the Theoretical Physics Branch, the heart of atomic science. In the United States there were indications that he had access to the most vital of information, including probably the hydrogen bomb. Moreover, it was said in Washington such secrets as he may have passed on could have sped Russia's achievement of an atomic explosion.

During the war Fuchs made several visits to Canada during a stay in the United States, revisiting the country in which he had been interned for a time by Britain after he escaped Nazi Germany.

Signs Statement

At the hearing before Magistrate Sir Laurence Dunne, Security Officer William James Skardon testified Fuchs had signed a statement when he was questioned at the Harwell plant on his arrest last week.

In the statement, Fuchs was said to have asserted that when he learned the kind of work he was to do in Britain, "I decided to inform Russia and I established contact through another member of the Communist party."

"Since that time I have had continuous contact with persons completely unknown to me except that they would give information to the Russians," the statement said.

"At this time I had complete confidence in the Russian policy and I had no hesitation in giving all the information I had.

"I believed deliberately the western Allies allowed Germany and Russia to fight each other to the death. I tried to concentrate on giving the results of my own work. . .

"I used my Marxian philosophy to conceal my thoughts, which had to be separated into two compartments. One side was the man I wanted to be. I could be free and easy and happy with other people without fear of disclosing myself because I knew the other compartment would step in if I reached a danger point. . .

"Looking back now, the best way is to call at controlled Schizophrenia.

Doubts On Policy

"In the post-war period I had doubts about Russian policy. Eventually I came to the point when I knew I disapproved of many of the actions of Russian policy. I still believed that Russia would build a new world and that I would take part in it. . ."

The prosecution gave the court a story of Fuchs as a brilliant youth in Germany who was an underground Communist agent since 1932 in Berlin.

Humphreys said Fuchs was a Communist and at the same time one of the greatest living atomic scientists. He successfully fooled his associates into thinking him a "security-minded person," a retired RAF officer, Wing Cmdr. Henry Arnold, testified. Arnold was security officer at Harwell.

Of Great Value

Arnold testified Fuchs told him just before the arrest that he had passed on information to the Russians.

"Did you say, as security officer at the establishment, that it was technical information about the result of atomic research which might be of the greatest value to an enemy?" the prosecutor asked.

"Definitely," Arnold replied.

Michael W. Perrin, deputy controller of atomic energy technical policy for the Ministry of Supply, which controls the research, said Fuchs made brief contacts at intervals of one or two months, to deliver the documents involved. Toward the end of his activities, when he began, apparently, to have doubts about Russia, he gave less and less at longer intervals, the witness said.

Humphreys asserted in his opening statement that Fuchs was "irrevocably wedded to Communist principles."

The prosecutor told the court Fuchs had signed a statement acknowledging he gave information to the Soviet Embassy here.

Of Highest Value

The revelations, Humphreys said, were "of the highest value to a potential enemy."

Humphreys said three witnesses would be called to bear out his opening statement of charges.

Humphreys gave this account of Fuchs' introduction to atomic research in Britain:

In 1942 "the very finest brains available were needed to assist in research and such brains as Dr. Fuchs possessed were very rare indeed.

"He was known and proved to be one of the finest theoretical physicists living and undoubtedly has done considerable work for British atomic research."

Humphreys said Fuchs told police the £100 he accepted was a "symbolic payment" which he conceded definitely associated him with an effort to pass on information to Russia.

Humphreys declared Fuchs had taken an oath of allegiance to Britain and "always impressed his superiors as being a security-minded person."

"But it is now clear," said Humphrey, "that such an oath of allegiance meant nothing to the man whose mind was irrevocably welded to Communist principles."

"In the statement which he has made, Dr. Fuchs said that shortly after his release from internment he was asked to help a professor at Birmingham University in war work," the prosecutor added. "He accepted it knowing nothing at first about what the work was.

"The statement went on when I learned about the purpose of the work I decided to inform Russia and establish contact through another member of the Communist party."

Father Tip-off

Fuchs first came to the attention of security authorities when he approached a security officer at Harwell.

His 75-year-old father in Germany had been offered a seat at Leipzig University in the Russian zone.

The Fuchs statement said in view of the delicacy of his work he asked security officers at Harwell whether he should resign since his father was being transferred to the Russian zone.

This disclosure gave authorities in Germany an excuse to question the father thoroughly.

When Fuchs later was questioned about his own activities, Humphreys said he at first denied any acts of impropriety.

"But," said Humphreys, "it was obvious that he was moving toward a mental crisis and in his own words he 'suddenly decided to answer any questions.'"

All China Coast To Be Blockaded By Nationalists

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 10 (AP) —The Chinese Nationalist Government Thursday night proclaimed extension of its blockade to cover the entire continental coast of Red China.

Extension of the port closure—it is not officially called a blockade because the Nationalists claim sovereignty over the mainland—is effective at midnight Saturday.

The new closed stretch runs from Tienpei, 190 miles southwest of Hong Kong, to the Indo-China border. The original closure order of last summer covered the remainder of the coast north to the Korean border.

Actually, the Nationalists have been able to enforce it only as far north as the approach to Shanghai.

Blow At Economy

The new action foreshadows an even more determined attempt to throttle the economy of the Communist regime.

Efforts in this direction were seen in the newly stepped-up air war, particularly attacks against Shanghai's power plants.

The Nationalist air headquarters announced that Shanghai was smacked again Wednesday for the third successive day. It said the American-owned Shanghai Power Company plant and the Chinese-owned Kiangnan dockyards were damaged heavily.

The Nationalists have warned in advance that they intend heavy raids on military objectives in 10 of China's largest cities. They showered leaflets on Shanghai Wednesday.

Prices Tend Firmer On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Prices tended firmer in moderately active dealings on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Industrials continue Thursday's strong advance but at a slower pace and showed some signs of weakening in mid-session. Western Oils went against the firmer trend, chalking up declines ranging up to 10 cents.

Volume for the first three hours was 502,000 shares.

Industrials opened sharply higher but profit-taking set in wiping out some of the advances. Abitibi Paper continued a feature, touching a new high at 24⅛ but settled to 23⅝ down ¼ from Thursday's close. Dividend news sparked a sharp upturn in the stock Thursday.

Other paper issues pointed higher and Utilities, Liquors and Refining Oils also brightened.

Golds pointed upwards on moderated advances in key Junior Producers. Dome was ahead ½ at 18⅜ in Seniors. Chemical-Research Corp. continued the feature performer, adding 15 cents at $1.37 in brisk dealings.

Fractional advances by Noranda and Quemont held Base Metals on a steady note.

Oleo Sets Record As Warehouses Full Of Butter

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Canada's dairy warehouses are bulging with butter as its competitor, margarine, reaches new production heights.

This was disclosed today in a Bureau of Statistics monthly roundup of developments in the dairy and margarine industries.

Warehouses held 46,494,000 pounds of creamery butter on Feb. 1, the bureau said, about 19,000,000 pounds more than the 27,678,000 in storage Feb. 1, 1949.

Meanwhile, margarine scored a production record with output in January reaching 7,996,000 pounds, an increase of more than 1,000,000 pounds over December's total of 6,902,000.

Seven Times Greater

The rapid development of the margarine industry was reflected in the fact that January's production was seven times greater than the 1,030,000 pounds produced in January, 1949.

In storage Feb. 1 were 1,856,000 pounds of margarine, compared with 2,012,000 pounds Jan. 1.

Notwithstanding the increased flow of margarine from Canadian machines, the production of creamery butter in January remained steady. Output amounted to 9,867,000 pounds, slightly above last year's total of 9,830,000.

More significant was the sharp rise in the production of cheddar cheese. With the announcement of a new 85,000,000-pound contract with the United Kingdom, cheese output climbed to 1,647,000 pounds from 724,000 a year ago.

Output in Ontario almost tripled and production in Quebec was five times greater. January's total in Ontario amounted to 1,201,000, compared with last year's 471,000; in Quebec, 168,000 pounds, compared with 34,000 and in Alberta 181,000, compared with 122,000.

Snowstorms Ruin Crops In Middle East

By LARRY ALLEN

TEL AVIV, Feb. 10 (AP) — Snowstorms and a cold wave which stunned the Middle East this week appeared receding Thursday, leaving crop damage running into millions of dollars.

Sixteen deaths have been reported in Israel and Arab Palestine since a blizzard Sunday started a stretch of freezing weather unmatched in many areas since 1870. All the victims were refugees.

The cold wave extended southward from Turkey to Egypt and far eastward from the Mediterranean, sweeping a region where central heating is a rarity except in hotels and public buildings. The people found their light topcoats and raincoats flimsy protection against the blasts.

But children and youths generally had a good time. They borrowed sleds and skis from European residents, who had brought them here without knowing they normally would be of little value or used home-made jobs. There was skiing on Mount Carmel. Snow fell Tuesday on the shores of the Dead Sea, 1,400 feet below sea level, for the first time in modern history.

Bright sunshine now has melted the snow in low lying districts, but a white blanket still clings to the hills of the Jerusalem area and Upper Galilee.

Transportation Snarled

Transport and communications systems returned to normal. After a 48-hour halt, work resumed at the ports of Tel Aviv and Haifa. Immigrant ships unloaded passengers. Schools reopened. Government offices again took up full schedules.

The storm ruined big banana plantations in the Jordan Valley. The fruit turned black on hundreds of acres. Damage to the banana crop alone was estimated at $1,000,000.

Field crops and citrus groves also were hard hit.

In the Tiberias district, where storms still raged in the night, a prospective banana crop of 1,300 tons was cut to 200 tons. School children were mobilized to wrap the fruit in sacks of paper.

OBITUARIES

MRS. THOMAS C. WILLIAMS

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Williams, 698 Elcombe Crescent, widow of Thomas C linton Williams, died in Civic Hospital today in her 79th year after an illness of three weeks.

Mrs. Williams was born in Yorkshire, England, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mercer. She was educated in Yorkshire and lived in Woolwich, England, before coming to Peterborough where she has lived for the past 50 years.

Mrs. Williams was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. Her husband predeceased her in January, 1949.

She is survived by three sons, Leonard of Toronto, Clinton and Winston (Bill) of Peterborough.

The funeral service will be held in the Kaye Funeral Home Monday at 2 p.m., Rev. Charles G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

EDWARD PERCY ELLIOTT

The death of Edward Percy Elliott, formerly of Peterborough, occurred suddenly at his home in Eugene, Oregon, late Thursday. He was the eldest son of the late Edward M. Elliott, former county clerk and treasurer of Peterborough, and his wife, Lavina Fitzgerald. He was born in Smith township, and was engaged during his life in the business of banking.

Mr. Eliott joined the Bank of Commerce in Peterborough after graduating from the Collegiate Institute. He was a veteran of the Great War of 1914-18, and some time after his return to civilian life, he went to Detroit where he resumed his banking employment

After the second war, he retired to the Pacific Coast, living in California, and laterly in Eugene, Ore. He leaves his wife and one married daughter in that city, and his two brothers, Charles H. and Alec. L., in Peterborough. The funeral will take place Saturday in Eugene.

Director Resigns

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10—(CP)—Hudson's Bay company officials here said that the company in London Thursday announced the resignation of Sir Edward Peacock, native of Glengarry County, Ont., from the Board of Directors. The Canadian-born British financier will be replaced by Eric Odin Faulkner, M.B.E., of Glyn Mills and Company. Sir Edward was educated at Queen's University, Kingston. He joined the Board in 1931.

Magnificent Role

VANCOUVER, Feb. 10—(CP)—Sir Arthur Rucker, Deputy Director General of the International Relief Organization, said Thursday "Canada's role in aiding the plight of Europe's refugees has been magnificent. All refugees owe a deep debt of gratitude to Canadians."

Clarke and Aggas Promoted By Commission To Sergeant

Two members of the Peterborough city police force were promoted to the rank of sergeant when recommendations made by Chief Constable John Thompson in his annual report were accepted by the Police Commission Thursday.

Detective W. A. Clarke has been made Detective Sergeant and Identification Officer, Constable William Aggas has been given the rank of sergeant.

Both men were warmly recommended by Chief Thompson for the promotions. He said each had done excellent work in his respective department. The Chief pointed out that Sergeant Aggas set up the entire identification department and has operated it efficiently ever since.

Chief Thompson also recommended that, to save heavy costs of upkeep, the department contract with a car dealer to exchange both police cruisers each year.

Need New Motorcycle

He also said that the department needed a new motorcycle to replace the ten-year-old machine now used. It was suggested at the meeting that the old machine might well be kept as a spare for emergencies.

The Chief asked for a Gestetner machine to aid the department in printing circulars.

One piece of equipment needed by the Identification department was a finger print camera for taking finger prints found during investigations to be inaccessible for the usual procedure.

Recommends Lights

Traffic hazards in the city also came in for attention from Chief Thompson. He urged that a caution light be placed at Rubidge and Sherbrooke Sts. to supplement the stop signs which were recently switched making Rubidge St. a stop street and Sherbrooke St. a through street.

Chief Thompson also recommended that Douro St. be made a stop street at the Armour Rd. intersection. He termed the corner a "dangerous intersection" at which there have already been several bad accidents.

In moving that the report be adopted, Judge Sheldon L. Smoke, congratulated Chief Thompson on the report and on the record of the department during 1949. In his congratulations he was joined by Mayor Max J. Swanston and Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, other members of the commission.

In his preface to the report, Chief Thompson said the pension scheme inaugurated for all city employees including the police department, had boosted the morale of all ranks. He added he thought the scheme was a great help in encouraging men to stay on the force.

The Chief said his department had received the fullest co-operation from Provincial Police as well as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

27 Springville Women Attend WMS Meeting

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 10 (ENS)—Mrs. A. Bidgood was hostess to 27 women when the WMS met at her home Wednesday.

Mrs. Dunford announced a crokinole and Cinese checkers party in the church basement on Tuesday to raise money for the Red Cross.

Mrs. Murray, the president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Stevens extended an invitation to the society to meet at her home in March.

The World Day of Prayer service was announced for Feb. 24 in Fairmount Church, at which members of Springville, Fairmount and Mount Pleasant societies are asked to participate.

President Mrs. Murray appealed for an increase in envelope giving of at least 10 cents a member.

The Rev. E. A. Linstead conducted the installation of officers. Mrs. Dunford, group leader, conducted a worship service and reports of Peterborough Presbyterial were given by Mrs. Kelk and Mrs. M. Johnston.

Mrs. B. Preston reviewed a chapter of study book. Poems were read by Mrs. Bothwell, Mrs. Bowles and Mrs. Vesca.

Contract Awarded For Twp. Roads Work

BETHANY, Feb. 10. — Beaver Construction Company has been awarded the contract for bulldozer work on township roads at a price of $9 an hour for each machine with no moving charge and the work to be completed by July 1. This was decided at a council meeting this week.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for tenders for crushing and placing on township roads, approximately 3,500 yards of gravel, three-quarters of an inch crush.

92 Parents Meet At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10.—(ENS). — Ninety-two parents formed one of the largest attendances at a Home and School Association Wednesday since the formation of the Association. The meeting was held at the high school and in addition to the large number of members, was attended by 25 members of the Cub Pack.

Wednesday was founder's night. A record was established for the number of parents and children of a single class attending. Miss Redner won this roll call by grades, with 23 parents reporting.

Eldon Ibey took charge of the music appreciation period. He spoke about Bach and, with his wife, played the piano.

A report by the home education committee showed an enrolment of 20 in the parents' home education group.

Some new publications, showing new hobbies and pastimes were received by the club during the previous month, and these attracted much interest, most of them being loaned out to members at the close of the meeting.

A film dealing with children between the ages of three and six years of age, at play, was showed. It depicted the importance of games and other activities for the young child and the bearing this may have on the child in later life. Mrs. H. R. Hendershot explained many points brought out by the film.

Mrs. Gordon Dunham proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Ibey.

Mrs. Jack Clark presented a small gift to Mrs. Charles Bland, kindergarten teacher, who was recently married.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

FUEL BILLS CUT ON GRAND SCALE

It's amazing how insulation saves fuel for industry! In one plant where a boiler was insulated, savings totalled 165 tons of coal in a single year. In another, an insulated storage tank saved more than 15,000 gallons of oil.

Two things make such fuel savings possible. The right insulation — and its proper application. Johns-Manville has developed insulating materials which control temperatures from 400 below zero to the intense heat of 2600 above. And the application is handled by experts with all the "know-how" of the trade.

If you have an insulation problem in your plant, get in touch with Johns-Manville, 199 Bay Street, Toronto.

Our Great Weakness: Few People Sell Canada, Sales-Ad Men Told

"Canada's greatest weakness is the fewness of its people," said John A. Marsh, general manager of the Canadian Exporters' Association and formerly of Peterborough, to the Sales and Ad course members in Queen Mary School's auditorium on Thursday night. Mr. Marsh was the second lecturer in the series of four to speak during the course, his topic being "Selling Canada."

He explained that if the total land area is taken, Canada has 3.6 people per square mile. Mr. Marsh said it is clear that with 13,750,000 people Canadians cannot defend their country, develop its mangificent resources, support the structure of government or solve transportation problems.

From a standpoint of business economy, he said Canada is in a precarious position because 33 cents out of every dollar is dependent upon world trade and 22 cents out of every dollar on export trade. He explained that this means that Canada is at the mercy of international slumps and trade wars.

"There is a great need to build up the domestic trade of this country and this can only be done by (a) a higher standard of living and (b) more people. I would say that the two biggest domestic problems facing Canada today are the housing of the people and a long term immigration policy that will bring a half a million people a year for the next 25 years to our shores."

Changed Economy

Mr. Marsh said there must be a growing realization on the part of Canadian citizens and the government that Canada's economic nature has changed greatly in the last 30 years.

In 1919, he explained, Canada's most important industry was agriculture, contributing 44 per cent of the total net value of production against 33 per cent for manufacturing. Now, he added, of the 100 people gainfully employed, 25 are in primary industry, 32 in manufacturing and construction and the remaining 43 per cent in other phases of employment.

"I must emphasize that while much of our national income is derived from primary industry, the employment of our people is much more dependent on secondary industry than on agriculture, mining, forestry and fishing."

Joe Doakes, Canadian, he said, owns 1-14th of the world's land area even though he has much less than one per cent of the world's population.

Notable Record

Among nations, Mr. Marsh said, Canada is first in the production of news print, first in nickel, first in asbestos, first in platinum, second in wood pulp, second in flour exports, second in gold, second in aluminum, second in zinc, third in copper, fourth in silver and fourth in wheat. Much of the world eats Canadian bread, he said, and 62 pjer cent of all newspapers published were printed on Canadian newsprint.

Only by accident are Canadians ever hungry. The world death toll by famine and "its two handmaidens", rickets and tuberculosis, was over 40,000,000 men and women in 1945-46, he said. This figure was higher than the number of army, navy and air force men of all nations who were killed in the Second World War. The average Canadian, he added, has every reason to be thankful and humble that he eats so well. It should quicken the sense of stewardship of his duty toward the rest of the world in exporting surpluses to countries in need, he said.

'Canada fulfills all major requirements for greatness. The stirring of further great wealth is in our ears, oil from Alberta, iron ore from Labrador, titanium from Quebec, fine paper from our forests, waving wheat field and a pleasant orderly, useful way of life. Let us sell Canada to ourselves and abroad with the sure knowledge that the resourcefulness of our people, the excellence of our products, our willingness to give as well as take, may match the greatness of this country from Newfoundland to Vancouver Island."

Mr. Marsh was introduced by Jack Hayward and thanked by Russ Baer.

Practising The Preaching

Two slogans have had much currency in the commercial and financial Canadian world: "free enterprise"; and "Britain must increase her exports". Ottawa's announcement of a significant relaxation of import controls—effective April 1st and July 1st—fosters both. Why then should there be bitter protests?

* * *

In November, 1947, the Federal Government suddenly imposed stringent import restrictions—to conserve dollars. These, in effect, were an almost complete ban against many manufactured American goods. In order to make the restrictions not seem too one-sided, they applied to some goods manufactured in other countries, for instance to refrigerators made in Britain as well as in the U.S.A. While these restrictions did conserve our then meagre supplies of American dollars, they gave some industries in this country freedom from competition—in other words, they impaired "free enterprise." The import restrictions have been successively eased. On April 1st, and further on July 1st, they will all but disappear. Thus greater freedom of trade will obtain and competition will be given freer rein (as American and British industries will be able to compete with Canadian). A very salutary aspect for British-Canadian dealings is that a much larger Canadian market will lie open to Britain. This the British should be able to cultivate, if they have the will and the tactics to do it, because their prices should be at least as low as American, owing to the devalued pound.

* * *

Home industries which have had a virtual monopoly of the Canadian field for more than two years may be a little disturbed. But if world trade is to develop easily, if the British are to be able to afford Canadian farm products, and if the Americans are to be kept in good temper (they have been remarkably patient with our one-sided ban against their goods), the decision to relax the import restrictions is praiseworthy. It is a sign that Canadian economy is getting back, if not to normal, then to solid working bases.

Who Pays The Piper Calls The Martial Tune

The United States is arming the west. It is doing this for three reasons. As chief custodian of western capitalistic democracy against threats of Communism and Russia it has now, for the preservation of its 'American way of life' to rule as Brittania ruled the waves in the last century. (The North Atlantic Treaty is as much an American inspiration as a Canadian suggestion.) A second reason is that most western nations, apart from the U.S.A., cannot afford to arm themselves in the way the U.S.A. would have them armed. The metal and money have to come largely from American sources. A third reason is, that in order to preserve the plush standard of living which the U.S.A. now has, that nation has to export—even if it exports for no cash returns. And countries have to be able to afford to buy its exports. The U.S.A. has been exporting food and domestic supplies under the Marshall Plan. That Plan will soon have run its course. The export of arms will replace it in the western world economy. It is a less idealistic export than wheat and beef.

So bi-lateral military agreements are being made with Atlantic Treaty countries, including Canada. In the making of these agreements, the U.S.A. was at first erronously demanding. For instance, it expected Canada to standardize its arms on American styles (a sensible proposal favoured by Canadians who understand the military requisites), but it expected Canada to buy much of these arms in the United States (as Canada would have to do) but to pay American dollars for them, and also to agree not to use or send these American-type arms out of Canada without prior American acquiescence. These were impossible terms. In the first place, Canada has not enough American dollars, unless the U.S.A. agrees to buy some of her arms in Canada—made to American specifications—in recompense. Secondly, Canada cannot tie her military equipment down to Canadian shores at the behest of the U.S. Government. Canada is not a complete American satellite. If Canada wants to send tanks to Britain, for instance, it should not have to ask American permission. Fortunately, the Americans lately changed their demands. [illegible] now co-ordination of arms is proceeding quite easily.

Britain has led the European opposition to American proposals to secret annexes to the Atlantic Treaty bi-lateral military agreements. By these secret proposals, the U.S.A. sought to control exports of potential war material and technical information from participating Treaty countries to other countries. (They have been able to control such exports under the terms of Marshall Plan aid; they wanted similar authority when Marshall Aid ends.) The Americans consider any material—rubber, wheat, mechinery—as potential war material. If the secret annexes to the military agreements had been made, the countries would therefore have had a virtual American interference with, if not control over, all their exports. It happens that some western European countries must trade in some commodities with Eastern (Soviet-dominated) countries, if their economies are ever to regain equilibrium. The American have backed down on this plan. It is understood that they will be content with a declaration of hope that countries receiving military aid will take steps to prevent the leakage of war-potential goods to Communist nations.

It may be that the present storm over the German-British scientist Fuchs has been raised by the U.S.A. at an opportune time to give their demands public authenticity.

The U.S.A. is paying much of the military aid bill. It therefore can expect to call the tune. But the recipients of gifts have a right to refuse them, or to cut some of the strings attached to them. Happily the U.S.A. is not the U.S.S.R. which denies such rights to its satellites.

Bilingualism In Industry

Canada has two official languages: English and French. But Canadian industry and business seem to have but one—English (unless of course, the business is a retail store in some sections of Montreal). There are notions that it is not economically feasible for a company to deal with two languages. There are notions that every person of consequence or with money to spend or workmen to direct or business to operate, is either English-speaking or bilingual—that is, French-Canadian who speaks English as well as his mother tongue.

Mr. Bernard Brouillet, a Quebec businessman has disagreed with these assumptions in a recent address to Canadian industrial editors in Montreal. He says that he and his company have proved that bilingualism is not too costly; and that "wherever a company operates on a national, a provincial, or even a local basis, the language of the company is French as well as English, as soon as the public of the company includes English-speaking and French-speaking publics". For good employee relations (where workers are both French and English-speaking) and for the widest and best relations with the company's public, French should be a recognized second language of the company.

This subject may seem remote from reality in central southern Ontario, where few if any of the employees are French-speaking, and where the French language is seldom heard. It is not as unreal as it seems. Even in this city of Peterborough it has application. We have two or three big companies here which have large dealings with, and even branches in French Canada. Many firms with head offices and plants in Toronto and other Ontario centres, are daily doing a large business in Quebec and northern Ontario where French is widely spoken. These firms direct, from their Peterborough or Toronto sites, branch factories, offices, and numerous employees in French Canada. Why should not such Ontario firms recognize that their companies have in fact two official languages, as Canada has, and not be squeamish about handling French language correspondence, French-Canadian clients and employees right in Peterborough and Toronto?

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: I have just received a Christmas card from a Mohammedan living in Pakistan. Now, I think that was very sporting of him, and I should like to respond fittingly. When is Mahamet's birthday—or do Mohammedan's observe the anniversary of the birth of the founder of their religion?

ANSWER: As far as I know the Prophet's natal day is neither known nor feted. You could send a card during the holy month, the fast of Ramadan, especially for the "Night of Worth" (anniversary of the night Mohammed received his first revelation). However, I do not know the month or the date of the Night of Worth this year. It varies greatly from decade to decade. Anyway, the season is of atonement (like Lent) and the Night of Worth is like our Good Friday, so I doubt that a cheery greeting card would be particularly suitable. Although Canadian prepared foods are always welcome, I doubt that a tin of Peterborough-made spam would be suitable.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR SIR: What is a Toby Jug? There was a reference to Toby Jugs a little while ago on The Examiner's editorial page.

ANSWER: A Toby Jug is a jug or tankard of porcelain used for ale, in the form of a fat squat man gaily dressed in eighteenth century style, wearing a three-cornered hat which forms the brim of the vessel.... The good ones, ceramically speaking, are great fun and very good; the bad ones (usually cheap reproductions of an inferior kind) are hideous.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR ALPHA: I am a recent immigrant from England, a country which has always had a bad name for weather from Tacitus ("coelum foedum crebris imbribus" —the climate is foul with frequent showers) to the present day. The only dissentient was Charles II, who praised the English climate, but then he was always a master of fact! I always heard what a fine invigorating climate Canada possesses. Picture my disillusionment to find a country of fog, sleet, rain and the stickiest mud I have ever met! Yet I find that nobody has a word to say against the Canadian climate as such, but ever since my arrival I have heard people speak about the unusual weather. Perhaps you could tell me the reason for this. Is the weather always unusual in Canada? Is it that Canadians realize that their climate is not perhaps all that it is cracked up to be in the tourist booklets and they so explain it away by calling it unusual? Is the climate really changing?

RESPONSE: To your Tacitus, I give you a North American jingle:

Oh, what a blamed uncertain thing
This pesky weather is;
It blew and snew and then it thew,
And now, by jing, it's friz.

Canadian weather is never normal. You must already have noticed that the native-born always talk of it in this way: a January day is "just like March"; a cold August afternoon exactly recalls bleak November. On an occasional rare June day, we may say: "This is real June weather", and sometimes in mid January, the astonished comment will be made: "A proper winter day, by Gosh!".

The weather may be changing—I note that your own England's summers have lately become either arid, torrid, or coldly clammy, and quite un-English. Professor Kimble of the Department of Geography, McGill University, says that the weather is definitely getting warmer. Montreal's mean annual temperature has risen from 42 degrees in the 1880's to 44 in the 1940's. The rise in Philadelphia has been from 42 degrees to 56. The Columbia ice fields of the Canadian Rockies are receding "so fast that they will disappear altogether if present conditions persist for a few more decades", says Professor Kimble. (The cold winter in B.C. must be exceptional to Dr. Kimble's reported trend.) Meteorologists in Toronto say that they are quite flummoxed by this winter's vagaries.

But why worry about the weather? As Emerson has so beautifully remarked, the solar system has no anxiety about its reputation. Your own Thomas Fuller said two centuries ago that "change of weather is the discourse of fools". Even Alpha thereby stands condemned, judging from his own frequent footnotes in these columns.

ALPHA: Wooden has one d; woollen has two l's. Right? Why?

ANSWER: Right. Don't know. Fulfil has only two l's. Silly, isn't it?

SIR: When you write about the Halls in Peterborough, I think you should say something about Mr. Hall who used to live on Romaine Street, and I think now lives on Patterson or Wolfe who grows wonderful flowers.

ANSWER: I have been writing about Hall families who have been involved in Peterborough affairs for a century or more. But I do know your Mr. Hall, whose hobby is gardening. He did have, and still has, fine flowers, particularly gladioli, as I remember. A very nice person and family, whose gardening after his factory hours has brought pleasure to himself and family, and to neighbours and others who know his flowers. By the way, one of the most expert, indefatigable, and successful of amateur horticulturists in the district is the Reverend V. E. R. Zufelt, now of the United Church at Omemee, before the war minister of Knox Church in this city. Mr. Zufelt specializes in tulips and galdioli, cross-breeds, produces new varieties. His garden is a show-place for the horticulturally learned from spring to autumn.

FOR THE RECORD: Our far-flung cabinet ministers are getting back to their desks in Ottawa, from India, Ceylon, Bermuda and West Indian points, and even from holidays on the French Riviera. Most of these Cabinet members have been travelling on government business and holiday. For instance, Mr. Howe on holiday in the south of France is conveniently located to journey into Italy and Rome to pay a diplomatic call on the Vatican. Our ministers seem to travel more frequently and farther afield than in the old days of the King regime. Mr. King liked to have his ministers on call, or to do his own travelling.

Letters To The Editor

EDITORIAL TO THE POINT

Sir: Your editorial "Why Russia Will Never Agree To Atomic Control" in the Examiner, Tuesday, Feb. 7, is so precisely to the point that it could serve as the basis for a mental "Point Four" plan or knowhow for peaceful behaviour, which could be presented to the peoples of morally backward countries, ferinstance: The U.S. and the U.S.S.R. It might help them to develop enough sense to get along on peaceful terms with their big neighbours.

Some strong men no doubt are gentlemen, but when VIPs make hate-breeding statements like those ascribed to the U.S. Defence Secretary, I wouldn't know by their talk that they are gentlemen.

I wasn't surprised when the U.S. President gave the order to go ahead on the H-Bomb development, but I would have expected the same or similar judgement had the decision been left to any interested hoodlums or school delinquents.

Thanks,
W. H. ROSEBUSH.

MARRIED WORKERS AND DELINQUENCY

Sir: In reply to a letter which appeared in Feb. 6 edition re married women working.

There has been much discussion on this subject. In wartime it was the logical thing to do to drop everything and do all one could on the home front to shorten the struggle. Once victory was attained doesn't it appear that little children need their mother's guidance and husbands need meals prepared by the women they chose as their wives? Hired help are generally in-laws living in another era who do not understand the wants and desires of the little ones. Thus these children in most cases turn out to be juvenile delinquents appearing in the courts daily. Perhaps there are a few children getting adequate mother's care but they are very few.

It has been rumoured that there will be another depression shortly, did these hard working souls ever stop to think they are perhaps helping to give it the right of way.

I say if a married woman wants to work the first while and jobs are available it is okay but when their husbands are skilled labour making good money and the woman is able to purchase $1,000.00 bonds which a survey would reveal, it is high time they cleared the factories for those who are in dire need of work.

Sincerely yours,
A PEACETIME HOUSEWIFE.

WANTS BAN ON MARRIED WORKERS

Sir: Apparently the various letters against married women working have practically caused a riot. No doubt this letter will be condemned by some and perhaps will be the cause of another being written, but unfortunately I will be going back to Toronto in a day or two so will not be able to see any answers. I have been quite amused by some of the letters but am sorely afraid "Working Wife" whose letter appeared in February 7 edition will have high blood pressure due to excitement over a previous letter. Don't you think, lady, you perhaps got a bit confused and in a fit of temper misinterpreted the letter of which you wrote. I read the letter of January 30 and don't think there was a feeling of jealousy, but I think the writer hopes to see a fair deal given to men and single girls. She said—and a good many more of us say—that they should be given the preference and a ban put on married women working unless their husbands are disabled.

You, my poor working wife must be baffled—as I see no reason why a couple in twelve years couldn't save enough for a home, car and a savings account. Perhaps the family didn't spend their money on booze and other foolish things, but like ourselves have good clean fun.

In closing I might say, come on, you home bodies write in and give us your point of view. I won't see your letters but my daughter will as she resides in this village.

Thanks for your valuable space Mr. Editor.
VISITOR TO HAVELOCK.

BACK TO THE KITCHEN!

Sir: In answer to a letter which appeared in your paper of February 6/50 regarding married women.

This writer stated that married women were coaxed to go to work during the last war (World War Two). This I agree with. But they went to work to fill the jobs left by men who had gone into the armed forces to fight and get the war over as soon as possible so that they could return and get back to their jobs so that these married women could return to their homes and raise their children in peace and security. But there were a lot of these same married women who did not give up their jobs and go back to being a housewife.

This writer also says that she has two children who are well taken care of. Well, with her working and her husband working (and I presume she has a husband working) and the baby bonus coming every month they ought to be well taken care of.

Perhaps this married woman does not think of the single girl who is not working but could be if married women with husbands working would go back to the job of housekeeping.

Thank you, Mister Editor for this space in your very good paper.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

But now thus saith the Lord that created thee, O Jacob, and he that formed thee, O Israel, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine....I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, Keep not back: bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth; even every one that is called by my name: for I have created him for my glory, I have formed him; yea, I have made him....

Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither sall there be after me. I, even I, am the Lord: and beside me there is no saviour..

This people have I formed for myself; they shall shew forth my praise. (Isa. 43: 1, 6, 7, 10, 11, 21.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Sweetheart," she said, coyly, "when we are married you won't expect me to give up all my spinster ways, will you?"

"Why, no, darling," he replied. "Indeed, it will be a good idea to continue some of them —getting your pocket money from your father, for instance."

"Look here," he burst out, "you've charged me for two consultations on the fifth of last month and I was only here once."

"The fifth of last month," said the solicitor, smoothly. "That was Friday, and if I remember correctly it was a very wet day, wasn't it?"

"Yes, it was," answered the client, shortly.

"Well, after you left you came back to ask if you had left your umbrella here."

Taxi Operators Not Tickled By Proposals

Some proposed amendments in the city's taxi by-law came in for criticisms by representatives of the Taxi operators in a meeting of the police commission Thursday.

There was criticism of a suggestion that the licence fee should be raised to cover the cost of a city taxi licence plate. The licence fee is now $5 a car for the owner of the car and $1 for each driver.

There was considerable objection to a plan to have each taxi driver photographed and fingerprinted, the photo to be displayed prominently in the car. Taxi drivers feel that it is a slur on their characters. Many of the drivers, it was pointed out, are veterans who were fingerprinted when they joined one of the services and those prints are now in Ottawa.

Mayor Max J. Swanston said the plan would be a protection to taxi customers.

High Costs

There was objection, as well, to any suggestion that it be compulsory for taxi operators to carry insurance for their cars. Percy Johnston, one of the operators' representatives, said the costs of insurance are becoming excessive. He said at the rate operating costs are mounting, some operators might be forced out of business

He said now that taxi owners are bound to keep to the eight-hour work day, their overhead has taken a big jump.

Feeling about these questions is apparently divided among the individual operators. Some feel they will be affected little by the proposed changes. Others seem to feel the results might be disastrous for them.

Taxi Stand?

J. Clare Donnelly, another taxi operator, suggested an area be set aside down town for a taxi stand which would benefit both taxi drivers and the public. He suggested it might cut down double parking taxis are forced to do from time to time.

No decisions were reached. Commission Chairman Mayor Swanston said the members of the commission would consider the questions and would meet with taxi operator representatives again at the April meeting of the commission.

Civic Hospital Attracts Girls Into Nursing

Civic Hospital is a popular choice among girls entering the nursing profession. Miss Annie L. Thomson, director of nursing and principal of the school of nursing, said at the annual meeting of the Hospital Board of Governors Thursday that there is no dearth of applicants wishing to enter the hospital school of nursing.

The interesting and progressive educational program, as well as the many privileges given the students, is attracting a very desirable type of applicant, Miss Thomson said.

Thirty-one students receive their caps in January last year and 18 received their pins and diplomas at graduation in June. Thirty-two students were enrolled in the preliminary course entering training in September. Eighteen nurses successfully passed provincial registration part two and 30 junior nurses passed part one.

Twenty-nine student nurses were affiliated with the Hospital for Sick Children for pediatrics; four senior nurses with Ontario Hospital, Kingston for psychiatry, the length of each course being three months. Each student spends three days during the course with the Public Health Department and two days with the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Board Will See Temperance Film Before Approval

An application by a member of the Ontario Temperance Federation to show senior school children a film dealing with the human consumption of alcohol drew interested but reserved comment from the Board of Education Thursday night.

It was decided that the Health Committee should review the film before further action was taken.

The application was by the Rev. D. C. McLelland, representing the Temperance Federation, to show the film in Grade 7 and 8 in the Collegiate. In his letter Mr. McLelland also stated he would like to show it in both public and separate schools. He said certain educational authorities in Kingston thought the treatment of the subject so excellent that they requested the technicolor movie be shown a second time.

The Rev. M. J. Aiken of St. Andrew's United Church has also approached the Board urging that the film be approved.

Some Good

"As a Board of Education we should make every effort to educate youth in the use and abuse of alcohol," said Mrs. Paige Rowell. "I know it is a very serious problem among teen agers now."

"Well," said Chairman Frank Jobbitt, "it can't do any harm and it might do some good."

Queried on present teaching regarding the problem of alcoholic consumption, Mr. Wightman said it was dealt with in the regular school course. But unlike some of the text books of former years it gave the subject "a little more sane treatment."

Dr. R. M. Matthews said he agreed with Mrs. Rowell and that members of the Board should see the film before it was approved. The other members concurred.

5 Long Branch Youths Held For Burglary

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Five suburban Long Branch youths, two of them juveniles, were arrested Thursday night on a total of 19 charges of theft, burglary and shopbreaking. Police said more than $900 in loot was recovered.

William Lauder, George Miller and Stanley Clarke, all 16, were to appear in court today, to be remanded to next Wednesday.

It was not disclosed when the juveniles would appear in court.

Cobra Man Loses Decision When Grip Becomes Choke

When is a "cobra hold", not a cobra grip but a just plain choke hold? That was the perplexing problem to Seelie Samara, Nanjo Singh, and Referee Bert Maxwell, at the main pro mat bout in the Brock Arena last night, and to a good-sized crowd. Maxwell finally ruled the "cobra" had ceased to be such and was just a plain, dirty strangle hold, and disqualified Singh in the deciding bout at 4½ minutes. That, and perhaps the fact that Singh had thrown his nibs to the floor as he tried to break it up, settled matters.

ATHLETE TURNED DIPLOMAT — David Johnston, 47, who represented Canada at the 1924 Olympics, in this country's first High Commissioner to Pakistan. A native of Lachine, Que., and a graduate of McGill and Oxford, he placed fourth in the 440-yard run at the 1924 games at Paris. Mr. Johnston practised law in Montreal for 10 years before entering the Finance Department in 1936. He joined the Department of External Affairs in 1947.

The decision was popular as the crowd went for the 240-pound colored Samara, and hated the 231-pound Hindu for his sly, illegal tactics. Seelie was pounding Singh hard in the corner when the wily Indian swung him around and applied the choke hold, putting the pressure across the throat, instead of the legal "cobra" grip which presses the neck from both sides, but not the front. They staged a hard go of it all the way, with Nanjo his usual villainous and unpopular self.

Used His Head

Samara won the second round in 12 minutes to even things up with a head butt that felled the Hindu when the latter was roughing him in a corner. It was Seelie's scrap most of the way as he came out angry and pounded the posturing Indian around and took his rough tactics, though having trouble once from a kick to midriff and the old choke hold Referee Maxwell missed a lot of the stuff Nanjo pulled, but seemed to nab Samara every time the Negro decided to rough it up, too.

Singh took 11 minutes to win the opening fall with his "cobra" grip, the referee stopping the bout and giving it to the turbaned one. Nanjo played it rough all the way and was nearly disqualified twice by an angry official. Seelie got tired of the abuse and went after Singh hard with punches and elbow slams, and the Hindu suddenly seemed to go berserk. He kneed Samara hard in the midriff and then jumped in and clamped that unconscious grip on the Negro, sawing him around as he fell till the referee pulled him away. Even then he took a few kicks at his prostrate foe as the crowd booed him plenty.

A Rough Scrap

Popular Johnny Barend, scaling 218, beat rough Joe Christie, going 228, in 32 minutes of the 45-minute semi-final with two monkey flips and a drop kick. They staged a hard joust, Barend spotting Christie height and weight, but having an edge in speed and youth, as well as showing more stuff. Joe was nasty from the start and shook off warnings as he kept applying illegal mat tactics. Barend was plenty angry after a while and got in some punishing work, too, as the referee was kept on the jump in a bout packed with action. The fall was a popular one.

Bill Stack, 230-pounder, and the 232-pound Bobby Nelson went to a 30-minute time limit draw in the prelim. Wearing long trunks, Nelson proved experienced in the grapple game and was well ahead on points in the lsow and clean first part of the bout. Bobby got an armlock and held it for nearly 12 minutes with Stack powerless, and this slowed action down considerably. Later, Nelson opened up and proved rough and not so popular. Stack getting in some licks, too, late in the session to get a draw on the deal. At one stage, a fan yelled: "Is that the only hold you know?" and Nelson yelled back: "It's all I need to know, you jerk!"

Dr. McKee's Rink Edges Bracebridge

SUDBURY, Feb. 10 (CP)—Dr. C. McKee's Peterborough rink defeated T. J. Ball's Bracebridge 12-3 Thursday to advance into the third round of one event of the North Ontario Curling Association's annual bonspiel.

Curling was suspended during the night for the annual banquet.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

The draw for the vice-skips' competition for next Tuesday evening is posted. All those interested are requested to consult the chart situated at the west end of No. 8. It tells who you play and when.

Tomorrow's program—9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., men's rink bonspiel, limited to 14 rinks, and mixed rink spiel in the evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Dr. McKee's rink seems to be getting along fine in the Sudbury bonspiel.

As far as we know our club is represented by three rinks in the competition being played in Lindsay today. The skips are C. Giroux, Dr. R. Clark and D. Best.

Ladies' Results

Mrs. Wood won from Mrs. Dulmage.

Mrs. Dunkerly won from Mrs. Clarke.

Mrs. Selkirk won from Mrs. Martin.

Mrs. Hall won from Mrs. Holt.

Mrs. Doughty won from Mrs. Steer.

Legion Gets Edge

Legion defeated Kingston 3-1 in a nifty Boys' Town puck tussle on a fast sheet of ice. Mountney, Lloyd and Garvey scored for the winners, with Hickling notching one for Nylons. Two holding penalties were handed out. Belleville plays Petes on Tuesday. Teams:

Kingston: Leahy, Murphy, Hickey, Hickling, Rogers, Raddon, J. Hickey, Peel.

Legion: Ayotte, Miller, Cuffe, Mountney, Dinsdale, Lloyd, Garvey.

Referee, Jack Ferren.

Five basketball games on tap here tonight and a couple on the morrow. At 8.15 this e'en in the YWCA, Neill's meet Normals, and this one is followed by a fixture betwixt Nurses Juniors and CGE, the schedule ending two weeks hence. Three boys' cage contests, all COSSA group play, tonight at the Collegiate Lindsay meets the PCVS junior Bees first, followed by Oshawa and the junior "A" PCIers, and then Oshawa and PCVS seniors in what should be a fine hoop fray. The Collegiate colleens are idle till next week. Tomorrow evening at 7.15 in the YMCA, Kawartha tackle Shockey's, followed by another City League encounter between Marine Bees and Clappet's. The "A" Marines aren't in action this week-end.

The proposed Memorial Centre in London, Ont., appears to be getting kicked around, according to Scribe Jack Park of that city. Twice the citizens of London have been asked to vote huge sums for the project and twice they came through handsomely. Right now, a hefty million dollars attests their anxiety to get a good arena there, yet Park claims the city fathers are using stalling tactics and the Centre may not be ready by next winter. We haven't anything like that sum for the Centre here, but sufficient for a good arena for a city this size. Our holdup is lack of a suitable site, and that may postpone the building another year.

Rockets Play IOOF-ers

Belleville Rockets, the only junior "B" club able to take Oshawa Bees regularly this season, play the Oddfellows at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena. The game between the husky Quinte crew and the speedy IOOF-ers have been humdingers each time, a goal margin and overtime being the result. At the moment, Oshawa have a lead of one point over the second place Triple Links, the latter being point up on Belleville, so it couldn't be much closer. A sizzling junior joust is sure to result here this eve, and it deserves a big crowd of puck followers this time as the schedule nears a finish.

In senior "B", Legion have wound up their schedule but will help open the new Warsaw arena tomorrow in an exhibition with the Marmora TVL all-stars. The Petes have two games yet, in Belleville tonight and against Kingston Nylons here on Monday. The Nylons are hurrying along their schedule with extra-point games 'gainst Gananoque, and it looks like the whole thing will be cleaned up early next week. Playoffs should commence by next Friday, and it sort of shapes up now like Belleville vs. Kingston in one semi-final bracket, and the Petes vs. Legion in the other. Possibly three-in-five series, with finals maybe four out of seven.

Playoffs On Horizon

Yeah, hockey schedules are winding up all around the district and playoffs loom on various fronts. Incidentally, Harold (Baldy) Cotton was visiting Dit Clapper here the other day, and the Bruins' scout got around and saw a few tilts here and in the district. Just keeping his eye out for possible pro talent. Lakefield dropped their first go of the season recently in Bowmanville, while Frankford upset Marmora TVL-ers 10-3. Another TVL tussle the other p.m. saw Frankford and Hastings in a 5-5 tie. Games tonight: Frankford at Norwood, and Marmora at Campbellford. They conclude on Feb. 17. Nylons knocked over Diesels 9-4 in a rough senior "B" scrap, as Oshawa Bees finally beat Belleville juniors 6-4. And so it goes.

Brock St. winter garden was the scene of a lot of activity last p.m. as the pro matmen kept a large crowd in noisy mood. A salaaming and slamming Hindu, name of Nanjo Singh, played colored and popular Seelie Samara like a banjo for a time, but he applied one choke hold—and one cuff at the ref — too often, so he lost the main bout. His "cobra" grip is what is known in the grapple game as an unconscious hold, the arm leverage being on the sides of the neck, and it's considered legal. But he got around to putting the pressure on Samara's throat, and that isn't Emily Post, even for matmen. Johnny Barend earned a nice semi-final win o'er rough Joe Christie, while Stack and Nelsen drew in a so-so prelim bout.

Coleman's Victors

Harold Coleman's young midget puck crew took a 5-3 exhibition victory over Norwood on the latter's ice earlier in the week. It was a speedy, clean and close contest throughout, with Cupoli, Scriver and Parry outstanding for Manager Bill Post's pack, and E. Spencer and Cuthbertson best for the losers. Teams:

Coleman's: Tyndall, Parry, G. White, Cupoli, Hope, Scriver, B. White, McCarthy, Driscoll, Curtis, Allan, Mongraw, Dunstan, Woodhouse.

Norwood: Wrightly, Ray, Althouse, R. Spencer, Fredericks, E. Spencer, Cuthbertson, Horne, Morrison, Mathews, Peoples, Aldred, Scott, Monahan, Kelly.

Curlers Win Many Friends In Scotland

By MICHAEL O'MARA.

FALKIRK, Scotland, Feb. 10—(CP)—Canadian curlers won few major matches but many friends during their Scottish tour now ending.

Scottish rinks retained the Strathcona Cup which they won in Canada last year and the visiting Canadians didn't get beyond the second round of the British open tournament which followed the Canada-Scotland "test matches."

The Canadians were not just playing against the Scots in the "curling league." They also had to compete nightly in the "banquet league" as they passed from city to city eager to fete them. Maybe the strain of late nights and long bus jumps told in their scores.

Never Disgraced

But the party of 52 curlers — from every province except Newfoundland—were popular everywhere they went and even against picked Scottish rinks in key games they were not disgraced.

Actually the Canadians won three of five matches for the Strathcona Cup but never recovered from the drubbing they suffered in the first of the total point series.

They lost the first match by 41 shots, won the next by three and dropped the third by 27, and then took the last two by 19 and 16 The over-all margin of the Scots victory was 30.

Split into "A" and "B" squads, the Canadian curlers covered the length and breadth of Scotland and even found time to serenade ailing comedian Sir Harry Lauder outside his Strathhaven home.

The Canadians won most of their exhibition tilts played between Strathcona Cup contests.

Trenton Victorious

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 10 — (ENS)—A rather small crowd in the Campbellford arena saw the Campbellford T.V.L. team lose to the Trent Intermediate team by the close score of 6-5. The Trenton team carried the play in the first period and scored four fast goals, but Campbellford buckled down and came back to tie the score with only a few minutes of the last period remaining. This game turned out to be one of the best exhibitions of hockey played in Campbellford this season, and the fans who did not attend will be disappointed at their failure to witness a fast, clean game that was practically devoid of penalties.

With 10 seconds of the third period to go, Campbellford took Goalie Laverne off the ice and replaced him with an extra forward in an effort to tie the score but luck was with the Trenton net minder, who played a remarkable game of hockey. Both goal tenders were roundly applauded by the crowd of their excellent showing. Trenton's last goal with about two minutes of the game remaining, proved to be the winning tally, and the home team bowed to defeat. Doug Free scored three of the five goals for the homesters.

Canadians Leading

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 (CP) The second heat of the international dog sled derby opens today with Canadians all in the lead positions. The long favourite is a hard, lean Quebec City man with six bush-trained hounds who outshone the field Thursday with a time of two hours, 49 minutes and 54 seconds.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Bunny Brewster, of Woodstock, western Ontario titlist, won his way into today's semi-final round of the men's singles as the Ontario badminton championships continued. The three other men's semi-finalists are all from Toronto—Don Smythe and Jack Moon, former football players, and Glen Thomson. In a quarter-final Thursday night Brewster defeated J. Wright 15-9, 15-6. He was the last survivor of a number of entries from outside Toronto.

The ladies' singles also got down to the semi-finals with all four survivors from Toronto clubs.

Bobby Cunningham, fleet pass-catching end, from Port Credit near Toronto, has signed his contract for next season with Montreal Alouettes, Eric Cradock, vice-president, of the Dominion football champions, announced on Thursday.

Big Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's sensational rookie pitcher of 1949 signed his contract Thursday for a reported $13,000 salary. As is usual in such cases, neither the Brooklyn club nor Newcombe would confirm the financial terms. He probably got $7,000 or $8,000 last year, exclusive of his world series cheque.

Paramount Newsreel is basing its national release of next Tuesday on The Associated Press' mid-century poll of sports heroes. The full reel, nine minutes long, will be shown in theatres throughout the United States and Canada.

Little Henry Rochon, Canada's top ranking tennis player, Thursday night at Montreal defeated Irvin Dorfman, 12th ranking United States player, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4 in a semi-final match of the regiment de Chateauguay indoor tournament. The victory marked Rochon's first victory over a high ranking American netman.

Montreal baseball Royals announced Thursday that Frank Laga, submarine righthander, has been sold to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League.

Skiing conditions are good at Midland and Owen Sound following a fresh fall of snow, the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity reported Thursday. Skiing also was reported good at Barrie, Haliburton and Haileybury. It was only fair at Collingwood, Huntsville and Peterborough. Conditions remained excellent at Port Arthur, Fort William and Kenora, where plenty of snow has made skiing good almost all winter long.

Harold Johnson, 22-year-old Philadelphia heavyweight who collapsed in the Philadelphia arena ring while fighting Jersey Joe Walcott Wednesday night, may be retired from boxing by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commissioner. Commissioner John (Ox) Dragosa, after releasing the purses of the two fighters at a hearing Thursday, said the commission's medical advisory board will investigate Johnson's condition.

Big Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans and chubby Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., Thursday fought chilling north winds and unpredictable green for three-under-par 68s and a tie for the first round lead in the $10,000 Texas open golf tournament at San Antonio, Texas.

Toronto Thursday officially extended an invitation to the British Empire Games Association to hold its 1954 games in Toronto. The invitation was a reply to a query by the association as to whether the city was financially able to stage the games.

Vancouver Man Captures BE Diving Title

By J. C. GRAHAM.

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Feb. 10 — (CP)—Dr. George Athans of Vancouver closed out his competitive swimming career tonight with a crown he has sought for 12 years—the British Empire games springboard diving title. It was Canada's sixth triumph in the week-long games that end tomorrow.

He turned the trick before 5,000 rain-drenched spectators at the open air Olympic pool with a last-dive plunge that shot him past Scotland's Peter Heatly. The victory reversed the one-two positions in the tower diving finished Thursday.

The handsome doctor's performance was the shining light of the day for Canada although the men's 330-yard relay team came within a whisker of snatching a first from England. The Canadians were beaten by a touch.

The other aquatic event with Canadian entries—the women's tower diving—ended with Toronto's Evelyn Buchanan in fourth position, one better than Lynda Adams Hunt, attractive Vancouver housewife.

In Second Place

The all-Montreal fencing team received a second-place silver medal in the team sabre and Canadian boxers won third positions. Only one Canadian fighter saw action on the final games boxing card, flyweight Ronnie Muir of Toronto outpointing New Zealand's Bobby Maddern in an exhibition bout.

The others "waltzed" into their trophy-winning spots due to defaults.

Dr. Athans, who finished third in both the springboard and diving championships at the 1938 games in Sydney, Australia, wanted "this one" before he retires in the summer to go into private practice. He trailed heatly until the last dive—a difficult one and a half somersault forward standing—and it was a winner all the way.

He easily outpointed New Zealand's Bobby Maddern in a bout for third place in the lightweight division while the others "waltzed" into their trophy winning spots due to defaults.

Lightweight Eddie Haddad, Esquimalt, B. C., and bantamweight Len Walters, Vancouver, were set to go but their opponents didn't show. Bill Pinkus, Winnipeg middleweight defeated earlier in the week, automatically took third when only three were entered from the competing 12 countries in the 160-pound division.

The day's action centred mostly at the Olympic pool where seven finals were run off, resulting in three broken games records despite the heavy downpour of rain.

New York Rangers Crush Chicago Hawks In 5-3 Tilt

By HARY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

The embattled Chicago Black Hawks today must have lost all hope of getting out of the cellar in the National Hockey League.

They were beaen 5-3 by the New York Rangers in Thursday night's only game, coming on top of the 9-2 shellacking suffered by the Hawks at Detroit on Wednesday.

The Hawks had started off in February at a great clip and with high expectations. They had blanked Toronto 3-0 and walloped Montreal 6-2. Last Sunday they were edged by Canadiens, and then came the Wednesday game which put Coach Charlie Conacher on the defensive on two counts, for wrestling with the referee and for allegedly striking a Detroit hockey writer.

The result of Thursday night's game at Chicago put Rangers into fourth spot, ahead of the Boston Bruins, while the Hawks at the bottom still rest three full games back of the Bruins.

Could Not Make It

Three times the Hawks came within a goal of tying the game, but they could not make it. They were missing veteran Doug Bentley, high-scoring centre whose left eye was still closed after the struggle at Detroit.

New York took a 2-1 lead in the first period and led 3-2 going into the finale. Tony Leswick, Pentti Lund, Budy O'Connor, Edgar Laprade, and Nick Mickoski shared the goal-getting honors for Rangers. Bert Olmstead scored two for Chicago, the other coming from Bep Guidolin.

Pat Egan, New York defenceman, incidentally played his 238th consecutive regular season game, breaking the tie he held with Boston's Ken Smith.

Coach Conacher sweated out the struggle with official action still to come on the two counts against him.

Wait For Report

President Bill Tobin of the Hawks said he had been informed by Clarence Campbell, league president, that no action would be taken on Conacher's argument with Referee Bill Chadwick at Detroit until the referee's report has been studied.

On the second count, Conacher has been charged with assault against Lew Walter, Detroit hockey writer, who said the coach punched him in the dressing room after the Detroit game. Conacher said Thursday he hit the newspaper man after the latter called him a dirty name.

The papers in the case will probably be served on Conacher when the Hawks return to Detroit March 22.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Metro Prystai of Chicago Black Hawks was the only player who made any headway in the National Hockey League individual scoring race last night as only one game was played.

The speedy Hawk forward picked up a single assist to move into undisputed possession of sixth place, one point ahead of team-mate Roy Conacher who went pointless. Another Hawk leader, Doug Bentley, was also held scoreless by New York Rangers.

Three Detroit Red Wings hold down the top position. Ted Lindsay is first with 55 points made up of 18 goals and 37 assists. Sid Abel follows with 27 goals and 26 assists for 53 points. Gordie Howe is No. 3 with 45 points — 22 goals and 23 assists.

Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens and Boston's Paul Ronty are deadlocked for fourth place with 44 points each, the fiery Canuck winger has 27 goals and 17 assists while Ronty has counted only 19 times but has 25 assists.

Bentley, Prystai and Conacher follow in that order.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts
Lindsay, Detroit	18	37	55
Abel, Detroit	27	26	53
Howe, Detroit	22	23	45
Richard, Montreal	27	17	44
Ronty, Boston	19	25	44
D. Bentley, Chicago	13	30	43
Prystai, Chicago	24	18	42

Dempsey-Firpo Brawl Said Tops

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (AP) — For throbbing sports drama, the primitive Dempsey-Firpo brawl of Sept. 14, 1923, ranked tops in The Associated Press' mid-century poll.

Almost 27 years later, the events of that savage first round still pack the raw drama of a life or death struggle between two jungle beasts.

When Luis Angel Firpo rose from his seventh knockdown to bull Dempsey across the ring and knocked the world heavyweight champion into the press section, he touched off an argument that may simmer for another 50 years.

Did Firpo, the huge "wild bull of the Pampas" actually win the title that wild night at the Polo Grounds?

The record books say "no." Many ringsiders say "yes." They insist Dempsey never would have "climbed" back into the ring if friendly boxing writers hadn't helped.

Omemee Defeated

OMEMEE, Feb. 10 (ENS) — In the juvenile playoff Wednesday night in the Omemee Arena Harmony Combines defeated Omemee 7-6. Pringle, Rogers and Wilson starred for Harmony. Lanciault played a star game in goal for Omemee, while the Fox brothers led in scoring.

The game was marred, however, by poor officiating on the part of an inexperienced referee.

Line-up:

Omemee—Goal, R. Lanciault; defence, P. Brown and G. Fisher; centre, H. Fox; wings, D. Fox and J. Stephenson; alternates, B. Evans, D. Crawford, J. Morrissey, M. O'Donnell, J. McGuire, and D. Lytle.

Harmony—Goal, E. Wilson; defence, G. Hockin, and B. Pringle; centre, R. Twining; wings, H. Rogers and J. Shetler; alternates, D. Hockin, J. Venner, D. Baker, R. Whattam, and L. Dykstra.

First period—Harmony, Baker, 2.08; Harmony, Rogers (Shetler) 18.54. Penalty, Brown.

Second Period — Harmony, Dykstra (Venner) 2.02; Harmony, Shetler, (Pringle) 3.10; Omemee, Crawford, 3.31; Omemee, H. Fox (D. Fox, J. Stephenson) 6.00; Harmony, Pringle (Venner) 7.17; Omemee, H. Fox (B. Evans) 9.33. Penalties, Evans, Dykstra, Pringle.

Third period—Harmony, Rogers (Pringle) 6.01; Omemee, D. Fox (H. Fox, Crawford) 9.33; Omemee, D. Fox (Brown) 11.00; Omemee, H. Fox (J. Stephenson) 16.02. Harmony, Twining (Rogers, Pringle) 18.00.

Hastings In Draw

HASTINGS, Feb. 10 (ENS) — Hastings and Frankford battled to a 5-all tie in Frankford last night in their fight for fourth place and a spot in the playdowns. Hastings was without a goalie and Dick West, pressed into service, did a creditable job. It was hard, rugged hockey, and Tucker went off late in the second period with a bad ankle and missed the rest of the game. With four minutes to go, Morrow took a bad fall and required medical attention. Both teams are tied with seven points apiece.

Hastings—Goal, D. West; defence, E. Tucker and L. Ball; centre, J. Morrow; wings, M. Fife and L. Petticrew; alternates, D. Ball, Clapperton, Greenley, Edwards, Carr.

Frankford — Goal, Davis; defence, Farmer and L. Schmidt; centre, Courtney; wings, H. Lankin and McKee; alternates, Cole, Cooke, Mitts and Hood.

Referees—O. Malley and Heldman.

First period—Frankford, Mitts (Cole) 5.20; Hastings, Morrow (Fife) 8.35; Hastings, Fife (Morrow) 8.39; Hastings, D. Ball Clapperton) 12.00; Frankford, Rankin (Courtney and McKee) 16.10. Penalties, Schmidt and Tucker.

Second period—Hastings, Petticrew (Morrow) 5.35; Hastings, D. Ball (L. Ball) 8.10. Penalties, Schmidt, Farmer, Rankin, Morrow (2), Fife, Edwards.

Third period—Frankford, Farmer, 6.55; Frankford, Cole (Farmer) 10.00; Frankford, Schmidt. 14.55.

Marmora Triumphs

MARMORA, Feb. 10—(ENS)—Havelock with a somewhat weakened team, lost their Circle "C" game to Marmora at the latter's rink on Thursday evening by the score of 6-1. The game though keenly fought was clean. Hewitt was in good form for the homesters geting two neat goals in quick succession. Forsyth and Elliott stood out for the losers.

Marmora — Goal, P. Moloney; defence, Doyle, Herman; centre, Forestell; wings, Leal, Hewitt; alternates, Moss, Nicholson, J. Moloney, P. Shannon, Halsman, Walker.

Referee, J. Hunter, Havelock; linesman, B. Gray, Marmora.

Havelock—Goal, Hill; defence, Forsyth, Whitney; centre, Elliott; wings, Revoy, Green; alternates, Seeney, Dawson, Hamilton, Haryett, Anderson.

Summary:

First Period

Havelock—Elliott (Green) . 15:00
Marmora—Nicholson 19:30
No penalties.

Second Period

Marmora—Forestell 2:50
Marmora—Hewitt 8:00
Marmora—Hewitt 14:30
Marmora—Forestell (Leal) 15:30
Penalty—J. Moloney.

Third Period

Marmora—Moss (Gray) ... :45
Penalty—Forestell.

NORTHERN QUEEN—Miss Betty Ronayne of Vancouver and Whitehorse, YT, was chosen queen of the annual Whitehorse winter carnival. The festivities were attended this year by Canadian and United States servicemen in Whitehorse for Exercise Sweetbriar. Here Brig. A. B. Connelly, commander of the North West Highway System, is shown placing an ermine crown on Miss Ronayne.

Tells Of School In China Town

BETHANY, Feb. 10 (ENS)—At St. Paul's Women's Auxiliary meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. William Phillips, Miss Jewel Gribble of Toronto, who is visiting with her brother, Allan Gribble and family, gave an address on the work being accomplished at the Hester Howe School in Toronto. She has been a teacher there for a number of years.

The school, built close to the heart of Toronto's China Town, has about 24 nationalities among its pupils.

A special feature of the school is the diabetic laboratory, where children of all ages are looked after during school hours, given needles of insulin, etc., and more than once, children have had reactions, needing prompt removal to hospital for further medical attention.

The school features the only senior sight saving class in Toronto, as well as its own dental clinic.

The president, Mrs. J. J. Hamilton, spoke about the organization of the first Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church in 1885, the laws that govern the society, and reviewed changes during the years. The local group of St. Paul's Church was first organized in 1908 and Mrs. Hamilton is the only living member who has paid her fees every year since that time.

Mrs. T S Gault read the scripture lesson and a chapter from the Study Book.

The Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Herb. Kennedy, reported several quilt tops completed and Mrs. W R. Price and Mrs. William Phillips offered their homes for the quilting. A number of finished articles for bazaar work were turned in and others taken home by the members to fill orders on hand.

The social service committee reported sending gifts to several members who had been ill and had shipped a bale of good used clothing to Europe during the previous week. A second bale is also ready for shipment.

The president welcomed two new members, Mrs. Rupert Woods who has recently come from Newfoundland and Miss Jewel Gribble of Toronto. There were 15 present at the meeting.

Mrs. Phillips and members of her group served refreshments.

Clear Baby's Lung

VANCOUVER, Feb. 10—(CP)—Doctors Thursday used a special magnet obtained from Philadelphia to remove a pea-sized ball-bearing from tiny Michael Terris' lung. The 18-months-old baby is breathing much easier now after 12 choking days with the ball in his lung, hospital officials said.

Reds In Kev Jobs

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 10—(AP)—Senator Joseph McCarthy (rep. Wis.) charged in an address here yesterday that 205 Communist party members are "working and shaping the policy in the State Department." He did not list them but said they "were known to the Secretary of State."

Canadian Curlers Dazzle Swiss Players

PONTRESINA, Switzerland, Feb. 10 —(CP)—The "knockout" tactics of Canadian curlers today dazzled Swiss opponents and resulted in an all-Canada final in a tournament here.

Local curlers apparently never experienced what Canadian secretary Walter Cowan told reporters was a "straight Canadian game."

"Our game does differ from that played in Switzerland," he said, "since we play with much faster rocks."

"Our game is to hit the stones and move them around the rink rather than as they do here which is to draw in around the stones while not touching them. Perhaps our game is a bit of an innovation to the Swiss.

Seven Canadian rinks — fresh from a Scottish tour—and five Swiss rinks competed in the friendly tournament, with no trophies at stake.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

Cheered on by a crowd of 18,988 fans, Billy Conn, Pittsburgh fighter, became the first man ever to whip Fred Apostoli of San Francisco twice in a row, 11 years ago tonight at New York. Conn was dropped to the floor twice in the sixth round before he swarmed in to take a 15-round decision. Conn had beaten Apostoli in the same ring a month earlier.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

New York's Edgar Laprade and Buddy O'Connor who picked up a goal and an assist apiece as the Rangers moved into fourth place defeating Chicago Black Hawks 5-3.

Bert Olmstead of the Hawks who fired two goals and picked up an assist.

Close Tilts Seen In Haywire Loop

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 10 (ENS)—Buckhorn and Lakefield tied 5-5 here last night as Nepheline Mines edged Apsley 5-4 in neat Haywire Hockey League encounters. G. Shearer and Williams scored in the first for Buckhorn as Hill got one back. Wanamaker and Knox from Calberry were home marksmen in the second with Barcroft scoring for Buckhorn and Williams getting another from Barcroft. Coons tallied for the B's in the third but Patterson hit the twine twice to tie it up, Chittick aiding on one, and Wanamaker on another. Teams:

Buckhorn: Goal, Barr; defence, G. Shearer, Hall; centre, Westlake; wings, B. Shearer, Hunt; alternates, Barcroft, Easson, Williams, J. Fawcett, Coons, J. Shearer, D. Fawcett.

Lakefield Goal, Huddlestone; defence, Hamblin, Montgomery; centre, Patterson; wings, Knox, Calberry; alternates, Chittick, Hill, McIntyre, Wanamaker, Ridpath.

Referees, P. Nicholls and K. Fawcett.

A Tight Game

The other scrap was a close one, Dedore denting the hemp for the lone marker in the first frame. D. Dunford and Lapham each scored in the second for Apsley, Smith helping on one, Dedore counting one for Nepheline Mines and helping Kelly on assist. Dedore and Kelly each another, as R. Whetung got an assist. Dedore ande Kelly each scored in the third but Smith and Watson hit the mark, too, to make it a tight fit. Teams:

Apsley: Goal, Spencely; defence, J. Tucker, Howden; centre, E. Dunford; wings, D. Tucker, Watson; alternates, Smith, D. Dunford, McMillan, Brown, Lapham, Jeff.

Nehpheline Goal, Lindhorst; defence, D. Whetung, D. Lambert; centre, Woodruff; wings, McLeod, Dedore; alternates, Crowe, L. Whetung, H. Dafoe, F. Dafoe, McClaren, Little, Trude.

Norwood Takes Win From Havelock, 5-3

HAVELOCK, Feb. 10 (ENS) — Norwood defeated Havelock here earlier this week in a Circle League hockey game by a score of 5 to 3.

Waldon of Norwood opened the score for Norwood at the half way mark of the first period and repeated the performance at 10.27 of the same period. Toward the end of the period Elliott scored for Havelock making it Norwood 2, Havelock 1.

Nobes scored for Havelock early in the second period, the assist going to Pollock. McMillan of Norwood then scored unassisted putting Norwood in the lead again. Waldron tallied again unassisted for Norwood and Nobes got another goal for Havelock assisted by Elliott. Another marker was notched for the visitors by Andrews unassisted which made it 5-3 in favor of Norwood.

There was no scoring in the third period.

The next game in the Circle League on Havelock ice will be played on February 13 when the Campbellford team will be the visitors.

Havelock Gets Win

HAVELOCK, Feb. 10 (ENS) — Havelock juvenile hockey team in the OMHA playoffs at Deseronto on Wednesday night gave Deseronto their first defeat in 13 games when they won by a score of 3 to 1. The return game will be played at the Havelock Arena on Friday night and should the local team win, they will then go to Almonte to play for the Eastern Ontario hockey cup.

Havelock scored their three goals in the first period, William Laing scoring two of them, one unassisted with R. Pollock being given the assist on the other. The third goal was scored by B. Pollock unassisted. Deseronto scored in the second period and there was no count in the third. Two penalties were given the Havelock team and one to Deseronto.

After four minutes' play in the third period Havelock's goaltender J. Southward was injured, being struck by a hockey stick and was knocked unconscious for a few minutes. Philip Chevalier replaced him in the goal for the balance of the game.

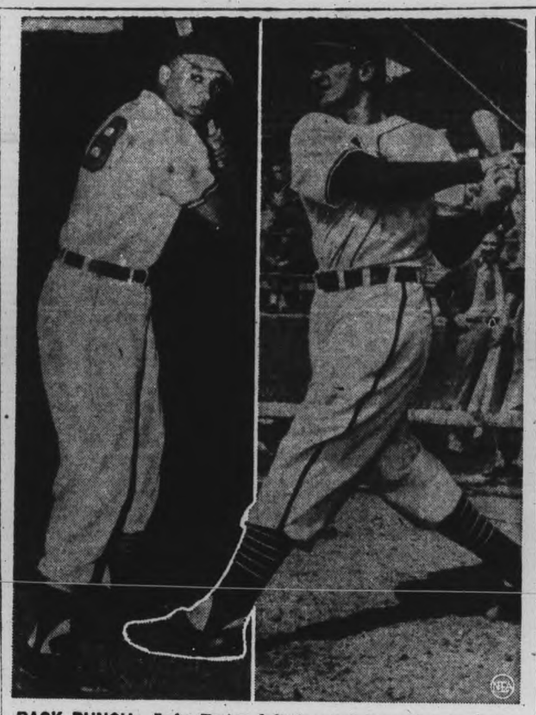
Line-up:

Havelock—Goal, J. Southward; defence, B. Pollock and P. Kumpf; centre, A. Smith; wings, William Cosgrove, G. Heath; alternates, W. Laing, J. Laing, R. Pollock, D. Anderson, K. Vaughan, P. Chevalier, J. Thompson.

Deseronto—Goal, K. Brennan; defence, Fred Smith and R. Cole; centre, D. Sexsmith; wings, D. Houle, Jack Edwards; alternates, Dick Crobbe, William Crobbe, Charles Roach, William Brant, Clarence Brant, W. Doreen, Ronald Stewart.

PROVINCE'S POLICE

The Ontario Provincial Police force, first organized in 1871, has a present strength of 1,020 men.



PACK PUNCH—Luke Easter, left, knocked down fences in the Pacific Coast League. Al Rosen has been an outstanding minor league hitter for three years.

Adams Denies Gagging Ross

BOSTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—Replying to statements by Toronto's Conn Smythe that Boston doesn't know how to sell or publicize hockey, Weston Adams, president of the Boston Bruins, said Thursday:

"We never have high pressured or phonied our fans into buying tickets."

At a press conference attended by Boston hockey writers, Adams apologized for an "uncomplimentary" remark he made at Wednesday night's pre-game hockey dinner when asked to comment on the statements by Smythe, managing director of the Toronto club.

At that time he said: "I'm too shocked to say anything now I might have something to say tomorrow, as my father advised me when I was a little boy not to get into a contest."

Adams and Art Ross, Bruin general manager, both denied vigorously that Ross had been "gagged" by Adams, as some Torontonians charged.

"That's a lot of damn nonsense," asserted Adams.

"It is not true," said Ross. "That's foolish, he couldn't gag me if he wanted to."

SMASHES WAY INTO BLAZE, SAVES NEIGHBOUR'S DAUGHTER

Edward Batten, of Toronto, almost collapses after courageous rescue

1. Seeing smoke curling from his neighbour's house, Edward Batten shouted to his wife to call firemen . . . then dashed to rescue the 7-year-old girl he knew was trapped alone in the burning frame cottage. Smashing in the rear door, he was driven back by the heat and smoke!

2. Forcing the front door open, he was again driven back by the smoke. Finally, after smashing in the window of the child's room, he was able to enter. But, choking, almost overcome, he had to come out for air. Refusing to give up, he entered again . . . this time finding the little girl on the floor of her parents' room.

3. Exhausted but determined, Batten carried the girl out and applied artificial respiration until firemen arrived with an inhalator and revived her. We are proud to recognize the great courage and gallantry of Edward Batten through the presentation of The Dow Award.

THE Dow AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Board Studies Proposed Driving School

A safe driving school for PCVS students is being considered by the Board of Education.

Such a project as this has been mooted on a number of occasions and the discussion was touched off Thursday night by a letter from the Kiwanis Club offering to help the Board should it decide on a school.

The Kitchener Board of Education has had an extra curricular showing driving course since September, and according to reports, it has been a success.

(According to Logan Selby, organizer of the Ontario Motor League who addressed the Peterborough Automobile Club recently, a dual-control car is used there and about 32 students can receive instruction in a day.

One of the members of the Kitchener Collegiate staff was sent on a special teacher-instructor course conducted in Toronto, and upon his return he was put in charge of the driving school.

The Kiwanis offer came from C. K. Hurst, chairman of the public affairs committee. He stated that statistics indicated there is a higher accident rate among 'teen-agers than any other age group.

Details of such a course have not yet been ironed out, but Mr Hurst told the Examiner it would likely consist of 6-10 lectures on such things as minor repairs, tire changing, traffic regulations and courtesy. Lectures would be by traffic authorities.

There would also be practical demonstrations and actual driving practice.

"We are very much interested in teaching young people safe driving and we would welcome an opportunity to secure equipment and information on these courses," said C. S. Browne, principal of PCVS.

He added that the best time for a driving course would be in the fall and not from Eastertime on, as had been suggested.

G. Wilson Craw said he thought the Board should give the project its careful consideration, and he spoke highly of the results in Kitchener.

"I think a lot of them could do with a course in bicycle riding," said Mr. Wightman. "They're the ones who are dangerous."

The Board decided to refer the matter to the Supervision committee for it to bring in a recommendation at the next meeting.

Hospital Deficit Smaller In 1949, Expenses Higher

Civic Hospital Board of Governors Thursday reported an excess of expenditure over revenue during 1949 of $4,253.96. During 1948, however, a deficit of $15,000 had been incurred.

Total revenue of $430,166.96 exceeded the 1948 figure by approximately $49,000 and expenditures increased approximately $38,000. This revealed that the board was being successful, by degrees, in bringing revenue and expense nearer to a balanced figure, John R. Marshall, chairman, remarked, and T. T. Rodger, treasurer, hoped the hospital could be operated during 1950 without incurring a deficit.

Revenue received from patients amounted to 86 per cent. of the total income of the hospital, and in 1948 the percentage had been only 82.7. The City Council had provided 10.3 per cent. of the total income in 1949 and 13.7 in 1948; the provincial department provided 5.7 per cent. in 1949 and 5.6 per cent. the previous year.

Mr. Marshall said that, although no official statement had been made by the department, there was reason to hope that provincial grants would be higher, as a result of consideration at cabinet level.

"A review of our activities for 1949 confirms my opinion that hospital operations can be successfully plotted and financed in a businesslike manner, that the same fundamental principles of business management adapted to suit the very complex nature of hospital management can be successfully applied, and that results can be obtained not only satisfying but gratifying to the Board of Governors, the municipal Council and to the citizens as a whole," Mr. Marshall declared in his annual chairman's report.

"Hospital rates to patients are not the hardships today as in the past, due to the many prepaid plans for hospital care available," Mr. Marshall said. In the vast majority of cases, hospital charges were one of the smallest items of cost to patients requiring hospitalization.

Puppy Swallows Ring But Like Whale, Repents

OSHAWA, Feb. 10. — It's the kind of story newspaper readers wouldn't believe, said fuel dealer Leslie F. McLaughlin Thursday after retrieving a lost signet ring from a dog's stomach.

Mr. McLaughlin said he must have pulled the ring off his finger with a glove as he dismounted from a car at his North Oshawa branch store Wednesday.

"I didn't miss it until 9 o'clock at night and naturally I thought it was gone forever," he related.

When her six-month-old Cocker spaniel Chummy came into the apartment above the store this morning and spit up on her newly waxed floor, Mrs. James Gower was no end annoyed. A shiny object caught her eye while she was cleaning up and she thought the pup had choked on an earring she lost recently. The object turned out to be a ring engraved on the inside with Mr. McLaughlin's name.

"Chummy probably swallowed the ring while he was running around the store," suggested Mrs. Gower. "He picks up everything."

Happy to retrieve the ring, which to him has more than mere monetary value, Mr. McLaughlin quipped: "I'm reminded of Jonah and the whale."

Two-Truck Encounter, How-d'y-do Costs $55

Two trucks collided at Elm and Cambridge streets Thursday doing about $55 damage to one and scarcely any to the second.

W. N. Foster, 581 Arndon Ave., was driving a panel type bread delivery truck west on Elm St. The other truck was driven by W. D. Monahan, 231 Armour Rd., south on Cambridge St. It was starting a left turn into Elm St. when the two collided.

The Foster truck had a damaged right front fender and grill and a broken front bumper. Only damage to the Monaghan truck was a dented hub cap. Constable Robert Menzies investigated.

Howie Morenz Widow Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL, Feb. 10—(CP)—Mrs. George Pratt, widow of Howie Morenz, one of Canada's hockey greats, died suddenly here Thursday. She was 42 years of age.

Morenz died in 1937 after suffering an injury while playing with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League. His widow was married to Mr. Pratt, onetime Outremont, Que., alderman several years later.

Besides her husband she is survived by a son, Howie Morenz, Jr., who played minor league professional hockey before retiring from the game a year ago, and a daughter, Marlene, Montreal figure skater.

Saves 4 Children

CAMPBELLTON, N.B., Feb. 10—(CP)—Mrs. Francis Landry saved her four children when fire destroyed their two-storey house here early Thursday by throwing them out an upstairs window into deep snow and jumped after them. The blaze, believed to have been caused by defective wiring, was whipped up by icy winds while the temperature hovered near 25 below.

A Narrow Escape

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10 — (AP)—The United States Navy yesterday reported that a fighter plane crashed during a takeoff from the aircraft carrier Boxer and the unidentified pilot escaped injury, even though the big ship passed right over him after he was thrown clear of the wreckage. He escaped the churning propellors, bobbed to the surface behind the ship, and was picked up.

Ups and Downs of Crime City Police 1949 Report

Crime is increasing only slightly in Peterborough, according to the annual report of the Peterborough city police force submitted to the Police Commission by Chief Constable John Thompson at a meeting Thursday.

In the city's police court, 2,398 charges were laid during 1949 under the Criminal Code, the Liquor Control Act, the Highway Traffic Act, city bylaws and other acts. During 1948 the total number of chearges was 2,310, as compared to 1,882 in 1947.

The number of offences under the Highway Traffic Act took the biggest jump from 921 in 1948 to 1,081 last year.

However, the biggest percentage increase, about 58 per cent., was seen in the number of thefts. In 1948, charges of theft numbered 45. Last year 77 theft charges were laid.

A decrease from 481 to 450 was recorded in the number of violations charged under the Liquor Control Act.

Less Assault, More Suicide

Peterborough citizens have not been assaulting their fellows with the same regularity in 1949 as in 1948. The number of assaults occasioning actual bodily harm slid from 18 to seven. Common assault charges dropped from 28 to 20.

Last year there were two attempted suicides as against one the year before and during 1949 there were two suicides, again in comparison with one the previous year.

Of shop-breaking charges there were only two in 1949 in comparison with nine in 1948. But 1949 saw four robberies with violence as against none the year before. In both 1948 and 1949 there were 19 charges of receiving stolen goods.

Apparently gambling is increasing in the city. During 1949, there were nine charges laid of keeping a common gaming house, but only three such charges the the year previously.

Drunk driving was apparently on the decrease. Twenty-five such charges were laid in 1948, but only 19 the following year.

Three Got Away

Three men were charged with escaping police custody during 1949, but none were successful in getting away the preceding year.

Perhaps an indication of the times may be seen from the fact that in 1949 seven people were charged with illegally obtaining unemployment insurance, but only one such case appeared before the court in 1948.

Identification Officer, Sergeant William Aggas had a slightly less busy year in 1949 according to the report. He took 130 fingerprints in 1949 as compared with 140 in 1948. He also took slightly fewer criminal photographs, 147 in 1949 as against 153 the year before. However he photographed six fatalities last year and only one the yera previously.

But he has taken on more work during the year. Sergeant Aggas issued 110 letters of reference for official records and 85 letters for Immigration authorities He also began keeping liquor cards of men and women convicted under the Liquor Control Act.

Fewer Break-ins

The detective department manned by Detective Sergeant John Stevenson and the newly-promoted Detective Sergeant W. A. Clarke, reported that there was a big drop in the number of private huoses and the number of stores and offices broken into. In 1949 18 houses were entered as compared with 30 the previous year. The number of stores and offices entered dropped from 62 in 1948 to 22 in 1949.

Some decrease in the number of investigations carried out in which the cases were solved and brought to a conclusion was also seen. In 1948 there were 29 investigations and in 1949, twenty-three.

A big jump in the total number of accidents as reported by the traffic department was seen. In 1948 there were 741, but the following year the number was 979. The amount of damage done in the two years skyrocketed from $48,559 in 1948 to $74,402. Of the total number of accidents in 1949, there were 139 in which some one was injured compared with the 1948 figure of 103.

Fallis Couple Celebrates Golden Wedding

MILLBROOK, Feb. 10 (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Stuart J. Fallis of the Fallis Line celebrated their Golden wedding on Tuesday.

Mrs. Fallis was formerly Ada M. Howden of Omemee and was married at her parents' home in Omemee on Feb. 7, 1900 when the Rev. R. M. Pope officiated.

All their married life has been spent on the farm on the Fallis Line, which is still their home. It had been the groom's parents home, and is the house in which he was born. Mr. and Mrs. Fallis have no children.

About three years ago, J. T. Brimage of Detroit, foster son of Stuart Fallis' brother bought the farm and took over its management, but it is still Mr. and Mrs. Fallis home.

The bride and groom of 50 years ago were at home to their friends in the afternoon and evening of their anniversary.

Spring Decoration

The rooms were decorated with spring flowers. Mrs. J. T. Brimage poured tea at a table covered with a lace cloth and centred with daffodils and tulips, and narcissus. Tea assistants were Mrs. Clifford Fallis and Mrs. Harvey Aiken.

Other guests from a distance besides Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Brimage of Detroit, were Mrs. Wilfred Howden and Mrs. Herbert Howden, sisters-in-law of the bride, and their husbands, from Peterborough, Mrs. C. Steadman, niece of Mrs. Fallis, her husband and family, also of Peterborough, and a nephew Mansell Howden of Peterborough and a niece, Mrs. Russell Cannon of Millbrook.

More than 50 friends and neighbours called and there were large numbers of gifts and cards.

On Friday evening a presentation for Mr. and Mrs. Fallis is to be held in Millbrook town hall.

Noted Writers Contesting Seats In British Election

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON —(CP)— More than 50 candidates connected in private life with newspaper or magazine publishing are seeking election to the House of Commons in the forthcoming British general election.

The Labor party, represented by 20 members of the National Union of Journalists in the last House, has the largest following in the present campaign but Conservatives and Liberals are also well represented. Four newspaper men are running under the Communist banner.

Randolph Churchill, 38, Conservative and National Liberal candidate in Devonport riding and son of Conservative leader Winston Churchill, in widely known as a writer in current affairs. He is waging a lively campaign against a former Fleet Street colleague, Michael Foot, who writes for Labor's Daily Herald and is an outspoken critic of the so-called "Press Lords."

Another familiar newspaper man is Toronto-born Beverley Baxter, former editor-in-chief of the London Daily Express. Conservative member of the House for Wood Green since 1936, he was obliged to find a new seat because of redistribution. He was adopted in the newly-created riding of Southgate where he faces Liberal and Labor opponents.

Also prominent in the Conservative lineup is Brendan Bracken, chairman of Financial Times Ltd. A minister of information during the Second World War, he is contesting another new riding — Bournemouth East and Christchurch.

Anthony Hurd, whose father, Sir Percy Hurd for years was London representative of the Montreal Star, and who himself is agricultural correspondent for the London Times, will seek to hold Newbury in the Conservative column. In the Suffolk riding of Bury St. Edmonds, the Tory nominee in Canadian-born William Aitken, nephew of Lord Beaverbrook.

Running In Ebbw Vale

Aneurin Bevan, minister of health, heads the Labor roster of journalists. Former editor of the Tribune, a left-wing periodical. Bevan is again running in the South Wales mining riding of Ebbw Vale, which he won by a majority of more than 20,000 in 1945.

Chairman of the Parliamentary Labor party and a growing power in the Socialist movement, Maurice Webb has been re-nominated in Bradford Central. He a radio commentator and former political writer for the Daily Herald.

Other Labor candidates include Hector McNeil, minister of state, and Glasgow newspaper man; Tom Driberg, of Reynolds News and a member of the national executive of the Labor party, and Hayden Davies, one-time industrial correspondent for the London Star.

In Coventry South, Leslie Hore-Belsha, secretary of state from 1937-40, is essaying a comeback as a Conservative representative. He is a full-fledged member of the National Union of Journalists. Maurice Edelman, another writer has been named by Labor in Conventry North, while R H S Crossman, assistant editor of the New Statesman and Nation, represents Labor in Coventry East.

Fighting to keep the Liberal cause alive will be A. L. Tillotson whose family controls the Bolton Evening News; John Junor of the Sunday Express and Ronald Gibson, Odhams Press.

Among those not seeking re-election are Vernon Bartlett News Chronicle columnist; Sir Stanley Reed, former editor of the Times of India; H. Wilson Harris, editor of The Spectator, and Max Aitken, Lord Beaverbrook's son.

Study Apple Prospects

MONTREAL, Feb. 10 (CP) — More than 400 Quebec apple growers along with representatives from the Maritimes and Ontario Thursday took a long-range look at 1950 growing prospects. M. M Robinson, secretary of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association hit at "sloppy handling" of apples by Quebec and Ontario fruit growers. "Sale of junk pulls down prices and gives our backyard markets to growers thousands of mil s away."

Stricken Blind

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 10 (CP) —Victor Seikkula, 56, was stricken with a sudden loss of eyesight here Thursday. Cause of the condition is unknown. He had just called at a downtown bank when he complained that he was unable to see and was taken to hospital for examination.

Hotel Manager Dies

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (CP) — Benjamin A. Neale, 71, first manager of the Royal York Hotel here and manager of the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec City during two historic wartime conferences, died in hospital here Thursday. The Quebec conferences of August, 1943, and September, 1944, between Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt were held at the Chateau.

3 Legislatures In West Open In Week

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10 —(CP)— Three Western Canada legislatures will open next week. Manitoba and British Columbia lawmakers will start their sessions next Tuesday, while Saskatchewan's legislature opens two days later.

Alberta, fourth Western province, opens its legislature doors Feb. 23.

For Manitoba, commencement of the session comes just a few days after the coalition government managed to avert a break in the ranks.

A caucus of Manitoba coalition members held Tuesday in Winnipeg was interrupted when Progressive Conservatives walked out after they were told of a Liberal-Progressive move to reduce Progressive Conservative strength in the cabinet. However, they returned the next day, a move taken by observers as an indication a truce was called.

For the first time in Commonwealth history, there will be a woman speaker—Nancy Hodges, a newspaper woman and one of Victoria's coalition members in the British Columbia legislature.

Discuss Hospital Insurance

The legislature likely will discuss B.C. hospital insurance service, which went at least $2,000,000 in the red in its first year of operation. Rates were increased this year with a view to make it self-sustaining.

In Saskatchewan, representations from the Saskatchewan Trades and Labor Council (TLC) and the Saskatchewan Federation of Labor (CCL) will ask that projects be implemented to assist the unemployed.

The Alberta legislature may face a record budget of $72,000,000. Last year's budget was a record $66,000,000. A surplus of $12,000,000 is possible on this year's budget.

The provinces, and party standings, follow:

British Columbia: coalition 40 (made up of 25 Liberals, 13 P.C.'s, and two straight Coalitionists); C.C.F. 7; Labor 1.

Alberta: Social Credit 51; Liberals 2; C.C.F. 2; Independent 1; Social Credit Independent 1.

Saskatchewan: C.C.F. 31; Liberal 19; Liberal P.C. 1; Independent 1.

Manitoba: Coalition 44 (made up of 29 Lib.-Progs., 10 P.C.'s, 4 Independents and 1 Liberal); C.C.F. 7; Conservatives 2; others 4.

Bergman Given Mexican Divorce

JUAREZ, Mexico, Feb. 10 — (AP)—Film actress Ingrid Bergman Thursday was granted a Mexican divorce from Dr. Peter Lindstrom, Hollywood surgeon.

The Swedish actress, now in Rome where her infant son was born a week ago, had said she would marry Roberto Rossellini Italian film director, when she got her divorce.

Rossellini directed the actress in the motion picture Stromboli, which she went to Italy to make last year. He was named by the star's physician as father of the child.

Lindstrom, who is filing a divorce suit of his own in California, took no action in the Juarez case, in which Miss Bergman charged him with cruelty.

Remaining to be settled between Lindstrom and Miss Bergman are a property settlement and custody of their 11-year-old daughter, Pia, now with her father.

Split With Soviet Permanent Tito Declares

VANCOUVER, Feb. 10 (CP)— Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia says his split with Russia is permanent, it was reported Thursday by James Sinclair, member of Parliament for Coast-Capilano.

Mr. Sinclair, in a telephone interview with the Vancouver Sun from Rome, said Tito told him:

"The Russians take everything and give nothing. There is no turning back on the road we are on. The Russians never forgive."

Mr. Sinclair, who is Parliamentary Assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, returned to Rome following a trip to Belgrade to discuss Yugoslavia's debt to Canada.

He was "impressed" with the Yugoslav dictator's "friendliness and informality."

"There was only one soldier outside Tito's house and one opened the door of the car as we arrived."

Mr. Sinclair made representation on behalf of 400 Canadian-born Yugoslav children who want to return to Canada.

Tito agreed in principle that the children should be allowed to go, but said the United States and Argentina were also involved.

KRIPTIN

Checks Cold Misery!

Not in days—but in hours!

This is no ordinary cold pill, quinine, or acetylsalicylic acid that just "soothes" cold misery!

This is KRIPTIN, the new anti-histamine drug that checks cold misery in a matter of hours — before a cold can get a foothold. Here are more facts you should know about KRIPTIN:

PROVED IN U.S. NAVY TESTS

In tests by the U.S. Navy (during the winter of 1947-48) the KRIPTIN formula and several other anti-histamines were tested for cold treatment.

In 9 out of 10 cases, cold symptoms disappeared when anti-histamine treatment began within an hour after the appearance of the signs of a cold.

Even when treatment started within 6 hours, symptoms vanished in 74% of cases . . . in 70% of cases when treatment began within 12 hours.

And in all these tests, patients preferred the KRIPTIN formula over all other anti-histamines tested!

10-tablet POCKET OR PURSE-SIZE PACKAGE ONLY 39¢

You save even more money by keeping KRIPTIN handy in the family size bottle. 50 tablets only $1.25.

U.S. Government Planning To Protect Birth Records

By GEORGE KITCHEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(CP)—The United States government is moving to protect birth records from prying eyes. It wants to ensure the legitimate privacy of all American citizens and especially safeguard the personal history of children born out of wedlock, or adopted, or whose parents were in an institution at the time of the child's birth.

As a step in that direction, the Federal Security Agency has endorsed a plan worked out by the American Association of Registration Executives and the Council of Vital Records and Vital Statistics.

Under the proposed policy, only the person registered his parents, accredited health and welfare agencies or individuals authorized by court order would have access to data on the Birth Certificate customarily filed by attendants at birth

No birth certificate would be filed until it had been approved by either the mother or the father

Everyone would have the right to have a birth card showing only name, sex, data and place of birth and registration date

Open To Everyone

At present, birth records in some states are open to almost anyone curious for information about individuals.

The new plan already is winning favor. The American Medical Association and the American Public Health Association have endorsed it and some state registration systems already plan to adopt its features.

It would mean the adoption of a uniform birth certificate to contain all essential information about the new-born child and his parents. This would be filled in by the doctor attending the birth. It would be reviewed by the parents for accuracy before being filed.

When a child is adopted, a new birth certificate would be made out. It would show only the essential facts about the adopting parents and the new name of the child. The original certificate then would be sealed

The agency also is proposing use of streamlined, wallet-sized birth cards similar to those now issued in Ontaio. The idea is to eliminate the complicated business of obtaining certified copies of birth certificates.

Pope To Issue New Directive

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 10 — (Reuters)—Pope Pius is expected to issue an important document to the Roman Catholic bishops of the world this month, opening the way for closer co-operation between the Roman Catholic Church and other Christian churches, it was learned here Thursday.

It is understood that the document will take the form of new instructions to bishops on the attitude to be taken towards collaboration with other Christian communities on social and moral problems.

I is believed that the document will authorize conference betwe n Roman Catholic and Protestant churchmen and lay readers to clear the ground of misunderstanding and pave the way, not to unity, but rather to unified action on outstandig problems.

Introduce Horizon Mining To British Coal Fields

By H. L. JONES

LONDON, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Horizon mining has come to the hard-working coal fields of Britain, promising a more efficient, healthier and safer future for the miners and the industry.

Millions of tons of coal previously thought too hard to get now will be mined by the new system which solves the problem of working difficult, sloping seams.

The National Coal Board, which runs the Nationalized mines for the government, plans to spend close to £200,000,000 ($620,000,000) on horizon system conversion in the next few years. In his way it hopes to speed mechanization, increase production and win the battle for coal despite declining manpower.

The horizon technique has been used for years in continental mines where sloping seams are more prevalent than in Britain.

Work Many Seams

It involves working a large number of seams from the same pit shafts. This made possible by cutting parallel main roadways, one higher than the other, from the shaft to the boundary of the coal to be worked. These roadways intersect the seams at the two levels and they are then mined from the upper to the lower level.

Along the wide, high-walled roadways tracks are laid and diesel or electric locomotives replace hand or pony haulage, ventilation is increased giving hope of overcoming dust disease among miners. Accidents are lessened and output for each man stepped up.

Been Reborn

Nantgarw, lying between the high Welsh hills near Cardiff, has been reborn as a horizon mine, the first in Britain. At the colliery abandoned in 1927, the coal board has spent more than £3,000,000.

Recently a flag snapping in the breeze between Nantgarw's pit head stanchions signalled the first horizon-mined coal. A loaded car came to the surface bearing the chalked message: "the first of many."

Coal board officials hope so They say—that when Nantgarw gets into full production working nine seams estimated to contain 180,000,000 tons of coal, it will produce 750,000 tons a year, much more than it ever did. The mine now has a prospective life of 200 years because of new seams made accessible by the horizon system

H And S Meets For Founder's Day

OMEMEE, Feb. 10—(ENS)—A Founder's Day pageant was presented Monday at a meeting of the Home and School Association. Those taking part were Mrs. S. Northey, Mrs. R. Clifford, Mrs. H. Bart, Mrs. S. Moyer, Miss M. Dunn, Mrs. A. Stephenson, Mrs. Lennox, Miss J. Lamb, Mrs. F. W. Pooley and Mrs. J. Hough.

A candle was lit in honor of the founder, Mrs. Courtice, followed by a succession of lightings to varied Home and School interests, such as children's health, home life, knowledge, citizenship and brotherhood, vocational guidance, wise use of leisure time and spiritual vision.

Other items on the program were Mrs. H. Bent's reference to certain health pamphlets which she was placing at the disposal of the members, Mrs. Lennox's advice on the proper use of histamine drugs, rules for good membership by Mrs. Stephenson, Mrs. Green's report on council which she recently attended in Peterborough, and current events by Mrs. Pooley; also a piano solo by Joan Whitmore.

Three rooms tied for the parents' attendance shield which will be held by each for one-third of the month.

Membership convener Mrs. Pooley announced 57 paid-up members. The president called attention to the importance of making early arrangements for a good representation to attend the Easter convention of the H & S Federation.

Funds For Transport

It was decided to hold a euchre party, part of the proceeds of which are to be used for transportation expenses. Mrs. Green was appointed convener of a ways and means committee to look after the details of the party.

Mrs. Lennox, Miss Lamb and Mrs. W. Brown were appointed a committee to prepare a suitable nomination form for the use of the members in nominating officers for next year. They will also be responsible for sending out and collecting them. This appointment was made early to allow recommendations to be brought to the association if desired.

The meeting closed with the Home and School song and the National Anthem.

A Federation birthday cake was served with Mrs. Wm. Earle and Mrs. R. Brooks in charge. Tea was poured by Mrs. Green and Mrs. Moyer.

Low-Cut Gowns Just Tops Actress Says

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb 10 (AP)—If low-cut gowns need support you can count on Marie Wilson She's all for 'em.

"You might call me a pioneer," remarked the unabashed blonde "I started wearing low-cut gowns years ago before they became the rage of Paris.

"They're a little drafty, but I like them. And I think the men do, too. They're the ones we dress to please."

Marie's main trouble is with censors. This pains her deeply.

She reported her latest tussle In "My Friend Irma Goes West" she wears a deep-cut gown. The censor wants her to add a lace dickey. She's also supposed to wear a bathing suit. Not a French bathing suit, but a real honest-to-goodness American one. But for Marie, the censor wants some lace added to the top of the suit.

Not That!

"My goodness," she remarked. "how can you add anything to a standard bathing suit? It should cover the whole situation.

"I don't want to star in French postcards or anything like that," she added. "I just want to add a little life to the American postcards."

I mentioned that some stars, such as Ava Gardner Lauren Bacall and even Alan Ladd, were refusing to pose for cheesecake Would Marie join the strike?

"Are you kidding?" Was her answer.

I explained that Ava is nixing leg art because she did little else for seven years and now wants to be known as an actress.

"Perhaps so," said Marie, "but she got where she is today by posing for cheesecake and thus keeping in the pub. eye.

"I think all of us strive to be actresses But we have another responsibility besides our 'art.' That is to sell our movies. Cheesecake is one of the ways to do that.'

IUE Certified Bargaining Unit Cobourg Plant

Local 534 IUE-CIO is the new certified bargaining agent for the 173 production workers at the CGE plastics plant in Cobourg, John D. Morton, Canadian director of the IUE announced today.

The certification became official in a letter received today by the IUE from the Ontario Labour Relations Board. It follows a vote held at the plant on January 26 when the workers balloted 156 to 17 to oust the left-wing UE.

Two Guelph plants, formerly in the UE, have followed suit but the left-wingers are protesting the result.

Of 368 people eligible to vote at Guelph Local 508 (a composite local embracing both Electric and Copper Wire Products) the balloting went as follows: Leland Electric, IUE, 238, UE 57; Copper Wire Products, IUE, 56; UE, 6.

Hearing Granted

The OLRB has granted the UE a hearing as a result of the vote at Leland. It is claimed that the local press, radio station and Roman Catholic Church violated the 72-hour non-propaganda rule.

This decision of the board was announced Tuesday.

In Peterborough, heart of the right-wingers fight against the UE, both unions are jockeying for positions as they await the further hearing ordered by the OLRB. It will sit here February 17 and 18 to enquire into the alleged irregularities arising out of the IUE's application on January 4.

The five-man board under chairman W. P. Draper has four main lines of investigation:

One, whether initiation fees claimed by the applicant (IUE) to have been received from seven employees were actually paid as claimed by the right wingers.

Two, whether certain UE "blue cards" were actually signed by six employees.

Three, in the case of 13 employees whether the initiation fees paid by them were actually paid on the date as indicated on the receipts.

Four, in the case of four others whether receipts submitted as indication of payment, were bona fide.

It is understood that the UE is hoping to have the IUE application, as a result of this extra hearing—unique in the history of the OLRB—thrown out. Some 3,000 workers are affected in Peterborough.

Hospital Board Re-elects John R. Marshall

John R. Marshall was re-elected chairman of the Hospital Board of Governors at the annual meeting Thursday in the City Building.

Other officers re-elected were: M. H. Johnston, vice-chairman, T. T. Rodger, treasurer and chairman of the finance committee; I. F. McRae, chairman of property and house committee; Dr. G. S. Cameron, chairman of school of nursing committee.

A standing committee to deal with all matters concerning hospital bylaws was appointed. Members are: Dr. Cameron, Mr. McRae, Mr. Johnston, W. C. Ackerman, J. L. Welsh and the president of medical staff, at present Dr. G. R. Scott.

69 Members on Staff

Dr. Scott reported there are now 69 members on the medical staff. Drs. J. T. R. Stewart, Donald R. Clark, H. G. Parkin and J. L. Calvert were added during the year.

A service of dentistry was established in June and Drs. W. X. Blackburn and B. R. Smyth were appointed members.

Certification as specialists from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons was awarded the following during 1949: Dr. T. E. Currier, medicine; Dr. J. M. Wishart, anaesthesia and Dr D. R Clark, paediatrics.

After inspecting the hospital for the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Margaret Dubois gave a score of 83 per cent, whereas the minimum of 75 per cent is required for full approval.

The number of patients during 1949 has increased 50 per cent since 1944, John Hornal, superintendent, reported. There were 4,808 patients last year, 149 more than the year before.

Advances in treatment and medication had been responsible for patients remaining in hospital a shorter time than in previous years and because of this, the hospital was put to greater use

Informed Men Great Need Of World Today

The demands of the hour call for a greater number of mature, informed laymen, Bishop Gerald Berry told the Knights of Columbus at their annual dinner on Thursday night at the Empress Hotel.

"Nearly every problem and debate in the public press bring up principles of the Christian way of life. The time is past when the priest alone can carry the burden.

"This is particularly true of social problems, and among them the crucial problem of position in the matter of capital and labor, industrial relations, and the place of the state in all this."

Fidgets in Middle of Road

"It is easy enough to array the extremes of rugged individualism on one side and extreme socialism or even communism on the other. One of democracy's handicaps is the tendency of man to swing to an extreme. He fidgets in the middle of the road position."

Bishop Berry said the church frowned on extreme socialism or statism on the one side, and also the excesses of capitalism because in either system the liberties, the freedoms of man were jeopardized, if not destroyed. The church warned against unrestricted competition which allowed the strong to engulf the weak, and was equally opposed to monopoly because power was too dangerous to reside in just a few hands.

Positive Features

His Excellency said the positive side of Catholic teachings on these problems should receive equal attention. Catholics had been too long regarded as anti-this and anti-that. Some of the positive elements were: multiplied ownership as embodied in co-operative enterprises, even to the extent of co-operation in the ownership of the means of production; councils of employers and management in dealing with industrial matters. These were some of the positive features of the position of the church which should be thoroughly known to laymen.

Bishop Berry recommended to the Knights of Columbus the forming of discussion groups, with good leadership. The positive side of social doctrine could not be acquired only by listening to discourses from platform and pulpit. It called for study, "the kind of training that will make you articulate in presenting the positive program of the church in these social matters."

District Deputy Albert Love of Oshawa presented 25-year membership pins to Rev. Vincent J. Corkery, Dr. F. P. O'Reilly and Rev. C. J. Carroll of Norwood.

Receiving honorary life memberships were: Monsignor F. J O'Sullivan, D.P., V.G., Dr F P. McNulty and Monsignor J. J. O'Brien, D.P.

Honorary membership buttons were presented to Senator J. J Duffus, A. A. Huot, of Smiths Falls, Rev. V. G. McFadden of Downeyville, Francis Voyer of Havelock, Fred McFadden, Thos Boyle, James J. Dorris, Michael Donoghue, Vincent J. McElderry K C., and John E. Sullivan

The dinner chairman was Grand Knight E. T. O'Brien. Appreciation of the address by Bishop Berry was expressed in a motion by Mr. Norman Crook.

Mrs. Mary Avery Buried In Lakefield

Funeral services of Mrs. Mary Avery were conducted Thursday afternoon by Rev. Dr. B. Gordon of Trinity United church from the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons.

Following a lingering illness, Mrs. Avery passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs J. King. She was a member of Trinity United church.

Pallbearers were Jack King, Arthur Wells, Fred Abbott, Walter Russell, George Smith and Wilfred Lehman.

Burial was in Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

Thief Rifles House

Two watches, a mantel radio and a club bag full of clothing were stolen from the home of John R. Sinclair, 618 Walkerfield Ave., sometime between 5.30 and six p.m. Thursday evening.

Detective Sergeant W. A. Clarke, who is investigating the break-in, said entry had been made via a back porch. The porch had been found open. The glass of a door leading into the house was then broken.

FENDER BUMPER is a familiar type of jay-walker in Peterborough. Here is the guy who makes it to the middle of the street ,then edges out into oncoming traffic. He's close enough now to thump the passing fender with his knee.

ADDRESSES KINSMEN

P. K. Banerjee, secretary to the High Commissioner to Canada from India, was guest speaker at the Kinsmen Club dinner Thursday night. He spoke on India's progress since the withdrawal of Britain. Dr. Ralph Honey introduced Mr. Banerjee who was thanked by Lorne Bateman.

Not Enough Snow Ski Meet Off

Mother Nature failed to come through with enough snow Thursday to hold the Southern Ontario Zone meet here this week-end. Vic Griffiths of the Peterborough Ski Club said today that the snow was not deep enough to stand the "wear and tear" of the racing events and the zone meet would definitely be called off. He saw little chance of the meet being run off at a later date.

About 50 skiers took to the slopes at Kempt's Hill Thursday night under the floodlights. After the crusty snow was broken down, there was fast skiing considering the conditions. The base was poor.

Lindsay, Lakefield Boys To Visit YMCA

Fifty boys from Lindsay and Lakefield, will visit the local YMCA tonight. The Lakefield group, under the auspices of the United Church of Lakefield, will have a gym class at 6:00 p.m. to be followed by a swim at 7.00 p.m. The Lindsay boys, led by the Rev. Harold B. Neal of Cambridge St. United Church, Lindsay, will join the Lakefield boys in the swim period. Movies will be shown at 8:00 p.m.

Last winter groups from Lindsay and Lakefield made visits to the YMCA. Lindsay and Lakefield have no YMCA buildings. In the summer Mr. Neal took a group of 28 boys to the Y's Men's camp on Clear Lake. A number of boys were down in the fall for a gym class at the YMCA.

On Northern Exercise

AC1 H. A. Kent, of Millbrook, LAC J. A. D. Rivett, of Trenton, AC1 W. G. Austin, of Kinmount, LAC J. L. Marrin and LAC M. G. Barnes, of Trenton, are amongst the 19 Ontario airmen participating in Exercise Sweetbriar in Whitehorse, Y.T. All the men are specialists in servicing jet aircraft and will handle the servicing and maintenance problems of the 410 Fighter Interceptor squadron which is part of the defending force in the exercise, the largest U.S.-Canadian military manoeuvre ever held in Canada.

13 FATAL ACCIDENTS

Thirteen fatal accidents were reported in 1949, more than double the six reported the previous year, according to the annual police report presented Thursday evening.

RECREATIONAL NOMINEE

Three men have been suggested by the Board of Education to represent it on the Recreation Commission. They are D. A. Loomis, G. B. (Bev.) Goulding and Arnold S. Olmstead. The Commission had previously asked the Board to nominate somebody and the Board's reaction Thursday night was that any of the three men would be suitable.

VERULUM HOUSE RAZED

A 10-room Verulum home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Telford, was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday. Mrs. Percy carried her four children to safety to a neighbor's house By the time the Bobcaygeon fire brigade and volunteers were assembled the house was a total loss Most of the furniture in the downstairs was removed. The house was covered by some insurance.

SEE HOCKEY GAME

Frank DeCarlo, Ross Walker, David Storey, Lee Barrie and Ken Johnston will be rewarded for outstanding work in the Boys' department of the YMCA Saturday night by seeing a professional hockey game in Toronto. The boys will be accompanied by Donald Duncan and Douglas Lawless. They will be introduced to the Toronto Maple Leaf players after the game.

FIRE HALL REPAIRS

Property committee of the council recommended Thursday that T. C. Ephgrave be asked to prepare an estimate of necessary repairs to the fire hall. It was agreed that work has to be done on the west wall of the building, and that with other improvements a fairly substantial sum may be required to put the building in good condition. It was also suggested that probably a new wiring job may have to be done. Ald. E. C. Braund presided.

HORTICULTURAL DELEGATES

Delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Horticultural Society in Hamilton March 9-10 are: Mrs. A I. Butcher, Mrs. Floyd Curtis, Mrs. Wm Gracie, Mrs. A. Clysdale and Mrs. Clara Baker. They were appointed at the executive meeting Wednesday night at the Empress Hotel following the dinner at which the directors were the guests of the president, Mrs. G. K. Fraser. Attending were ten directors and 21 associate directors.

Governors Asked To Discuss County's Grant

County council's grant of $150,000 for the financing of the building of Peterborough Civic Hospital is to be discussed at a meeting of the finance committee of the council Monday night.

The Board of Governors of the hospital have been requested to be represented at this meeting, a proposal which developed out of a suggestion by Ald. Doug Miller at the council meeting on Monday night. His motion, seconded by Ald. H. Dodds, asked for an appointment with the county council "in regard to the county increasing its grant for the building of the hospital."

Ald. Adam Sands recalled that the county payment was made directly to the Board of Governors and not to the council. For that reason he said: "I think that what we should do is ask the Board of Governors to make that request to the county. Otherwise, I think we would be on dangerous ground."

To Meet Committee

Another recollection was that as alderman last year, Grant Miller had moved for a meeting with county council representatives.

"I don't care who does it, so long as somebody does it," Ald. Doug Miller said. He changed his resolution to the effect that the Board of Governors be invited to meet the finance committee Monday night.

City Clerk Outram said he had received a report from St. Thomas of the financing of its new hospital. "Their circumstances were similar to ours. They had a hospital which was heavily endowed. It served the people of St. Thomas and the outlying district, but its accommodation became inadequate for the needs of that community, and they had to build. I think they have a better approach than we have in regard to county support."

Mr. Outram said he felt certain that the Board of Governors had received the resolution which the council passed toward the end of last year in regard to the county's contribution in the financing of the new hospital.

Award Of $250 For Man's Arrest

BRANTFORD, Feb. 10—(CP)—Sydney Harold Fenton, 30, arrested in Peterborough on Sunday and brought here to face charges of wounding George A. Tipper, confectionery store proprietor, last October, today pleaded guilty.

He was remanded in custody until Feb. 17, because his victim is in a United States hospital for treatment of wounds received in the vicious attack in which a heavy wood rasp was used to beat him about the face and head.

A reward of $250 was posted by the Brantford Police Commission for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the attacker. No disposal has yet been announced of the reward.

Obituary

WILLIAM CHARLES ROUTLEY

William Charles Routley, formerly of Peterborough, died Thursday at his residence 250 Poplar Plains Road, Toronto. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Routley of this city.

He leaves his wife, the former Claire Thompson, and daughter, Mrs. Bernal (Margaret) Maunder, Toronto; three sisters, Mrs. W. G. Botsford and Miss Frances Routley of Toronto, and Mrs. McIntyre Bruce of Detroit, Mich., and brother Herbert S. Routley of Peterborough.

The funeral service will be at 11 a.m. at the Bedford funeral home, Toronto. Burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery, on arrival here by motor. The service at the cemetery will be conducted by Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Church.

Mr. Routley was years ago employed here with the late Senator George A. Cox. He went to Toronto 40 years ago, and established the successful retail wallpaper business on Yonge St. which he actively conducted until he became ill last August. He was a member of various clubs in Toronto including the Granite Club, and was prominent in Masonry.

First Robin?

Mrs. Joseph Armstrong, 719 New Romaine Street, looked out her kitchen window this morning and could hardly believe her eyes. It was a robin, perched in the sun on top of the bird house in the back yard. She was so pleased—and anxious for the bird—that she immediately called in the cat. This is the first reported robin of the year.

Board To Buy House And Lot

Peterborough's Board of Education Thursday night approved a recommendation of the Accommodations Committee that the house and lot of Walter Rye of 1191 Monaghan Rd. be purchased and used for the extension of Prince of Wales School. The lot has 100 foot frontage and a depth of 150 feet.

The cost would be $10,000.

Mr. Rye's property is directly south of Prince of Wales School and it was felt by the committee that this lot would be needed when the present building is extended.

According to present arrangements Mr. Rye would remain in the house, if he wishes, to June 1 while he looks for a new home and prepares for the transfer of personal property, including shrubbery and flowers.

Superintendent of Schools K. S. Wightman and Walter Bannon, chairman of the Property Committee, recommended that an extra maintenance man with some knowledge of electrical repairs be hired. Besides this, it was suggested, he could help with painting and other work around the schools.

Murray Irwin and Stanley Adamson felt that the addition of one man was insufficient. At present, they pointed out, it would take the two painters employed by the Board at least 10 years to complete all the schools. And as the Board was contemplating additional schools this would increase the cycle to nearly 14 years.

The paintwork was described as a "disgrace" in some of the buildings. Both Messrs. Irwin and Adamson suggested that two additional men be put on the maintenance staff so the job could be completed in about seven years.

By a unanimous vote the Board decided to refer the matter back to the Property Committee for a recommendation to be brought in at the next meeting.

Fines And Meters Half Cost Of Police Dep't

The total amount of money collected by the police department through fines, parking meters and other sources during 1949 added up to little more than half of its operating expenses for the year, as revealed by Chief Constable John Thompson in his annual report to the Police Commission Thursday.

The police department collected $52,631.61 in 1949, (slightly less than the $52,702.85 gathered in 1948) as against a total expenditure of $96,353.46. This was a little higher than the $95,617.30 estimated for expenses a year ago.

The estimated cost of running the police department in 1950 is $105,476.10 for which the Police Commission will be asking the city council shortly.

The bulk of the money collected by the police department comes from the city's parking meters which brought in $26,525.81 in 1949, a slight increase over $26,053.05 collected in 1948.

$19,328 In Fines

Fines and court costs levied in police court also provide a healthy proportion of the money collected. In 1949, the amount was $19,328.30, about $1,200 more than the previous year. Parking tickets added another $2,397.

Dog owners who bought tags did their share by kicking in $2,320. The income from bicycle licences dropped off to $616.50 in 1949 less than 25 per cent of the 1948 collection of $2,636.50.

The big item in the expenses of the department is the staff pay which amounted to $80,908.76. Because two new men are expected to be taken on before June, and increases in pay have been granted to some policemen, the estimated salary bill for 1950 is $91,811.10.

Clothing and equipment is expected to be the next biggest expense, $4,635.

The purchase of a new motorcycle for the traffic officers will cost the department an estimated $1,185.

Predictions Made Of Chaos In India False

The prediction utter confusion made when Britain withdrew from India two years ago has proved false P. K. Banerjee, secretary to the High Commissioner of India to Canada told the Kiwanis Club Thursday. Mr Banerjee was speaking on "India Today".

The speaker predicted that India will be one of the strong nation's of the world. He explained that when the British pulled out Pakistan and India became two separate areas resulting in a refugee problem for India Six million people, landed empty handed in India from Pakistan The leadership of India rose to the occasion, welcomed them and tried to settle them.

Also a result of the evacuation of India by Britain was the belief by 500 small states that they were independent. Again the leadership met the situation by peacefully negotiations until the states were part of the Indian government.

Mr. Banerjee outlined the form of government introduced to India on January 26 when it became a republic. There is a president, ministers, two houses, the House of the People and the House of the States. Each province has an appointed governor The country's best lawyers, he explained were sent to France, Britain, United States, Canada, Australia and other democratic countries to study the different constitutions. Part of the constitution is drafted on the style of the United Nations charter.

Mr. Banerjee explained the food shortage saying that practically one-third of the entire revenue is spent on the importation of food from abroad. India hopes to be self-sufficient by 1951.

Mr. Banerjee explained briefly the attempts being made to develop the country industrially. In 1949 there was an increase of 15 percent in production over 1948. Special emphasis, he said was placed on social science and labor welfare.

Mr. Banerjee was introduced by Leo Copp, a former Kiwanian, and thanked by Walter Howell.

Trappers Plan Start Councils

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Establishment of councils to cooperate with Lands and Forests officials in solving trappers' problems was endorsed Thursday at a meeting of 15 trappers, including eight Indians, with Ontario Government officials.

It is expected the proposal will go into effect immediately.

Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the fish and wild life division of the Lands and Forests Department, said the proposal calls for trappers in each district to select representatives for negotiations with the department.

The system already is working in some districts and it is hoped to extend it throughout the province, he said.

A suggestion was made to lower the government royalty on small beaver pelts from the present $2 to 50 cents to discourage black market disposal of pelts. Prices are running from $4 to $6 for small skins to $28 for blanket pelts.

Department Obtains Huge Gravel Pit

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP) — The Ontario Highways Department has taken over a huge gravel pit near Fort Frances, Ont., forestalling export of its gravel output to the United Sates.

J. D. Millar, Deputy Highways Minister, said Thursday night the pit was taken over by agreement between the government and solicitors for the owners, the Lockhart Estate. "We badly need all the gravel we can get right now," he added. Supplies are necessary in this case for the proposed highway construction between Fort Frances and the lakehead.

Mr. Millar did not comment on the position of George Armstrong, Fort Frances contractor, who said there Thursday night that the action would force him to release a contract to sell 100,000 yards of gravel from the pit to the State of Minnesota.

Bandits Get $61

MONTREAL, Feb. 10—(CP)—Two young bandits escaped with $61 Thursday after holding up at gun point a clerk in the Chez Victory haberdashery store on St. Lawrence Boulevard.

FOR SIMPLE SORE THROAT YOU CAN'T BEAT BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

MAYBE THIS WILL BE A RELIEF—Housewives who say they can't feed the family on what Pappy gives them to run the house, can find food for thought in the recent experiment of Raymond M. Hilliard, New York City's $15,000-a-year welfare commissioner. Hilliard kept his own family of six on a food budget of $95.96 for a month. That's about 52 cents a day per person. If the family had really been on relief they would have received $124.50. Hilliard conducted the experiment to justify a recent seven per cent cut in individual relief food allowances. The family is shown sitting down to one of their "austerity" meals. Hilliard's aunt, the sixth member, was absent when photo was made.

Church Reports Small Deficit

MARMORA, Feb. 10—(ENS)—Although more than $3,000 was raised by St. Paul's Church during 1949, there was a small deficit after the year's obligations had been met, the treasurer, G. Kerr, reported Tuesday at the annual vestry meeting in the Parish Hall.

The rector, Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie, asked that serious consideration be given to the matter of the parish hall and repairs needed on the church property.

During the year there were eight baptisms, four weddings, 15 confirmed and two burials. Seventy-five calls had been made to the sick in addition to other pastoral visits.

The Mission treasurer, W. J. Cottrell, reported approximately $300 raised, leaving a balance after the allotment had been met. Mrs. D. B. Robertson, reporting for the Ladies' Guild, said more than $1,200 had been raised and Mrs. W. D. Lavender's report for the WA announced the pledge had been met and a donation had been sent to the Hat and Shoe Fund.

Miss Jennie Gray reported for the Sunday School which is self-supporting and gave $25 to missions through the mite boxes last Lent.

The statement of the redecoration fund, given by Mrs. B. Robertson, showed it has reached $268.72, and George Kerr reported the organ fund had reached $150.

New People's Warden

The rector re-appointed C. R. Whittemore as his warden and C. Heath was elected people's warden in succession to W. D. Lavender who retires after several years' service. C. R. Whittemore was appointed lay delegate for three years with C. H. Burkard two years and R. E. Bonter one year.

G. Kerr was re-elected treasurer and D. B. Robertson was elected misionary treasurer in succession to W. J. Cottrell, holder of the office for several years. P. Gray and J. W. Hickedy were re-elected auditors and W. Simmons vestry clerk.

The vestry council was appointed as follows: Rector, wardens, lay delegates, E. Barrons, W. D. Lavender, L. R. Rundle, H. R. Pearce, W. J. Cottrell, D. B. Robertson, G. Kerr, P. Gray, G. Jones, Mesdames D. B. Robertson, W. D. Lavender, G. Kerr, P. Gray and Miss Jennie Gray.

The appointment of members to the sidesmen's body was left to D. B. Robertson, chairman of last year's body.

Funds For Organ

P. Gray, J. W. Hickey and W. D. Lavender were nominated a committee authorized by the vestry to solicit subscriptions for the organ fund.

The hall committee will be asked to present a report at the next meeting of the vestry council.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies' Guild.

Labor Act Changes Expected At Legislature

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP) — The Ontario Government is considering amending the Labor Relations Act at the coming session of the Legislature, it was learned at Queen's Park Thursday.

One of the main changes is reported to be the return to the Ontario Labor Relations Board of the power now held by the Minister of Labor to authorize prosecution in cases of unfair labor practices.

Want Fairs Give Youth Chance

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Fair boards that classify junior exhibitors as something of a necessary evil were strongly criticized Thursday at the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies convention.

Ross Beattie of Stayner, Ont., a former president of the Junior Farmers of Ontario, said that all too often the younger element is pushed into the background

E. H. Buck of Paris, Ont., president, felt the society might give plenty of consideration to youth, farm machinery and conservation during the coming year. "Conservation of soil, trees, water and wild life might be an important part of our program and should be considered the direct responsibility of agricultural societies," he said. "But the conservation of human resources should receive first consderation."

Snow-Hungry Resorts Report Six Inches

MONTREAL, Feb. 10—(CP)—Montreal and the snow-hungry Laurentian ski resorts got a healthy four- to six-inch snowfall Thursday while nearby Cornwall received freezing rain. Along the United States-Canadian border 50 miles south of Montreal rain fell.

The weatherman brought good news for skiers. He claims the snow is going to stay awhile.

Despite the snowfall, railways, airlines and bus companies reported normal traffic out of Montreal although incoming traffic suffered irregularities due to conditions outside of the Montreal region.

Valentines Sell As High $3.50

This year's valentine cards accent the "hearts and flowers" sentimentality of yesteryear, a preview of Feb. 14 in Peterborough indicates.

"They're lacier, brighter and better all round. . . just like in the old days," one dealer comments. Others agree the 1950 cards are an improved product.

In heaviest demand are the lacy-edged, satin-lined cards with plenty of frills and a "hearty" romantic verse. While dealers report sales have been good to date they point out this week will provide the bulk of the trade.

Wide Assortment Available

A good supply of cards with a wide assortment is available. One merchant said the show of cards is surprising in view of the lithographers' strike.

While children's cards sell from a penny up, for the swains who really want to charm their ladyloves a super-deluxe lace number is on the stands at $3.50.

And dealers report the more expensive numbers sell well. "Christmas and Valentine's Day are the times when the price doesn't matter," one merchant says. "When they're buying for girl friends, they don't consider the price," comments another store man.

Dealers report this year's cards are more dignified, with the humorous types more in a good-natured vein. These include the simple puns and animal pictures on the children's cards.

Less Biting Humor

"The humor isn't the biting kind like you used to find," says one dealer. Another points out many teachers forbade the "Valentine box" ceremony in their classrooms because of the barbed cards.

However, the one-cent card with the left-handed greeting has not yet passed from the scene One dealer says he has a stock of the homely verses and cartoon which trade on the foibles of the "angler," "golfer," "teacher," etc.

He expects to sell about two gross of the vitriolic valentines. "The kiddies usually snaffle off all the ones directed at teachers," he observes.

But one Peterborough woman apparently wanted to get in on the ground floor with the less-than-tender cards. She appeared at the store last week and asked for them.

When told they were not yet in stock she replied: "I'll be back for them. I need about six."

Dinner For Six Every Week Prepared By P.C.V.S. Cooks

The old days when marriages ran the risk of becoming wrecked at the first meal after the honeymoon are now buried in the past. The tears which so often accompanied the bride's efforts to prepare her husband's first dinner and the valiant attempts of the hungry man to "enjoy" the burnt cinders of a steak or the watery concoctions which he suspected were once green vegetables, are already finding their place in history.

Discovery that cooks are made and not born is the secret to the changes which have come in this modern era.

Probably some of the best cooks in Peterborough today are Collegiate students still in their teens, to whom preparing a meal is a regular part of their curriculum. For them to task of getting the family dinner holds no fears and if the occasion is a party, there's even more fun in preparing an attractive table.

Weekly Hostess

In the dining room of the Home Economics section of the Collegiate a dinner party for six is a regular weekly event. Hostess and waitress are two grade 12 students—a different couple every week-end guests are Miss Katherine Macdougall, home economics teacher; a specially invited member of the teaching staff of the school, and two others invited by the hostess and waitress.

Jeanne Heard, 17, was hostess Monday, June Kilborn was waitress and their two helpers in the kitchen were Lois Hutchison and Betty Jacquith.

In the atmosphere of a busy household where 13 other grade 12 students were busy taking an inventory of the silverware, studying methods of baking bread, compiling a recipe book and concerned with the hundred and one other tasks to be done in every well run home, dinner was prepared by the four girls.

The hostess reigns supreme in kitchen and dining room and it is from her that the three helpers receive their instructions.

During the previous week Jeanne, the hostess, had prepared a menu which was submitted to Miss Macdougall for approval. The groceries were ordered and shortly before 11 a.m. on Monday morning, the kitchen became a hive of industry.

The shells of grapefruits, decorated with serrated edge, were prepared to serve as containers for fruit salad. Broiled ham with pineapple rings, potato croquettes, creole corn and steamed spinnach followed and the dinner concluded with apple betty and coffee.

Pupils Preside

The hostess sits at the head of the table, the waitress at the opposite end and when the meal includes a joint, it is the hostess who does the carving.

Fish is the least popular dish among home economics students—among those startin their first year. But when they have prepared it themselves, taking responsibility for presenting it as an attractive meal, they usually change their attitute.

First thought of drawing a chicken is never very pleasant, but once they get started they enjoy it as part of the preparations for a fowl dinner.

Home Competition

Students nearing their last year often introduce considerable competition into the home when mother sometimes discovers little Mary Jane is not so little any longer and can entertain in the best style.

Although it's a commonly accepted theory that no two women will agree in the kitchen, there is very little friction between mother and daughter. Miss Macdougall will often send her students home with a note to say they have learnt to make a certain type of cake and will mother allow them to practise at home.

Mother's observation will often be "very good result but she puts the eggs in at the end instead of at the beginning." Mother's way varies from Mary Jane's but it is usually conceded that both recipes can have a place in the home without strife.

It can be an embarrassing life for a home economics teacher Miss Macdougall met the father of one of her pupils recently only to be confronted with the query "are you the lady who taught my daughter to bake green tomatoes?" It's hard for her to know the likes and dislikes of every parent!

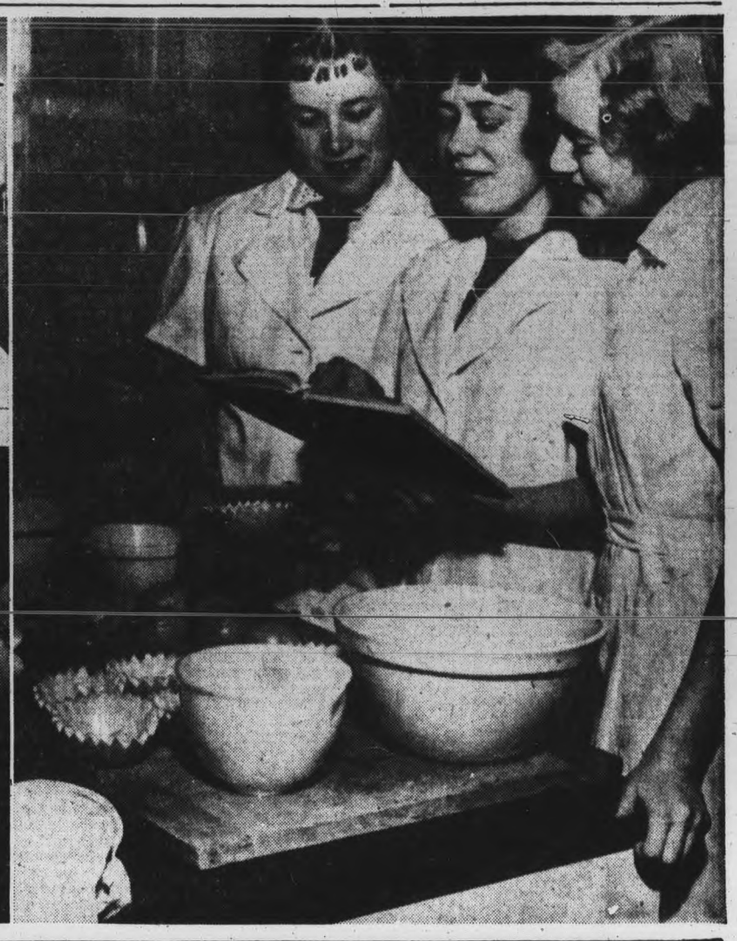
Other Subjects

Cooking is only one of many subjects taken by home economics students. Experimental cooking, meal planning wit' reference to nutritional values, money management, how to purchase household furnishing, choosing a site for a house and every conceivable aspect of home-making is studied.

Along with these subjects go English, economics, science, typing, art, physical training, sewing and health.

If young Mr. Peterborough is not convinced he has a better chance of a happy marriage than his forefathers, let him take a peek into the home economics rooms at the Collegiate.

To equip the modern Miss in readiness for the day when she will have a home of her own is not the only purpose of the home economics course. Many of the girls from this course train as nurses and there are many other occupations for which they are fitted.



TRAINING GIRLS to become good homemakers is one of the objects of the household economics department of the Collegiate and Vocational School. Girls once a week prepare a meal and serve it to their invited guests. In TOP LEFT the girls and their guests are about to commence the meal which they have prepared. Left to right: Guests Elda Wilson, Martha Aitken, Miss Fern Rahmel, waitress June Kilborn, hostess Jeanne Heard, and teacher Miss Katherine Macdougall. An individual serving of broiled ham, pineapple rings, potato croquettes and steamed spinach, with a fruit salad entree and apple betty for dessert is shown CENTRE LEFT. Guided by a cook book in the kitchen are Mona Peirson, Mary Dorsett and Lois Hutchison in UPPER RIGHT. Studying food preservation, LOWER RIGHT, are Betty Merrett, Peggy Noyes and Barbara Nelson. Charges Farmers Leaning Too Much On Floor Prices

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 10 (CP)—Farmers still are inclined to lean on floor prices rather than make a move of their own to improve and broaden their markets, Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to the Dominion agriculture minister, declared Thursday.

The member for Middlesex West urged the Middlesex Federation of Agriculture's first marketing committee that it was time that farmers themselves took an "active role" in finding markets.

"But farmers," he said, "still seem to want floor prices to protect them. They are not yet ready to step out on their own."

The main problem, he thought, was " to get the price high enough for the producer, at the same time not pricing themselves out of the market."

Pick Sub-Committee

The federation committee appointed a sub-committee to interview manufacturers and processors who handle farm produce and report its findings.

It is composed of E. R. Bond, Middlesex representative to the Ontario Federation; W. A. Stewart of Denfield, past president of the Middlesex Federation; J. J. Johnson, district fruit and vegetable inspector, Dominion Department of Agriculture; Clarence Charlton, manager of Ilderton Farmers' Co-operative; Charles Bannister, a director of the bean growers' marketing board.

H. O. White, Progressive-Conservative MP for Middlesex East, called today's meeting "more constructive than protest meetings, spectacular though they may be."

"In a world short of food, it seems paradoxical that we should have surpluses," he told the members. "It is a matter of poor distribution and lack of currency control."

But he questioned the wisdom of increased controls, claiming that "more controls may mean more people being shoved around." The whole situation he described as a "hot potato."

To Slash Budget

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (CP) — Board of Control begins study of the city's 1950 departmental budget estimates today and indications point to considerable slashing in an effort to keep the 1950 tax rate down to last year's figure of 30.5 mills.

Policeman Injured Investigating Crash

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 10 — Investigating one accident in which a transport truck was involved at Shannonville, Constable Garth Harding, OPP, Belleville, found himself involved in a second accident—with another transport.

Harding was removing flares from the trunk of the police car which he had parked 16 feet off the highway in a service station.

A west-bound truck driven by Roy Mitchell, London, Ont., jacknifed in trying to slow down for the first accident, and crashed into the police car. The officer was thrown several feet by the crash and received bruises on the knee and arm.

In the first accident, a truck driven by William Best, Hamilton, had taken to the ditch to avoid an unidentified car which appeared from a sideroad.

WINDSOR, Feb. 10 (CP)—Lorne R. Cumming, whose appointment as chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board was announced Thursday in Toronto, resigned later in the day as Windsor's city solicitor

Walks Like New After Injections

SUDBURY, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Gordon Wyatt, self-styled Canada's No. 1 guinea pig, is back home. The 18-year-old arthritis victim was taken to Sunnybrook Hospital at Toronto in December, 1949, on a stretcher. He could not stand alone.

Wednesday he walked a mile along snow and ice-encrusted streets to his home here. And he expects to do more walking every day—he is job-hunting now.

Wyatt's rescue from arthritis is attributed to injections of the drug ACTH used for the first time in Canada on Wyatt last December.

Hears Pearson Report

OTTAWA, Feb 10 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Thursday heard a report from External Affairs Minister Pearson on his round-the-world mission from which he returned last midnight. No announcements followed the talks.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 (CP)—Dana Wilgress, Canada's high commissioner in the United Kingdom, will head a trade and tariff delegation to the forthcoming meeting in Geneva Feb 23, the external affairs department announced Thursday.

Winter Seems Cosy Compared To This

VANCOUVER, Feb. 11 (CP)—Members of the University of British Columbia Physics Department looked at plunging thermometers recently and then went back to their job — plans for a system of creating temperatures of 458 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

This, the department announced, is one-tenth of a degree above absolute zero.

Addressing members of the BC Academy of Science, Dr. G. M. Shrum pointed out that his department is doing everything possible to bring in equipment for post-graduate research.

The Physics Department, he said, has received $200,000 toward the purchase of a special-type liquefier. The University of Toronto has the only other helium liquefier in Canada capable of producing such low temperatures.

Sign New Agreement

CALGARY, Feb. 10 (CP) — A new working agreement, substantially a renewal of last year's, has been signed by the Western Canada Bituminous Coal Operators' Association and District 18, United Mine Workers. The agreement, announced in a joint statement Thursday, covers 10 Alberta bituminous coal mines employing more than 5,000 men.

Learn Arctic Secrets

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 (CP)—Since 1945, Canadian army doctors have learned much about the effects of life in the far north on human beings, Defence Minister Claxton said Thursday night. This information, as well as supplies and transportation, has been made available to medical and scientific workers in the north, he said.

Peterborough Hog Producers Meet Thursday, Feb. 16 in the YMCA — Federation Annual Meeting Tuesday, Feb. 14 — Local Famers Bought 12,000 Tons of Fertilizer In 1949 — Frontenac Farmer Gets 40 Replies To An Advertisement For A Hired Man.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Hog Producers' Association at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday Feb. 16 at 2 p.m. is of primary interest to farmers in the estimate of Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative.

Mr. Paterson and M. H. Johnston, president, are hoping for at least 200 members to crowd the assembly room at the "Y.M."

Mr. R. H. Graham of the Livestock Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture is headlining the program with a talk on the cost of producing pork according to records kept by 65 demonstration herd owners in this province

The other speaker is R. J. Rogers of Newmarket discussing the market for Canadian bacon hogs. He is a practical farmer wih a large interest in the production phase of the indstury.

The cost enquiry was set up several years ago by the present deputy minister, Cliff D Graham with the adivec of the Minister, Hon. T. L. Kennedy. Bruce Graham of Westwood accepted the responsibility of keeping costs of his work as a typical producer in Peterborough county.

Mr. R. H. Graham has been asked to give the local meeting his impressions and conclusions from his survey of these county reports on costs and profits as ascertained on representative farms. Incidentally, Bruce Graham's review of his experience placed him third from the top in this investigation into costs and profits of production.

✦ ✦ ✦

FEDERATION ANNUAL

Of more general interest to Peterborough farmers in their annual meeting Tues. Feb 14 at the monthly luncheon at the Empress Hotel. The speaker is Mr. R. A Stewart of Almonte, vice-president of the Ontario Federation.

This is essentially the principal business meeting of the members of Peterborough Federation, and that should be attended by every farmer in the county. Election of officers and review of the affairs of last year, with consideration of the prospects for 1950 are given a prominent place in the program It is being held on St. Valentine's Day, suggesting that members should bring their wives as guests. They have just as vital an interest as their husbands in the work of the Federation.

✦ ✦ ✦

MAPLE BREEDERS MEETING

A March date that should be put down in the little black book of its district members is the annual meeting of the Maple Cattle Breeders Association Mar 8 at the Y.M.C.A. With an enrolment of approximately 175 farmers in this section of the parent body at Maple, there should be at least 100 farmers present. Possibly the attendance will exceed that number. After all, this meeting has been called to discuss their business, and it is the main opportunity during the year to hear what has been done, and to present any suggestions they have to offer.

Several new members signed applications this week of their own accord. Frank Paterson says hardly a week goes by without some farmer of the district applying for membership on his own decision.

✦ ✦ ✦

FERTILIZER USE INCREASING

Sale of commercial fertilizer for use in Canada reached an all-time record of 741,700 tons in 1949 as compared with 672,200 tons in 1948 and 660,700 tons in the previous year.

The 1949 sales were double the 1940 total of 346,700 tons and more than four times the sales in 1927 of 170,000 tons. Peterborough farmers bought and used 12,000 tons last year; Oxford 17,000 tons; Norfolk 35,000 and Kent nearly 40,000

Farmers of the prairie province have been greatly increasing their purchases of fertilizer Deliveries to Alberta were up 49% last year, Manitoba 36% and Saskatchewan also showed a big increase. Alberta, with some of the richest land in the world, has been especially interested in ammoniam phosphate obtained from Trail Smelters, B.C.

Peterborough farmers have recently buying fertilizer supplies for this year. The market is short of potash as a result of a strike in the New Mexico source of this mineral. Mr. Paterson has been urging farmers to fill their needs now instead of putting off enquiry and buying until spring

✦ ✦ ✦

THE BROMFIELD ADDRESS

We shall all be the better for the visit of Louis Bromfield here in the editorial view of The Farmer's Advocate, written by W. H Porter. "He brought a message that we cannot hear too often or observe with too much zeal. Official agriculture was reminded anew that the soil is the basis of a prosperous, stable farm industry, and upon it also depends the health, vigor and happiness of a people Practical farmers who heard him will have more pride in their work and a greater appreciation of the acres they till."

Mr. Bromfield was the visiting speaker from Ohio at the dinner of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association.

One of the Bromfield assertions that only inefficient farmers like subsides was not endorsed by Hon. J. G. Gardiner and Dr. J. K Galbraith of Harvard University at the Canadian Federation of Agriculture convention.

"Fundamentally," says the Advocate, "Mr. Bromfield is right. Farmers don't like subsidies. They prefer an economic system which permits them to trade the products of their labor for the goods and services produced or supplied by other groups on a parity level or on the basis of fair exchange. That, at the moment, is pure idealism which doesn't pay taxes or shingle the roof."

As to the Bromfield prediction that the incompetent farmer will be liquidated in the next generation, Mr. Porter dissents: "Their standard of living may go down to a low level and their properties deteriorate as they continue to rob the soil in order to keep the wolf and the bailiff from the door. But, they'll hang on still, and defy the prophecy made in the gilded banquet halls of Toronto. Some farmers are like that in Canada, and Mr. Bromfield will find them much the same in the United States."

FERILIZER PLACEMENT

Application of fertilizer directly with the seed and at the same depth by means of the fertilizer attachment on the grain drill is the most effective method known for grain crops, according to T C Chiasson, agronomist at the Dominion Experimental Station

"Should the equipment for this practice not be available, the next best method would be to broadcast the fertilizer on the plowed ground and harrow it into the soil.

Broadcasting on the surface without working into the soil is the only practical method of applying commercial fertilizer for hay meadows, pastures and sod mulch orchards. Applications under the sod at a depth of three inches on pastures and four to eighteen inches in orchards have failed to show any advantage over surface applications at the Fredericton station."

In order that surface applications may influence growth, they must reach the root system Therefore they must be applied when the land is damp and rainfall fairly frequent, that is, either in the fall or spring. With a nitrogen fertilizer, spring applications are best, since some of the nitrogen may be lost by leaching when applied in the fall.

For root crops and corn, there is no experimental data which indicates which method of applylying fertilizer would be best under the soil and climatic conditions of the Maritime Provinces. Experiments elsewhere, however indicate that placing fertilizer in bands on each side of the seed would be best for corn. At the Station, good results have been secured with corn sown with the grain drill and the fertilizer applied with the fertilizer attachment at the time of seeding. For root crops, fertilizer has generally been applied broadcast and harrowed into the soil

It is essential that the cost of producing farm crops be kept to a minimum. Therefore, close attention must be given to utilizing the large amount of commercial fertilizers used in the most efficient manner possible for each crop."

TO ADVERTISE BUTTER

"It's Best With Butter" is going to be the slogan of the dairy industry in their advertising enterprise beginning in June, William Newman of Lorneville told Victoria county poultrymen at their organization meeting in Lindsay this week.

This subject appears to have been injected into the discussion of chickens and eggs and their marketing by a hog producer by receipt of a cheque from Canada Packers in an envelope superscribed by counter-propaganda: "Just Say Margene".

Howard Hardy, one of the directors of the body asked: "What about the farmers who are eating margarene?" Nobody would admit such disloyalty to the dairy cow, but it has been suggested elsewhere, if not at Lindsay, that many a pound of margarene has disappeared into the townships of Ontario.

Lorne Henderson of Dunsford said prices should be placed at the point where consumers were going to buy more of the product. He proposed that prices should be based on the cost of the most efficient production, plus a reasonable margin of profit.

His idea was that the farmer should set the price of his commodities to be paid by the middleman and consumer as was done in all other industry. The basis of most efficient production would tend to weed out the inefficient farmer.

Some opinion was expressed that the present floor price of eggs did not cover cost of production, apart from the manual labor involved

✦ ✦ ✦

WINTER SALES

Several cattle sales of district interest are listed for late winter and early spring. On march 1, dispersal sale of the Holstein herd of Alex Hendry, Newcastle; March 9, annual Durham county Shorthorn sale at Oshawa. John Rickard is secretary. The second annual sale of the Ontario beef bull show March 21-22 in Royal Winter Fair buildings, Toronto.

✦ ✦ ✦

WOULD INVITE LABOR

For Mon. Mar. 6 and its Farm Forum Radio discussion on "Labor: Friend or Foe?", the Guide suggests some initiative in promoting goodwill and understanding by inviting representatives of Labor to that meeting.

It suggests: "Farm and labor have many common problems This is a good opportunity for you to help build up good relations between the two groups."

It might be at some central place or some one or two labor friends might be asked to one of the neighborhood Forum meetings.

✦ ✦ ✦

HIRED MAN REAPPEARS

The hirable man has come to life after a long absence out of rural circulation and work. Some Prince Edward farmers are reporting up to 23 applications for farm jobs they advertised. A Frontenance farm put an "ad" in the paper for a man and took home a bundle of 40 letters. And nobody is happy about it.

As reported from Wentworth "There are many single men and some married men looking for farm jobs, but farmers are getting through with as little help as possible this year."

✦ ✦ ✦

RECENT STOCK PRICES

Here are some of present livestock prices as reported to the Ontario Department of Agriculture by its county representatives: "Bruce: Weanling pigs are selling at $8 apiece. Dufferin: Weanling pigs are bringing from $7 to $10. Peel: Weanling pigs appear to be in good demand at $7 to $9 each The market for purebred breeding stock appears to be holding firm and farmers are receiving fairly attractive prices for good quality animals."

Perth hatcheries report a 20% to 30% reduction in orders for early chicks. Wellington county "Hatcheries say there is a decided shrinkage in orders, which may presage lower supplies next year. Brant say there is a surplus of milk at most dairies."

Northumberland — Cows to freshen in the near future are selling well at $125 to $250 according to quality.—Prince Edward: Prices for export cattle have been averaging $200 for grade cows and $250 to $275 for purebreds. Carleton county: American buyers have been active recently, paying $325 to $350 for purebred Holstein heifer calves. Enquiries for agricultural limestone have been more numerous than usual during the last week."

Heaving of clover fields is reported in Elgin, and Welland adds: "Farmers report serious heaving of alfalfa and clovers."

York: "There have been some report of heaving of alfalfa due to freezing and thawing during January. The weather resulted in a great deal of soil erosion, but on the other hand the rains were most welcome, and the water supply in wells is about best in many years.

✦ ✦ ✦

POULTRY COMMITTEES

Some counties have already established poultry industry committees. Peterborough one of the first in that group. "The serious drop in egg prices is concrete evidence that producers must find a marketing plan.

Government recommendations and commodity needs have been repeating within the last two months the advice of more constructive attention to the problem of marketing farm products, finding more outlets for them and securing more control over marketing schemes.

Here is a little note from the Guide, one of several in each issue, reflecting the idealism in so many of the activities of rural organization and especially in its social developments: "Live for something. Do good and leave behind you a monument of virtue that the storms of time can never destroy. Write your name in kindness, love and mercy, on the hearts of thousands you come in contact with year by year, and you will never be forgotten. You name and deeds will shine as the the stars Chalmers"

✦ ✦ ✦

8,000 LBS. MILK AN ACRE

J. M. Appleton of Wallaceburg told Guernsey breeders at their provincial convention in Guelph that 8,000 pounds of milks could be produced from an area of pasture. He proposed that goal for Guernsey breeders and all other dairy cattlemen. Grass and the dairy industry were one and the same thing, Mr. Appleton said "Only by the measure in which you treat your soil can you prosper."

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Badminton makes its bow!

How Badminton became one of Canada's first-rank sports!

1930 . . . Badminton players across Canada were training hard. Five years earlier an English team had come to teach Canadians the game's fine points. Now another group of Britain's top amateurs were making a tournament tour of the nation's clubs to see how the game had caught on.

Canadians had been keen learners . . . and the visitors found themselves evenly matched. The final decision was to come from the Canadian champion. In successive games at Toronto, Kingston and Montreal he defeated Britain's four leading players . . . Canada had won a top place in the badminton world.

Badminton grows daily in popularity with Canadians. Keen competition and good sportsmanship have made it a favourite everywhere. And together, competition and sportsmanship make things better for Canadians in work and play. They keep your future in Canada . . . unlimited.

The Canadian Open Badminton Championships will be held this year in Calgary during March.

Orangemen Plan Furnish Room Civic Hospital

The annual meeting of the County L.O.L. of West Peterborough was held Tuesday evening, in the Orange Hall, Brock St., with a record attendance of members and visitors

The election of officers was held and the following members elected for 1950.

County Master, G Trennum, deputy county master, R. Langley; county chaplain, F. Ross; county recording secretary, P. D Howden; county financial secretary and treasurer, R. Hutton; county marshall, J. Brown; county lecturer, H. Oliver; county deputy lecturers, N. Wilson and E Pearson.

Wor. Bro. H A Graham Field Secretary, for Grand Lodge Ontario East, conducted the installation of officers. He then gave an inspiring talk on the progress of the Association, and the membership increases in all lodges

The retiring County Master, Bro. E. Payne, presented cards of congratulation to members who have been 50 years or more in the association. Fourteen members received these cards. He also presented a certificate of merit to L.O.L. No. 2440, on being the lodge having the largest increase in membership during the past year. Ten dollars accompanied the certificate. L.O.L. No. 2440 also won the county sword for its increase in membership.

Wor. Bro. Graham presented Bro. E. Payne, with the past Master Jewel, and paid tribute to his fine record in the association.

Bro. Payne thanked the members for the jewel and their support during his term of office and assured them of his continued help and assistance.

A resolution was passed that the County Lodge will furnish a room in the New Civic Hospital and assume the upkeep.

The ladies lodges of the county have promised their support in this undertaking.

Bro, Trennum, the County Master elect, called on some of the visitors and new officers for a few words and all spoke briefly of the work being done

The meeting was brought to a close with prayer and singing of the National Anthem

Declare Seaway Would Double Iron Ore Market

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The people behind the development of Labrador iron ore figure that building of the St. Lawrence Seaway would double their market.

They are going ahead now with the idea that they can sell to the United States 10,000,000 tons of ore yearly. But, unless the seaway is built, the American middle west—the largest market on the continent—will remain inaccessible to them. If they had access to that market they believe they could sell another 10,000,000 tons yearly.

W. H. Durrell, general manager, Labrador Mining and Exploration Co., Ltd., Thursday outlined the stiuation to members of the Toronto Stock Exchange.

He said the American market is necessary to Labrador development because Canada's own present consumption is only 4,000,000 tons yearly, filled from ore bodies now in operation. He said further:

Has Other Sources

"The United States is not dependent on Canada for iron ore. As an alternative it could be obtained from Liberia, Chile, Venezuela and Brazil."

Moreover, he stated, it is possible that improved ways may be found of treating low-grade ore (taconites) of which there are millions of tons in the Mesabi Range in Minnestoa.

However, Labrador ore is attractive, not only because it is high-grade, but because it is located in a friendly country with a stable government and could be available by protected seaway in time of war.

Further, Labrador ore interests have made their customers their partners and they hope this will assure a future market. Six United States steel companies have been brought into its financing.

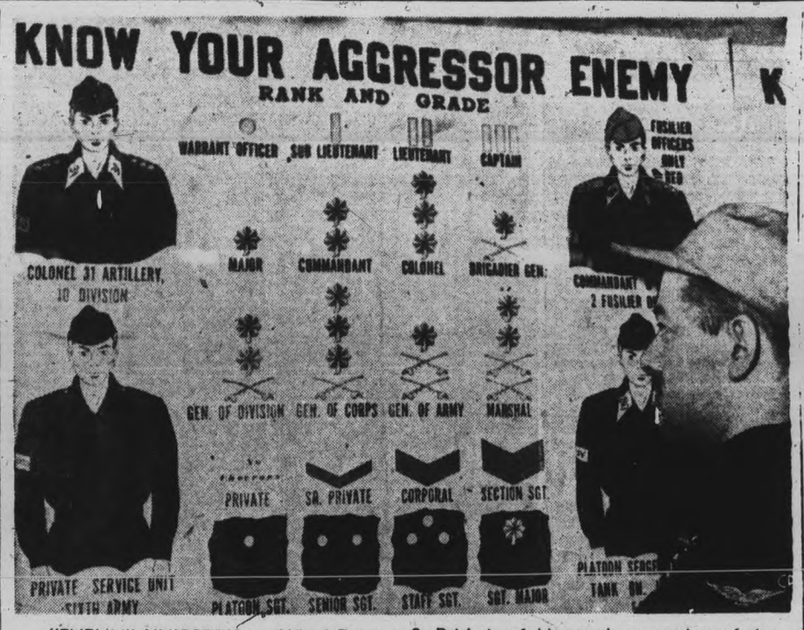
These are Armco Steel Corporation, Hanna Coal and Ore Corporation, National Steel Corporation, Republic Steel Corporation, Wheeling Steel Corporation, and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company in association with Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd.

Form Company

These companies, together with Labrador Mining and Exploration Co., Ltd., and North Shore Exploration Co., Ltd., compose Iron Ore Company of Canada, formed recently for the purpose of bringing Labrador ore into production. The management will continue to be Hollinger-Hannah, who have directed the project in the past.

Iron Ore Company has until the end of 1951 to affirm or disaffirm its intention to proceed with its option and supply the necessary funds to proceed with construction.

However, the interested companies have recently advanced $5,000,000 so that the work may proceed. This is in addition to $7,000,000 already spent.



"ENEMY" UNIFORMS — When Exercise Sweetbriar gets under way, "enemy" forces attacking Canada from Alaska will wear distinctive uniforms. Here Cpl. G. S. Industrialist Denies Backing Housing Plan

TORONTO, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Industrialist E. P. Taylor said Thursday night that "no steps have been taken towards such a tremendous project" as building $50,000,000 worth of new homes in suburban North York.

Reports were current earlier Thursday that 5,000 homes would be built in the community. Mr. Taylor was mentioned as one of those interested in the plan. Whether any other person will back the reported project is unknown.

Court Will Decide Ruling On Alimony

TORONTO, Feb. 10 (CP)—The question whether Ontario courts may award a lump sum to a divorced wife in settlement of all claims for alimony and maintenance will be submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The ruling came Thursday in a decision of the Ontario Appeal Court, granting permission to appeal refusal of a lower court to re-open a settlement made by Cecil E. Maynard to his wife following their divorce.

Deadline For Bids At Army Camp Set

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Prospective buyers of surplus buildings and equipment at the former Farnham military summer camp near Montreal have until the end of the week to submit bids, officials of the New Surplus Assets Disposal Corporation said Thursday.

The camp, situated 40 miles east of Montreal, has been turned over to the Crown Corporation by the Defence Department.

A Quebec Army Command spokesman said two civilian caretakers have been suspended in connection with thefts reported to involve a number of small buildings and some equipment from the camps valued at about $3,500. Identity of the caretakers has not been disclosed.

The report of a military court on the case now is under study.

Girl Leads 4 Children Out Of Burning House

WINDSOR, Feb. 10 (CP)—Four small children were roused and led to safety by an 18-year-old sister as fire raced through their family home here Wednesday night. The fire believed started by an overheated furnace, caused about $4,000 damage.

Rescued from the smoking and burning home were Doreen Webb, 18, and Joy, 12, Jerry, 11, Ruth Anne, 9, and Robert, 6. Doreen was baby sitting when the fire was discovered. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Webb, the parents, were out.

Have So Much Rain Men Can't Take Notes

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP)—It rained so hard in Auckland, N.Z. today that newspaper men covering the British Empire Games at their open-air Olympic pool couldn't take notes. They did all their writing from memory.

Last night with the swimming program half over—New Zealand is 17 hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time—The Canadian Press received the following plaintive cable form its game correspondent:

"Editor descriptive may be bit haywire but pressmen but out open drenched skinwards unable write take notes."

The correspondent added this aside:

"New Zealand's Prime Minister Holland sitting in open getting wettest protected only by wife's yellow-flowered umbrella."

Former Guelph Editor Wm. Templeman Dies

GUELPH, Feb. 10 (CP)—William Templeman, 80, for many years a widely-known Ontario newspaper man and former editor of the Guelph Daily Mercury, died today.

Active in municipal life. Mr. Templeman served as an alderman. He was also a prominent Mason.

After his retirement from newspaper work some 20 years ago, he conducted a real estate business in Guelph. He is survived by three daughters.

ON HER FIRST OFFICIAL VISIT to Peterborough YWCA National Council president Mrs. Noel Savage of Toronto (centre) addressed the annual meeting of the local Association. She is pictured chatting with Y girls before dinner Thursday evening. Equal Rights, Opportunities Call for Responsibilities

Fittingly the National President of the Young Women's Christian Association chose to talk about women when she spoke at the annual meeting of the local Board on Thursday evening. Mrs. Noel Savage of Toronto reviewed what has "happened" to women in the past 100 years and wiped any smugness from faces in her audience with the accusation they are slipping back in public affairs.

Illustrations and context of the Ladies' Magazine of March, 1832, a small hard-covered book with much information for women in the fine print and full-page coloured pictures of models in the stylish outfits for various occasions gave clues to their position at that time. Sixty years later the gentlewoman still could not think of working unless it was absolutely necessary and then she would take only such jobs as governess or companion the speaker reminded.

"Two wars and the application of scientific discoveries have changed that and one-third of the working population in United States last year was women" Mrs. Savage said. Taking up the question of equal pay for equal work, she pointed out that society makes demands which women cannot easily get away from and only those who do put them aside go high. "Woman is expected to look after man from the cradle to the grave. She is also the traditional guardian of culture."

The speaker found fault with today's women because they are spread so thin, trying to do so many things that they do nothing well. She turned the knife with a comment about their lack of understanding their children and juniors. "It is you older ones who must speak for them in the government so you must be sure you know what the young people think and be able to speak correctly for them" she said.

Women have equal rights and opportunities and they should take equal responsibility Mrs. Savage believes. When they go to a meeting and take a vote they should know thoroughly what it is about to do their civic duty. Therefore she urged "Get into a party and work for it, take a share in your government. Particularly in the political field women haven't seen their responsibilities, especially Canadian women who are being defeated in elections everywhere and doing nothing about it."

"It is a serious indictment for women not to think seriously about policies of the world" she said. "They have a vote, they can own their own property, they have equal education opportunities and can enter any profession."

Regarding the right of married women to work, Mrs. Savage pointed out the present economic conditions often make it necessary that she does. Many men would be unable to marry until middle age unless their wives could work for a time. On the other hand man's life span is shortening and middle-aged women are finding it necessary to support themselves so provision must be made for they to fall back on their professions.

Introducing the speaker, Mrs. Roma Brindle, past president of the Girls' Council, noted the YWCA work Mrs. Savage has accomplished in 25 years, culminating with her appointment last year as National Council president. Mrs. H. C. Sootheran, expressing appreciation of the address, said "You have given us the outline for the women of today. We hope we may be able to fill it in."

YW president Mrs T. J. Carley extended the thanks of more than 150 listeners.

English Cottons Like Pre-war Arrive this Week

A summer season with pressing and laundry problems cut to a minimum can be the joy of Peterborough's home sewers this year.

Cottons that carry the manufacturer's guarantee against shrinkage or fading and the brand name that assures they possess the power to resist and recover from creasing are now available in a George St. store. They are the products of an English firm and the first shipment since early war-time arrived a few days ago.

Not only are the materials superior in quality, they are in more attractive patterns and colours than have been available for some time. The dainty sheers can be pictured as bridesmaids' dresses and the all-over prints are fine enough for "best" summer wear, yet all are delightfully low priced.

Heavy lystav in rich colours will make up in sports and every day dresses that can hardly be worn out, as a clerk in the store, Mrs. Buck, will testify from experience.

There are special children's designs in these fine cottons that will more than delight little girls as well as their mothers.

The guarantee is fool proof for any dissatisfaction arising through a defect, the store is authorized to replace the material or refund the price and pay the cost incurred in making up.

Supper Club Girls Make Hit With 'ShantyTown'

Mrs. T. J. Carley, YWCA Board president, made comment on the most attractive appearance of the recreation room which was the setting Thursday evening for the annual meeting and dinner. The tables, with white covers, were lighted with red and white tapers and favors at each plate were small calendars done in those colours with Labrador scenes. The freshness of spring entered the picture in a large bouquet arranged in a silver tureen.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd led the devotions, and from a passage in St. Luke drew a counselling thought, especially applicable to Y members: "The kingdom of God is among you, or, the kingdom of God is within your reach."

Civic greetings and a welcome to the national president, Mrs. Noel Savage, of Toronto, were extended by Mayor M. J. Swanston.

British Designers Showing Slim Line, Shorter Skirt

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, (CP) — British spring fashions won Canadian dollars when London's Big Ten style leaders unveiled their first 1950 fashion secrets.

It was the first full-scale fashion showing in London since last September's devaluation and attracted a larger number of Canadian and American buyers than at any time since pre-war days. Devaluation meant a saving of $200 to $300 on some models.

Hardy Amies' collection received an unexpected ovation from Canadian buyers and at least one third of his collection is bound for Canadian markets.

Expected to be a best-seller in Canada is "Hope," an exquisite strapless white organdie evening dress trimmed with Nottingham lace and having matching lace waistlength jacket.

Romance was given the emphasis in London's spring line.

Dresses have big collars and sleeves of net or lace and are light and graceful in line and material. There are soft, clinging chiffons; younthful, spotted organdies; rustling, stiff silk and crisp, bright cottons.

Skirts are definitely shorter for coats, suits and day dresses — 14 to 15 inches from the ground. And they are slim in line; either straight and tight or with concealed pleating.

Jackets are longer, often blouse back or boxed.

Waists Don't Pinch

Waistlines are natural—at least two inches bigger than the old nipped waist. Although the dropped waistline has not been generally adopted, waists can have a second lowered waistline indicated by buttons, large low-set pockets, or slanting belts.

This year's spring silhouette features the back view. Fashion is all behind with blouse backs back pleating and back yoking The front has a straight tube look Evening skirts are slim-ankled with bunchy hipline. Many day dresses are tiered and have dropped hemlines.

The new "triangle look" is emphasized by the bunchy jacket with slim skirt, slim straight jacket with huge triangular sleeve-ends, dresses with big yokes and double or triple collars.

The new sleeve width develops below the elbow, giving many varieties of melon, leg of mutton and mandarin-shaped sleeves A huge batwing sleeve is part of the wide swing-back jacket and is held in almost cape fashion

Neatly fitted waistcoat blouses are part of the box-jacket suits and slim, pencil skirts are combined with very short collared boleros exposing a midriff of intricately-pleated blouse.

YWCA Reports Deficit Of $123 During Past Year

The YWCA financial statement, presented at the annual meeting Thursday night, showed a excess of disbursements over receipts, in respect of ordinary operations, of $10,923.26. However, receipt of $10,800 from the Community Chest, the deficit was reduced to $123.26.

Treasurer Mrs. J. Hornal pointed out the greatest loss was in operation of the public department, amounting to more than $11,000 with administration second at $6,500. Girls' work showed a disbursement excess of more than $3,000 and the swimming of $1,500. The gymnasium was only $180 under the line.

The president, Mrs. T. J. Carley, had compiled a comprehensive survey of the past year from conveners' reports submitted to her. She said a closer association with other Y's and with the National convention at Ottawa, Regional Conference at Kitchener and Teen Y Conference in Toronto. The World Reconstruction Fund was over-subscribed with $834.90 raised with dime cards, a rummage sale and teas.

A number of staff changes took place and changes in department work have been evolved to suit the members' demands. If present plans materialize the Y may soon serve three meals a day and open the dining room to the public, also, perhaps, help with catering for the club department and outside organizations.

The sale of Camp Inglestane for $6,800 and of the small island for $150 was reported.

Beginning and progress of a Public Affairs Committee were mentioned. It sponsored six lectures by Mr. C. Hurst on "The rise of parliamentary democracy," also a meeting of representatives of all welfare groups in the city to discuss co-ordination. Later they brought a speaker, Miss Maines, of Ottawa, to give further details and information on a Welfare Council and a committee of citizens was appointed to investigate and report. At present this committee is considering the formation of a Women's Electors' Association, which, if set up, will be independent of the YW.

Mrs. Carley introduced Miss Leta Brownscombe as executive director of the Peterborough YWCA and called upon her for observations.

Miss Brownscombe's notes included the following facts: a larger number using the Y during the past year; 1,061 members; 70 city organizaitons holding one to 40 meetings, making a total of 690 community meetings in the building; more planning on the part of Y committees, more responsibility taken, more consultation by group presidents and leaders; the beginning of a stronger, younger, membership movement.

The guide posts for the Y's work in 1950 she outlined as follows: development of leadership, trained and volunteer, in a strong united movement through group membership, being valuable to a group and objective purpose in life; development of administration and improved methods of work; studying the place of YWCA in community organization; implementation of the standards study.

Report of nominating committee was read by Mrs. W. M. Perks who said the committee had been open for suggestions of names of new members. Three were appointed to the board for a three year term: Mrs. Roma Brindle, Mrs. Douglas MacGregor, Miss M. McIntosh. Directors re-elected for three years are: Mrs. Walter Blackwell, Mrs. T. J. Carley, Miss Evelyn Morrow, Mrs. W. G. Ovens, Mrs. J. Semple, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. H. Cranford.

He commented on growth of the association which will celebrate its diamond jubilee in 1951, and said that when it organized 59 years ago Peterborough's population was about 8,000.

Hit of the evening was made by a chorus of girls from the Friday Night Supper Club. Twelve were wearing gowns of the 1920's flapper period, though they may have been advance 1950 styles if reports are true, and they sang a new version of "Shanty Town" of a slow, romantic calibre. The old "truckin' on down" version was rendered with spirit by ten girls in the sweater-and-skirt type of costume. Then the groups confused the audience by singing together. For an encore all sang "Five foot two."

Miss Janet Estlick, a member of the Teen Y Club, played "Prelude in C Sharp Minor."

Guests at the head table were Mayor M. J. Swanston and Mrs Swanston, the Rev. C. G. Boyd and Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Savage and Mr. Alex Sinclair, Peterborough recreational director, and members of the Y executive.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Who Belittles Husband Brings Trouble On Herself

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a wife and three children. My salary is very small, and I am very desirous of supplementing it by selling something in my hours off, but every time I start out my wife discourages me and, of course, if I don't have her to believe in me I lose heart. Yet she goes right on complaining about the lack of money and doesn't seem to understand all I am working for is her and the children.

Dorothy Dix

DISCOURAGED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Poor chap! You have my earnest sympathy, for if there is one wife who is worse than another it is the human wet blanket who takes all the starch out of her husband's every plan and aspiration and reduces him to a state of limpness in which he is incapable of even making an effort to do anything worth while.

Don't Realize Harm

It is a strange thing that the wives who be-little their husbands, and whose favorite indoor sport seems to be puncturing a man's ego until his last shred of self-confidence is gone, have so little sense of the wrong they do. Strange that they do not realize that they are slaying in their husbands the power to succeed and are literally bringing down on their heads the misfortunes they dread.

For a man can only do as much as he thinks he can do. Every doubt thrown on his ability to achieve weaknes him just that much. Put into his mind the thought that he is not as strong or as clever as other men, that he lacks some quality they have, make him distrust himself, and you have put on him a handicap that will make him lose out in the race. Many a man is a failure just because his wife has made him think of himself as a failure. Great is the power of suggestion.

As long as a man's wife believes in him he will put forth the best that is in him to try to deserve it, but when she has no faith in him he has no faith in himself and he simply slumps. He has nothing to live up to.

The wife who takes the heart out of her husband does a cruel thing to him. And she does a disastrous thing to herself. She kills the goose that lays the golden egg.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young man, married and with a darling baby. Our home should be a happy one, but it is miserable because my wife's only aim in life is to go from one party to another. She is discontented, hates housework and the care of the baby. When I come home from work I have to clean up the house, do all the cooking and the baby's washing, as I cannot afford a servant on my salary. Ye I make enough to live comfortably on if only my wife, who is a big strong, healthy young woman would do her part. Can you help me to solve my problem?

DISILLUSIONED

ANSWER: No. When a woman is lazy and pleasure-mad, nothing short of a miracle will change her and I have no magic by which I can work such big medicine as you require.

What to do with that kind of wife is a problem that is hard to solve. Certainly a man does not help matters by meekly putting up with it and doing the cleaning and washing and cooking that she should do. My own idea is that if the husband would stage a rebellion, and not only tell his wife but make her realize he meant it, that unless she did her work satisfactorily she was going to lose her job as wife, just as she would lose it as a stenographer or a saleswoman unless she gave satisfaction, she would brace up and do better.

Failure to support is a ground for a divorce for women. Failure to be good housekeepings should be an equal ground for divorce for men, and if women knew this, a lot of them would take to sweeping under the bed and spending more time over the cookstove and less over the bridge table.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: For two years I have gone with one boy regularly. We are both only 19. Only the fact that we are so young and our income is insufficient has kept us single. The matter that worries me is our common interests. Aside from planning our future home and family together we have nothing in common. Do you think our marriage will succeed?

L. K.

ANSWER: You have studied biology at school. What have you got out of it if it hasn't taught you that it is merely sex attraction that has drawn you and this boy together, and that you have no real spiritual correspondence? Undoubtedly in marriage physical attraction is very necessary, but it is not enough to satisfy any man and woman for a lifetime.

The greatest precaution against marriage being a failure that any young couple can take is to find out before marriage what they have in common. And if they find out, as you have, that they have nothing, then the wise thing is for them to part.

Women's League Host To Grandma

MARMORA, Feb. 10—(ENS)—The Catholic Women's League met Tuesday in Sacred Heart School when the president, Mrs. C. Cook, occupied the chair.

Mrs. K. Donaldson and Mrs. Charles Crawford reported for social welfare and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Carl Heath. Ms. Rose Johnston reported that a bale of used clothing had been sent to western missions. She also reported a quilting and put luck supper held at her home last week and another to be held soon for the making of two quilts for a family whose home had been burnt.

The president thanked those who had contributed to the success of the bingo held last week, and also those who had held study clubs and card parties in their homes.

Group eight was asked to supply the refreshments for the March meeting. Mrs. P. Brawley and Mrs. Joseph Doyle volunteered to visit the sick and shut-ins for the coming month.

The president displayed the quilt blocks that had been handed in by members. Mrs. J. Black then took charge of the program and paid special tribute to the grandmothers present, as it was grandmothers' night, and read a poem. There were 16 grandmothers present.

Members Entertain

Mrs. William Shannon read a poem and Mrs. P. Brawley gave a comic reading. Mrs. Hugh Brady read a poem and Mrs. J. J. Ethier and Mrs. H. Brady sang with Mrs. J. Black at the piano.

Several members quilted while the meeting was in progress. This quilt was finished and has been sent to a needy family.

Mrs. Black gave a recitation after which prizes were presented to the grandmothers as follows: oldest grandmother, Mrs. B. Callery; youngest grandmother, Mrs. Dermont Bedore; most grandchildren, Mrs. Joseph Freeman and Mrs. D. Quinlan tied with 15; newest grandmother, Mrs. C. Cook.

Games of bingo were played after which refreshments were served by group seven.

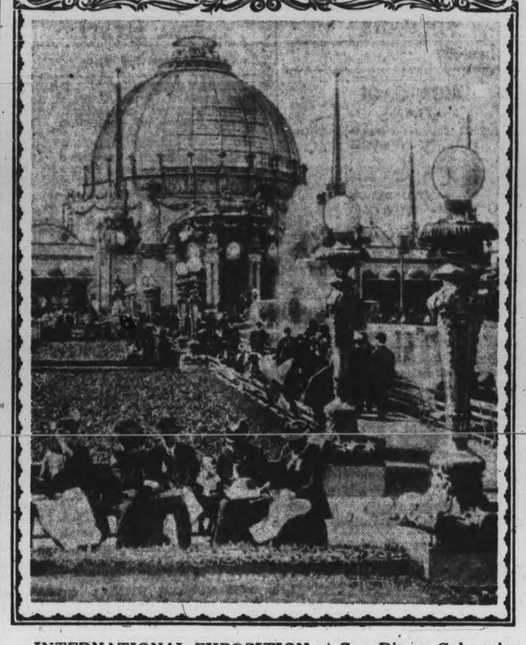
HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS



INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION at San Diego, Cal., celebrated completion of the Panama Canal. It was typical of many elaborate expositions and world's fairs throughout the country during the first half of the Twentieth Century. The Panama-Pacific Exposition took its architecture from the Spanish Colonial, including the old Mexican cathedrals and the homes of the moors. There was Victorianism aplenty, too, obvious in the elaborate decorations. The ladies in the foreground wore Queen Mary hats and carried shoe-box lunches for themselves and their gentlemen friends. The exposition itself included hundreds of exhibits, all the latest in home enocomics, arts, crafts, science and education, specimens of botany and varied products of commerce and industry.

Star New York Comedienne Keeps House Near Toronto

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (CP)—A fast-rising star on the entertainment horizon is a Canadian comedienne who skilfully combines a number of talents by means of which she reduces her audiences to a state of hilarious exhaustion.

She is Anna Russell of Cooksville, Ont., who between engagements keeps house for her artist-husband, Charles Goldhamer of Toronto.

A first-class mimic and mugger, she is also an excellent musician —vocally and at the piano. Her average program comprises musical burlesques and travesties that spare neither composer nor artist. In the last few years she has covered North America giving concert recitals or entertaining the smart-set at hotels.

But her entry into the field of comedy entertainment was purely by accident. In fact, she stumbled into it—literally.

The stumbling occurred while she was a student at the Royal College of Music in London. Taking part in a graduation-ceremony opera, she took several embarrassing falls that she says gave her some insight into "the less serious aspects" of music.

The daughter of Anna Tandy of Kingston, Ont., and Col. Russell Brown, a Briton, who came to Kingston as an instructor at Royal Military College, she was born in London while her father was on a tour of duty in Britain. Her mother's family is one of long standing in the Kingston community. Miss Russell's maternal great-grandfather was a director of the old Grand Trunk Railroad and founder of the Canadian Locomotive Company at Kingston.

While a student in London—where she was known as Anna Claudia Russell Brown—she discovered that the BBC was interested getting new talent. The college had a ban against any of its students doing professional work, so the enterprising Miss Brown became Anna Russell and broadcast folk songs.

Wartime Entertainer

Her studies took her to Paris and Brussels, but war intervened and she came to take care of her mother in Kingston in 1940. Finding many amateur groups embarking on troop entertainment, she offered her services to one such group and soon found herself taking over complete direction of it.

Again radio beckoned and as "Annabelle" she was heard for several years on Canadian networks, finally as a comedienne. Engaged as a vocalist, her show's producers decided at the last moment that they wanted a comedy show. Anna obliged with 15 minutes of comedy created on the spur of the moment.

She then set about creating her own comedy material, and to this day she still writes every word and note she uses in her act. But her main hobby is building and cooking. She does both at her Cooksville home — a house she helped build with her husband, now a teacher at Toronto's Central Technical School.

Her act—despite its hilarity—shows her expert ability as a singer, pianist and composer. Her ability at the piano, while tending to the Chico Marx school, permits her to rattle off phrases of impressive complexity.

The critics who saw her first venture into opera at the Royal College — when she stumbled while the King and Queen were in the audience — said the performance was that of a buffoon.

A buffoon she certainly is—and a wonderfully comic one at that.

SHE'S A HOWL! — Anna Russell, of Cooksville, Ont., is a fast rising star on the entertainment horizon in New York. A comedienne of no mean ability, Miss Russell combines a number of talents to leave her audiences in a state of hilarious exhaustion and between engagements keeps house for artist-husband Charles Goldhamer, of Toronto.

Lakefield Women Give Clothes For Europe

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 10 (ENS)—The Women's Institute held the February meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Waldon and the president, Mrs. Roy Bullock, was in charge.

Cards thanking the Institute for gifts of fruit were read from Mrs. N. S. Higgins and Mrs. R. Wasson.

Mrs. H. S. Sanderson and Mrs. S. Chatten donated quilt tops. Mrs. E. Irwin presented a paper on current events.

A letter of thanks from the Unitarian Service Committee for a bale of clothing and money was read. The Institute will continue to supply used clothing and donations will be accepted at the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Bullock.

It was decided to have an institute bulletin board at Fred Kemp's store.

Lunch committee included Mesdames G. Dunford and C. Chittick, J. McConkey. Cakes which had been donated were sold by Mrs. J. Moore.

6—In Memoriams

SHEWRING—In loving memory of our infant daughter, Valerie Jeanne, who died February 9th, 1949.
One year has passed and gone,
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we placed upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
—Ever remembered by her parents, George and Helen, also brother Warren.

Experts Can't Agree On Evidence Torches Or Axes Best At Fire

TORONTO, Feb. 10 —(CP)— Conflicting views were expressed before an inquest jury Thursday night regarding attempts by firemen to save nine garment workers who, trapped behind barred windows, were fatally burned in a basement factory fire here Jan. 20.

Witnesses contended that acetylene torches, used to burn through barred windows of the Phillips Garment Company basement, did the job more quickly than any other method. Others maintained that sledge-hammers or monkey wrenches would have been better.

Before Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson, Controller John Innes said he had made a personal investigation of the fire and the efficiency of firemen and their acetylene torches. He said his experience as a builder and series of tests convinced him that hammers and monkey wrenches would have removed the bars.

Police Sgt. Clifford Train disagreed and said firemen did the fastest thing possible under the circumstances, and should be commended for their action.

Worked Fast

Sgt. Train was driving nearby when he saw smoke coming from the factory. He said three minutes after firemen arrived they had torches on the scene and it took them an extremely short time to cut through the bars.

"The firemen were very well organized and efficient, and I can find no fault with the way they worked," he said.

Prof. Joslyn Rogers, a medico-legal expert, told the jury that rayon material from which clothing was made in the factory was highly inflammable. Prof. Rogers said he examined the blood of one victim and found death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

On Wednesday, first day of the hearing, the jury was told escape through the windows would have been difficult even if they had not been barred.

On the use of acetylene torches district fire chief J. B. Shields said:

"Years ago we had trouble getting bars off with sledge hammers, so we got some torches. It's the only thing."

The inquest is expected to conclude tonight.

To Divide Fleet

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 (CP) — The Navy is planning to divide its two-ocean fleet into two broad main segments. The 18,000-ton aircraft carrier Magnificent — the Maggie—has been designated as kingpin of one division that will concentrate on operational training. The other big ship, the 11,000-ton cruiser Ontario, has been turned into a seagoing school for recruits and officer-cadets as kingpin of a section that will concentrate on training of new officers and men.

Dismiss Teacher

MONTREAL, Feb. 10 (CP) — Leo Guindon, president of the Alliance of French-speaking School Teachers of Montreal, was dismissed as a teacher Thursday by the Montreal Roman Catholic School Commission for "insubordination and misconduct." Dismissal is effective June 30. The commission suspended Guindon from teaching last month for refusing to return to class after seven years' leave of absence.

Taking A Rest

MONTREAL, Feb. 10 (CP) — The chancellor of the Roman Catholic arch-diocese of Montreal Thursday night issued a statement to the press which said that Archbishop Joseph Charbonneau of Montreal is taking a "prolonged rest" in Victoria, B.C.

Lone Gunman

MONTREAL, Feb. 10 (CP) Police Thursday night reported a $2,200 hold-up by a lone gunman of the Rene Charlebois Fur, Ltd., store on St. Catherine St. East.

Sub Captain Blamed For Collision

CHATHAM, England, Feb. 10 (CP)—Standing pale but upright in a hushed courtroom Thursday night, a young British naval officer heard a courtmartial declare him guilty of endangering the submarine Truculent before she sank in the Thames estuary last month with the loss of 64 lives.

His naval sword pointing toward him on the table to give the traditional indication of a verdict of guilty, 28-year-old Lieutenant Charles Philip Bowers showed no emotion as a sentence of severe reprimand was pronounced.

After deliberating for one hour and 20 minutes, the court convicted him of endangering his ship by negligence or default, but acquitted him of a charge of losing his ship by negligence or default.

Bowers was one of 15 survivors when the Truculent sank after a collision with the Swedish ship Divina last month on her first sea trip under Bowers' command.

Bowers was mentioned in dispatches for undaunted courage, skill, and devotion to duty, while serving in the Pacific in 1944.

Won't Affect Seniority

The severe reprimand does not mean any loss of seniority for Bowers and will not automatically delay—though it may affect—his promotion.

Tracing the Truculent's movements with a discolored Admiralty chart held together by gummed strips of paper, Bowers answered accusations that he had ignored the rule of the road at sea in altering his course across the Divina's path. This document was the only navigational record salvaged from the Truculent.

In a low voice, almost inaudible at times, he claimed that if the Divina had kept to her course the submarine would have passed her safely.

But the court found that he endangered his ship by disobeying this maritime rule of the road and having omitted to give any sound warning to show the Divina that he was altering his course.

Tariffs Protection

MONTREAL, Feb. 10 (CP) — G. B. Gordon, president of Dominion Textile Company, Ltd., said Thursday night that tariffs are the Canadian consumer's best protection against the uncertainties of depending upon foreign sources of supply He was addressing the 22nd annual meeting of the Textile Wholesalers Association.

Legal Bodies Meet

Magnificent Ritz Made Golden Era Gotham Legend

By ADELAIDE KERR

NEW YORK — (AP) — "I thought the Ritz would never die!" the gray-haired cloakroom attendant said with trembling lips "I thought it would go on forever."

She turned, her hand clutching the newspaper that announced the famed Ritz Carlton Hotel would be torn down to make way for a $15,000,000 25-storey office building.

The Ritz! Symbol of wordly luxury in hotels, scene of magnificent banquets feting the great the name that gave the English language the phrase "puttin' on the Ritz," for 40 years the New York hotel had stood for suave service, a gourment's cuisine and beautiful furnishings designed for wordly tastes and fat pocketbooks Now it was passing from Gotham's scene.

What a star-spangled history it had! Kings of Europe and American industry, famous generals and diplomats, Indian princes in jeweled turbans, stars of stage and screen and some of United States' most glamorous debutantes attended its dinners and balls.

Chefs made special dishes for gourmets and tagged them with famous names. A gold dinner service served the most sumptuous private parties. Through the Japanese garden flowed a stream filled with trout. Guests could angle for their own and send their catches to the kitchen to be cooked for lunch.

"But the era of magnificence has passed forever," says James O. Stack, president and treasurer of the Ritz Carlton Hotel company. "We shall never see it again. People are living more simply today, partly because they want to and partly because they must."

In 40 years, scandal touched many hotels, but not the Ritz. though oldtimers in its service remember the beautiful wife of a rich Java merchant who fell to her death from a window of the roof garden. Below stairs it was whispered she had jumped because she loved a rich handsome resident of the hotel who did not return her love.

The Ritz Debut

Many a debutante party swirled on in the silk-hung ballroom till dawn, for the Ritz was the scene of some of New York's most famous debuts. Brenda Frazier and Natalie Coe made their bows there.

The Ritz took its name from Cesar Ritz, who left his native Swiss mountains as a boy to work in a Paris tavern and moved steadily upward in hotel business to launch the Ritz Hotel in Paris Later he joined forces with William Harris, a London chartered accountant, to open the Ritz Hotel in London In time a group of hotels in Europe and elsewhere were linked in a Ritz chain

Then Robert W. Goetlet, a rich New York landowner, and an architectural firm organized a New York hotel to be build at Madison avenue and 46th street patterned after the Ritz hotels of Paris and London. In December 1910, it opened its doors.

"On opening night we served an 11-course dinner," recalls Louis Diat, head chef who has been in the hotel's service since its opening. "One chef made 2,000 blinis for caviar and finally fainted at his stove."

Many others such as Charles Silvani, maitre d'hotel, and Steve Terzano, headwaiter, served the Ritz for years and are known to hundreds of its patrons.

The aim of the Ritz was to provide food, surrounding and service which would make those who lived in magnificent houses and palaces feel at home.

WA Considers Ways Of Raising More Funds

HASTINGS, Feb. 10—(ENS)—Group three of the Women's Association of Trinity United Church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. G. Thompson. The president, Mrs. W. A. Thomas presided.

Memo Pads And Blotters Burned After A-Parley

HARWELL, Eng., Feb. 10 (CP) —Top Canadian, British and United States scientists met Thursday at the atomic research station here to review the East-West race for supremacy in atomic research

The talks opened amid elaborate secrecy precautions. Even the memo pads and blotting paper used during the four-day parley will be burned daily.

Reliable informants said that while the case of Dr. Klaus Fuchs. British scientist accused of giving away atom secrets, is not on the agenda, it is certain the implications of the charges will be discussed.

Official sources said the scientists here will give much consideration to the achievement by Russia of an atomic explosion.

Basic purpose of the Harwell conference is to consider what further atomic information can be released from the top secret category.

Informants said the scientists will make their decisions after taking into account what progress other countries, such as Russia, have made in atomic research. Canada, Britain and the United States use a uniform system to determine what research information may be released.

Gunmen Stir Up London:

SHOTS FIRED AT TWO IMPORTANT MEN

Helicopter Brings Out 9 Survivors

Last Man In Crash To Be Picked Up From Camp Today

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Feb. 11—(CP)—"Lucky to be alive," was the reaction today of nine men rescued Friday from a wind-swept Yukon mountain peak where they were marooned for more than 72 hours.

The 10th survivor of a Dakota search-plane crash remained overnight at a rescue camp at the base of the 7,300-foot mountain. He is to be brought out today.

The nine men, Canadians and Americans, were taken from the snow-covered mountain by helicopter and brought to military hospitals here. They had been stranded since Tuesday.

They had been searching in a USAF plane for the missing American C-54 transport aircraft when they crashed 74 miles northwest of Whitehorse.

The rescue helicopter was piloted by Lieut. Frank Alden of Boston. The 10th survivor, who stayed on, was L/Spl. Mike Chimko, 21, of Kelvington, Sask., a paratrooper with Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Like Chimko, the three rescued Canadians were paratroopers aboard the search plane as scanners. The ill-fated flight was their first in the mass aerial-search for the C-54 and its 44 passengers and crew now missing 16 days.

One Badly Injured

M/Sgt. Charles Dunne, 20, Los Angeles, was the only man severely injured. His left leg was fractured below the knee when a propeller blade smashed through the fuselage as the Dakota hit the mountain top. He was taken out in an enclosed stretcher attached to the port side of the helicopter.

The helicopter took the men out in three shuttle flights to an emergency airstrip at Pon Lake 15 miles away.

Also flown out was Wing-Cmdr. H. J. Bright, RCAF doctor from Toronto. He had parachuted to the scene with the parachute team. An RCAF Dakota piloted by Flt.-Lt. Len Boucher of Edmonton took the nine men from Pon Lake to Whitehorse.

IRON HORSES CORRALLED — As the coal strike put another checkrein on steam railroad operations, these lines of engines were put into storage for the duration at the New York Central's Collingswood Yards, Cleveland. Scene was being duplicated on most other railroads as fuel supplies dwindled.

Steward Sucked Through Door Of Big Airliner

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP) — The steward of a giant four engine double deck airliner was sucked through the open door of the plane early today while flying at 8,000 feet and plunged to his death in the darkness over Long Island.

Airline spokesmen said a powerful air draft tugged him through an accidentally open door of the pressurized plane cabin.

The big ship, a Pan American Airways transocean stratocruiser was flying at about 200 miles an hour when the accident occurred.

There was no immediate explanation why the door of the plane opened.

Tried To Shut Door

Spokesmen said John Harris, 28, the plane's steward, tried to close the door, and was caught in a roaring wind current and hurled out into space.

The plane was headed for New York International Airport on a flight from London.

Twenty-six passengers arrived on the plane.

The coast guard ordered a search for Harris' body.

The fact that passengers were being strapped in their seats — in preparation for landing—may have saved others from being sucked out the door.

Almost three years ago the navigator of another transatlantic plane was killed in a similar accident.

Transportation Commission Heads Down Home Stretch

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(CP)—With 6,000,000 words of testimony on its records, the Royal Commission on Transportation is heading down the home stretch in its long investigation. The provinces have completed their main submissions. Four major phases of the inquiry remain to be disposed of before the three-man commission sits down to write the report which may provide a solution to Canada's transportation ills.

About seven or eight weeks are expected to be taken up in public hearings, and it may be some time after that before the commissioners are able to produce a report for the Federal government.

Here is what is still to come:

1. Presentation of the cases of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, opening Monday.

2. Submission of evidence on the question of whether the railways have abided by a 1933 federal statute directing the two big systems to effect joint economies through co-operation. The provinces in the case contend such savings have been only small.

3. Argument over the fate of the "Crow's Nest Pass" rates, low statutory tolls on grain and grain products moving in the west. The CPR seeks to have these rates wiped off the statute books. It is being opposed by the prairie governments and western grain interests.

4. Final argument by counsel for the provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec—and for the railways, truckers and others who have made submissions.

The lawyers will have to summarize a huge mass of evidence and exhibits which has been piling up since the commission under Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon launched public sittings on a trans-Canada tour last summer.

Prominent Man John Tory Dies

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — (CP).—John A. Tory, 80, one of three Nova Scotia brothers who became prominent in Canadian affairs, died here Friday night. Veteran insurance executive and leader in Toronto public affairs, he had been ill several weeks with a heart condition.

His brothers died previously—James C. Tory, who was a member of the former Liberal Government of Nova Scotia and Lieutenant-Governor of the province; and Dr. Henry Marshall Tory, first president of the University of Alberta and later was chairman of the National Research Council and president of Carleton College at Ottawa.

John A. Tory started work as a clerk at Antigonish in 1887. He became associated with the Sun Life Assurance Company in 1895 as an inspector for the British West Indies and part of South America, later becoming manager for Michigan, supervisor for Western Ontario, and in 1938 a director of the company. Until his illness, he was at his office in downtown Toronto almost daily.

In Toronto he had been president of the YMCA, a director of Soldiers' Civil Rehabilitation, and head of the Poppy Fund, president of the Lay Association of the Toronto Conference of the United Church, superintendent of the Sherbourne Street Methodist Sunday School.

Bullets Hit Windshields, No One Hurt

Intelligence Chief, Liberal Chairman, Objects Of Attack

LONDON, Feb. 11—(CP)—Unknown gunmen made two attacks on important men in Britain's political and defence activities today when shots were fired at cars in which the two were travelling in separate parts of London.

Bullets pierced the windshield of the automobile of Rear-Admiral Eric Longley-Cook, the Director of Naval Intelligence, while he was driving in a London suburb. The gunmen escaped after a nine-mile car chase.

A bullet also shattered the car windshield of Lord Moynihan, chairman of the Liberal party executive, as he was returning from a Liberal election meeting early today.

Two bullets drilled through the windshield of the Rear Admiral's car. As he was driving through Uxbridge, on the northwest outskirts of London.

Gave Chase

Uninjured, he sped after the car from which the shots were fired but it eluded him near Acton, a west London suburb. Longley-Cook gave Acton police the licence number of the other car.

An intensive search of the western areas of London began.

"Early developments are expected," a police spokesman said.

A bullet went through the windshield of Lord Moynihan's car Friday night while he was driving through Epping Forest on the east side of London.

Rear Admiral Longley-Cook said the shots at him were fired backward from an automobile travelling in front of his and in the same direction on one of the main streets of Uxbridge near Northolt airport.

"I cannot imagine any motive for the attack, but one never knews," he told a reporter.

Cylinder Explodes

LONDON, Feb. 11—(AP)—A cylinder of acetylene gas blew up at a factory in the north Wembley section of London today with a roar heard a mile away. The roof was blasted off a loading platform but there were no casualties. A small fire started but firemen quickly put it out. The cylinder exploded while being unloaded from a truck.

Firemen Request Arbitration Of Salary Issue

Fire Fighters' Union have asked city council for reference of their 1950 wage scale to arbitration.

Fire and light committee spent an hour Friday afternoon on the letter from the men of the department, and recommended to the council that Herbert T. Bradburn be asked to represent the ratepayers.

The nomination of Mr. Bradburn was moved by Ald. John Dewart and seconded by Ald. J. E. Gillespie.

In the meantime the council's proffered service pay for men of longer service is being withdrawn and the basis of arbitration, if it comes to that, will be the agreement of last year.

Begin At $2,150

Information to Ald. Dewart as a new member of the council was to the effect that new members of the department, novice or rookie firemen, are taken on the force at a salary of $2,150, and that it increases $100 annually to $2,500; that uniforms, pension and other provisions which have been adopted by the council in recent years amount to around $275 a year on the average.

By addition it was considered that even the first year man, beginning to learn his trade, receives the full equivalent of $2,425 a year, "while he is learning his apprenticeship."

Ald. Dewart commented that the average wage in Canada is $44 a week, including skilled employees and common labor.

The Firemen's Union asked for an increase of $300 across the board. On the basis of the figures quoted in the discussion the "rookie" would receive $2,450 plus the benefits of $275 or $300.

Salary schedule that is in effect provides for automatic annual increases for the men who have not reached first class rating. For the elders, the service pay, proffered by the council in the recent negotiations, is ten cents a day for every five years of service, with a maximum limited to 50 cents a day.

St. Laurent Suggests Lower Trade Barriers To Boost Western Peace

Says Strong Economy Will Be Bar To War In Western Part Of World; State Dept. Official Promises Consideration

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(CP)—Canada's Prime Minister Friday night called for lowering of United States trade barriers as a possible huge boost to western security. Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent said one of the main objectives of the North Atlantic countries is to keep their economies strong; that it is of over-riding importance to western economic strength that all dollar-short countries be able to export as freely as possible to North America.

He spoke at the 52nd annual dinner of the Canadian society of New York at a midtown hotel where a group of 500 members and their guests also heard George F. Keenan, Counsellor of the United States State Department.

Kennan told the prime minister his remarks would be given "most careful and sympathetic consideration."

Gets More Attention

The United States government, Kennan said, is giving the dollar problem more attention than ever before.

In Washington, U.S. government officials received the prime minister's call with keen but noncommital interest. They noted there is fairly constant consultation between Canada and the United States on tariff and other trade barriers.

The prime minister said he does not ask for reduction of tariff and other trade barriers as a special favor to Canada.

"But it does seem to me that such a policy might make a tremendous contribution to the security of the free world generally and the United States in particular."

Canada's most effective contribution to Western security would come with renewal of wartime reciprocal arrangements with the U.S. for specialization of arms manufacture.

Legal Trouble Piling Up On John Lewis

WASHINGTON, (AP).—President Truman's fact-finders told him today that an immediate resumption of coal mining in the United States is "imperative" — in effect, a call for an injunction under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP).—Legal trouble piled up on John L. Lewis today, with one Federal Court injunction due against his striking miners this morning, and another—ordering them back to work—likely early next week.

The government lined up this one-two punch against the United Mine Workers as the coal crisis grew in urgency. Fuel-short Chanute Air Base in Illinois asked for an air lift to fly coal in from Canada. Railroad service was cut back, many factories were closed and thousands of workers were laid off, while the coal stocks of the United States grew slimmer and slimmer.

An Interstate Commerce Commission order cutting coalburning freight service by 25 per cent went into effect at midnight. About 40 small lines were exempt.

The first Federal Court injunction against the UMW — one sought by Robert N. Denham, general counsel for the National Labor Relations Board — would bar Lewis temporarily from pressing for cherished contract demands.

LEGAL TROUBLE

Injures Triplets Trucker Jailed

ALBANY, NY, Feb. 11 (AP).—A 230-pound truck driver was in jail today and two of his two-year-old triplets were in a hospital with injuries he admitted inflicting in frequent "rages."

Six-foot Edward J. Green, 26, was sentenced Friday to serve six months for what Judge James A. Quinn of Children's Court described as "the worst case of cruelty to children" in his experience.

Green, a war veteran, pleaded guilty to a charge of neglect and cruelty to children. Judge Quinn gave him the maximum sentence.

One of the triplets, Virginia, is suffering fractures of both arms and the right collarbone, a gash under the left eye and numerous body bruises. One of her arms was broken some time ago and never set.

Thomas has multiple bruises of the head and body, a groin injury, a leg injury that makes him limp, and a bruise under the right eye.

2 French Trains Crash 20 Killed, 38 Injured

PARIS, Feb. 11—(Reuters)—About 20 persons were feared killed and 38 injured before dawn today when two local trains crashed near Toulouse in southwestern France

Failure by one of the trains to observe a stop signal was believed responsible for the accident.

Both engineers were among the dead.

The collision occurred on a single-track.

Sent To Asylum

CROWN POINT, Ind., Feb. 11 (AP)—John Purevich, 29, who admitted killing his 64-year-old father because he was "too old to live," was committed to the Indiana state prison colony for the insane Friday. Police said the son told of hearing about recent mercy killings. Physicians said the elder Purevich, a steel company worker, was in excellent health.

19 Killed In Jail

MADRAS, Feb. 11 (Reuters)—Nineteen persons were killed and 40 injured when prison police opened fire today in Salem jail in South India to bring under control what official sources called "serious rioting by prisoners."

Expect Ottawa To Decide On Red China Recognition

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(CP)—Excitement and speculation mix freely in this capital as Canada nears a climax on the recognition of Red China.

Adding weight to indications that Federal government is about to pronounce a firm decision on the problem is the expected arrival this weekend of Hume Wrong, Canadian Ambassador to Washington.

Mr. Wrong returns periodically to his diplomatic headquarters for discussions and advice, but his present visit bears particularly significant since it is linked with External Affairs Minister Pearson's report to Cabinet council on the China problem.

Mr. Pearson, returning from a round-the-world flight which touched mostly on the fringes of the hottest front in the Cold War—the Far East—told newspaper men Friday that he had pretty firm views on the question.

Mr. Wrong's arrival may have a two-fold purpose:

1. Mr. Pearson may be given a lead on how top-level United States officials feel about recognition of Red China.

2. Mr. Wrong may be asked to bring back to Washington the Canadian proposals on the subject for discussion with the United States government before they are implemented.

Recognition of Red China—even De Facto recognition which accepts the fact that the government is in control of the country and has demonstrated ability to govern—may appear to be a step forward in making it easier for Canada to do business with China. But the implications go further than that.

Canada, like other countries, is anxious to conclude such a treaty as soon as possible, but she realizes that this cannot be done without representation by Russia and China.

Say Foreign Minister Arrested By Reds

BERLIN, Feb. 11 — (AP). — The British-controlled newspaper Die Welt said today that East Germany's Foreign Minister, George Dertinger, is held by the Communist police under house arrest.

Dertinger's arrest, Die Welt said, followed police seizure this week of his personal office assistant, his chief of protocol, and his girl secretary as "agents for the American and British secret service."

A member of the Christian Democrat Party, Dertinger has orally supported the Communist line of the East German government to the limit. When he was absent from two sessions this week of the Volkskammer (East German Parliament), officials said he was ill from a heart attack.

Lindsay Woman Dies

LINDSAY, Feb. 11—(CP)—Phoebe Balfour, injured a few days ago when struck by a falling sign post, died in hospital Friday. A truck skidded on an icy stretch of pavement and knocked down a railway sign post which struck Mrs. Balfour. She is survived by a son.

Want To Know A-Secrets Sold

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Security-minded United States congressmen looked to Britain today for more information on the American activities of Klaus Fuchs.

Particularly they want to know what information the high-ranking German-born nuclear physicist is accused of giving to Russian agents, and who those agents were. As a member of a wartime British atomic team, Fuchs worked in U.S. atomic energy laboratories at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Los Alamos, N.M.

Prosecution witnesses told a London court Friday that the 38 year-old scientist had confessed to being a paid Russian spy. Fuchs was bound over for trial at court sessions beginning Feb. 28.

In his confession, the court was told, Fuchs said that he gave information to Soviet agents twice during the 1943-46 period he was in the United States.

Chairman Brien McMahon (Dem.-Conn.) told a press conference Friday that the Senate-House Representatives Atomic Energy Committee is interested in knowing exactly what Fuchs "stole and gave away."

Keeps 30 Children In 4 Rooms, Fined

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — For keeping 30 children in a four-room bungalow unregistered under the Maternity Boarding Act, Mrs. Jean Callaghan of North York was fined $25, and costs, or 10 days by Magistrate Martin in County Court Thursday.

George Charlton, sanitary inspector, said he found the woman was boarding the majority of the children, several under three years old, when he visited her home November 24. Previously, she had been convicted in Juvenile Court on a charge of ill-treating the children.

Col. Da Costa Dies

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 — (CP) — Colonel Charles Alexander Da Costa, 44, who once saved Viscount Louis Mountbatten's life in a bullet-riddled plane over the Indian Ocean, died Thursday following a heart seizure aboard a yacht off the coast of Florida, according to word reaching here.

Three Armed Men Take $600 From Safe

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 11—(CP)—Three men, armed with two .22 calibre sawed-off rifles, walked into Industrial Loan and Finance Corporation at nine a.m. today, held up the lone clerk on duty, and stole $600 from the office safe.

A few minutes later, police arrested two men at Clarence and Horton streets, and were chasing a third reported to be travelling north on Wellington St.

A customer was reported to have entered the office during the hold-up.

One Look At Arctic Duds Puts Reporters In Dither

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 11 — (CP)—The north has thrown its first anomalies and psychological intimidations at the press party heading for Exercise Sweetbriar, and it happened many miles south of the mythical battleground.

They lay in wait for the reporters as they landed here in an RCAF plane for an overnight stop on their flight from Ottawa to Whitehorse, Y.T., base of the 10-day joint Canadian-American sub-Arctic manoeuvre.

In the north, a briefing officer told them and the high-ranking observers from defence headquarters travelling with them the first meteorological menace to guard against is not cold but heat—over-heating the body.

In the north, too, the officers said, one wears his pyjamas all day and takes them off at night, they make excellent undergarments. Their looseness allows a play of air around the body.

In the north, one sleeps naked in a sleeping bag and doesn't put his head inside because his breath could lead to moistness. One wears colored sunglasses all day long.

Moistness, sweating, overheating must be avoided. It is advisable to keep uncomfortably cool. Any moist clothes should be dried out. On going inside snow should be brushed or shaken off, not rubbed off. The reason is that once dampness settles into anything it can be dangerous.

All this and more the officer told the awed and wondering neophytes.

They then were ushered into their hotel rooms for phase No. 2—the clothes and equipment for a single invader of the north.

RC Archbishop Resigns Post

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 1—(CP)—Pope Pius XII has accepted the resignation of Most Rev. Joseph Charbonneau as Archbishop of Montreal because of ill health, it was officially announced today.

A brief Vatican communique said that the 58-year-old Ontario-born prelate had tendered his resignation for "health reasons". The Pope accepted it and appointed Msgr. Charbonneau to the titular post of Archbishop of Bosphorus.

The Archbishop, now convalescing in a British Columbia nursing home, has recenly been criticized in Canada for alleged "anti-capitalistic views" in a Quebec mining dispute.

GreatestSecurityCheck Being Made In Britain

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The arrest of atomic scientist Klaus Fuchs was reported today to have intensified one of the greatest counter-espionage and security checkups in Britain's history.

Britain's famed security services, Scotland Yard and military intelligence's MI-5 branch, were silent as always about the check-up under way, but informed sources said agents were investigating the past of everyone connected with atomic research in Britain.

The inquiries covered not only the highest ranking scientists, but even menial workers such as scrubwomen at Harwell, the country's atomic research centre 50 miles west of London.

U.S. Demands Nationalists Halt Bombing

17 Foreign Colonies In Shanghai Add Plea To Chiang

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Feb. 11—(CP)—The U.S. Government and leaders of the foreign colonies of 17 non-Communist countries in Shanghai Friday protested Chinese Nationalist air bombings of the world's fourth largest city.

The Canadian Residents' Association was reported among the Shanghai foreign communities appealing to the United Nations to halt the bombings. The appeal said hundreds of lives were lost in a raid last Monday.

The United States protested to Chiang Kai-shek's government on Formosa. The Shanghai foreign colony leaders made their protest and appeal in a cable sent here through the UN information office in Shanghai.

No Russians were listed among the heads of alien civic and religious organizations joining in the appeal to the UN.

The State Department announced in Washington it had dispatched to the China Nationalists a demand for cessation of bomb attacks on American-owned installations in Shanghai and for assurances that no more would take place.

Circulate Plea

Shanghai foreign colony leaders sent their plea to Secretary-General Trygve Lie, begging the UN to stop raids and avert a calamity.

The UN will circulate the plea to the 59 members as a non-governmental document. It will do nothing more about the appeal unless a member country wants to press the issue here.

These developments came as Lie told his weekly press conference that persistent negotiation and conciliation in the UN was the best way to prevent a third world war.

Lie said efforts to break the stalemate in the UN over the China case so far had been fruitless. He said he would keep trying.

Northern Fair Aid Suggested

TORONTO, Feb. 11. (CP)—Indications of additional government aid for agricultural fairs in Northern Ontario were given Friday by Ontario Agricultural Minister Kennedy.

Addressing closing sessions of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies, he mentioned the special grants of up to $100 which go to northern fair boards and added he felt "something more could be done for our fairs in the north, where pioneers are facing conditions similar to those our grandfathers faced in older sections of the province."

The convention cheered his remarks and delegates said that even small grants might mean the difference between success and failure in the north, where gate receipts are slender.

The agriculture minister also stressed the importance of youth at fall fairs, and said that fair buildings frequently could be used for junior farm work during the remainder of the year. He mentioned the fact that a trio of young Ontario farmers would be selected this summer for a trip to Scotland to judge beef cattle in the highlands, and later would attend the Royal Agricultural Fair in England.

The smaller Class C fairs are worthy of additional consideration, said the agriculture minister, since they are closer to the people of the community than the larger shows. He instanced Peel county which shipped cattle to 18 other countries during the last year and told how the reputation of Ontario cattle is spreading throughout the world.

9 Die In Slides

ANNECY, France, Feb. 11 (AP)—Nine persons were reported killed in two Alpine snowslides Friday. Eight persons were believed to have lost their lives in a roaring slide on the side of Mont Des Baumettes near the Tignes Dam in Savoy. The snow crushed the homes of power plant workers.

Wholesale Prices Up

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Britain's wholesale prices climbed 1.5 per cent in January and now are 6.5 per cent higher than last July, the Board of Trade reported today. There has been a steady increase since devaluation of the pound Sept. 18. Compared with 1938, the price index shows an average increase of 141.1 per cent.

Last Rites Are Held For Mrs. Archie Nichol

ROSENEATH, Feb. 11.—(ENS).—The funeral service for the late Mrs. Archie Nichol, nee Gladys McCullough, a former teacher at Roseneath school, was held at McFayden's funeral home, Cobourg, on Friday afternoon.

Her death occurred on Tuesday at her late residence near Centreton, after a lingering illness, borne with great patience and Christian fortitude. She was fifty-nine years of age.

Her husband predeceased her two weeks ago. Mrs. Nichol is survived by two daughters, Marion, a teacher at the School for the Deaf in Belleville; Enid., Mrs. Ray Webber, Kirkland Lake; and one son, Neil, of Calgary.

CBC Board Hears Hot Debate On Radio Bingo

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP)—The fate of bingo broadcasting in Canada Friday night rested in the hands of CBC's board of governors after they had heard a hectic two-hour debate for and against the game.

No indication was given as to when a ruling will be announced. But chairman A. D. Dunton made it clear that the board was not concerned about the legality of bingo in reaching a decision.

The question of whether the game should be banned arose from complaints received by CBC, which controls radio in Canada, from church groups and the Motion Picture Theatres Association of Ontario.

Clergymen, representing all denominations of the Protestant church, exchanged barbs with representatives of service clubs who operate radio bingos as the argument grew hot at times during a public session of the board.

Dr. W. W. Judd, secretary-general of the Church of England in Canada, classified bingo as a gambling game and that as such it became "a menace to the moral-fibre of all Canadians." The church was opposed to the game even to raise funds for charitable purposes.

Hits Theatres

J. Singer, who presented the film-theatre group's nine-page submission, said that radio bingos caused a 50-per-cent reduction in attendance at theatres in several Western Ontario centres. It should be banned since it provided unfair competition because the game was illegal.

A. S. Mitchell of Guelph, spokesman for Lions clubs who run radio bingos at Guelph Brantford, Kitchener, Ingersoll and Oshawa, termed the game harmless and said that all profits derived from the game were turned over to charity.

Dean Adrien Pouliot of Laval University, CBC governor, said he felt the principle involved was if bingo "is illegal are we justified in encouraging people to gamble by allowing the game to be played on private stations even to provide funds for charitable works?"

Mr. Mitchell's views were supported by F. Baxter Ricard of Sudbury, who presented briefs from the Kiwanis Club and radio station CHNO here.

Joseph Sedgwick, counsel for the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said his association's position on the question was that until radio bingo was ruled illegal, it was a matter to be settled by the individual radio stations.

As for the film-theatre brief he suggested it should be dismissed with the "contempt which it deserves."

equally good results in providing security during the period of the cold war.

The prime minister received his longest round of applause when he said:

"I believe firmly that the smallest risk we can take is to remain united and to remain strong, so long as there is any likelihood of aggression."

The West could win any new war but "I don't think we need to if we are willing to pay the price for peace."

The only real hope lay in the prevention of war. At present there was "a far more resolute determination" in the Western world to look on prevention of war with urgent and constant concern.

Staying power in war depended in the final analysis on maintaining a healthy, progressive and dynamic society.

Effective Method

"Restoration of genuine economic security to the European partners in the North Atlantic alliance is one of the most effective means of achieving military security and ultimately of reducing the burden of providing that security."

By accepting imports from other continents could not America hope to reduce the real cost to itself of North America's contribution to western security.

Canada has a special interest in freer multilateral trade because of her own dollar shortage and "that seems to me to mean freer entry to this country both for European exports and for our own."

Kennan, speaking after the prime minister, said the United States is aware of the significance of the fact the U.S. has been exporting more than she imports.

"I can assure you that this problem now is being given more earnest and detailed attention at this moment in our government than ever before."

Jailed For 50 Years

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 — (AP) — Arthur Marino, 29-year-old music teacher, was sentenced to 50 years in prison Friday night after a jury convicted him of the Lovers' Lane slaying of his pretty 17-year-old fiancee last June 23.

Took 1 Minute To Cut Bars At Plant Fire

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP)—Conditions similar to those in a basement where nine persons were fatally burned Jan. 29 exist throughout Toronto, a coroner's jury was told Friday night.

The jury, under Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson, is conducting an inquiry into the deaths of Phillips Garment Company employees.

Barred windows, behind which the victims were trapped, and interior partitions such as were built in the Phillips basement factory, are permissible under the building by-laws, K. S. Gillies, building commissioner, testified.

E. H. Gilbert, chief inspector of the provincial Department of Labor, said such conditions were widespread in Toronto. He said windows, barred or otherwise, or hinged, are not considered satisfactory means of exit. The basement factory, subdivided as it was by plywood partitions, was wholly satisfactory inasmuch as it provided two enclosed stairways at opposite ends of the building.

Should Be Open

"At the most it was 31 feet from any part of the factory to the exit," he said, but added that locking and barring of the rear exit during plant working hours constituted a violation of the labor department regulations.

William Brown, a fireman, had testified earlier that the rear door was bolted shut and could not be forced from the outside.

Another fireman, Cecil Brown, said that less than three minutes after the alarm was received, he had removed the bars from one window. Mr. Brown said it took two minutes to arrive at the scene of the fire, and less than a minute to get the acetylene torch working.

Within another 20 seconds, he said, he had cut through bars of a window on the west side of the building. Asked whether use of a tow chain to pull the bars off would have been faster, he said it would have been much slower.

The inquest was adjourned to Monday.

Seek To Ban Canadian Spuds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11. (CP)—Congressional sources reported Friday night a growing demand for a ban against imports of Canadian potatoes.

Senator Owen Brewster, Republican from potato-producing Maine, said he and several other congressmen are pressing the US government to invoke a temporary prohibition against the Canadian spuds.

The Canadian spuds have hit the limelight following their appearance on retail markets in Washington, New Orleans and Indiana at a time when the US Government is destroying 50,000,000 bushels of American-grown stock being held as a potato price-support measure.

Wholesalers report they are able to obtain Canadian potatoes more cheaply than the American variety. After payment of duty and other charges, the Canadian potatoes still can be retailed at 10 to 15 cents less for 100-pound sacks.

Hit At Government

Congressmen have charged that this undermines the US price-support program, but their criticism is directed more at the US Government and its policies than at Canada.

Sen. Brewster said the ban he and his colleagues are seeking would be similar to one invoked in 1948 when Canada herself limited potato exports temporarily at the request of the US Government.

One wholesaler told reporters today he had brought in 20 carloads of Canadian potatoes in the last two weeks. Each car holds 50,000 pounds, about 850 bushels.

Another said some of the imported stock had been sold to restaurants frequented by congressmen, who already have protested the shipments on the ground they undermine the price-support program.

Scorching Pace Tourists Bane In Modern Rome

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

ROME, Feb. 7 — (CP). — War never was as dangerous as today's battle to stay alive in Rome.

The question of earning one's living aside, it is the physical hazard that keeps the visitor on the "qui vive"—especially if he tries to follow the dictum: "When in Rome....."

No wartime ride at the hands of the most incautious of army drivers can compare with one today behind a Rome taxi driver. One foot on the accelerator and a hand constantly on the horn, his mission seems to be to whirl his passenger along the straightest line from A to B without deviation for pedestrian traffic.

Pedestrians develop a sixth sense, after even the shortest time in the capital, for imminent traffic peril. And Holy Year pilgrims lost in silent meditation have learned to jump with the best

Though Rome has added spacious trolley-buses to her street-car transport system, the struggle to enter and then to get out is waged as furiously as ever. Passengers still bulge at the doors.

One week in Rome saw this reporter's coat lose three buttons in the civil war within street-cars and two pairs of shoes ruined by scuffling.

For all its historic culture, politeness and courtesy are at a premium in Italy.

Luxuries For Wealthy

Rome's store windows glisten with luxury articles, priced beyond the reach of the masses, who shop mainly in the open-air markets. There they may "contract" everything from potatoes to bed sheets. To "contract" in Italy means to bargain, and it's an inexperienced hand who pays the dealer his opening price.

Private enterprise is building large blocks of luxury apartments in Rome's exclusive areas, but the slums remain largely as they were. Nonetheless, 300 new bars were licensed in 1949, and the city's thousands of cafes and bars glisten in chrome. Night life abounds.

"Siesta" has moved back into observance. Government offices don't open until 10 a.m. and close at noon for lunch. No one returns before 4:30, to stay until an indefinite hour between 8 and 9. Stores close from 12 until 3:30, and stay open then until 7.

The first customer entering a Rome shops in the mornings gets his purchase free. Even if he does not buy anything he has to carry something away "for luck" both for the proprietor and himself. Efforts to be first into a liquor shop selling a popular Canadian rye whisky at 3,500 lire ($6.20) a bottle failed on three successive mornings.

Tattered and much patched, Allied Military Government lire notes still circulate—referred to ironically by the citizenry as "occupation money." Hardly better are the Italian notes, which at 1,710 to the pound call for stationery clips to hold them together.

Infuriatingly slow by North American standards are Italian telephones, especially on long-distance calls. Given a call to a point 150 miles distant on a trunk line and asked "Will it take long" the operator replies: "No, only an hour or so."

Three attempts one afternoon to raise Ortona by telephone from Rome—another 150-mile circuit—produced late that evening the information that "the Ortona switchboard closed at 8 p.m."

DVA Official Shot Twice By War Veteran

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 11 (CP)—The Port Arthur office of the Department of Veterans' Affairs was thrown into an uproar Friday in a shooting affray that resulted in the serious injury of DVA's district representative and the arrest of a First World War veteran.

Charles Moss, 55, the DVA officer, was shot twice in the back. Hospital attendants said that he has "every chance of recovery" from the two wounds, inflicted by bullets from a revolver. Meanwhile, Adrien Gagnon, 65, was taken into custody and police said he would be charged with attempted murder.

One of the several shots missed Moss and pierced a glass partition, coming within a foot of the head of Leslie G. Bennett, welfare officer with DVA. Several other employees were involved in the incident, including one unnamed employee who scooped up the revolver when it was dropped to the floor.

Subdues Gagnon

Hugh Everson, 30, of the DVA staff, was another who had a part in the affair. He subdued Gagnon who was held until police arrived.

P. R. Hurley, Fort William rehabilitation officer, who occupied the office with Moss, said that he heard Moss talking with a man but did not pay too much attention since he was busy. He told police he heard Moss remark "If you are going to take that attitude I'll just not talk with you."

Moss then started to walk towards the door of his office and it was then that he was shot.

Building of Warsaw Rink Truly Community Effort

By NICK NICKELS

A modern covered rink has been the dream of the village of Warsaw for the past nine months. Tonight it will be a reality when the people of the village, population 200, and 400 district Dummer residents watch the Marmora team of the Trent Valley League and Peterborough's Canadian Legion face off for a rousing game of hockey.

The building of the rink is truly a community effort with not a little of the past pioneer spirit thrown in. Early last May it was decided that the structure should be built and a committee was chosen to further the plans. There was little ready money for an expensive building and its men and women saw that the only solution to having a rink was to roll up their sleeves and get to work.

Through June, July and August, plans, costs and other structures were examined and by October digging for the footings of the building, 80 by 192 feet, was completed. Cement work was started in November when Raymond Armstrong contributed his mixer, the gravel was given by Herbert Edwards and free hauling was supplied by Sherwood Payne, Don Sharpe, Alfred Little and A. L. Payne. The contractor throughout was Roland Payne.

Cut The Timber

The rink building committee had contracted with a lumber firm in Apsley who were only able to deliver short timber and posts, and it appeared that construction would be held up indefinitely. However, Alfred Little, his six sons and son-in-law George Cooper, agreed to find standing timber locally. From the farms of Mel Edwards, Ernie Bolton, Lloyd Payne, Bert Hendren, Ted Rose and Henry Dewart they started to cut 26-foot four by 12 timbers and were able to supply enough to keep the carpenters going from Dec. 6 until the framework was finished. It was sheeted in by the first week in January and the interior completed two weeks ago.

It is an imposing structure. The ice surface, 70 by 172 feet, is faced on two sides with rows of seats and others in the balcony on the north end. Built into the end under the balcony is a ticket booth, snack bar, men's and ladies' waiting rooms and two players' dressing rooms. The building is equipped with a portable public address system, an electric time clock presented by Ken Jakins and a score board by Wes Graham, both from Lakefield.

Ladies Also Helped

These sort of projects are not completed without considerable cost and determination. The ladies of the village had as much to do with its complete success as any of the men who worked on it. They conducted several bingo games and raised considerable funds by so doing. Prizes were donated by manufacturing firms and merchants in Peterborough and other centres.

The first money-raiser planned was a street dance in September. After hiring a name band from Toronto, rain came down in torrents to stop the fun. Undaunted, they packed everyone into the community hall and it is believed they netted $500 during the evening.

A hard - working canvassing committee, out after cash contributions and pledges, worked constanly and they were able to collect $8,000 from villagers and $2,000 more from others in the surrounding community. They have pegged their total cost around $20,000 and are waiting for a provincial Department of Agriculture grant for 25 per cent of this total. A final audit of figures shows that only approximately $2,000 is outstanding.

So many people have worked hard and faithfully on the rink it is impossible to list them all. Besides those already mentioned it was requested that special attention be drawn to the outstanding work of Roger, Max and Russell Tedford, carpenters, and Gordon and Edward Hamblin, electricians.

A special bus leaves Peterborough tonight at 7.45 p.m. from the bus terminal to Warsaw. The game is scheduled to start at 9 p.m. Dedication ceremonies before the game will be performed by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, of Warsaw Presbyterian Church. Guest speakers will be the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., George White, M.P. Hastings-Peterborough, Alex Elliott, K.C., and agricultural representative Frank Paterson. "Dit" Clapper will referee the game.

Witness Says Life Threatened

DETROIT, Feb. 11 (AP)—Mrs Dorothy Collins of Toronto, key state witness in the Walter Reuther shooting case, was given protective custody by police Friday after she reported her life had been threatened.

Mrs. Collins, 34, said the threat was made Friday morning as she walked to the municipal court building.

The woman had been called for further questioning in the trial of Carl Bolton, charged in the shooting and wounding of the CIO United Steel Workers president April 20, 1948.

The witness said three men accosted her. Two of them, she said, put their hands in their coat pockets menacingly and warned her, "if you say anything more in the Bolton case we'll run you out."

Mrs. Collins is the common law wife of John Kaliszewski, a convict, who testified that Bolton offered him $15,000 to do away with Reuther three days before the shooting. He said he turned it down as inadequate.

Many Government Men At Church Funeral

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP) — Funeral services for Thomas Langton Church, seven times mayor of Toronto and veteran Conservative member of the House of Commons for Toronto Broadview constituency, were held Friday from St. James Cathedral. Interment was in St. James cemetery.

Civic, provincial and federal government officials, business leaders and high-ranking sportsmen attended the funeral, officiated at by high dignitaries of the Church of England in Canada. Mr. Church died Tuesday, aged 77.

Charges Government Gets Out From Under

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 11 (CP) — Clayton Frey of Sarnia said Friday the federal government cannot hand back a "wet baby" to the Canadian farmers when conditions get tough, and tell them to do their own marketing after having all the fun of marketing products when it was easy.

Mr. Frey, zone director for the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, was speaking to the Elgin Hog Producers. He said the federal government had insisted on doing the marketing when there were plenty of outlets; now they wanted to get out from under.

James F. Oldham of Lawrence Station was re-elected president of the Elgin association.

Says Up To State To Fight Racial Ban

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP)—The state has a duty to see that persons are taught the right way in the fight against racial discrimination, William J. Carter, Negro leader from Dresden, Ont., said Friday night.

Mr. Carter was chief speaker at a special meeting on race relations held at Holy Blossom Temple, at which Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg said "education is vital, but not enough."

Dresden, a Kent county community 10 miles north of Chatham, at recent elections voted down a by-law which would have required restaurant proprietors to serve all patrons regardless of class, creed or color.

Deny Using U.N.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 11 (CP)—Russia charged—and the United Nations denied—Friday that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is using certain UN officials as sources of information.

May Cut Trees To Build Arena

MILLBROOK, Feb. 11. (ENS)—Cavan Council granted permission Wednesday for the Arena Committee to cut trees on townships roads if it is decided to build an arena. This decision was made after council had heard a delegation consisting of H. Kennedy, H. Hutchison and Edwin Hutchison.

E. Marston, district engineer, said the Department had more pool equipment this year at nominal rental for work on roads. It was decided to ask the Department for assistance in draining the east end of the 13th concession, to relieve flooding of the 13th line, which is sometimes closed to traffic. Copies of the resolution are being sent to the district engineer and John Foote, MPP.

Glendon Challice addressed the council concerning a culvert for his driveway and the matter was left with the road superintendent.

Council decided to advertise for tenders for crushing and delivering on township roads 4,000 more cubic yards of crushed gravel to specifications of the road engineer.

A request from Millbrook council for extensive repairs to the exterior of the Town Hall was referred to the Town Hall committee.

Business Increases

WATERLOO, Feb. 11—(CP)—Annual report of the Dominion Life Assurance Company here showed an increase in business in force and new business. The former increased from $371,282,341 to $404,496,481, while new business was up from $58,951,108 in 1949 to $60,419,550 last year.

10 Counties Planning Expand Homes For Old

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP)—Ten counties and districts in Ontario have indicated to the government they are considering an expansion program in the homes for the aged. It is expected the cost would be about $5,000,000.

In some instances, additions are planned to present institutions and in others new buildings would be erected.

Tentative plans call for new accommodation to be built at Sault Ste. Marie, Markdale in Grey county; Halton county, possibly at Milton; Belleville, Whitby, Ontario county; Stratford; Fort Frances in the Rainy River district; Kenora; Sudbury and in the united counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Niagara Falls Wires Underground

We have several times suggested in these columns that underground wiring should be considered a possibility in our new housing areas. Unsightly overhead wires exposed to wind and sleet, and worse, to the eye, are out of date. We have no doubt at all that by the end of this century overhead wiring will have disappeared completely. Already in Peterborough's main streets the telephone company has underground conduits for its wires. The Utilities Commission seems to be lagging behind in this matter. Peterborough is generally cautious in its attitude to innovations. It prefers to let other places make the initial mistakes.

* * *

We think, however, that the purely experimental time has passed. Cities in the U.S.A., and Europe have long ridded themselves of the poles. London, Ontario, installed underground wiring in a new residential area in 1947. And Ontario's Niagara Falls began putting new wiring underground in 1948. It is continuing the work most successfully.

* * *

Niagara Falls' first underground service was connected in August, 1948. By November, four months after the first installation, 26 homes were being served in this way. Work was resumed last spring and by the end of the year a hundred new houses in a new subdivision were getting their electricity from underground wires. Another dozen homes will be connected this year.

* * *

The Niagara Falls Hydro Commission has not gone into this project blindly. Careful surveys of ground situations and newest methods were made—as could be made here. What seems to have been the chief force in this new venture was the enthusiasm of the Commission's manager, J. A. Williamson. He believed in its being not only possible but practical. The manager of the Commission had not promised that the underground wiring would be cheaper than overhead. He did believe that it would not be much more expensive, and that it would be better. It was estimated that the cost would be $18,500, or 20 to 25 per cent. above the overhead network costs. When the final bills come in this spring, the cost will be less than four per cent. above the estimate.

* * *

The Niagara Falls Commission believes that these costs could be considerably reduced if the work had been more extensive, for the same equipment could be used, and mechanical diggers would be a money-saving investment in a larger project. Mr. Williamson believes that in a big project underground wiring could be installed for very little, if any, more money than overhead wiring.

* * *

The system being used at Niagara Falls is to place the primary wiring in two-inch ducts just under the road side of the sidewalk. A new kind of plastic insulated secondary wiring is put just under the inner, or home-side of the walk. The sidewalks acts as protective covering. To make connections with houses the secondary wiring is run under the edges of sidewalks leading from the main street to the front doors. Wiring for street lighting is placed with the secondary service wires.

* * *

There are many details of the Niagara Falls plan which cannot be related here. The system, and also the earlier London underground wiring plan, should, we think, interest our Utilities Commission. It is regrettable that the bulk of our new post-war houses, and the new subdivisions in Peterborough are already completed; overhead wiring is already installed. However, there may be other new streets on which a trial could be made.

* * *

Underground wiring in Ontario has not yet been proven better in all ways than the overground. That proof will have to wait forty or fifty years of service. Nevertheless, the indications are that underground wiring is serviceable, workable, and not too costly. Is Peterborough going to wait until the year 2,000 before giving underground wiring a test?

Opera In Canada Makes Giant Strides

For the past week, and on Friday and Saturday of last week, the Royal Conservatory Opera School has been filling the Royal Alexandra Theatre in Toronto with performances of La Boheme, Rigoletto and Don Giovanni. These performances have been given full-scale productions, with new costumes and scenery designed by Canadian artists, a large and excellent orchestra of Canadian musicians, and a large company of singers, all of whom are Canadians and a majority of whom were born in this country. This is a remarkable achievement, not only in itself but in the promise which it holds for the future.

We have seen the Toronto productions of La Boheme and Don Giovanni. Both works make heavy demands on an opera company. The former is an opera which requires great intensity of dramatic feeling and a strong romantic fervour if it is to make its full effect; the Opera School met both of these demands more than adequately. It was never necessary to make allowances for the youth of the singers; indeed, their youth was an asset to them in this story of student life and romantic love. The weeds of Don Giovanni are greater; it is one of the most difficult of all operas to perform, for it makes great demands on the singers and although Mozart himself labelled it a comic opera it is a comedy in the sense that, for instance, Shakespeare's Tempest is a comedy; a deeply comic sense of life, rather than an easy jocosity, is required for its performance. It cannot truthfully be said that the Opera School performed it satisfactorily, but they made a very good try. In the main the opera was well sung, and at least one of the actors, Andrew Macmillan, showed an appreciation of the philosophic depth which lies beneath the surface of the work; in ten years these singers will be able to do Don Giovanni very much better.

Therein lies one of the disturbing things about opera. All the characters in Don Giovanni, with the exception of the murdered Commendatore, are young people; but young people have not the intensity of dramatic feeling, or the understanding of comedy, to bring it fully to life on the stage. An actor like Ezio Pinza who, at fifty, has the appearance of youth to play the part of the insatiable and philandering Don Juan and the experience to be able to show his audience what libertinism is like when it becomes a philosophic attitude, is a great rarity. And so we hear Don Giovanni sung best, as a usual thing, by actors who are a little too old and much too fat to be convincing to the eye. The Opera School singers had the youth, but not the artistic weight, for this astonishingly rich and difficult work. Nevertheless, they tackled it gamely, and gave a performance of which there was never any need to be ashamed, and which was, in places, remarkably successful.

If the Opera School continues to grow at its present rate, it will not be long before it is able to give an opera season of three weeks or a month in Toronto every winter. And it will not be an amateur season, kept going by goodwill and the indulgence of the public, but a season comparable in quality to that enjoyed by several South American countries. But we should not like to see such a development in Toronto only.

We have suggested several times in these columns that the admirable performances given by the Royal Conservatory Opera School ought to be seen in Ontario provincial cities, such as Peterborough. The obstacles are many and they are known to everyone. We have no adequate theatre; the P.C.V.S. auditorium is the best we have to offer, and unless the price of seats is fairly heavy it does not hold enough people to pay the expenses of an opera production, which are heavy. Nevertheless, we shall never have anything of this sort in cities of this size unless we disregard difficulties, and determine to make the best of what lies within our range. The prospect of having even one opera a season presented here by Canadian artists, in a manner not inferior to that which we might expect from a good English or American company, is an attractive one, and it may not be too long before it is within our grasp.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A naturalist says that if a shark cannot smell you he will not try to eat you. When you fall overboard, don't forget to take a clothespin in case of sharks.

It was wise of U.S. War Secretary Johnson to put off saying that his country would "lick hell" out of Joe Stalin until the Mighty Mo had been pushed off that sandbar.

A geophysicist says that mountains have roots. When your faith moves one, therefore, be sure to wrap the roots in a damp sack while digging the hole for its new location.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.

How, Marchbanks

This one hell country, Marchbanks. Look at weather. Every fall people say to me how about winter. And I say long winter or short winter if bears go to sleep or sit up till maybe Christmas. This year my best bear that I trust nearly twenty year go to sleep awful early. He sound asleep right after hunting season. So I say to everybody long hard winter cause bear asleep. But no hard winter come. So I go to bear nest and look inside. Bear sound asleep. What hell, I think. Then I see bottle in bear paw. Grab bottle. It say sleeping pills on outside, Marchbanks. Bear steal bottle from some big city hunter, busy fellow can't sleep without pills. Bear eat every pill. Bear sleep like dead. I wish big city hunter stay out of woods. They ruin woods and weather forecast business for good Indian.

How again,

To Miss Nancy Frisgig

Charming Nancy:

Last night a friend of mine showed me a book which he has, illustrative of photography during the nineteenth century. It was a wonderful book, and a revelation to me, because it contained photographs of virtually every celebrated beauty of that era. And how plain they were! Empress Eugenie, for instance, looked as though she needed a good dose of liver salts, and the glamorous Lola Montez looked like the back of a hack. The Princess Alexandra was by no means what tradition avouches, and indeed the only one of the lot who really lived up to expectation was the ill-fated Empress of Mexico. Is the beauty of women, then, an illusion which cannot safely be transferred from one era to another? Would Cleopatra, if we could see her today, be merely a scruffy gypsy, and Helen of Troy a greasy girl with a garlic breath? I shrink from such conclusions, but as a philosopher I must face them.

One of the most interesting photographs in the book to me was that of Rigolboche, the dancer who made the can-can famous. Nobody thought Rigolboche beautiful, or even wholesome-looking, but she waggled a wicked shank and was full of high spirits, and Paris loved her. And when she retired wise little Rigolboche bought a high class boarding-house with her savings, and was the perfect landlady until she died at a great old age.

For years thoughts of Rigolboche have made me look at my landladies with a speculative eye. Could they, I pondered, once have been glamorous courtesans and can-can dancers? Did noblemen drink champagne from their slippers in the days before they abandoned slippers in favour of lark-heeled house shoes with scuffed toes? I have come to the conclusion that boarding-house landladies of the Rigolboche type are uncommon in Canada. Most of them are profoundly melancholy women, and if they were ever in the public eye it was certainly as hired weepers at undertaking parlours.

Yours regretfully,
SAM.

To Chandos Fribble, Esq.

Dear Fribble:

I do not get to the movies as often as I could wish, but I saw one a few days ago which you really must study before you write your book on The Screen Epic. This particular Epic was called "'Prince of Foxes" and it was presented to the audience as a wonderful evocation of the spirit of the Renaissance. It contained fine examples of three of the elements which are inseparable from celluloid epics. (1) The Virgin Heroine: in this piece she was married to an old man, and in a very pointed speech he made it clear that he had brought her up strictly as his daughter; this meant that when she was at last free to marry Tyrone Power she was, so to speak, leaping from the refrigerator into the frying-pan, which is what audiences expect. (2) The Good Villain: movie audiences like a villain to have large streaks of good in him, like the streaks of fat in a slab of restaurant ham; this gives them a comfortable feeling that although villainy is obviously fun, it is also All Right. (3) The Speech on Democracy: in film epics there must always be a moment when some minor character bawls out all the aristocrats in the cast, telling them that some day The Peepul will rise up and smite them; this is to show that all the good people in the film are Americans at heart, although they are dressed up like sixteenth century Italians; the dramatic climaxes are often complicated by the fact that the demeanour and speech of the actors makes it impossible to tell who is an aristocrat and who is Little Joe. It is doubtful if the cause of democracy is served by these tirades, but audiences like them.

At the film I sat in front of a young man who was suffering from Teen-Ager's St. Vitus Dance, which caused him to kick the back of my seat so often and so rapidly that my head wobbled like a punching bag, and whenever Tyrone Power did anything of a spectacular nature he uttered cries like a horse in a burning stable. In spite of these annoyances I studied the piece intently. It is the first film I have seen this year, and I pray that it does not mark a trend.

Yours to command,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Gomeril Marchbanks, Esq.

Dear Uncle Gomeril:

Have you ever thought of going into the pawnbroking business? I was in Toronto a while ago, and spent a happy hour gazing into the windows of the popshops on Queen Street, near the City Hall. People go to them, I believe, just before paying their taxes.

The attractions of the business are many. First of all, you have a cosy little shop, very informal in character. Then you have a wonderfully assorted type of merchandise, with a bias in favour of old watches, rusty precision tools, musical instruments of the twangling and tootling varieties, telescopes, binoculars and military decorations. It is the telescopes which ravish my soul; why anybody uses a telescope in these days of improved optical science I do not know, but obviously lots of people do. I am fascinated by telescopes, even though I have never been able to see anything through one but a lot of swimmy white stuff, like library paste in a mist. Just think of sitting in one's shop all day, peeping through the telescopes, trying on the lodge rings, blowing the bugles, and listening to the cuckoo-clocks! And from time to time, helping some poor needy soul with a generous loan of $2 on a bass clarinet which cost him $85 in 1917, and which you can sell for $45 any time to J. C. Petrillo! Oh, how delicious to be a pawnbroker, and be an Uncle to all the world!

Your affct. nephew,
SAM.

Letters To The Editor

DOG-CATCHER CRITICISED

Sir: I was very interested in your recounting of Insp. Gerald Dunford's recent report to the Humane Society.

Such maltreatment of our pets should certainly be stopped. But in correcting such faulty behaviour, it is often wise to look for the reasons for them. To eliminate the pain, the doctor looks for the cause.

While I am heartily in accord with the efforts of the above mentioned society may I suggest that the lack of action on the part of our local dog-catcher contributes, in my opinion, more toward the abuse of our pets than any other factor involved. Please note that I say "in my opinion". To those whose opinions differ may I suggest that when next you have reason to complain that howling and barking dogs keep invalids awake at night, phone the local dog-catcher and see for yourself how promptly his phone is answered and how promptly you get the corrective action to which we, as working citizens, are entitled.

This note is written without prejudice and in the interests of protecting our pets from the inhuman treatment mentioned in Mr. Dunford's report.

A SOUTH-ENDER.

MEANS TO CONTINUE WORKING

Sir: In the past weeks we have had many a letter on married women working. Have the people ever stopped to think "Who's business is it" or are they trying to take Hitler's place in telling us what to do? I am a married working woman for seven years and never have yet stood in any single girls' place because they either get married and are too lazy to work even for a few years to get on their feet but prefer to live in poverty or else they stay out of work so often when their big toe aches that they could not be given a responsible job. I feel from the bottom of my heart that the real trouble with people who object to us working is that they are jealous because they are too lazy to do it themselves.

I have been working in different places and cities and the only ones that have ever stood in my way are "Old Maids", yet what can we do about it? And what, I say, are you going to do about us married women who are working?

I cannot have children and because I like to work I intend to continue doing so.

WORKING MARRIED WOMAN.

SYMPATHIZES WITH SUFFERING HUSBANDS

Sir: Having attempted to assimilate "Neurotic Wife's" lengthy epistle and having found it to be poor fare and rather indigestible, I write these few lines to offer her husband my sincerest sympathies.

I can imagine her discoursing at length (as witness her long winded letter which could have been condensed into one paragraph, or better still, should never have been written at all) to a long suffering husband, on some subject such as housekeeping, child welfare, domestic economy, etc., of which she obviously knows nothing and cares less.

I propose therefore that if there are a few husbands who are unhappily saddled with neurotic wives, they should get in touch with the majority of their fellow citizens whose wives have found happiness, contentment, and outlet for all their creative operations in helping to build homes of which they are justifiably proud (and in which they are equal partners), and still have time for shows, dances, visiting etc. No doubt some of these more fortunate husbands would be willing to provide their unfortunate brothers with absolute proof that the latter had been unlucky in the choice of mates and that fortunately neurotic wives are few and far between.

To parody Shakespeare's eulogy on shrews, "A neurotic wife in the bush is worth two in the house".

Yours etc.,
PANTYWAIST

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him: and he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying,

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. (Matt. : 1-3.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you. (Luke 17: 20, 21.)

◇ ◇ ◇

For it is written, As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God. So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God....

Let not then your good be evil spoken of: for the kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost. (Rom. 14: 11, 12, 16, 17.)

Winter Music In The Air

Listen! Can you not hear the music? On a clear frosty day of long ago when there was beauty on white hills, when dark smoke plumes waved from farm house chimneys and the hard packed snow scrunched and squeaked underfoot, when axe blows sounded from farm woodlots and children's voices carried far in the still air, there were bells that made music in the Winter.

There were long straps of bells that were fastened around the horse's body behind his shoulders. Father was partial to the Beaver Dam Body Strap Bells, 30 polished nickel-plated bells riveted on to a heavy leather strap. Some farmers preferred Neck Strap Bells with an inner lining that protected the horse's neck from the rivet ends. There were chimes that fastened to the shafts of sleighs, cutters and pungs. On Mountain View Farm the Winter vehicles were equipped with Mikado Chimes, six bells of different sizes and harmonizing tones. The best bells were made of tin and copper, and the cast bells were sweeter-toned than the stamped ones.

Work teams had single bells fastened to their collars and farm families could tell which neighbour was on the way to town by the music of the bells before a team came in sight. On a Saturday evening, when farm families along the road were going to the village to do the weekly trading, there was a symphony of bells on a frosty-clear evening. As a lad walked behind the two-horse sled loaded with logs for Johnson's sawmill, there was a steady rhythmic chant as the big mares swung their necks from side to side. Nights when young folks went on bob-sled rides to a neighbouring town, the laughter of boys and girls mingled with the music of the bells as horses trotted along the level road and on the down grade.

Now bells are for the most part antique items and Summer folks buy them to hang in their homes. But he whose ear is keen and whose memory goes back to the era when life was less complicated can still hear sweet music on Winter days.—Ottawa Journal.

But for disappointed howls of wolf hunters, the great sweep of last Saturday is finished, through, washed up. Did you ever see such a build up for any like event before? Did you ever hear such a ka-phuttt? Enough has been said and written about what took place, what should have taken place, except for one or two things that were not too-strongly stressed at the time.

First: last year's two wolf hunts were under the joint direction of the Army with Capt. Phil Sargent at its head and PFGPA. Last Saturday's affair was under the sole direction of the Peterborough fish and Game Association. The military were guests. Equipment was lent through courtesy of commanding officer Lieut.-Col. Max Clarke who assigned Sgt. B. L. Smith to go along and keep his eagle eye on the King's property.

Second: manning of the mobile wireless equipment was directed by Army-trained PCVS cadet George Fanjoy. The only walkie-talkie unit was operated by Ray Lindsay and both lads did a splendid job. They are to be commended for it.

The Eel's Brook sweep, even though it fizzled out, may have sparked a similar effort in North Bay. There undoubtedly have been previous hunts in that district. Their hunters and Anglers Association plan to hold a monster wolf hunt at the Pimisi Bay district of Trout Lake, 22 miles east of the Gateway City a week from today. Anyone interested in driving to North Bay?

Deer Dangerous To Drivers

Our hunters may have seen a lot of deer last Saturday but at least they are not as thick as in Halton County. W. S. Van Sickle of Campbellford says they are so numerous that they have become a hazard to motorists. The situation is so bad, in fact, the Halton Agricultural Council has endorsed a resolution asking the Department of Lands and Forests to compensate motorists for damage caused to cars by deer. "It's a tough situation," thinks Mr. Van Sickle, "a motorist who kills a deer on the highway has the carcass confiscated by the Government and has to pay his own repair bills, too."

When recent high water flooded out a family of muskrats at Wallace's Point they made a house between two stored canoes in Herb Cardwell's boathouse. Not content with dry sanctuary alone, they chewed a couple of ribs from the boats. Even though there is no dahlia growing or paddling at the present time, rats are keeping things hot for Herb.

There is some vitally interesting material in a press release, which I usually receive but didn't this week, from the Lindsay H.Q. of Lands and Forests. It has to do with the policy of restocking district lakes and streams with speckles, browns, pickerel and smallmouth. The gist of it will be written up when the information comes to hand. From it I learned over the phone, science will triumph over nature in supplying us with future fish.

I have not been able to find out if there was ever a pigeon racing club in Peterborough, or not, but there is a very live one in Port Hope. It has been active for 20 years, has 13 members at the present time with the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey as its honorary president. Training for racing starts when birds are nine weeks old at which time they attain speeds from 40 to 45 miles per hour. Their racing age is from eight to ten years and they die about two years following retirement. Past president L. Shealy, Canadian Racing Pigeon Union, and H. Gordon, Western Pigeon Club, Toronto, are joint holders of a record established in 1927 of a bird that flew 1864 yards in one minute.

Reports From Resorts

YWCA Camp Inglestane, former Harry Sutherland cottage on southern tip of Eagle Mount on Stony Lake, is in the process of being sold to C. G. B. (Cliff) Stuart of Toronto. He plans many alterations, all modern and including the name Royal Kawartha Lodge. Cliff is a crack pistol shot and a former writer....Glenwood Lodge on Breeze's Island, Bosckink Narrows, Stony Lake, will not be operated this year by George Jeffries....Down at Belmont Lake, Roger Young's Sylvan Motel finished its first successful season last year; the only motel-type resort in our district, it may be a future building trend for other resort operators to look into....In the Land o' Lakes, on Lake Mazinaw, another first season starter, Mazinaw Inn, was a splendid success; it is situated near the mouth of the Mississippi River, accommodates about 40.

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

The Dong

When awful darkness and silence reign
Over the Great Gromboolian plain,
Through the long, long wintry nights;—
When the angry breakers roar
As they beat on the rocky shore;—
When storm-clouds brood on the towering heights.
Of the Hills of the Chankly Bore:—

Then, through the vast and gloomy dark,
There moves what seems a fiery spark,
A lonely spark with silvery rays
Piercing the coal-black night,—
A meteor strange and bright;—
Hither and thither the vision strays,
A single lurid light.

Slowly it wanders,—pauses,—creeps,—
Anon it sparkles,—flashes and leaps;
And ever as onward it gleaming goes
A light on the Bong-tree stems it throws.
And those who watch at that midnight hour
From Hall or Terrace, or lofty Tower,
Cry, as the wild light passes along,—
"The Dong!—the Dong!
"The wandering Dong through the forest goes!
"The Dong! the Dong!
"The Dong with a luminous Nose!"

Long years ago
The Dong was happy and gay,
Till he fell in love with a Jumbly Girl
Who came to those shores one day.
For the Jumblies came in a Sieve, they did,—
Landing at eve near the Zemmery Fidd
Where the Oblong Oysters grow,
And the rocks are smooth and gray.
And all the woods and the valleys rang
With the Chorus they daily and nightly sang,—
"Far and few, far and few,
Are the lands where the Jumblies live;
Their heads are green, and their hands are blue,
And they went to sea in a Sieve."

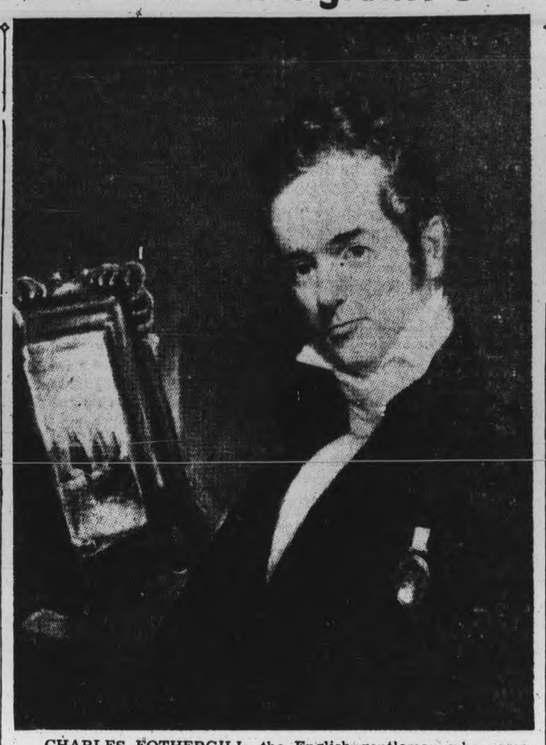
Progress of Peterborough: VI

British Napoleonic War Immigrants Settle, 1818-27

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.



CHARLES FOTHERGILL, the English gentleman who came out of Upper Canada after 1815 and settled in the Port Hope-Newcastle area, was with Adam Scott, the founder of the first Peterborough industry—its first mill. Fothergill was a speculator in land, a man of vision which eventually did not profit him financially, a legislator (he was elected to the Upper Canada house at York), a King's Printer for a time, a naturalist. Although he is intimately connected with the settlement and development of the Newcastle district of which Peterborough was once a part, there is no physical memento of him of any kind in Peterborough. Not even a street is named after him. (See this week's chapter of Progress of Peterborough.)

While, as noted in a previous article, trade and settlement along the Lake Ontario front of Durham and Northumberland counties began as early as 1790 and increased gradually, it was not until after 1815 that the district attracted much attention. The old Danforth Road from York (Toronto) east to Kingston was improved in 1816-17, and about the same time the harbours at Smith's Creek (Port Hope) and Hamilton (Cobourg) became regular calling-places for ships plying between Kingston and York. James Bethune, an early Cobourg merchant, later wrote that it was 1817-18 when settlers began coming in greater numbers, pushing northward into the wilderness around Rice Lake. The gristmills at Grafton, Cobourg and Port Hope were no doubt an inducement to settlers to settle in the neighborhood.

In 1818 the Newcastle district consisted of the present counties of Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria, with the uncharted wilderness stretching northward. Up until then all persons wishing to settle had to get location tickets for land from the Surveyor-General of Upper Canada at York, an awkward procedure. In 1819, however, District Land Boards were set up composed of influential local gentry, who were empowered to locate settlers on lots of 50 to 200 acres.

Land Grants

The Newcastle District Land Board met weekly at Cobourg and consisted of Colonel Rogers Elias Jones, Zaccheus Burnham Walter Boswell, Reverend John Macaulay, and also Charles Fothergill of Smith's Creek, with some others; most of these men will be mentioned later.

When the settler had taken the oath of allegiance and proved his genuine desire to settle, he was given a location ticket by the board for a certain lot, to which he was guided by the nearest deputy-surveyor. In the numerous cases where the original lot allocated was unsuitable for farming or deficient in size, the settler was given an additional half-lot or else moved to a better location. The minutes of this Newcastle Land Board, preserved in the Ontario Archives, are a valuable record of the earliest settlements, when correlated with the Surveyors' Reports and the Land Patent Records.

In the decade from 1818 to 1827 the following grants were made in Newcastle District, mostly by the Land Board: 1818—59 grants totalling 14,315 acres; 1819—18 grants totalling 16,555 acres; 1820 — 45 grants totalling 14,863 acres; 1821—71 grants totalling 14,771 acres 1822—91 grants totalling 18 416 acres; 1823—111 grants totalling 20,450 acres; 1824—199 grants totalling 31,381 acres; 1825—115 grants totalling 21,224 acres; 1826—110 grants totalling 22,474 acres; 1827—97 grants totalling 14,516 acres.

The district had a particularly large number of enormous land grants between 1,000 acres and 4,000 acres ,especially in earlier years, to persons who had influence with the government, as we shall see, but most grants were 50 or 100 acres to the average humble immigrants.

Settlers' Duties

In this period 1818-27, the government was strict in enforcing the settlement duties necessary before a settler could get a patent to his land. He must send a certificate signed by two local magistrates to the Surveyor-General at York, proving that he was actually settled on his lot, had a house on it measuring at least 20x18 feet, had cleared and fenced 5 acres out of each 100 acres granted, and had cut and cleared half the road allowance in front of his lot. He then had to pay patent fees which varied from £4.9s. 4d to £12 for his lot, before the land title was issued.

To most ordinary settlers, who saw little cash money at any time raising this sum was very hard and often settlers never got their land patents because they could not pay for them; there are cases in the Peterborough district where the land title was not issued for 30 to 40 years after original settlement. In 1826-27 Land Boards were abolished and the granting of lands gradually changed for a system of land sales. From then on settlement duties were not strictly enforced the theory being that roads and bridges would be built and maintained from the revenues of land sales and taxes.

Land Speculation

In the period after the Napoleonic Wars, when industrial changes, agricultural improvements and inflation caused much distress in the British Isles, many thousands of the middle class, peasants and labourers began to think seriously of starting life over again in Canada. This was a golden age for land speculators in Canada who could by favouritism get huge land grants from the government and resell lots to the immigrants. An example is Charles Fothergill, who in 1815 came to Smith's Creek and obtained 3000 acres near the growing village. He immediately began to plan the development of the fertile rolling lands bordering Rice Lake on the southwest where farming could be combined with fishing and hunting among the beauties of the Kawartha waterway. In April 1817 he petitioned for and obtained 1200 acres in the Gore's Landing-Harwood region, and the surrounding section was reserved for a group of English settlers, including retired army and navy officers, brought out by Fothergill before 1820.

To the west, in Cavan, Monaghan and Emily townships, settlement had already begun, although the townships were not surveyed until 1817-18. According to one article, John Coe settled at Coe's Corners about 1800, and soon after a group of pioneers including Staples, Thompsons Lambs, Kennedys, Harknesses Swaines and Garnetts built their first church of the Methodist faith nearby, lot 5, concession 9 of Cavan. This early group came up by way of the Trent river and Rice Lake to settle in Cavan. In 1816 James Buchanan, British Consul at New York, obtained permission from the British Colonial Secretary to spend $10 per person in forwarding destitute British subjects from that port to Upper Canada. Buchanan, an Ulsterman, by 1819 had sent 3,663 of these people, mostly Protestants from the Irish counties of Cavan and Monaghan, to settle along Lake Ontario. He promised them lands, free food and tools and employment on public works but those who arrived in Cavan, Emily and Monaghan townships found themselves stranded in the wilderness on 100-acre lots without any aid. Because of their protests, they were finally given some assistance, and got their land titles later at half-price. Other immigrants came directly from north Ireland in those same years and were settled by the Land Board in Cavan Monaghan and south Emily.

First Families

Descendants of some of these pioneers still remain in the district, often on the original homestead. William and John Swain in 1818 came from Wexford, Ireland with their families after receiving letters from an earlier settler Richard Staples William settled on Lot 15 east, concession 9 Cavan, and his brother nearby, after walking in from Cobourg with their possessions on their backs. William married Jane Staples, and they had 7 children he died in 1888 at the age of 97 years. The homestead is still owned by their grandchildren. Arthur Graham came from Cavan in Ireland in 1818 at the age of 19, settling on the farm now owned by Morgan Bigelow. His marriage to a Miss Morton is said to have been the first in Cavan, and they had 9 children. A grandson William Davis, was living at Bethany a year or so ago. John Thorne, a bricklayer from Kent, England, arrived in Cavan in 1817 to take up land. He led a Cavan group, who each summer went to York brickyards and construction jobs as far away as the northern States, including canal-digging each autumn they returned to Cavan with $25 or 30 each to use for land fees, purchase of cows and other needs. Thorne built early brick buildings in Smith's Creek and other towns, and the first brick house in Cavan for John Grandy. When working in York he often walked the 80 miles home on Saturday, and back to York after the weekend. In 1821 Thorne married Eleanor Redmond of another pioneer family, and on their farm, Lot 15, concession 2 of Cavan they raised 12 children. The house still stands, inhabited by a grandson. He was the first Reeve of Cavan Township, according to report, and a leader until his death in 1889 at the age of 92, when he had 1340 acres of land and $35,000 in the bank. Another of his achievements was the building of the first gristmill in Cavan, whose stones were dressed by hand from common granite field stones; this may have been the small gristmill on Galloway's Creek reputed to be the first in Cavan, which ran irregularly during early decades.

Federalwise: What Ottawa's Phrases Mean

By THOMAS VAN DUSEN
(Ottawa Journal)

There are a lot of strangers in Ottawa these days—both in and out of the Government. Since most of those not in the Government have come to the Capital in hopes of doing business of one kind or another with those in the Government, the following thumbnail dictionary is provided purely as a public service.

It may help to keep the newcomer abreast of the changing shape of "Federalese," the Government official language.

At a Meeting: Where an official is, according to his secretary, when he's too tired to see anybody.

At a Board Meeting: Tough night last night; he won't be in until noon.

In Conference: He has to sleep sometime.

In With the Minister: Just try and find him!

Shall I Have Him Call You?: Give him a chance to check up and see who you are.

Consideration: What something is given when the Government wants no part of it. Something like a dose of strychnine.

Every Consideration: Don't ever, ever bring that up again!

Expedite: What happens when even consideration fails to kill something.

Expediter: Hatchet-man for unpleasant issues.

Early Decision: You'll never hear about it again, and the Government hopes it won't either!

With the Least Possible Delay: This one we'll drag on and on, until either you or we die of old age.

Not in the Public Interest: The kind of thing which, if made public would make people mad at the Government.

Conference: A meeting of minds where everybody agrees to do nothing.

Press Conference: Let's call in the press and find out how much they know.

Re-organization: A group of officials decide on mututal salary increases.

Avoid Duplication: Dig up new names for the old jobs; too many of them sound the same.

Efficiency: When you get a job down to the point where four persons can do it as easily as one.

Efficiency Rating: What you get when you can do twice as much work in five times the time.

Departmental Channels: A wire basket full of old papers.

Research Department: File need dusting.

Program: A word that justifies putting off until tomorrow what should have been done last week.

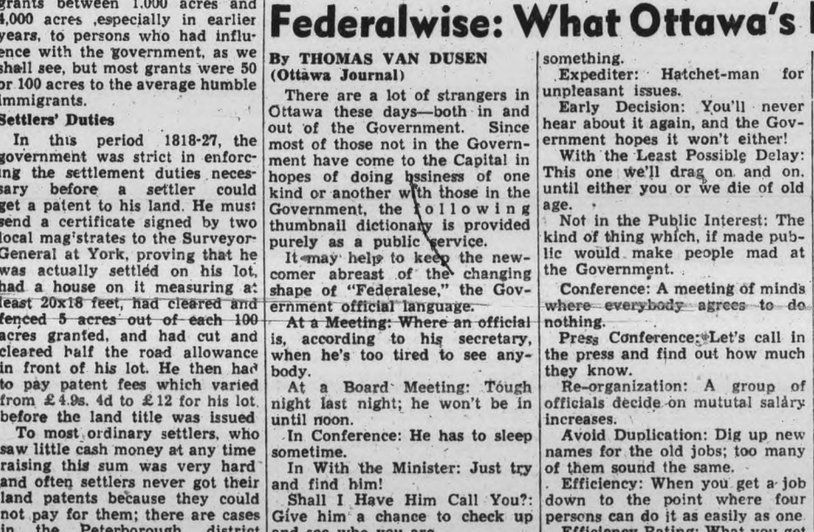
Policy: An invisible policeman who prevents action from being taken or decisions being made.

Modification of Policy: The same policeman in plain clothes.

Memorandum: I'm putting this in writing so the higher-ups will know I really did do something.

Action: What the Government promises when it's pushed hard enough.

Immediate Action: Pushed a little harder.



GEORGE STREET AT CHARLOTTE, looking north, 1914. Remember the mud, the street railway, the gay, modern shops, the bowlers and bonnets, the skits and skirts of the times suggested in this photograph?

(One of a series of 14 special articles on the ancient art of tea-cup reading, written by the Examiner's own teacup reading expert. These are appearing intermittently on this Feature Page.)

No. III: How To Read the Symbols.

An often-heard enquiry is, How have the symbols formed by the tea leaves acquired such definite meanings?"

This has come about gradually, the old-time seers saw certain meanings in certain formations, suggested usually by some association of ideas; out of the many interpretations, a set of symbols that seems to have been common to most seers, was evolved. They have become tradition, and rightly so, for amazing revelations have been made from them.

The important symbols or pictures are easy to memorize, because we today associate the same ideas with them that occurred to the original spaewives. ("Spae" is from the Scotch Gaelic, meaning to foretell or divine one's fortune. The spaewives of Scotland are credited with originating the art of foretelling the future from tea leaves).

Our divinations concern chiefly the promise of good or ill fortune, success of failure in material affairs, the activities and interest of the consultant, the coming of letters, parcels, gifts, friendly or unfriendly influences, affairs of the heart, indications of travel, joy, sorrow, triumph and so forth.

The mainly recurring symbols should be memorized. These give the keys to the story, which should not be merely a disconnected interpretation of the separate symbols, but should be woven together in a more or less connected manner. This is not difficult, because there are often obvious connections between the symbols; a parcel with a good luck omen close behind it, would naturally be interpreted as a package which will give pleasure to the recipient; a bird flying toward the handle (which we have said, represents the consultant) is the bringer of news and if there is, close by, a symbol of sorrow, or the indication of money, it does not take great cleverness to see that the news will be sad or that it will tell of money; or if both these symbols are connected with the news, it is obvious enough that something in the nature of a legacy is foretold.

We shall discuss the most-found indications under separate headings, to aid the student of cup-reading to understand and memorize them; then, we shall add an alphabetical list of commonly occurring symbols that may be easily consulted as a ready reference.

No Cow Seen In Italy— Why Veal?

(Ed. Note: Mrs. Tinker and her husband of Burnham Street toured in Italy last summer).

By A. F. TINKER.

"I wonder where these Italians get their veal? Must be imported from the Balkans, for not a cow or calf have I seen in fields," I remarked to Englishwoman in the Savoy tour. For more than a week we had travelled through Italy across the fertile plains of Lombardy, Attica, Umbria, through the winding passes of the Appennines and south to Rome before I saw a cow. It was the absence of livestock I noticed. Yet every day we ate veal and this aroused my curiosity.

"You wouldn't eat this meat if you knew what it was," was her answer. I looked at the doubtful slice on my plate and wondered. Maybe donkey. While in England hunger had forced me to eat rabbit; in fact after a few weeks I could eat it without swallowing too hard and thinking of cat. And I had eaten haggis in Scotland. Yes, now I could eat donkey.

"What is it?" I asked, almost wishing I hadn't wondered.

"It's horse," was the unwelcome news. "The Italians go to England to buy horses and the English people come here to eat them. They process the horsemeat to make it tender and white like veal."

I lost my appetite for veal; horses had been one of my pet animals; now I'd eaten slices of a poor little English pony.

After all, do you think there would be more than a nucleus of livestock in Canada if more than one army had gone through here?

True, I did see a flock of sheep just south of Rome, tended by a small shepherd lad; and that lad was needed because fences—if any—consisted of a single strand of wire, in all probability not charged. Near Venice there had been two or three single sheep tethered. Of course we did not travel all highways to see everything but when we crossed plains "my eyes went everywhere."

It was just south of Rome that we sighted the first and only herd of cows — Holsteins, they were. The very few cows seen on farms did double duty—that of pulling ploughs and of supplying milk. Of a white or sandy color, cows and oxen drawing wagons were often met on highways. I'd never dispute the right of way with these oxen wearing high curving horns, all of a yard long.

Another surprise awaiting us was the use of donkeys as beasts of burden. And burdens they had to such an extent that there appeared to be small loads of hay floating on the highway with no sign of donkey. When the donkey carried panniers, it also carried a man perched high on its shoulders thinking hard presumably, while his wife followed.

Oxen and donkeys gave a truly Syrian air to Italy and the idea of primitive methods of agriculture, for only one tractor did we see in our travels across the north of Italy and south to Naples. True we did not cover all highways but that was the impression we received.

Oddfellows Take Rockets In Hard-Fought Puck Tilt

Oddfellows vaulted into a firm position in second place, just back of Oshawa, in their OHA junior "B" group standing here last night by beating Belleville Rockets 4-2 in a fine fray. Minus a good defenceman, Jim Millar who is out with a bad cut around the eye, the Kingdon crew—wearing the IOOF juvenile sweaters so as not to clash with Quinte uniforms—looked good in taking the decision in a hard-fought fray.

Play was fast all the way and, while often scrambly, it was close and rather exciting hockey with the issue in doubt till well out in the third frame. Referee Red Wakelin of Lindsay took no chances on rough stuff and handed out 21 penalties, mostly of a minor nature, with 11 going to the visitors. Birch and Graham drew majors (and Birch also got a tripping penalty on the same deal) for fighting late in the third period. Semark got a misconduct in the second for a sneering remark at the referee.

An Early Edge

The score was 3-2 for Oddfellows in the first, and there was no count in an even middle frame, but the IOOF-ers had a little more punch to put it in the bag with a marker in the third. They really had more close-in chances over the route and looked a couple of goals better, but Red Wasson was busy and plenty good at times, also, in the home cage. Not too many cash customers were on hand to see the tight tussle.

Bob Wyatt shone in a neat showing throughout, scoring two goals and coming close on several more. Ross and Benny Mason were equally good, both being in on a pair, as Turner helped on one for the Triple Links. Dean Wasson turned in a steady game at the blueline, and Red Wasson was solid in goal. The rest of the squad worked hard all the way and looked good. Tripp was tough to beat in the Quinte wigwam and Trumble went well on defence. Pletch and Bone each scored a goal, as Wright and Hogan each aided on one. The husky visitors battled hard and threatened at times as they swarmed in, but the Oddfellows had good forechecking and back-checking besides steady work on defence and in goal to show an edge.

Scored Early

Pletch scored in 34 seconds of the first from Wright, but Wyatt got it right back with Turner aiding. Wyatt made at 2-1 shortly and Ross Mason batted one in from Ben Mason. Bone hit the mark from Hogan to end the first frame. Penalties went to Trumble and Baker for roughing, Graham interference, Delaney holding, Desjardins tripping, and to Delaney and Wyatt for roughing. With no score in the second, Semark twice went off for tripping, Ben Mason and Hogan for roughing, Richlark for falling on the puck, Turner and Wyatt for Holding. Ben Mason scored in the third from Ross Mason, as penalties went to Turner for holding, Pletch charging, Turland elbowing, and Birch and Graham for fighting.

Belleville Goal, Tripp; defence, Graham and Trumble; centre, Delaney; wings, Pletch and Wright; alternates, Turland, Green, Hogan, Semark, Bone, Gilmour, Strahan and Brown.

IOOF: Goal, R. Wasson; defence, Richlark and D. Wasson; centre, Turner; wings, Wyatt and Floyd; alternates, Desjardins, B. Mason, R. Mason, Birch, Baker, Doris and Fennell.

Referee—R. Wakelin; linesman, A. Heal.

Summary.

First Period

Belleville—Pletch (Wright) ..... :34
IOOF—Wyatt (Turner) 1:36
IOOF—Wyatt 7:15
IOOF—R. Mason (B. Mason) 11:51
Belleville—Bone (Hogan) 14:10

Penalties—Trumble, Baker, Graham, Delaney (2), Desjardin, Wyatt.

Second Period

No score.

Penalties—Semark (2), Baker, B. Mason, Pletch, Hogan, Richlark, Turner, Wyatt.

Third Period

IOOF—B. Mason (R. Mason) 17.49

Penalties—Turner, Pletch, Turland, Birch, Graham.

Neill's-Nurses Gain Wins In Cage League

A one-sided game and a tight tussle marked the Girls Basketball League double header at the YWCA gym last night as the schedule draws toward a close. Neill's romped to a 46-13 victory over Normals in the opener of the twin bill, while Nurses Juniors had to battle hard to yank out a 17-14 verdict in the lively nightcap. Another double header will be staged there next Friday evening.

The opener was not too fast nor exciting, but some good passing and shooting was seen, and Normals worked hard against stiff opposition. It was 27-7 at the half but a bit tighter the second part. The winners had 10 fouls called on them to eight for the losers. Outstanding for Neill's were Jean Vass, Joan Dunk, Pauline Stewart and Don Saunders. Best for Normals were Amy Curtis, Gladys Clark, Marg Coombs and Mary Kerr.

Neill's—D. Saunders 7, P. Stewart 7, M. Freeman 2, G. Post 2, J. Vass 9, J. Dunk 8, D. Callan 11.

Normals — M. Holroyd, M. Coombs 3, A. Curtis 6, M. Kerr 2, E. Scriver, J. Galway, G. Clark 2.

Closer Fray

The nightcap was a much closer tussle, and the score at half time was 14-8 for Nurses Jrs., CGE rallying hard the last half to almost gain a victory. They had but five players but worked hard with Marg Batley, Dot Jackson, Barb Luther and the Perrin girls all going well. Nurses also looked smart in the speedy setto, passing well, V. Latondresse, Pat Martin, Betty Sutton and S. Brooks being particularly good. They had eight fouls called on them as CGE had only two. Teams:

Nurses Jrs. — V. Latondresse 8, B. Sutton 5, P. Martin 4, R. Green, S. Brooks, P. Boadway, J. Brown, S. Langdon.

CGE—M. Batley 7, M. Perrin, D. Jackson 2, B. Luther 2, Marj. Perrin 3.

Referees—D. Plunkett and W. Davidson.

Not In England

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11 (Reuters)—The Duke of Windsor Friday denied a report he would make his permanent home in England. The Duke, here on a vacation, with the Duchess, told reporters they had no plans to return to Britain except for brief visits.

YUKON RETURNS—Yukon Eric, pictured above, who has been signed to meet Wee Willie Davis in the main bout at the Brock Arena next Thursday night. So many fans requested Manager Jim Laidlaw to bring the Alaskan Lumberjack in against Davis that he signed the pair for the feature spot on next week's card. Davis is big and strong and should give Eric a real test. The Alaskan powerhouse has not lost a decision here, having a draw with Watson. Two other matches are being arranged.

PCVS Seniors Win 24-23 Over Oshawa

Three hundred Collegiate fans rocked the Collegiate gym Friday night for the last two minutes of the senior basketball game with Oshawa. The Collegiates had pulled up within one point of the Motor City crew 23-22. Suddenly Neil Thompson shot down the floor, took a long pass from Grafstein and with a nifty one-hander won the game for PCVS 24-23.

Up to the quarter mark of the last quarter the Collegians were playing fast basketball against the Oshawans. But their passing and shooting around the basket was off. Oshawa, on the other hand, carried the play, especially in the second and third quarters, as they scraped the 10-3 score for PCI in the first to a 15-12 lead for themselves at the half. In the third they increased the lead to 22-15. The PCVS guards, Grafstein and Young, grabbed rebounds throughout but stood out in the beginning of the fourth as they changed the attack from Oshawa to Peterborough.

Neil Thompson, who had trouble in close under the basket still managed to lead the scoring with 10 points while Harris, of Oshawa, had seven. Greene and Phillips were other stars for the Oshawa quintet while Grafstein and Young went well on the PCVS defence.

Juniors Victors

Bev Goulding's junior "A" squad threw up a tight zone defence before the Oshawa juniors in the preliminary game to take the nod 30-18. Oshawa had trouble sinking the ball as their long shots failed to go anywhere near the basket.

The locals, led by Fowler in the first quarter on the offensive and Cunningham on the defensive, chalked up an 8-2 first quarter score. The zone defence system held the Motor City squad off until just near the end of the half when they managed to make the PCI'ers begin to open up. The score at the half was 13-6 for PCVS.

Oshawa's shooting was definitely off in the third stanza as the play was fast and open. Little thought was given to defensive play. They began to check better themselves and held the locals to four points while they drifted in seven, the quarter score being 17-13 for PCVS. Again in the third, the zone defence squeezed out Oshawa rushes while Langhorne and Hempstead combined for PCVS counters. PCVS drove hard in the last minutes of the game with Stewart, Hendren and Brown sinking points to make the final read 30-18.

Langhorne had eight points for PCVS while Fowler had six and Grafstein five. Harris and Hart each scored six points for Oshawa. Varga picked up four.

Each of the PCVS teams have yet to be defeated in league play. They have downed Oshawa twice and Cobourg once.

Lineups junior game:

Oshawa—Hill 2, Oldfield, Scott, Harris 6, Varga 4, McMullen, Dewhurst, Risborough, Hart 6, Armstead.

Peterborough—Brown 2, Cunningham 1, Fortner, Fowler 6, Hempstead 4, Langhorne 8, M. Grafstein 5, Hendren 2, Stewart 2.

Senior game:

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Ron Menzies has arranged an amateur boxing program for the Ashburnham Hall a week from Monday. Lindsay and Peterborough boxers will compete in seven bouts, and in about two weeks the local mitt-slingers will play a return engagement in Lindsay. No pay involved in this at all—making it unique in ring procedure—as neither club gets a thin dime, nor does any boxer. Fans even get in free, and former fight promoters here must writhe at the announcement! It is to promote the manly art of self defence, and the Peterborough Boxing Club is affiliated with the AAU of C, with members requiring amateur cards.

* * * * * *

Dr. R. A. Kelly is medical examiner for the young scrappers, Gord Armstrong will be timer, Bob McCabe and a Lindsay man the judges, Bill Joiner referee, and El Jones master of ceremonies. Ron intends to select the four best local chaps—who are in the best condition and have a good knowledge of the game—to participate in an amateur show in Hamilton within two weeks of the card here. Parents and others interested are invited, gratis, to see the seven-bout program which includes boxers, well matched, weighing from 108 to 158 pounds. Sounds like a good evening's enterment.

SPS In New Grid Setup

St. Peter's High School next autumn will be in a new football setup, entering a senior "B" squad in what will be known as the Ontario Catholic Secondary Schools Conference. Others in so far include: St. Michael's, De La Salle and St. Jerome's, the latter puling out of the WOSSA, according to a Kitchener report, because of legislation in the Association aimed at St. Jerome's and Assumption College of Windsor. The Rev. J. F. Coughlan of St. Peter's High states that SPS will remain in the COSSA for basketball, but will enter the new Conference for rugby, since the COSSA has no senior "B" class of football, and St. Peter's—who have only been playing organized football for a year—aren't strong enough at present for senior "A", competing against large schools like PCVS, Oshawa, etc. Father Coughlan adds that SPS is not dissatisfied with the COSSA but plans to join the new Conference in the fall for football for the above reason.

Kingston Nylons play the Petes here at 8.30 Monday eve in Civic Arena to wind up their OHA senior "B" schedule. That'll be a dandy tussle as the Nylons are hotter than the middle of a forest fire and figure they're a shoo-in for the group title. The Petes will be trying hard to upset the cocky Catlin-Gerow-Partis crew (plus Udall and the rest), and might just pull an upset. The teams staged a fine fray here last time, the smaller ice surface always bothering the fast-stepping Nylons who are used to a couple of acres of ice in the Harty Arena. Yeah, we look for a swell scrap to conclude the schedule in this grouping.

* * * * * *

Derailing The Diesels

The Petes showed the Diesels in Bella Villa last gloaming that they weren't going to be any soft touches along about playoff time. Stepped in there and took a neat 7-5 senior "B" victory by a fine all-around showing. Minus the services of large Bill McMaster, manager Red Creighton donned the blades once more and turned in a good performance, along with the other blue-line guardians. Ray Harding was in oldtime form in the twine tepee and the forwards were stepping high, wide and handsome going up or down the ice lanes. Yeah, the Foley flock could confound a lot of folks yet in the dough blows, if they keep playing that kind of hockey. Don Pagett and Gus Leonard caught the eye with effective work all the way through.

* * * * * *

Plenty of hurry-up hockey shown at the arena here last p.m. as the Oddfellows took a 4-2 junior "B" win o'er Belleville Rockets. Lots of penalties, too, though it wasn't an unusually rough joust, the ref just not taking chances. Bob Wyatt and the Mason brothers led the attack, while the Wasson pair proved their worth defensively, and the whole Kingdon crew looked good to several hundred spectators. The win gives 'em a firm grip on second spot, back of Oshawa and ahead of Belleville, Kingston and the Lindsay "C" crew. They go to Kingston tonight, play Orono here Wednesday, go to Orono on Friday and wind up their schedule in Oshawa next Saturday.

Seven Escape In Crash

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Feb. 11 (AP)—A United States Air Force C-47 transport plane crashed and burned in a landing Friday night at Los Angeles Airport, but seven men aboard apparently escaped uninjured.

Petes Triumph By 7 to 5 Over Belleville

Eddie Foley's classy senior Peterborough hockey squad defeated Diesels 7-5 last night at Belleville Memorial Arena in a game that produced some of the finest hockey seen on Quinte ice this season, particularly in the third period.

Red Creighton, manager and grand veteran of many hockey wars, donned skates, played defence, and thrilled even his best friends throughout with a magnificent display along with veterans Honey Tompkins, Drake Jopling, and Ray Harding, who brought back memories of yesteryear as they led their younger mates to victory.

Had An Edge

Play opened fast with the visitors holding a slight edge when at the 12-minute mark Junior West took a neat pass from Jerry Creighton close in to beat Plumley. MacDonald evened up two minutes later for the Quinte crew but Griffin, Pagett and Conlin combined in great style a few seconds later with the latter potting a beauty to go one up. Griffin from Leonard 20 seconds later made it 3-1 to wind up a hectic first period.

Donnie Barrett put Diesels back in there in the second, but Conlin, Pagett and Griffin, who went great guns all night, again sailed with Conlin denting the mesh near the quarter mark in the period. West also from Fife clicked again, while Williams and Goyer worked in trickily on Harding for number three for Belleville.

On Even Terms

Continuing a terrific pace in the third, Diesels fought hard and drew up on even terms with the Petes by virtue of two fine goals by Nolan and Jones, the first a long, whistling drive from near dead centre that bounced in off Harding's shoulder, the latter on a smart play with Goyer and Williams. Led by Legrow, who played a good game, Jopling and Fife scored the payoff tally with less than four minutes to play.

To seal the fate of the Quinte squad, Pagett, West and Griffin scored the picture goal of the night as the former crossed the blue line, flipped back to Griffin, who relayed to West just left of the net and the latter fired a honey to the lower right corner as the crowd gave the boys a big hand.

Peterborough — Goal, Harding; defence, Tompkins and Jopling; centre, West; wings, J. Creighton and Garvey; alternates, Leonard, Collins, Fife, Conlin Legrow, Pagett, Griffin, R. Creighton.

Belleville — Goal, Plumley; defence, V. Goyer and Nolan; centre, Barrett; wings, MacDonald and Cousins; alternates, L. Goyer, Jones Williams, Semark, Woodman, Mulvihill, Moher, Day.

Referee—Pat Patterson. Linesman Ken McNaught.

The summary:

First Period

Peterborough—West (J. Creighton) 12:23
Belleville—MacDonald 14:52
Peterborough—Conlin (Pagett, Griffin) 15:04
Peterborough—Griffin (Leonard) 15:24

No penalties.

Second Period

Belleville—Barrett (MacDonald) 1:30
Peterborough—Conlin (Griffin, Pagett) 5:40
Peterborough—West (Fife) 9:10
Belleville—Williams (V. Goyer) 13:10

Penalties— R. Creighton, MacDonald

Third Period

Belleville—Nolan 0.10
Belleville—Jones (Williams, L. Goyer) 4:02
Peterborough—Fife (Jopling, Legrow) 16:15
Peterborough—West (Pagett, Griffin) 19:45

Penalty—West.

Results of weeks of practice will come to light Sunday as the Peterborough Figure Skating Club will hold its third annual championship meet for club honors. The events will be held on the Peterborough Curling Club's ice surfaces.

At 9 a.m. the juniors will start competition for championships. The intermediate events will follow the junior's commencing with dances, pairs, singles and free skating.

In the afternoon at 2 p.m. the intermediate and seniors cut figures for championships to be followed by any intermediate singles who were not judged in the morning. The remaining senior events will terminate the competition.

Downers Corner Wins

Downer's Corners defeated Indian River 5-2 the other evening in Keene in an Otonabee Rural Hockey League contest. Play was fast and exciting most of the way, with scoring spread around as the victors earned it by cashing in on close-in chances. W. Fife got both the losers' goals, while R. Barker, G. Burns, B. McIlmoyle, K. Sedgewick and H. Burns scored for the winners. Teams:

Indian River: Hope, Miller, D Elmhirst, Stewart, Steed, Evans A. Elmhirst, Craik, Hope W. Fife, Davidson, Clysdale.

Downer's Corners: Corrigan, G. Burns, H Burns, McIlmoyle, B Corrigan, Steenburgh, R. Barker, G. Barker, J. Barker, Batten, Sedgewick, McIlmoyle.

Referee, W. Houle; lineeman, D Whalen.

LAST STOP—Slightly wobbly-legged, Kilcullaheen decided it had enough in running of the Smiths Lawn Handicap Chase in Windsor, Eng. The horse failed to inform Frank Carr, the surprised jockey being tossed from the saddle when Kilcullaheen called it quits.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton now has two senior football coaches who haven't got a job lined up for next season, since the week-old amalgamation of the Tigers and Wildcats.

Pending completion of the formalities of the amalgamation of the Interprovincial and Senior Ontario Union clubs, it is understood all members of both teams have been "frozen." Rumors however are that a new coach is being hunted.

Merle Hapes, coach of the Tigers of the ORFU said Friday night he has not been offered any contract to play with Toronto Argos and as for next season "I'm just waiting like the rest of them." Frank Gnup, coach of the Big Four's Wildcats, sported a button "Frank Gnup?" with a large question mark at the football banquet last night.

Allan Jones of Guelph defeated Dr. C. Mason's Hamilton Thistles rink 11-7 in the final of the F. R. Ramsey Memorial Trophy as the Guelph Colts' Bonspiel concluded Friday.

H. R. Armstrong of Toronto Curling Club edged Allan Shirk of Kitchener 10-9 in the final of the second event, and consolation honors went to Ken Walker's Guelph entry, defeating L. Smithers of Brampton.

Chicago Cubs Friday announced the purchase of Johnny Vander Meer, 35 year old left handed pitcher, from Cincinnati Reds. Terms of the cash sale were not disclosed.

Buffalo Bisons appealed Friday to the American Hockey League's board of governors to form a committee to study protests. Art Chapman, Bisons' general manager, took the action as he described as "unfair" a recent decision by league president Maurice Podoloff. Chapman said he was incensed at Podoloff's disallowal of a protest over the Bisons' 3-2 loss to Hershey Bears Jan. 15.

"We lost that game when a goal was scored by Hershey on a very plain offside. That goal was first ruled no goal. Then later allowed after the Hershey players swarmed threateningly around the referee."

Ontario will be represented at the Dominion Schoolboys' Curling Bonspiel at Quebec this month by Glen Sagle, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., winner of the Ontario's schoolboy event.

Sagle's rink captured the recently completed Ontario event for the second year in a row. The Quebec trip is being financed by a group of citizens headed by Mayor Herbert Smale.

Mel Cronkwright's Orillia rink Friday qualified for the Ontario curling playdown at Kitchener on Feb. 23 by defeating F. G. Hill's Midland foursome 15-6 in the district final at Orollia.

Harry Howard's Toronto Granites rink Friday qualified to represent division 4 in the Ontario curling playdown at Kitchener, leading to the Canadian championships. In a close final battle Howard defeated Tom Beattie's Toronto club four 12-11.

A fast breaking University of Mexico basketball team, shooting with sensational accuracy both from the field and the foul line, handed the Western Mustangs their first home loss of the season 59-54 before 3,000 fans at London Friday night.

Going Strong

ZURICH, Switzerland. Feb. 11—(CP). — Edmonton Mercurys Friday night had no difficulty in defeating the Swiss national all-star hockey team 8-1. The rink was packed as 20,000 persons turned out to see the game. The Swiss surprised by drawing first blood in the opening period, but from then on it was all Edmonton.

Toronto Playing Full Strength First Since Nov.

By HARRY ECCLES,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Maybe the Montreal Canadiens will find a hockey stick is a light handy gadget compared to the pitchforks they've been wielding in their clean-up operations on Murph Chamberlain's farm in Quebec. And certainly the fresh air didn't do them any harm.

The Canadiens will be full of vim when they tackle Toronto Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight to settle the tie for second place in the National Hockey League. Canadiens and Leafs are deadlocked 10 points behind the Detroit Red Wings, and the Wings meet the Bruins at Boston in tonight's other game.

Sunday the Canadiens will be at Boston, Leafs at Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit at New York Rangers.

The Canadiens have called up Bob Fryday and Lou Denis of the Senior Amateur Montreal Royals to replace Bob Fillion and Gerry Plamondon, but whether the amateurs will see action depends on the way things go. Montreal has a record of five victories, two ties and three defeats in games with Toronto this season.

At Full Strength

The Leafs will be at full strength for the first time against Montreal since Cal Gardner's jaw was fractured by Ken Reardon of Montreal in November. Gardner actually returned to the line-up against Boston in midweek and the Leafs for the first time have a surplus. Rookie Johnny McCormack is an extra forward.

Gardner is back at centre between Harry Watson and Bill Ezinicki. That's probably the line that Leafs will use against Canadiens' best, and Leaf manager Conn Smythe said last night he expects Canadiens will use Maurice Richard, Elmer Lack and Billy Reay for about 50 minutes.

Meantime the Charlie Conacher incidents quietened down. The Chicago coach is expecting to receive a police summons when he next visits Detroit, an assault warrant having been sworn out for the dressing-room affair there where Conacher is alleged to have punched Detroit hockey writer Lew Walter.

Name Harris Top Sportsman

LONDON, Feb. 11 —(CP)—Reg Harris, world professional cycling champion, is Britain's "sportsman of the year."

He collected 22,188 votes in a poll conducted by the Weekly Sporting Record. Next in line with 15,359, came Billy Liddell, Liverpool and England soccer star, and third was Denis Compton, Middlesex and England cricket ace who won the award in 1947 and 1948.

Sporting record's readers named Harris as "the sportsman who did most in 1949 to raise the prestige of British sport." His chief accomplishment last year was in winning the world crown in Denmark last August.

Brash, quick-talking Harris, 29, reached the top the hard way. Three times they said he was "all through" but he always came back.

He barely escaped death in the battle of El Alamein, and severe burns suffered in a blazing tank nearly put an end to his career. In 1948 a car crash nearly killed him, and doctors were amazed when he resumed riding. Then in the Olympic games of that year in which he was favored for victory, he saw the Italian Mario Ghella defeat him.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

A Canadian team, playing under English rugby rules, was polished off 38-5 by an all-Japan team at Tokyo 18 years ago today. More than 25,000 persons saw the Canadians' defence crumble before the devastating Japanese attack. The Dominion representatives won five or their seven matches, dropping a 9-3 decision to another all-star team.

Gavilan Loss To Graham Proves Upset

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11— (AP)—Kid Gavilan's camp is blowing a gasket about the Cuban keed's upset loss to Billy Graham.

Screaming "murder," they asked for a Tuesday date with Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, to protest the decision.

Actually it isn't that important. Not unless you had a couple of bob on Graham, the 4-to-1 underdog in Friday night's Madison Square Garden 10-round tussle.

From this corner Gavilan looked to be the winner by a whisker 5-4-1. We would not argue with the decision. Nobody inflicted enough damage to raise a riot about the vote.

Referee Ruby Goldstein had Graham, 27-year-old New Yorker, out front 6-3-1. Judge Art Aidella saw it closer, 5-4-1, with Billy on top. Judge Harold Barnes found for Gavilan 5-4-1. The crowd of 11,812 that paid $36,035 roared its approval of the majority vote.

Gavilan, a recent bridegroom, seemed sub-par at the weight of 146¼. He fought in spurts, tossing occasional but ineffective blows. Too often he snorted and made with his fancy rhumba step while missing wildly.

Graham, a standup boxer who probably will move into a welter title bout with champion Ray Robinson on the strength of the victory, fought his usual fight.

Finally Gets Coffin

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que., Feb. 11—(CP)—Francois Dionne, who slept near his coffin every night for 25 years and who built a huge monument in his little grocery store, was buried here Friday. He was 72. He died this week.

SWIFTY—Joe Adcock had 112 extra-base hits in 149 games with Tulsa and will be one of the fastest men on the Cincinnati squad.

Fenelon Trips McKee Rink

SUDBURY, Feb. 11 — (CP). — Play narrowed considerably on Friday as rink after rink was eliminated in the annual Northern Ontario Curling Association bonspiel here.

Four undefeated teams went into the fourth round of the President's Cup Friday afternoon and only one came out with its unbeaten record. The only undefeated rink left in competition is that skipped by veteran Ev Fitchett of the Sudbury club.

Results included:

McKellar Cup, Third Round

Orillia, M. Butcher, 14; Granite, A. Chalmers, 10.

Barrie, W. J. Harris, 11; Copper Cliff, H. Munro, 9.

Peterborough, Dr. C. McKee, 12; Sudbury, A. Blair, 5.

Sweet Caporal, First Round

Gravenhurst, B. Mays, 12; Hamilton, L. H. Lockart, 10.

Little Current, F. L. Sims, 11; Little Current, C. J. Collins, 10.

Cochrane Dunlop, Fourth Round

Fenelon Falls, J. Curtsin, 16; Peterborough, Dr. C. McKee, 8.

Copper Cliff, Joe Macdonald, 12; Brampton, W. A. Milsom, 11.

Blackwell Recovering

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP) — Leslie Blackwell, former Ontario Attorney General, was reported Friday recovering from a mild heart attack in hospital here. Progressive member of the Legislature for Toronto-Eglinton, he was stricken Wednesday. The 52-year-old lawyer is a veteran of the First World War in which he suffered the loss of a leg.

Brothers Disagree

VANCOUVER, Feb. 11 (CP) — Two brothers disagreed in Supreme Court Friday. One of them —a judge—threatened to commit the other—a Senator—to trial for contempt of court. The altercation arose over the ordered detention of Isaac Goodman, a retired importer, to Hollywood Sanitarium at New Westminster, B. C. The Senator finally conceded.

Vancouver Man Sets Record In Empire Games

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Feb. 11 — (Reuters)—Canada's drought of British Empire games track and field places ended in the rain today. And the Dominion's gold medallists—in the mile and men's javelin — produced just a few hours before the seven day spectacle ended.

Victory was doubly sweet for miler Bill Parnell of Vancouver who set Canada's only games record in the 12 country meet with a blistering four minute, 11 second clocking. Javelin tosser Leo Roininen of Sudbury, Ont., followed him to the victor's rostrum but his heave of 187 feet, 4½ inches was about 20 feet shy of the games' best mark set 12 years ago.

The two triumphs sent Canada's total of first place positions to eight. Two of the others were scored in wrestling, two in weight lifting and one each in swimming and diving and, mixed in with other point winning efforts, Canada ended in fourth place in the unofficial team standing.

Australians First

First place was taken by pistol hot Australian athletes who compiled a staggering list of 18 broken records in track and field, swimming and cycling. New Zealand finished in the runner-up spot with England third.

South Africa, Scotland, Fiji, Malaya, Rhodesia, Wales and Nigeria took up the rear in that order.

The Aussies continued their domination today with five firsts including three entries for the BE games record books, but the rain drenched 40,000 crowd at Eden Park cricket grounds got their biggest kick in the mile.

It was strategy, planned and worked at for a year, that enabled the long legged 21 year old Parnell to win by a comfortable four yard margin over England's Les Eyre who earlier in the games won the six mile event. He gave up a year's studies at Washington State College to train with Canadian track coach Bruce Humber at Victoria, B. C.

Cheering Note

Another cheering note was added in the semi-darkness of night when the afternoon-long pole vault concluded with Torontos' Stan Egerton in second place. He cleared 13 feet ⅛ inch, the same as England's Tim Anderson, but lost out on a gold medal on a count-back.

Canada's cause was helped along in other events. Third places were taken by the women's 660-yard relay and Doug Robinson, in the javelin. The women's 440-yard relay won fourth-place points, fifth positions were taken by the men's mile relay, Elaine Silburn, Montreal, in the broad jump, and Ron Miller, Toronto, in the pole vault.

Jack Hutchins, Vancouver, was sixth in the mile and Paul Collins, 23-year-old music teacher from Wolfville, N.S., came home sixth in the marathon taken by England's Jack Holden. Collins lost a heel off his left shoe at the 15-mile mark and his leg took such a pounding his thigh muscles tightened.

"I promised the folks at home I would finish in the first six and I just made it," he said.

Warkworth Wins

WARKWORTH, Feb. 11 (ENS) —The Warkworth boys scout hockeyists defeated the Castleton scouts here 9-1 with neat play. Bill Allen, Harold Pearson and Edward Thompson scored for the winners in the first frame. John Sykes and Harold Pearson counted in the second, while third period home goals were by Ed. Thompson, Allan Laver, Bill Allen, John Sykes, with Castleton's counter by Lyle Walton. Penalties went to Harold Pearson (2) of Warkworth and John Day, Allan Laver and Lyle Walton of Castleton.

ONE OF THESE BEAUTIES will reign over McGill's Winter Carnival, an election will decide the winner. Left to right: Alice Diggs, Ann Dohan, Brenda Turner, Jane Currie and Pat Elder. These five were picked out of 30 candidates.

Bengals' Winning Streak Slashed 6-1 By Marlies

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros closed out the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A schedule in a blaze of glory last night as they blasted Hamilton Tigers 6-1 and cut short a nine-game Bengal winning streak.

Last night's win, the Dukes' 32nd in 42 starts, gave the league leaders a 24-point edge over the second-place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen. The three playoff competitors, Toronto, Kitchener-Waterloo and Hamilton start a round-robin playoff battle on February 15.

On the Junior A front Windsor Spitfires crept to within seven points of the front-running Toronto Marlboros by belting the cellar-dwelling Stratford Kroehlers 7-2 and Galt Black Hawks stopped Guelph Biltmores' bid for a second-place tie by bouncing the Hatters 3-2.

The Dukes and Tigers traded goals in the early stages of the first period, but the Dukes took over and rapped in two more in the final frame.

Paces Marlies

Red Johnson paced the Marlies with a three-goal effort, while singles went to Bobby Hassard, Johnny McLellan, and Frank Sullivan.

Max Taylor's first-period goal for Hamilton clinched the Moose Ecclestone Scoring Trophy. Scotty Mair, one point behind Taylor before last night's contest, was sidelined with an attack of the flu.

Big Eddie Stanklewicz, following up his five-goal performance of two nights ago, pounded in a pair of goals last night to pace the Windsor attack. Bob Rawlyk also scored a pair of markers for the Windsor crew.

Ross Johnstone and Erwin Grosse doubled Stratford's single in the first period, notched by reliable Dinny Flanagan. Windsor scored two unanswered tallies in the second and added three more in the third before Doug French tallied the final goal of the night for Stratford.

Glen Skov added a goal to his total, to account for the other Windsor counter.

With Clark Somerville holding off a desperate band of Guelph attackers with his great work in goal and Jack Price carrying the mail on the forward line, Galt outscored the visitors 2-1 in the first frame and notched the only counter of the second.

Price whacked home the first two Galt counters with George Ford pumping home the other. Herb Dickenson and Aldo Guidolin clicked for Guelph.

Paige Through With Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11 (AP).— Leroy (Satchel) Paige, who broke into the major leagues in the twilight of one of the greatest pitching careers in baseball, is all through playing for the Cleveland Indians.

The decision to drop the ancient negro from the roster was announced Friday night by the Cleveland's general manager, Hank Greenberg. The Indians, he said, are asking waivers on Paige for his unconditional release.

This means that every other major league club will have a chance to claim him. If they want him, they have only to pay the Indians $1, then dicker with Paige on salary.

Previously, it was learned the team had him on the waiver list. But no team wanted him at the waiver price, $10,000 and the obligation to pay Paige his salary of around $20,000 this year made the deal too expensive.

Brintons Get Win

KEENE, Feb. 11. — (ENS). — Brintons defeated Keene 6-5 here last night in a tidy Industrial Hockey League fixture, the visitors having but three subs. Lawson counted for the Brintons in the first, while T. McCarthy, W. Thompson and Kumpf scored for Keene. Stock got one for the latter in the second, but Eakins, Harris and Berardi tallied for Brintons. Kumpf scored for Keene in the third, as Anderson and Lawson hit the mesh for the winners. Teams:

Brintons—Goal, Byers; defence, Berardi, Harris; centre, Eakins; wings, Lawson, Gibson; alternates, Lackie, Dracup, Anderson.

Keene—Goal, Renwick; defence, Anderson Shearer; centre, Mackness; wings, Kempt, Pumpf; alternates, Woods, W. Thompson, B. Thompson, Musgrove, Stock, McCarthy.

Referees — Giardino and Romanhyl.

Lakefield Victors

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 11 (ENS) — Beating Marmora 7-1 last night the Lakefield boys swept their OMHA midget "C" round by a 15-6 count and now continue in provincial playdowns against Stirling or Deseronto next week. Only a handful of fans turned out to see a fine fixture, fast and clean, with the homesters having a good margin on play to continue their classy drive.

Heffernan scored two goals in the first period, Twist and Darling each having an assist. Coyle counted two in the second and Henry got one to make it 5-0. Brooks tallied for Marmora, while Henry and Hunter finished it up for Lakefield, an assist apiece going to Spencer, Darling and Twist. But five penalties were handed out. Teams:

Marmora—Goal, Druman; defence, Shannon, Brown; centre, Brooks; wings, Meehan, Mantle; alternates, McNally, Lynch, Logan, Bell, Bonter, Hickey, Paranach, O'Connor.

Lakefield—Goal, Wingett; defence, Twist, Pue; centre, Sloan; wings, Coyle, Henry; alternates, Darling, Todd, Hunter, Berger, Brown, Spencer, Heffernan, Pratt, Leonard.

Referee, H. Payne; linesman, G. Hopkins.

Norwood Victorious Against Frankford

NORWOOD, Feb. 11 (ENS) — Playing fine hockey here last night before a good sized T V L crowd, Norwood walloped a short handed Frankford team 13-3. The whole team clicked well in a speedy, clean showing, the scoring being pretty well spread around. The losers put up a hard battle but were weak on reserves.

Norwood made it 4-0 in the first period, Gilbert making his debut with two tallies, as Hamilton and Webb each got one an assist apiece going to Lonsberry, B. Payne and Hamilton. In the second, Gilbert got another pair for the winners, as Pettersen, Evans and B. Payne each got one, two assists going to Lonsberry, and one each to Kelly and G. Payne. Hood scored from Mitts for Frankford. In the third, Brown, Hamilton, B. Payne and Petterson counted for Norwood, Webb, Lonsberry and B. Payne having an assist each. McKee tallied twice for the visitors, Farmer aiding on one. Teams:

Frankford—Goal, Davis; defence, Farmer and Schmidt; centre, Courtney; wings, Rankin and McKee; alternates, Cook, Mitts and Hood.

Norwood—Goal, Morrison; defence, Pettersen and G. Payne; centre, Webb; wings, Brown and Rogers; alternates, Kelly, Evans, Clemence, Lonsberry, Smith, Hamilton, B. Payne, and Gilbert.

Referees, O. Hendy and W. Shannon.

Canada Trails By 403 Points

By The Canadian Press

Canada trailed Australia by a staggering 403 points at finish of the seven-day British Empire Games at Auckland, N.Z., today. The Aussies amassed a 634-point total to take the unofficial team championship, while the fourth-place Canadians could gather only 231.

New Zealand ended in second place with 376 points, a mere 35 points over England's third-place team.

Here are the point-winners, based on the 10-5-4-3-2-1 distribution for the first six finishers in each event.

Australia	634
New Zealand	376
England	341
Canada	231
South Africa	137
Scotland	67
Fiji	31
Ceylon	30

Casualties Heavy In Ski Contest At Aspen, Colo.

ASPEN, Colo., Feb. 11 (AP)— Six would-be contestants in the world ski championships, Alpine Division, are out of the races because of broken bones, but seven "walking wounded" still may compete.

Recklessness of the competitors on the slopes of Aspen Mountain has taken a heavy toll during the last week and it still is two full days before the downhill and slalom races, for both men and women, begin.

The downhill and slalom events make up the alpine phase of the Federation Internationale de ski championships. The cross-country and jumping events, which make the Nordic division, were held at Lake Placid, N. Y., and Rumford, Me., last week.

Five casualties were added to the list Friday, including Walter Schuster, 20 year old Austrian champion of 1948, who suffered a broken thigh bone in his right leg. He will not be able to compete.

The toll now stands at three broken legs, three broken ankles and seven minor injuries.

Thomson Triumphs In Badminton Tilt

TORONTO, Feb. 11 (CP) — Glen Thomson of Toronto Carlton Club was a surprise winner over Bernard (Bunny) Brewster of Woodstock in the men's semi-finals of the Ontario Badminton championships Tuesday. Thomson defeated the second seeded Brewster 15-9, 15-3.

In the final today Thomson meets Don Smythe of Toronto Boulevarde Club, who defeated Jack Moon of Torohto Carlton 16-5, 15-10 in the other semi-final.

Another surprise came in the ladies' semi-finals when Joan Warren of Toronto Carlton defeated the Canadian champion, Marjorie Mapp, 12-9, 4-11, 11-8. Another Carlton Club girl, Joan Hennessy, defeated defending champion Barbara Ince of Toronto 11-9, 11-5.

BABY, IT'S COLD—Landlubbing Canadians who think it's cold, should try a trip to the fishing banks off the Atlantic coast. Here Roy Spindler of Lunenburg, NS, chips away some of the ice which formed on the deck of the dragger Dorothy Irene during a week's run to the fishing grounds.

Opera Festival In Toronto Resounding Box-Office Success

By JOHN PATTERSON

TORONTO, Feb. 11—(CP)—To the astonishment of almost everybody, this week's opera festival has been a resounding box-office success.

A group of young Canadians has taken grand opera out of the musty traditions of the past, injected vim and vigor and played to capacity houses in Canada's largest legitimate theatre, the Royal Alexandra.

When the eight-day festival ends tonight, some 16,000 will have seen the 10 performances staged by the Royal Conservatory of Music's Opera School. It was the first full-scale completely Canadian opera season ever held.

Although white ties, tails lorgnettes and mink wraps were sprinkled through the audience the majority of listeners were just plain music-lovers, attracted by the radio fame and previous personal appearances of the opera school.

Youthful Performances

Apart from a few singers well-known from radio and single operatic performances, the performers are all youthful, drawn from towns and cities from the maritimes to British Columbia Their performances have been acclaimed by music critics as measuring up to professional standards.

Pert Marguerite Gignac, whose clear soprano and engaging personality almost stole the show in Mozart's "Don Giovanni," left Windsor, for the opera school three years ago and hadn't appeared on a stage until her first role with the group last year.

In Army Show

Andrew MacMillan of Montreal, whose polished baritone voice and acting ability imply years of professional training, started his operatic career with the three-year-old school after performing with the Canadian Army Show.

He appears in all three of the Scholl's productions—"Don Giovanni," Verdi's "Rigoletto," and Puccini's "La Boheme"—as well as acting as assistant stage manager.

James Shields of Hamilton whose reputation as a ballad singer grew with Canadian radio, transfers his talents successfully to a new medium and a few language in the leading roll of Rodolfo in "La Boheme."

Vancouver's Edmund Hockridge has sung on radio, in concert various stage productions on his return from the army show. His fine baritone voice is heard in the title role of "Don Giovanni."

Other Supporters

Behind these and the others—there are almost 100 in the three operas—are men such as Dr. Arnold Walteter, founder and director of the school; Dr. Nicholas Goldschmidt, conductor; Hermann Geiger-Torel, dramatic coach; and set-designers Mr. and Mrs. George Englesmith of Toronto University's Architectural School.

The first three have had successful careers in the operatic schools and theatres of Europe. When they started productions here, they turned the Canadian talents loose to give a new, more dramatic approach to the great classics.

"Don Giovanni," sung in English, is played as it was written—high comedy. "Rigoletto" and "La Boheme" are sung in Italian.

The public, by packing the house for each performance, has indicated it wants more.

UK Candidates Chosen From All Lines

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, Feb. 11—(CP)—Britain's major political parties have all put out descriptive literature on their candidates designed to assure constituents they'll be voting for good fellows in the Feb. 23 General Election.

The Conservatives make a point to the fact more than 50 percent of their candidates were not educated at fee-paying public schools. This should allay any fears that all Tory nominees wear the old school ties of Britain's upper-crust educational institutions.

For the Labor party, it is emphasized its candidates are drawn from all walks of life. They include housewives, miners, artists, farmers, ministers of religion and economists.

Lawyers and schoolteachers are the most prominent groups among Liberals candidates. There are no fewer than 56 lawyers, 38 of them members of the bar, and 33 schoolteachers and lecturers.

The Labor party claims the youngest candidate, 21-year-old Ian Nicholson. A student of Law and Economics, he is standing in Argyll in opposition to 61-year-old Major Duncan McCullum, who has held the seat for the Conservatives for 10 years.

Baby Hopeful

Baby of the Tory hopefuls is 22-year-old John Woollan. He is the son of a boiler-maker and has been granted leave from the R.A.F. to contest the Scotland division of Liverpool. His chances are slim, the Conservatives let this working-class seat go to Labor by acclamation in the 1945 election.

Among them the three major parties will have close to 1,700 candidates in the field. The Conservatives are contesting every one of the 625 seats at stake, either alone or in collaboration with National Liberals.

Labor has men fighting all seats in England and Wales except the speaker's In conjunction with the Northern Ireland Labor Party, it also has candidates in five of the 12 Ulster seats.

The rejuvenated Liberal party, which is running enough candidates to enable it to form a government if an avalanche of votes should go its way, already has more than 400 nominees on the hustings More are expected to be announced before nominations close Feb. 13.

Ask Ottawa Oppose Any Lottery Scheme

CORNWALL, Feb. 11 (CP)—Justice Minister Garson will be asked to declare the Federal Governments' opposition to any provincial lottery scheme.

This decision to call on Mr. Garson for an expression of federal opposition was taken Friday at the annual meeting of the Glengarry Presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

The Presbytery also went on record opposing any move to make Sunday sport legal in Ontario.

Lennox Cheese Men Ask 30-Cent Price

NAPANEE, Feb. 11 (CP) — About 60 members of the Lennox and Addington Cheese Producers Association Friday passed a resolution asking the government to establish a floor price of 30 cents a pound for cheese.

Three membets of the Onatrio Cheese Producers' Marketing Board were present. It was the first time that a county cheese association had met members of the provincial executive in a body.

Agriculture Drifting

ARNPRIOR, Fb. 11 (CP) — Charles McInnis, president of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association, Friday night said that agriculture in Canada is "drifting dowi the river." "We must unite and persuade governments to deal fairly with agriculture, the basic industry of Canada," he told a protest meeting of about 100 Ottawa Valley farmers.

Bounty Claimed On 70 Fox Pelts

The past week or so has seen the largest number of claims this year for fox bounties. Because of the snow hunters have been able to track down the foxes and 70 pelts were brought to the office of the County Clerk and Treasurer.

Albert Taylor of Curve Lake headed the list of successful marksmen with 16, and he was followed by Charles Allen of Harvey with 12 and Sampson Taylor of Curve Lake with 10

This brings the total number of pets on which the $3 bounty has been claimed to 272.

Following is the list of hunters and the location of their bag: B McMahon, Otonabee, one shot in Otonabee; Nelson Davis, Peterborough three shot — Stewart Hall, Otonabee and Douro; Ted Watson, Belmont, five shot east of Havelock in Belmont; Mark Lonsberry, Dummer, one shot near Warsaw, Dummer; John Fulton Harvey, three shot near Buckhorn, Harvey; Dan Muskrat, Hiawatha Reserve, four shot in Otonabee; Donald Sage, Smith, one shot in Smith; Art Charlton Smith, three shot in Smith; Max Hill, Peterborough, three shot in Douro; Claude Hiltz, Peterborough, two shot near Green Hill. Tells Of Smuggling Gold To Africa By Wartime Pilots

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP)—The story of wartime smuggling operations by trans-Atlantic fliers was told here recently by a man who did much to stop the traffic

He is W J. Finck, who retired recently after 32 years service as criminal investigator with the United States treasury department.

The fliers carried goods ranging from fountain pens to Mexican gold, he said. The smugglers operated between the United States and North Africa, by way of Canada.

Mr. Finck said he spent some time in Montreal during the war, checking on the movement of goods smuggled by air across the Atlantic Many of the smuggled items found their way to the market in Dakar, French West Africa, where the fliers netted large profits.

The former investigator recalls that two of the pilots who illegally exported gold and gold coins were caught with the goods.

One, arrested in North Africa with $170,000 in United States and Mexican gold coins, was fined $31,000 and his gold confiscated The other flier, caught with $110,000 in undeclared dollars, also paid a heavy fine.

Mr. Finck has spent most of his career in bringing smugglers to justice.

During the 1920s he was on the track of bootleggers in the Windsor, Ont, area. They were banded together in what was known as the "Purple Gang" and specialized in moving liquor across the Detroit River from Ontario

But the highlight of his career was his part in the seizure of $1,000,000 in diamonds smuggled into the United States in 1936.

Says The Met Trading On Old Glory

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11 (AP)—"The Metropolitan Opera Company is standing in the shadow of its old glory," says one of its former conductors, Richard Hageman.

The musician wielded a baton at the Met from 1908 to 1937 Since then he has written and conducted many notable film scores and is presently playing the role of a conductor in "The Toast of New Orleans" He paused to reflect on the demerits of his one time alma mater.

"The Met is steeped in tradition," he said. "That's the trouble It's antiquated. It insists on singing opera in the language it was written. That's fine for the linguist But the average business man just falls asleep.

Translate them!

"All other countries translate operas so they can be understood In America, there is a lack of operative translators."

The Met could take a few lessons from the movies, he added "Opera lacks the showmanship of Hollywood. Few singers even try to act. Their acting is like the exaggerated movements of a silent movie."

Unlike the movies the Met has suffered from its star system, he claimed. "The public has been allowed to believe that unless they can hear certain stars sing an opera, it's a waste of time.

"The money demanded by opera stars drains off the funds So the company is forced to use the same old costumes and set it has been using for years."

No Practice

The trouble with American opera, he went on, is that it is done too hurriedly.

"They rehearse an opera a few times and let it go at that. The musicians play for a couple of hours and then they get restless In Europe, they practise all day

"Young singers in Europe get their practice in small companies before they are thrust into big parts. But the Met pushes the fledgling out immediately. That is too much for the inexperienced to handle."

ANTI-COMMUNIST PLANS OUTLINED — Plans to fight communism in all free countries of the world were outlined recently at a meeting of the National Council of Jewish Women of Canada, by George V. Denny, jr., founder and moderator of America's Town Meeting of the Air. He is shown here with Mrs. Benjamin Robinson, section president.

Scout Banquet At Bridgenorth

First social evening for the Bridgenorth Boy Scout Troop and Wolf Cub pack was held Thursday in the United Church basement in the form of a father and son banquet.

Field Commissioner A L. Jackson from Trenton was present and related several amusing and instructive anecdotes in scouting before presenting the charter for the Bridgenorth troop to the Rev D. P. Morris, chairman of the group.

George Groombridge, district commissioner for Peterborough, spoke a few words on scout uniforms and the pride and honour boys should have in wearing it.

Another guest, Calvin Johnson, first class scout from Peterborough, talked to new scouts and cubs on badges, mapping and first aid, pointing out that these beginners will be backbone of the troop in years to come.

Entertainment

Douglas Landry entertained with cartooning and amusing chatter. Several fine Austrian folk songs were by Mr. and Mrs A. Siedel, and violin selections following by Mr. Siedel. Mr Roy Wilfong sang several selections, one being "Why should He love me", with piano accompaniment by Mrs. E. Telford.

Badges and cards were presented to each boy, and Scout leader M. McDonagh and Cub leader B. Patterson, who were also sworn in as leaders by Mr. Jackson.

In a contest for Scouts and Cubs the winners was Gary Hardill and Michael Smith obtained highest points for cubs.

This banquet was a huge success and a sincere vote of thanks to those who made it so was extended by Mr. Ray Phillips, group organizer. Mrs. R. McDonagh, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, thanked the members who had helped prepare the meal.

Christian Church Ever Faced Acute Problems Of Conduct

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Some acute problems of conduct and relationship soon arose among the early Christians. It is well to study them carefully, and the ways in which Saint Paul and other leaders in the church met them, for the same problems in some form or other, have been present among church members in every generation since the church began, and they are still acute among Christians.

Some of these problems arose from human perverseness, or frailty, which the new experience had not conquered; others arose from the strength and intensity of the convictions of those who thought that all others ought to see things in the same way that they did, and act as they did. Such Christians were very critical, and even harsh in their judgments, when these others did not submit themselves to their demands.

The problems were many and varied, as they related to different persons and situations, as a careful reading of Paul's Epistles, as also of John's and Peter's, will show. But three main problems were emphasized, two of which are still very evident in our own time.

The first arose from Jewish converts, who continued to observe certain rites and obligations of Judaism, and who thought that Gentile converts ought to come under the same rule. This meant virtually that one had to become a Jew to become a Christian, and against this Paul, an intense Jew, set himself with great firmness. It comes out in the controversy over circumcision, and other matters.

The second arose from the contacts of the church in the pagan cities in which the Christians lived. Meat that had been offered to idols was sold in the butcher shops, or in what corresponded to them in that day. Some Christians considered the idol as nothing, but the meat as good food, and ate it in good conscience. Others thought that to eat anything that had been offered to idols was an offense against their Christian faith. There were other problems of conduct involving direct moral issues, as some thought, strangely, that they could be Christians and still engage in the licentious practices of their pagan environment. But the chief issue regarding Christian freedom arose about the meat offered to idols.

The third outstanding problem centred around social and economic status, just as such problems centre today. Among these early Christians were some who were very poor, and some who apparently were quite rich. There were masters and there were slaves, and the New Testament book of Philemon discusses the problem about them. James had to rebuke those who had too much regard for the man with the gold ring (James 2:2). Other passages show how acute this problem of class, wealth and poverty quickly became.

How did the church leaders meet these problems? First of all, by an insistence upon Christian love as the Christian's supreme obligation. John rebuked the disciples for their lack of brotherly love. Then, by an insistence that the Christians must observe Christ's command, "Judge not." And third, by an assertion of the rights of Christian conscience and freedom. It is a large subject, but what Paul has to say about it in his Epistles is still good doctrine, and good practical counsel for today.

Action Of Unclean Spirit In Hearts Of Mankind

By REV. E. R. JAMES

The Unclean Spirit Saith: I Will Return To My House St. Matthew 12: 44.

An unusual parable, unique Can you hear the Voice of the Pure One uttering the word "UNCLEAN" There is a note of horror and disgust. There is truly a gulf between the Christ and the evil spirit. The Lord describes the progressive, gradual ruin of a human personality. He knows what is in man and does not need any one to testify of man. He tells us that an evil habit has left a man, by what means He does not say. He is now a respectable person. There are hopes for him. But the door is open, the house clean and empty. One day the evil spirit returns with seven other evil ones more wicked than himself and they enter in and the last state of that man is worse than the first.

The Lord may have a reference here to his own people, who were sent into captivity in Babylon for seventy years. The fires of exile burnt out their desire for idolatory. The devout Jew now believed in the One living God This was God's special gift to the Jew. It was God's intention that they should give this knowledge to the Gentiles. But they kept it to themselves. Instead of idolatry they cultivated the sins of hatred, hypocracy and pride.

Their eyes were blinded to goodness and when the Pure One came His own received Him not; they rejected and crucified Him. They could not see any beauty in Him. They could not recognize the Wonderful Man, their eyes were blinded. They cast Him out. Evil has a strange faculty of entering into the human soul. This is the experience of every man as the years go by. The habit grows stronger and becomes his master if allowed to stay too long.

The house cannot remain empty. There can be no vacuum in the spiritual house; he must either be better or worse. The Lord teaches a fundamental truth. A man's personality is important in God's sight. You are important in the eyes of God. Man is not intended to become a beast.

I WILL RETURN UNTO MY HOUSE. It is the cry of the evil spirit; it is his house, he does not seek for permission. The Lord Jesus stands at the door and knocks for permission to enter "Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear My Voice and open the door I will come in and will sup with him and he with me". This is the outstanding glory of the Christian religion that God respects the individual — YOU When you open the door The Incarnate Son, born of human mother will enter and recreate your character and you will become like Him. Men will see how beautiful and lovely God is. There is a beautiful statue of the Christ in a certain church. You are not attracted. But the verger whispers. You cannot see its beauty until you kneel and look up. Surely you do not need the explanation. As you kneel in His Presence every day something of His beauty will be seen in your face by your friends. They see God and His Christ through you.

THINE EYES SHALL SEE THE KING IN HIS BEAUTY.

Decries Lack Of Femininity

DURHAM, England, Feb. 11 — (CP)—Women with "hard, unlovely faces, aping men's dress and habits" distress Rev. A. M Stephens, vicar of nearby Birtley.

The vicar says in his parish magazine that doing men's jobs makes women too masculine Women did "unnatural tasks" gladly in wartime, he says, but it is wrong to continue in them once conditions have returned to normal.

"There is a perilous and foolish tendency today for women to deny their natures and to become masculine.

"They pass us in the streets with their hard, unlovely faces aping men's dress and habits. The results is as disastrous to themselves, to society and to the Kingdom of God, as it would be if men tried to lose their particular characteristics and become feminine."

Little Theatre To Present 3 One-Act Plays

The weather, which has been such a lively topic of conversation this winter, will also be the topic of the first of the plays which the Peterborough Little Theatre will present at the P.C.V.S. auditorium next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It is "The Play of The Weather" and its author is John Heywood.

So far as the Little Theatre has been able to discover this play has never been acted in Canada before. Heywood was a popular playwright during the reign of King Henry VIII, and "The Play of the Weather" was first performed in 1533. This makes it considerably older than any of the plays of Shakespeare. Old as it is, it has a very modern flavour.

The story, briefly, is this: the god Jupiter, hearing that there is a great deal of discussion on earth about the weather, descends to earth and suggests that all complaints on that subject be brought before him. One by one people beg him for the weather which will best suit themselves. A gentleman wants weather for hunting; a merchant wants fair and windy weather to favour his ships at sea; a wind-miller and a water-miller quarrel violently because they cannot both have the wind and rain which they desire; a lady wants cloudy weather so that the sun will not burn her delicate skin (for this was before the rage for sun-tan); a laundress wants sunny weather to bleach her clothes; and a little boy begs Jupiter for snow, so that he can make snowballs.

How Jupiter solves the problem which is presented by these various and contradictory demands forms the climax of the play. New costumes have been designed for the production by Maralin Munro, and these have been made under the direction of Dorothy Shannon.

As well as 'The Play of The Weather" two other one-act plays, "The Voice of the People" and "The Tinker's Wedding" will be presented on each of the three evenings.

400 Members of IODE in Peterborough Mark Golden Anniversary of Order

By MARGARET LANCASTER

Imperial Order Daughter of the Empire will reach the half century mark on Februar. 13, 1950. The anniversary will be observed by 32,000 Canadian women who belong to the 930 Chapters, incorporated under the stirring motto, "One Flag One Throne One Empire" which has burned like a flame since dawn of the twentieth century.

In Peterborough the Order is not quite 38 years old. The first chapter formed was named for the famous old 57th Regiment and received its charter on March 12, 1912. Pressure of war work in 1915 prompted the founding of Otonabee Chapter and in April, 1916, a younger group organized and called their chapter after the Hon. Peter Robinson, the government agent who brought the first settlers here. First junior or COE (Children of the Empire) Chapter took form in 1917 and was called after Major George W. Bennett who was killed at Ypres in 1915. It has since become a primary chapter.

Stimulate Patriotism

These four chapters have carried out in this city a program designed to stimulate patriotism, foster unity within the Empire, cherish the memory of heroic deeds, forward every work for the betterment of the country and people, and develop high standards of citizenship. During two wars they took on extra work and are continuing to aid victims through post-war services, sending food parcels and clothing to Britain.

MRS. W. GORDON HALL, Left, present head of Municipal Chapter of IODE, which handles all outgoing business of Chapters in Peterborough. She is also honorary regent of Major Bennett Chapter, and a past regent of 57th Regiment Chapter, only strictly military chapter in the city, of which she is a charter member. Mrs. Hall is responsible for this city's celebration of the 50th anniversary. Mrs. A. W. (Chill.) Turner, RIGHT, who has forwarded the IODE by organizing two primary chapters, and was the first regent of the Municipal Chapter. She is a past regent of 57th Regiment Chapter and honorary regent of the Agnes Neill Chapter.

CATHERINE PARR TRAILL, author of the widely read "Backwoods of Canada," who made her home in Lakefield and after whom the village's first IODE Chapter was named. Her granddaughter, Miss Florence Atwood, lives there and is honorary regent of the Chapter.

MRS. T. A. S. HAY, eldest member of the IODE in Peterborough, who has kept up membership continuously since 1913. Now at 98 years she is able to recall reports of the founding of the Order in 1900.

Eighteen years elapsed until another chapter was formed locally. It took its name from Jeanette Scott, first white child born in the Scott's Plains settlement which later became Peterborough, and the charter was presented at a dinner on February 21, 1935.

Form Agnes Neill Chapter

Realizing the tremendous opportunities for service brought forth by the Second World War, the daughters of members in the older chapters decided to organize. With the assistance of Mrs. A. W. Turner a chapter was formed when 12 girls met at the home of the first regent, Miss Dorothy Franks, in October, 1944. They selected Lieut. Col. Agnes Neill of Peterborough matron-in-chief of all Canadian nurses overseas as their honorary regent, and named the chapter after her. At the same time a COE Chapter was being sponsored by 57th Regiment Chapter and this group took the name of Mary K. Birdsall with Mrs. H. G. Carleton as regent. Charters were presented to these new chapters at a banquet on October 25,1944 and Mrs. Turner gave each a flag as her personal gift.

400 Members Meet

With six primary and one junior chapter in the city and a membership more than 400 strong, there is much need for a clearing house to send work and reports to Provincial headquarters. So Municipal Chapter was organized at a meeting of executive members from all chapters held in February 6, 1945. Mrs. A. W. Turner was elected regent with Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, the present regent, as first vice. This was a big step toward greater service in the Order in the major departments education, war memorials, child and family welfare, ex-service personnel; Empire information, immigration and Canadianization films, war-time and post-war service.

Mrs. Turner worked tirelessly for IODE as a member and a regent of 57th Regiment Chapter, and for four years as Municipal Regent until her retirement in March 1949. She is responsible for

LIEUT. COL. AGNES NEILL, a Peterborough native, who was matron-in-chief of the Army Nursing Service Overseas during the last war, has been decorated with the Royal Red Cross First Class, received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Toronto, and has an IODE Chapter in Peterborough named for her.

$10,164 Profit Shown In '49 By Waterworks

An operating profit of $10,164.-33 in the waterworks department of the Utilities Commission is shown in the financial statement for 1949, published elsewhere in this issue.

It contrasts with the loss of $2,311.21 reported by the department for 1948.

Nearly six miles of water main, from 6-inch to 24-inch, were laid and 582 new water services constructed. Those were major details in the largest works program undertaken by this department of the Utilities Commission for any year in its history.

Revenues for 1949 amounted to $238,199.21, an increase of about $46,000 over the total for 1948. This increase was the result, in part, of the greater number of new consumers.

Operating and maintenance expenses amounted to $149,341.74, approximately $20,000 more than for 1948; and fixed expenses, such as depreciation, interest and sinking fund payments, showed an increase of $13,000.

The increase in operating costs reflects the increase in the size of the system, and increases in labor and material rates.

Debentures Issued

Debentures amounting to $200,-000 were issued to pay for the cost of distribution mains and services, and to complete the large force mains.

The main items of construction were the completion of the 24" and 18" force mains; the laying of the 12" main across the river at Point St. Charles; and the erection of the booster pumping station and elevated tank to serve the new Civic Hospital and the area surrounding it.

The total amount of water filtered and pumped was 1,650 million gallons, an increase of nearly 10% over 1948. The average daily pumpage was 4½ million gallons per day, and the maximum day's pumpage was 6,940,000 gallons on June 19th.

The months of May, June and July were very dry, and, as a consequence, lawn and garden watering was greatly increased. Restrictions had to be imposed from the middle of June until the end of August.

The putting of the new force main into service has equalized pressures all over the City, and the 12" main to Ashburnham and the booster station and tank in the western part of the City should eliminate most of the complaints of low pressures.

However, better pressures may lead to more consumption of water, and it will soon be imperative to provide increased supply at the filtration plant. To meet the great demands of the past summer the rate of filtration was increased with a corresponding decrease in appearance, but by the use of additional chlorine, the water remained sterile.

J. RALPH TURNER

J. Ralph Turner Dies In USA

J. Ralph Turner, 47, of Kenmore, N.Y. son of Mrs. Frank Turner of Peterborough died suddenly of a heart attack at his home of Feb. 4. Mr. Turner was president of the Queen City Sand and Supply Co. Buffalo and had been enjoying good health when he was suddenly stricken. He was preparing to leave with his family for a vacation in Florida.

Born in Peterborough he attended Central School and the Collegiate Institute and was a member of All Saints' Anglican Church. Following graduation from PCI he was employed with the De Laval Co. before going to the United States.

Mr. Turner was a vestryman of the Episcopal Church of the Advent, Kenmore, N.Y., and a member of the Master Builder Lodge 911, F. & A.M, Ismailia Temple, Buffalo Consistory; Buffalo Athletic Club; Brookfield Country Club; and the American Foundymen's Association.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife Laura; two sons, Ronald E. and Burton R; his mother, Mrs Frank Turner of Peterborough; a brother Clayton Turner and a sister Mrs. Herbert (Helen) Hawley also of Peterborough.

The esteem in which he was held was evidenced by the multitude of floral offerings from all denominations. A special prayer by the Roman Catholic Church of Kenmore, N. Y., was given for him. A memorial is to be erected by the Church of the Advent, Kenmore, N.Y.

The Right Reverend Lauriston L. Scaife, Episcopal Bishop of the Diocess of Western New York State officiated at the funeral service in the church with the Reverend Douglas M. Stoll, Pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Advent assisting. Interment, on Tuesday was in Forest Lawn cemetry, Buffalo, N.Y.

Fire Department Estimates Set At $127,498

Fire Department estimates of $127,498 were recommended to the finance committee and City Treasurer S. A. Couper by the fire, water and light committee of the council Friday afternoon. This requisition is $7,498 more than the estimates of last year.

The committee asked for $120,-000 for 1949, and actually spent $117,448.73, closing the year with a departmental surplus of $2,551.

Ald. J. A. Dewart commented: "These estimates appear to have been very carefully prepared. They leave nothing to argue about."

City Clerk Outram said that in his years with the council he had never seen such a detailed statement of department requirements and close approximation of the probable expenditures for the whole twelve months.

Ald. Doug Miller, chairman, nodded modestly to those little compliments.

"Chief Smith and I have gone into the estimates as carefully as we could," Ald Miller said. "In our final session the other night we spent four hours on them. We had hoped to keep the cost of the department at the same amount as last year, and ask for $120,000 again, but there were certain items of expenditure coming up this year which we could not leave out."

The chairman said he wished to mention the assistance he had received from Chief George Smith in scrutinizing every item when revising the estimates for presentation to the committee.

The members of the committee present were: Ald. Miller, Ald. J. E. Gillespie, Ald. Dewart and Mayor Swanston.

The committee did not alter even one figure in the proposed expenditures for fire protection this year.

$111,155 For Salaries

Ald. Miller said the sum of $111,155 for salaries was an increase of $2,466.33 over the salary payments last year, when the estimate for that bulk item was $109,435. The margin of increase represented scheduled advances in pay resulting from the year's

Buckhorn Road Completed 13 Miles Cost $215,000

Last link in the 13-mile stretch of the Buckhorn Road, from a mile and a half south of Lakefield to Buckhorn, has been completed. Total cost is estimated at $215,000 —$200,000 chargeable to the Department of Highways and $15,-000 to the county.

Work began in July, 1948, on the six-and-three-quarter miles of the road from Selwyn to Hall Glen, and all but the final link with Buckhorn was completed a year ago. Work finished this week at Buckhorn.

The stretch from Selwyn south to Highway 28 was finished in January. It was started in May, 1949.

Cost of actual construction was undertaken by the department under a section of the Highway Improvements Act, whereby certain roads can be taken over by the department, developed and then given back to the municipality for maintenance.

The right-of-way had to be purchased by the county. A slight complication arose here because at first it was thought a 66-foot-wide right-of-way was sufficient, but the department insisted that it be increased another 20 feet.

Purchase of this ribbon of farmers' property was the chief expense to the county. It was paid for in cash; in lieu of money the county would agreed to erect a new fence and provide the wiring and other necessary materials.

The Suburban Area Roads Commission, jointly financed by the city and county, bore its full share of the cost of the right-of-way.

It is a class A highway, 36 feet wide and with a gravel surface. Paving is a project that might be considered at a future date.

Other municipal roads that have been taken over by the department under the development scheme were the five-and-a-half miles from Clarina to the Nepheline Mines; the five miles from Hall Glen to Clarina; and the eight-mile stretch from Buckhorn to the north approach of the Gannon's Narrows Bridge.

The Havelock to Lasswade road, taken over in 1948, has not yet been completed.

Snow Buntings In Large Flocks

Thousands of snow buntings, in flights of 600 to 800 birds each, are being watched with great interest these days in and around West Brock, near Sunderland west of Lindsay. With lack of snow, these far-northern birds find feeding stations in the grass fields and are, in all probability, massing for return flights to their breeding grounds in the Arctic.

It is not unusual for snow buntings to pass through southern Ontario regions in late fall and early spring in great numbers, and, in open winters, spend a great deal of time feeding here. Experts say that they appear first in October and are quite numerous by November and have been noted some years in large flocks in the southern Kawartha district during the following two months. At the present time they are banding into flocks of 1,000 birds for Arctic migration.

HEAVY TEACHER ILLNESS

January was a particularly severe month in both the public schools and PCVS so far as teacher attendance was concerned. In the public schools teachers were away for a total of 183 days (although 14 days were due to illnesses and deaths in the family) and in PCVS seven were away for 23 days (one day being due to a family illness.)

Woman Overcome Coal Gas Fumes

An inhalator crew from the fire department early today was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnston, when the couple barely escaped being overcome by coal gas fumes.

Firemen used the inhalator on them for nine minutes. Both are recovered apart from "splitting headaches." It was not felt necessary to call a doctor.

A coal-burning kitchen range with the damper shut off too tightly while the family slept, was responsible for the leakage of gas.

Mrs. Johnston woke at about 6.30 a.m., went to the bathroom and fainted there. She was able to call out to her husband who woke feeling dizzy.

He realized what was wrong, went to his wife's assistance threw open the windows and doors and called the fire department. The inhalator crew responded.

"We're all right now," he told the Examiner a couple of hours later, "but we certainly have splitting headaches."

A son Norman, 13, and daughter Barbara, 17, also sleeping in the house, woke with slight headaches as well.

Offered Little Boys Candy And Took Arm

Police are investigating an attempt by an unknown youth to persuade two nine-year-old boys to accompany him to a deserted spot by the Otonabee river near Braidwood and Lock Sts. Friday evening.

One of the youngsters told police the youth had bought them a bag of candy and a soft drink in a drug store. When they left the store the youth took one boy by the arm to lead them toward the river.

When the boys refused to go any farther with him, the youth did not try to force them, but left.

SIMPLE DESIGN ADDS BEAUTY TO HOME – MAKES DOLLARS STRETCH

Planning For Bedroom Requires Careful Study

Most kitchen arrangements, either old or new, fit one of three plans; the U-shape, the L-shape or the corridor shape. Favourite because equipment can be arranged compactly in an almost continuous working surface around three walls is undoubtedly the Ushape kitchen.

The U-arrangement best removes the criss-cross traffic which has nothing to do with food preparation. The three work centres, mixing, cleanup and the cooking centres are along three walls. This allows the best flow of work. One end of the kitchen is left free for a dining corner.

Your kitchen must be at least 9½ feet wide to use the U-shape arrangement. If the room is narrower than this, you will do better with a two-wall or L-shaped plan. Plenty of light is assured in the U-kitchen by placing a large window in the end of the U over the sink.

Mixing Centre

The No. 1 or Mixing Centre, where your staple and perishable foods are combined, is planned around the refrigerator, and no matter what type plan is used, should be close to the service door and sink. Here should be a work counter 3 to 5 feet long, with storage space above and below for measuring, mixing and backing equipment. Cupboard space must accommodate:

Recipe files, flour sifter, measuring cups, spoons, mixing bowls, spoons, electric mixer, egg beater, seasonings, staple supplies, perishable foods, baking, roasting pans, casseroles, food choppers graters, cutters, rolling pin, molding board, refrigerator dishes, canned, package foods, spices, extracts, baking powder, soda, lunch box supplies.

Clean-up Centre

The No. 2 or Clean-up Centre is planned around the sink. This is where you spend most of your kitchen hours. Here foods are prepared for storage and cooking Used dishes and cooking tools are stacked and washed here. That means you will need work counter space, at least 3 feet of it, on both sides of the sink. Bring together here all the everyday dishes, cleaning supplies and utensils which are used and filled at the sink.

Paper towels, waste, garbage cans, everyday dishes, silver, dish pans, dish strainer, plate scrapers, knives, brushes, sink strainer strainers, sieves, can opener, teakettle, saucepans with covers, soaps, cleansers, towels, aprons, chopping board, coffee maker, trays.

Cooking Service Centre

The No. 3 or Cooking-Serving Centre is planned around the range. You'll want it near the most frequently used family eating table. Bank either side of the range with work counters.

The counter to the left, if no more than 18 inches, is mighty convenient for hot pans, serving dishes, canner loadings, etc. To the right you will want at least 2 feet of counter for spreading out baked foods and jars to cool. It is also welcome space for serving up extra plates.

Your work counters need storage above and below for those kitchen supplies used mainly at the range:

Beverages, hot pads, forks, spoons, tongs, ladles, turners, deep fat fryer, cooking thermoometer chopping board, foods used first with boiling water: cereal, macaroni, etc. Canned vegetables, flour seasonings, teapot, serving dishes platters, measuring cups, spoons frying pans, griddle, saucepans covers, roasters, double boiler potato masher, electric appliances

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

FOR PITCHFORK TO PICK-UP is the story of the mechanization of haymaking in Canada during the first half of the Twentieth Century. The change in haymaking methods is typical of many changes made in agriculture as farming grew into big business. Haying by hand was a hot, hard job, with a good chance of losing much of the crop to the weather. Today, the lower scene is the common one, with most of the work done by machines like the field forage harvester seen in operation. A fast-spreading system of grassland farming depends largely on machines which pick up and bale or chop forage crops automatically. Farming men expect machines to do more and more of the punishing work on the farms in the next half century.

R. M. Fowler Asks US Congressman To Visit Canada

MONTREAL, Feb. 11 (CP). — R. M. Fowler, president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, today released a copy of a letter to Congressman Emanuel Celler (D-NY) inviting him to visit Canada for a first-hand study of Canadian newsprint operations.

The letter, dated February 9, was sent two weeks after Representative Celler issued a statement in Washington accusing Canadian newsprint companies of conspiring to create "artificial scarcity" of supply and consequent high prices.

Since then denials of Mr. Celler's charges have come from Mr. Fowler, Premier Duplessis of Quebec, and Premier Frost of Ontario.

Mr. Fowler's letter suggested that Mr. Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, might bring his committee to Canada "to obtain any and all facts concerning newsprint operations."

Explosive Characteristics

"Newsprint is a commodity which, by its very nature, has certain explosive political characteristics and consequently has been a source of friction and misunderstanding between our two countries from time to time," wrote Mr. Fowler.

"I am sure you will agree that, at a time of such international unrest as exists today, both we and you would be remiss in our joint responsibilities if we failed to co-operate in a reasonable way to establish accurate information and thus minimize the possibilities of misunderstandings which might damage the unique relationship that exists today between the economies of our two countries."

Hugh Stewart Given Damages Of $183

Hugh Stewart has received damages of $183.98 ad court costs as a result of an action he brought against John Howard Brown of Dummer earlier this week. The action arose out of a collision between a truck driven by an employee of his and a car driven by Brown on February 22, 1949.

His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke made the award at a special sitting of the County Court.

The driver of Stewart's truck Percy Hockaday, testified he was driving along the Warsaw Rd leaving Peterborough late in the afternoon of February 22. He claimed he was on his proper side of the road and he met the oncoming car of Brown's.

Hockaday told the court he edged over to the right as far as possible without going into the ditch, but Brown collided with his left front door doing damage subsequently estimated at $196.48.

Judge Smoke found in the plaintiff's favor but reduced the bill of damages to $183.98.

John Corkery was counsel for the plaintiff while V. J. McElderry, KC, represented the defendant

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

Planning U-Shaped Kitchen Permits Best Flow of Work

In planning for the bedroom, the following suggestions might be followed:

Windows should be located to afford good natural light and cross ventilation. Do not place them where they will ruin areas needed for furniture or to cause down drafts and strong blasts across the beds.

Wall areas: Wall areas should be large enough to accommodate bed or beds, dresser, chest of drawers, dressing table and mirrors.

Doors: The doors should be located to open back against the walls and not to bang into beds, furniture or other doors.

Floor area: The floor area should be great enough to accommodate the furniture and provide space for making beds. There should also be space for dressing convenient to the clothes closets, chest, dresser and dressing table. Space for chairs and special furniture such as a desk, easy chair, etc., will sometimes be required.

Heating units and electrical outlets: These items should be accessible and not behind furniture.

Bath: The bath should be located convenient to bedroom. If possible, traffic from bedroom to bath should not pass the stairway and certainly not through another bedroom.

Light Switch: To avoid accidents at night, the hall light switch should be located convenient to the bedroom door. Many home accidents are caused because of falls down stairs because of inadequate light in the hall.

Bedrooms: Storage should be provided for winter and summer clothes, books, radio, etc.

Children's bedrooms: Provide clothes storage with movable shelves and hooks arranged in heights to suit the child's age so that the child can be taught to put away his own clothes. Storage for toys, hobby equipment, sports equipment and books should be provided.

General: General storage should be provided for blankets and bed clothes, towels, extra pillows, sick room equipment and bath room cleaning equipment in an area adjacent to the bedrooms.

Wallpaper Selection

There are no unbreakable rules in wall decoration. Skilled decorators will often put 'oo. backgrounds in north rooms, warm backgrounds in south rooms and dark backgrounds in shaded rooms. But they are cleverly achieving unusual effects. However, it is not wise for the amateur home decorator to break rules Professionals do it well. The amateur may do it badly.

But don't confuse habit with rules. You have heard a good deal about using small patterns in small rooms, large patterns in large rooms, stripes in low-ceilinged rooms, plain tones to make rooms appear larger, light ceiling tones to make ceilings look higher, and many other trite statements about wall decoration. How closely should they be followed?

Exceptions To Every Rule

Obviously if you have a small room, a small pattern will scale well with its proportions. A tiny woman would hardly choose great floral patterns for the majority of her dress materials. But she may want a large scale print dress as a dashing extra for certain occasions.

So it is with room interiors. Your breakfast room may be small. It may also be in good proportion and have a plain carpet or linoleum floor plus simple all-wood furniture. You would like to make it a gay room. Therefore it is perfectly logical to choose a fairly large floral paper with plenty of open background and hand it on the ceiling as well as the walls.

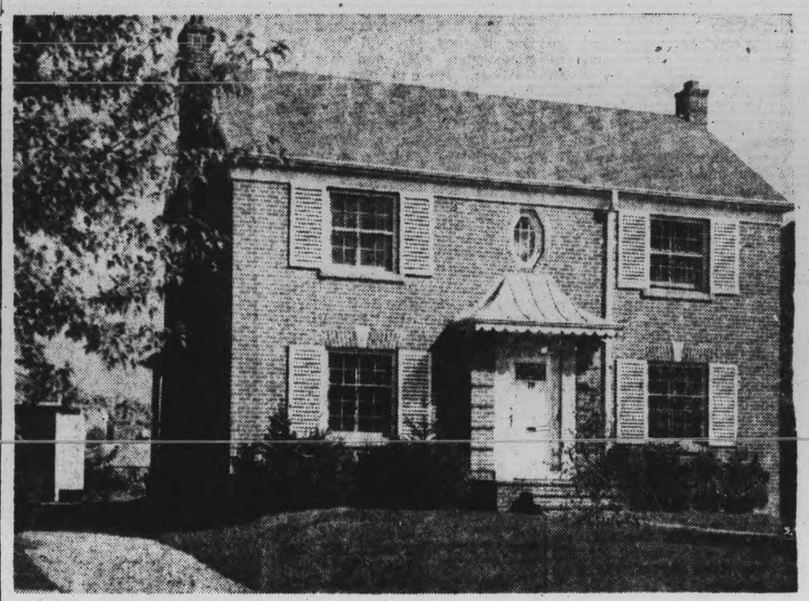
The same treatment can be applied to bathrooms, though not every design adapts itself to such use. The pattern should not have any set line of direction; this is why spot florals, all-over florals, leaves, plaids or set designs are good choices.

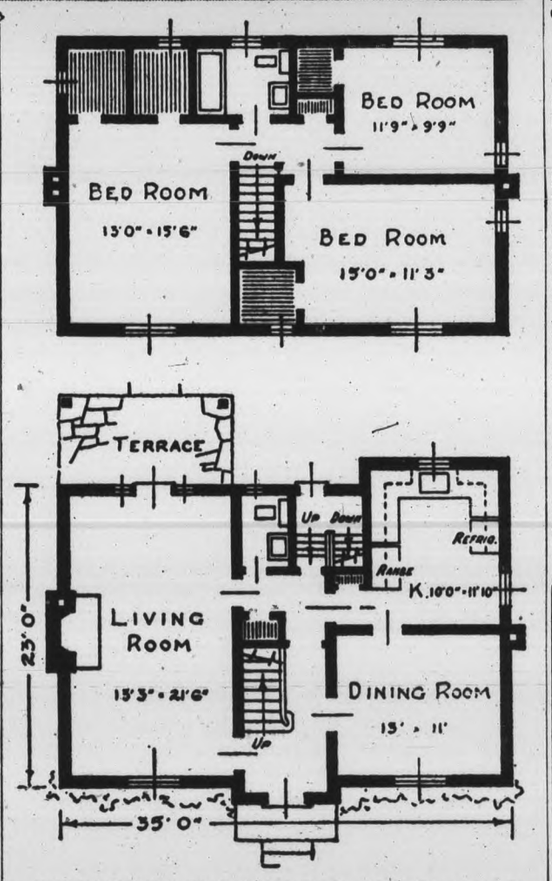
Powder rooms are excellent spots in which to use over-scaled designs. Large coat closets, small sewing rooms, writing rooms, rooms that have limited uses all fall into this category.

Conversely there are large rooms where large patterns should not be used. Imagine a big bedroom with very broken wall spaces—doors, windows, a fireplace and chimney breast. If we attempted to use a large scaled design, the pattern would be constantly interrupted. It would be better to use a small pattern which would adapt itself to the size of the wall spaces.

Here is a simple rule: If a majority of the walls provide an opportunity to hang four or five breadths of paper without interruption, you can safely use a large design. If not, it is safer to use a small scaled design that will create an over-all effect.

THE EXAMINER'S FEATURE HOME





HOUSE NO. 361—While this home has only six moderate-sized rooms, its pleasing lines have given it an unmistakable air of quality which is all too seldom seen in homes of this dimension. The clean lines of the facade are enchanced by the contrast of red bricks and white trim, shutters and front door. A glance at the floor plans will reveal the fine arrangement of rooms. Here is a centre hall plan that has much to recommend it. The "U" shaped kitchen will attract the housewife who wants an efficient bright work room, and the whole family will envy the big living room, the terrace, and the first-floor washroom. All three bedroms have over-size closets and are well located in relation to the bathroom. The owners heat their house with oil. The system includes air conditioning. Alberta Denies Report Wanted

OTTAWA, Feb. 10—(CP)—J. J. Frawley, counsel for Alberta before the Royal Commission on Transportation, said Thursday he objected to a report carried by The Canadian Press Wednesday that "Alberta wants the government owned Canadian National Railway to open its books" and show the Commission "how to run its business."

He said: "Far from requesting that the Canadian National show the Royal Commission 'how it runs its business', Alberta merely submitted that the review by the Commission, in addition to an examination of the capital structure of the Canadian National shauld extent to the examination of the operating results of lines which the Canadian National itself describes as "railway lines which can bear no fixed charges."

(The Commission has been instructed specifically by the Federal Government to review the C.N.R.'s capital set-up with a view to possible reduction of its debt structure and its annual fixed charges.)

Says Nurses Training Proves Too Costly

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 11 (CP)—The increased cost of training nurses during their schooling period "far outweighs any contribution which the trainees make in the course of thfs apprenticeship," A. A. Schmon, vice chairman of St. Catharines General Hospital board of governors said Thursday night.

He asked that a more equitable sharing of the cost of nurse training should be considered by hospital governing boards and federal and provincial governments.

Hospitals which train nurses are "being required to subsidize in part those hospitals that do not provide such training," Mr Schmon said in his annual report

The report also advocated that clinics should be supported by the general public rather than by "extra charges to the paying patients."

2 From S. Monaghan To Roads Convention

CENTERVILLE, Feb. 11 — South Monaghan council Monday appointed Reeve H. R. Campbell and Ed Westington, road superintendent, delegates to attend the Good Roads Convention.

A Bylaw was passed permitting council to borrow $2,200 for telephone maintenance and another to provide for 1950 road expenditures of $1,400.

A number of road signs were ordered.

The balance of the road subsidy has been received from the province.

Councillor Reg. Atchison was unable to attend the meeting owing to illness.

Mrs. Webster Hostess To WMS At Cottesloe.

COTTESLOE, Feb. 11 (ENS)—The monthly meeting of Cottesloe WMS was held at the home of Mrs. Tom Webster on Wednesday. The president, Miss Helen Tedford, was in charge of the program.

A letter asking the society to consider organizing a mission band was read. It was decided to meet with the Warsaw societies for the Day of Prayer.

Scripture reading was taken by Mrs. Elmer Metcalfe. The study book was in charge of Mrs. Fred Bolton and Helen Tedford with Miss Mae Webster and Mrs. John Gallaher taking part.

Mrs. A. Tedford led in prayer. Temperance items were given by Mrs. Fred Bolton.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Toms. Mrs. Webster served a lunch, assisted by Miss Mae Webster.

Cavan News

Mrs. James Douglas was found by her neighbours on Wednesday morning in a paralyzed condition, having suffered a paralytic stroke during the night. Dr. Hobbs of Millbrook was called and she was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Mrs. H. Braithwaite was hostess at a quilting for the WA of Cavan United Church on Wednesday. Those present were Mrs. H. Snyder, Mrs. Norman Braithwaite, Mrs. Mervin Smith, Mrs A. B. Kennedy, Mrs. Ben Davidson, Mrs. Will Douglas, and Mrs. Trevor Braithwaite. Mrs. A. Tinney had donated material to make one quilt. Two quilts were patched ready for quilting and one partly completed. The hostess served supper.

Valentine Tea By WCTU Successful Event

Cupids and hearts were used in the charming setting arranged for the WCTU Valentine tea Friday afternoon in the YWCA Green Room. A tea table, lovely with a bouquet of red roses and white tulips highlighted with tinted pussywillows and set in a crystal bowl that was surrounded with filmy tulle, was covered with white embroidered linen which set off gleaming silver pieces.

Mrs. James Ellis and Mrs. E Wand presented a pleasing program, assisted later by guest artists, Mrs. P Hooper, Mrs. J F. Reycraft and Mrs. W Ross Moore.

It was a good afternoon for tea-going and a large crowd took advantage of it. On arrival they were greeted by Mrs. A B Cunningham, Mrs. H T. Rehill, Mrs E Wand and president Mrs G. C. Adams.

Hostesses in the tea room were Mrs. H. Rowe and Mrs. M. McIntyre. Presiding at the table were Mrs. W. Tinker, Mrs. E. Alton, Mrs. A A. McIntyre and Miss M. Ferguson

Convener of the tea Mrs. W. H. Morton assisted by Mrs J Tinney, Mrs W. H. Woollard, Miss E. Thomlinson, and Mrs. G. Rowe to prepare the plates, and they were served by Mrs. A. Ferguson, Mrs. A. Macklin, Mrs. L. Hanscom, Mrs H. Rehill, Mrs M MacDonald, Misses M Bowers and M. Manning.

Mrs. S. Wildman, Mrs. V. Boorman and Mrs. J. Londerville had charge of the tea room.

A table of home cooking was tended by Mrs. D. Hewitt and Miss E. Boyd.

Treasurer Mrs. J. M. Fanning reported the event was successful.

St. Paul's WMS Learns Of Japan's Religion

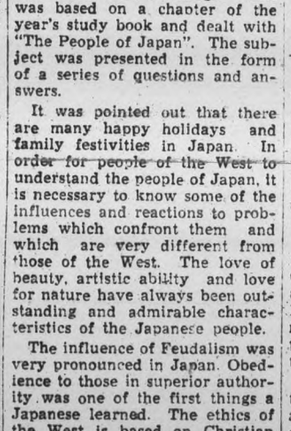
St. Paul's senior Auxiliary of the WMS met in the Grill Room Friday afternoon. Mrs. J. H. Eastwood was in the chair and Mrs. Manson Comstock was responsible for the devotional exercises.

Following the business period, Mrs. M. B. Chenhall introduced the Mission study program of which she was in charge. This was based on a chapter of the year's study book and dealt with "The People of Japan". The subject was presented in the form of a series of questions and answers.

It was pointed out that there are many happy holidays and family festivities in Japan. In order for people of the West to understand the people of Japan, it is necessary to know some of the influences and reactions to problems which confront them and which are very different from those of the West. The love of beauty, artistic ability and love for nature have always been outstanding and admirable characteristics of the Japanese people.

The influence of Feudalism was very pronounced in Japan. Obedience to those in superior authority was one of the first things a Japanese learned. The ethics of the West is based on Christian teaching so the ethics of Japan can be traced to the religions which have influenced them. Shintoism, Confucianism and Buddhism. Being brought up in these religions and adhering to them explains much that otherwise is difficult for outsiders to understand about the Japanese.

Religious liberty came to Japan for the first time on December 15, 1945, when an order disestablishing Shinto from its position as the state religion was issued from the offices of the Allied Powers in Tokyo



Order Eastern Star Dance Gives 300 Grand Evening

Friendship, fellowship and consideration for others, identifying traits of the sisterhood, Order of the Eastern Star, enveloped the guests attending the second annual dance Friday evening at the Kawartha Country Club. In such pleasant atmoshere there was relaxing enjoyment through the evening.

Three hundred guests attended this event making it a bigger success than last year's dance, and, since many friends were disappointed about getting tickets, it is possible the sponsors will seek a larger space for their next. Mrs. K. Armstrong had charge of the arrangements this year, assisted by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. A. A. Munro, and Mrs. R. Hutton, Mrs. H. Youngs, Mrs. W. Beggs, Mrs. H. Green and Mrs. B. Jones.

Refreshments served at midnight provided a pleasant intermission in the revelry during which the draw was made for door prizes. These went to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Heath. Four other guests won gifts in spot dances, one couple being Mr. and Mrs. George Newmaster.

As dancing was resumed on Saturday morning, the anniversary waltz was played for Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beggs who then started celebrating their 19 wedding anniversary.

Members and friends attending the dance were:

Intend To Resist 1920 Revivals Say Fashionists

PARIS, Feb. 11—(AP)—North American buyers attending the fashion shows in Paris say they will resist to the last stitch any revival of the "unflattering and unfeminine" 1920 styles.

The warning was made Friday by Sylvan Rich, speaking for a group of buyers and fashion critics.

But at least one buyer admitted ordering the waistline middy jackets now being shown by Jacques Fath and Christian Dior.

"We's bought one of Fath's middy jackets," confessed Mrs. Adrienne Stokes, buyer for Marshal Field of Chicago, "but whether American women will like the idea, remains to be seen."

There is wide difference of opinion among the North American buyers on the question of whether French designers are supplying enough new ideas. Some think the styles are so simple this spring anybody can copy them. Others are as enthusiastic as ever about the shows.

"There are many new ideas in Paris this season as ever before," said Mrs. Dorine Day, buyer for T. Eaton Company of Canada.

Ski Club Dance Aids Polio Fund

St. Peter's Ski Club held a "March of Dimes" dance Friday night at the K of C hall with about 80 in attendance. The entire proceeds are to go to the March of Dimes fund to aid in preventing poliomyelitis. Door prizes were given and winners were Maureen O'Neill and Mary Kubica. There was an elimination dance, won by Joe Ferren and Donna Minicola, and a spot dance won by Tom Cavanagh and Maureen Finn. CYO president Bill McTeague made a brief speech in regard to plans of the organization, and introduced the Rev. Father Von Weessel who has just arrived in Canada from Holland. He told the young people some of his experience during the Nazi occupation.

In his new book he gives several very good examples of freezing the pack There are several occasions when you should freeze. The defensive freeze is one not well understood by even the average player

I have built up a good example of the defensive freeze which is explained on page 49 of his new book. Your hand after the pick (you need 120 meld):

2-A-K-K-J-J-10-10-9-7-5-5

Opponents' melds:
Joker-A-A-A-A
2-K-K-K
2-8-8-8-8
2-7-7 7-7-7
6-6-6-6
2-4-4-4-4

Each opponent has eight cards Freeze, and nope that your partner will be able to come down sooner or later There is no other chance to prevent a complete slaughter.

Here is another interesting point brought out by Culbertson, illustrating one of the times that you do not freeze the pack

Your melds:	Opponents' melds:
2-A-A-A	Joker-A-A-A
2-Q-Q-Q	2-K-K
2-7-7-7	10-10-10
2-6-6-6
5-5-5

Your hand (after taking a pack):

2-2-K-J-J '0-9-9-8-8-7-5-4-4-3-3

You and your partner have taken several packs and your partner has 13 cards. Opponents have six cards each Do not freeze the pack! It is true that you have several pairs and are very likely to get the pack, but you have the opponents on the run anyway.

If you freeze, they might be lucky enough to pick a canasta and go out, and discard Q's, 7's, 6's, and 5's in the meantime. If you don't freeze, they have either to break up their hands or give you packs continuously.

Q—I have a red trey dealt to me and I forgot to put it on the table. Now I draw a card from the stock pile. This card is an ace. I have another ace in my hand and the upcard of the discard pile is an ace I was entitled to draw from the stock pile for the red trey in my hand. What I wan: to know is, can I put the red trey down and then use the two aces to take the discard pile?

A—No, I am sorry you cannot You see the rotation is the draw the meld, the discard. If you had put your red trey down and then replaced that red trey with a card from the stock pile you could now take the discard pile But you did not do that. You drew If you want to you can put your red trey down now and replace it from the stock pile

✧ ✧ ✧

One of the big problems in Canasta is to know when to freeze the pack. There are many players who habitually throw down a deuce and freeze the pack at random, while others never do so.

In Oswald Jacoby's new book entitled "Complete Canasta," published by Doubleday & Company of New York, he gives excellent guidance on this feature of the game On the subject of early freezes, Mr. Jacoby says:

"When you freeze the pack early in the play of a hand, you have little reason to expect that the hand will end quickly It is very likely that one side or the other will get the pile, and you must have especially good reason to expect that the winning side will be yours This is a particularly bad time to freeze the pack on general principles or as a desperate measure

"The pack is sometimes frozen early by the accident of the deal but when it is frozen deliberately at this stage of the game, the wild card is usually discarded by the side that has not made its initial meld against opponents who have In this situation, the freeze is not merely an attempt to restore equal chances of getting the discard pile, but is an attempt to squeeze opponents who have depleted their hands

"For example, suppose your opponents need 120 points for their initial meld. After a few rounds of plays one of them melds six or seven cards, and the other adds three or four cards to his partner's melds. If the discard pile remains untouched through all this, your side may be in excellent position to freeze it.

"The excellence of the position is a direct result of the fact that your side holds more cards than the opponents. Since they have fewer cards, they can accumulate fewer pairs, and they therefore have a smaller chance to get the pile. They also have greater difficulty in discarding, so that your side has an increased chance to get the pile.

"Sometimes such a freeze is advieable even when only one of the opponents has melded For example, suppose both sides need 120 points and that after several rounds the players at your right makes the initial meld with:

Joker-10-10 8-8-2-2.

"After he has made his discard he holds only four cards Whenever an opponent depletes his hand so radically, you should consider the possibility of freezing the pack. You may decide against it, but you should think about it anyway."

In the same section of the book Mr. Jacoby explains late defensive freezes in a clear and concise manner He says:

"After both sides have melded, you may decide to freeze the pack in the hope that the deal will come to an end before either side takes the pile This occurs most typically when both opponents have melded down to a few cards and you have reason to suspect that at least one of them has a fair or good play for out.

"If you let them take a large discard pile in such a situation they will take it and prolong the game If you freeze the pile one of them will soon meld out The latter course will almost surely be the cheaper one."

SUBSTITUTE CHIPS

WASHINGTON, Feb 11 (AP)—Swamped by surplus potatoes, the United States Agriculture Department got its head above the sea of spuds long enough to announce Friday that it has invented a substitute for potato chips. It's made of rice.

Parents Should Not Become Sole Companion to Children

Are parents fit companions for their children? Sometimes. No always. But they are never fit to be the sole companions of their children. Of course, there are darling baby. Our home only aim parents of loose morals and low ideals whose companionship is the most corrupting thing on earth to a child because every child unconsciously takes its father and mother as a pattern, and because the things we learn in infancy shape our characters of life. No boy makes the finer man for having associated in his formative years with a father who was a drunkard or a libertine or a man lacking in all sense of honor and honesty. Nor is any girl like-lier to walk the strait and narrow path if her ideals of virtue were taken from a mother who swapped husbands as often as she changed the style of her hair.

Dorothy Dix

And, on the other hand, there are parents who are everything that is fine and noble and broad and tolerant and whose companionship would be bound to have an uplifting influence on their children.

Want to Monopolize

But, no matter what the parents are, they are not fit to be the sole companions of their children. Yet the obsessing desire of nine mothers out of ten is to monopolize their children's society and keep them from having any other associates. Proud is the woman who can boast that she is her children's most intimate friend and that they go everywhere and do everything together. She even accounts it unto herself for righteousness when she stands between them and their making any close contacts with other youngsters and she never suspects that in so doing she has done them a deadly wrong from which they will never recover.

Not long ago I asked an 18-year-old lad who were his chums and before he could answer his mother replied "He hasn't any friends. I am his chum. I am his best girl." And then I knew why the boys and girls called this boy a sissy and why he was awkward and ill at ease and never fitted in when he was thrown with other young people, and I pitied with all my heart the poor, lonesome child who had never had any real companionship, nothing but the enforced society of a grown-up.

For there can be no real comradeship between a child and a parent. Too many years lie between, too many experiences. The point of view is too different. The things that entertain and amuse one bore the other. You never see a child giggling at nothing and whispering and having deep, dark, absorbing secrets with mother or father as it does with another child.

Nor can grown-ups and children play together, no matter how much mother talks about how she and little Johnny or little Mamie always disport themselves together. Mother may enjoy it, but not little Johnny or Mamie. They go through the motions perfunctorily, but they get no kick out of it. They don't yell and whoop and get excited as they do when they are playing with other children.

Justifies Self

Mother justifies herself in monopolizing her children by saying she is trying to keep them from evil influences. She is afraid her own carefully brought up youngsters will be corrupted by the bad manners and the bad grammar of the children across the street.

She forgets that whether she likes it or not these same youngsters are bound to be her children's companions in life. They've got to learn how to adjust themselves to them, how to resist what is evil in them and make the best of what is good. And this can be learned at 4 but it cannot be learned at 40.

Moreover, children can teach each other some of the important lessons of life that their parents can never teach them. They teach each other how to be good sports, how to play fair, how not to boast and not to think too highly of themselves. Mother fosters egotism and self-conceit in her child. It takes other children to knock it out of him.

And so for these and many other reasons parents should see to it that their children associate with other children. Even a bad child is a better chum for them than the best of mothers.

Two Schoolboys Top Hits On Broadway

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, Feb. 11— (CP) — Among the brightest stars of the Broadway firmament this season are two young actors still toting school books.

In a season studded with stellar performances, 12-year-old Johnny Stewart of "The Happy Time" and seven-year-old Brandon De Wilde of "The Member Of The Wedding" hold their own with the best.

Johnny appears nightly as Bibi Bonnard, the perplexed son of a warm-hearted, impractical but charming French-Canadian family living in Ottawa. The play tells how his family straightens him out on some of the facts of life.

Third Role

Johnny is no novice before the footlights. He had a part two years ago in "High Button Shoes" and later in "Love Life."

Now he keeps an admirable cast on their mettle by his life-like portrayal of the puzzled Bibi. Plaudits haven't upset the balance of the boy from Brooklyn.

The young star of "The Happy Time" told a reporter: "Three years ago if anybody said I'd be an actor, I'd have said "What's the matter; you crazy?"

Applause Puzzling

Young Brandon, one of the most natural youngsters ever to face a theatre audience, doesn't even know he's a celebrity.

"Why are the people making all that noise clapping?" he asked his father after his first exit the night the play opened in New York. When telegrams of congratulation began to deluge his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic De Wilde, he looked worried and asked: "why are people sending us all these bills?"

On stage, Brandon is a solemn-faced, reflective, bespectacled six-year-old. Offstage he is a complete extrovert, says his mother.

The De Wildes thought it over seriously before they let their son take the part. They are theatre people themselves and "we've never liked stage brats" said Brandon's father. But Brandon took the idea in stride.

Spine-Shivering

"The Innocents," a play by William Archibald based on Henry James' "The Turn of The Screw," is a genuine horror drama of the spine-shivering class. It's a story about a governess who comes to a large country house occupied by her two young charges and a housekeeper — and a couple of ghosts.

The story is thin but the atmosphere of this production at the playhouse theatre is thick with mystery. Beatrice Straight is charming and forceful as the distracted governess afflicted by two ghosts. Little Iris Mann is natural and unaffected as Flora, one of the children. As her older brother, David Cole wins the audience as an expelled schoolboy possessed by the evil spirit of a murdered coachman.

CGIT Doings

MARK STREET

Mrs. B. Morwood led the girls in a sing-song as their meeting opened. During business the missionary project was discussed. Mrs. G. Eason spoke to the group about financial affairs of their own church and Mrs. J. Murray conducted a questionnaire on the financial standing or the WMS of the United Church as a whole. Mrs. L. Pepper used a map to point out the different countries in which the United Church has missions and conducted a contest about the different ones. Groups were chosen to prepare information about these countries for next week when a scrap book will be made. Mrs. Morwood was in charge of the worship when she chose "Giving" as her theme. Ruth Hendren reported.

❖ ❖ ❖

ST. JAMES

Donna Moffat reported that the present, Lorraine Keating was in charge of the devotional period this week, when she was assisted by Dorothy Ross and Ruth Parks. Considerable time was spent in discussing different methods of raising money so that girls may attend CGIT camp. However, no decision was reached. The girls plan to attend the meeting of the WMS on Friday when pictures illustrating the mission study, "Growing With The Years" will be shown.

❖ ❖ ❖

TRINITY

The parents of the girls were guests at the special CGIT week meeting when Joan Krogh presided. Beth Davidson reported that $18.70 had been received from the envelopes which had been placed in the church on January 29. This money, along with that received from jingle boxes and collection at the meeting, will be forwarded to the Ontario Girls' Work Board. Joan Henry gave an account of the meeting of Girls' Council, when the girls were given several ideas for worship service.

Helen Lancaster followed the theme for CGIT Week, "Ambassadors for Christ" in conducting the worship. Betty Crowe gave a splendid talk on "What CGIT Means to Me", mentioning that attending CGIT camp rounds out the whole CGIT year. Girls of the two intermediate groups put on the skit "The Case of the Mutilated Uniform," Anne Grant as the judge, and Janet Hughson the officer, were assisted by Joan Metcalfe, Edythe Nicholls, Gail Patterson, Anne Gordon, Marie Nesbitt, Gloria Gardner, Norma Crowe, Lola Jane Buckland and Hilary Powell. Games were then enjoyed followed by the serving of refreshments.

ST. PAUL'S

Mary Irwin reported on this week's meeting. Financial report was given by Ruth Curtis who also read scripture. The girls were entertained Monday evening by Murray St. CGIT when the movie "Stepping Out" was shown. Those who ushered at last Sunday's morning service in St. Paul's Church, in recognition of CGIT week, were Jean Smith, Norma Ball, Christine Monk, Ping Hum, Margaret Donnelly, Irene Kelly and Dorothy Pelyea. Members attended the evening service at St. James Church in a group.

Provincial IODE Holding Contests

Competitions to encourage writing and pictorial art are announced by the Provincial Chapter, IODE, with awards of $150 each for the winning painting and story. Competitions close April 10 for the pictures and April 30 for the stories submitted.

The art class is open to Canadian art students between the ages of 16 and 25 years of age, resident in Ontario, the subject to be Canadian, in any color medium, size 14 x 21 inches. Second and third scholarship prizes of $75 and $25 will also be presented. Yvonne McKague Housser, Peter Haworth and Charles Fraser Comfort will be judges.

The short story competition also carries a second prize scholarship award of $75. Manuscripts to be not less than 2,000 and not more than 5,000 words, must be original and by Canadian writers living in Ontario. Judges will be an IODE committee and W. O. Mitchell, fiction editor of Maclean's. Further information on both competitions may be secured by writing to the secretary, provincial office, IODE, Hamilton.

6—In Memoriams

DELPELLARO—In loving memory of Joseph Valentine Delpellaro, who died four years ago today, February 12, 1946.
Four years ago today our brother was called,
To his eternal rest:
Gone where the angels sing so sweet
And taken when God knew best.
We miss him here so very much,
His presence oft seems nigh,
But we all hope in Heaven to meet
Where no one says good-bye.
—Remembered by brothers, sisters and mother.

JONES—In fond remembrance of our mother, Elsie Agnes Jones, who passed away February 12, 1931.
Silent memory, true and tender,
Just to show we still remember.
—Her daughters Hazel and Elsie.

OLIVER—In loving memory of my dear son, C. W. Oliver, who passed away Feb. 12th, 1949.
I lost a son with a heart of gold,
Who was more to me than wealth untold,
Without a farewell, he fell asleep
With only happy memories for me to keep.
I have lost, but God has gained
One of the best sons the world contained.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by wife, mother, sister.

VANDENBERG—In loving memory of my dear son, Ronald Vandenberg who passed away suddenly Feb. 11, 1945.
Please, God, forgive a silent tear,
A silent wish that my Ronald was here,
There are others, yes, I know,
But he was mine and I loved him so.
Five years ago I had to part
With one I loved with all my heart
The wound's so deep it will not heal
Only those who have lost know how I feel.
Sweet is the spot where he lays,
Many a visit in silence is paid,
To lay down a flower in remembrance of thee.
Never forgotten nor never shall be.
—Too dearly loved and ever shall be by mother, father, sister and brother.

7—Cards of Thanks

Fire Estimates

progress of many of the men on the basis of experience.

Another item of $2,507 was shown in the 1950 estimates under the caption of service pay. It was an arrangement offered by the council to senior men, depending on the acceptance by the firemen's union of the council's terms of agreement for this year.

For extension of the alarm system the figure last year was $650 and expenditure $99.96. The committee is asking for $1,985 this year.

"We need ten new alarm boxes for outlying sections of the city," Ald. Miller said. "Extension is needed in the new housing areas. It was felt that we could put up five this year and five more boxes next year. The first ones installed will be at the farther end of new lines, and next year the department can fill in the gaps. Five boxes will cost $1,000, and $985 is put in for wire, brackets and incidentals in this work of extension."

Service equipment such as duty coats, rubber boots and so on requires $300 this year. The estimate last year was $250, but none of that money was used. Chief Smith, attending the meeting, said some new equipment was needed. Purchase could not be deferred. At one fire, for instance, three coats were burned.

Fleet insurance is up to $925, caused by increased rates. The estimate last year was $625, but the rates boosted that item to $917.65 expendiure.

Uniforms and overcoats: estimate last year $3,240; amount spent $2,887.95; estimate for this year $3,743. Chief Smith said this was the year for overcoats in the cycle of uniform purchases. Overcoats are bought every five years.

Fuel: estimate last year $950; payments $799.52; estimate this year $800.

Incidentals were apparently gone over with a fine tooth comb yielding a cut of $100. The estimate last year was $500; amount spent $441.49; estimate this year $400.

Two items in expenditure last year are not repeated for 1950.

They were: electro-vox communication system for convenience in talking from floor to floor $405 (estimate $500); retiring allowance $2,163.

Materials required for this year, most of them omitted in 1949, are: 500 feet of 2½-inch hose $925; 200 feet of 1½-inch hose $280; two resuscitator cylinders $77; one chemox gas mask $199; eight chemox canisters $60; rebuilding fire alarm batteries $767.

The storage batteries for the fire alarm system have to be overhauled, Chief Smith said.

"Rebuilding is now three years overdue. It should be every five years but the last time this was done wa[illegible] going through the finan[illegible] mittee.

Committee approval was moved by Aldermen Gillespie and Dewart.

Fenders Damaged

Two cars skidded into an accident at Aylmer St. and O'Carroll Ave. Friday evening.

Charles G. Law, 765 Aylmer St., driving north on Aylmer St. said he saw a car driven by Donald C. Asling, 246 Antrim St. approaching the intersection east on O'Carroll Ave.

Both drivers applied brakes and tried to turn to avoid the accident, but the cars collided. The front right fender of the Asling car and the rear left fender of the Law car were damaged. Constable Douglas M. Stark investigated.

Road conditions were also described as very slippery when a truck and a car collided today at Sherbrooke and Water Sts.

Traffic Officer Gordon Trennum reported that Jack Banie, Keene PO, driving east on Sherbrooke, started to turn left into water when he met in collision with a truck driven south on Water St., by Arthur Pearce, 86 Dufferin St.

Money Not Everything

SOUTH KIRBY, England, Feb. 11 (AP)—Edwin Midgley quit his coal mining job and began a life of leisure last year after winning £16,000 ($49,280) in a football pool. Thursday he drove up to his old mine in his sleek black limousine, said he'd put his money away for his old age and asked for his job back again. "I got bored," he explained.

Cobourg Mayor Offers To Resign Post

COBOURG, Feb. 11 (ENS) — Mayor Joseph Smith of Cobourg, under heavy criticism because of a speech he made on February 3, offered to resign if the town council requests it on Monday.

The criticism stems from the mayor's address to the Allied Labor Council of Cobourg when he is said to have used profane language, criticized a restaurant proprietor in town because of his racial origin and "told off" the labor audience.

Since then the weekly Cobourg Sentinel Star whose reporter was at the meeting had demanded Mr Smith's resignation. A special editorial to that effect was published on the front page of Thursday's issue.

On Friday the mayor issued the following statement:

"I have called a council meeting for next Monday night at which time I will bring up the matter of my resignation which has been demanded by the Sentinel Star.

"If the council wants my resignation they can have it," he stated. "I feel that such continued attacks on myself as mayor of this town are doing nothing but harm to Cobourg."

Little Lake Funeral

Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church conducted the funeral services of the late Mrs. Emma McCurdy, on Friday, from her late residence, 39 Stewart St.

Mrs. McCurdy was an active member of Knox United Church. She was a life member of the Missionary Society and honorary president for several years before her death.

Pallbearers were Clyde Ashby, Joseph Lancashire, Alex Gillies, Jack Cunningham, Wilbert Peel and George Self.

Interment was in Little Lake Cemetery.

Actress Asks Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Feb. 11—(AP)—Betty Hutton says she and her husband, camera maker Ted Briskin, "did everything we could to make a success of it, but it was no go." The 28-year-old actress filed suit for divorce Friday. She charged extreme mental cruelty. Miss Hutton asked custody of their two daughters, Lindsay, 3, and Candice, 22 months.

"Mouse," a term for a black eye, once commonly was used as a term of endearment.

Education Week Grown A Lot Within 15 Years

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 — (CP) — Labor unions and women's groups will be among the organizations at the helm of Education Week to be launched across Canada the first week of March.

Inaugurated 15 years ago by the Canadian Teachers' Federation, this tribute to rural and urban education has grown until now almost every school community in Canada looks forward to planning a special program for the "week"—March 5-12.

It will be the first year other organizations have added their names to the list of sponsors. They represent a membership of over 4,000,000 Canadians.

Among them are the Canadian Association for Adult Education; Canadian Federation of Home and School; Canadian School Trustees Association; Canadian Chamber of Commerce; Canadian Congress of Labor; Canadian Federation of Agriculture; Canadian Legion; Canadian Manufacturers' Association; National Council of Women; Trades and Labor Congress.

Expects Big Things

George Croskery, secretary-treasurer of the Teachers' Federation, looks for big things in the 1950 "Week."

"It is a time not only for pride in the achievements of Canadian schools but also for a careful analysis of the needs of education and constructive planning to meet those needs," he says.

"We believe that parents, teachers, trustees and all thoughtful citizens who have the future security and prosperity of this country at heart will need this call to take stock of our educational objectives."

The federation already has distributed some 40,000 pamphlets and expects to distribute 70,000 more, telling what education is about and stressing the fact that it is "everybody's business."

Trumpet Band At RCAF Funeral

COBOURG, Feb. 11. (ENS) — Group Captain William Baker, one of the RCAF originals, who died this week from a heart attack, was buried yesterday in St. Michael's Cemetery with air force honors. A 25-piece trumpet and drum band from Trenton RCAF accompanied the hearse to the cemetery.

The pall bearers were Wing Commander W. I. Riddell of Cobourg and Wing Comamnders W. C. Micholski, R. Mair, F. M. Gobeil, H. W. Sunders and A. Hows. The funeral was attended by about 150 RCAF personnel as well as a large number of local citizens.

Following were the RCAF representatives at the funeral: Air Vice Marshall T. H. Lawrence, Trenton, Group Captain J. H. Ferguson, commanding officer of the RCAF. Equipment Depot, Toronto; Group Captain H. Dowlie, Grimbsy; Wing Commander Walter Murray, Air Post Headquarters, Ottawa; Wing Commander M. Michals[illegible] Wing Com[illegible] was in charge of Flight Lieut. H. Hinton, Trenton.

Fire Prevention Regulations To Be Enforced

Dwellings more than two storeys high and occupied in other than a private capacity, must have proper fire escapes. Otherwise the owner is contravening both the Fire Marshal's Act and Peterborough Building By-Law No. 43.

Fire Chief George Smith told the Examiner that from now on these provisions would be strictly enforced.

Earlier this week the fire, water and light committee submitted a report in which the chief stated at least 15 dwellings in this city have the third floor occupied and yet have no means of escape other than the common stairway.

Instructions have gone out to owners of these buildings that they must be equipped with fire escapes.

Unless the house is privately occupied there must be a secondary means of leaving the upper storeys, should a blaze break out on the floors below.

Following is the relevent part of Peterborough's bylaw:

"All buildings except private dwellings three or more storeys in height, when occupied, shall be provided with proper fire escapes to the satisfaction of the building inspector and fire chief; and the interior exit to the said fire escapes shall be designated by a red light."

Recent disastrous fires in Toronto and at least one minor fire in Peterborough have shown the necessity of strict enforcement of regulations, Chief Smith said.

"It's not a case of getting tough about it. As a matter of fact it's for the protection of the people themselves," he added. "Nearly all the owners I've talked to to date have been quite willing to co-operate."

the organization of Catherine Parr Traill Chapter in Lakefield, which comes under the Municipal jurisdiction, and was at the charter dinner on February 8, 1946, when the first regent, Mrs. L. Quackenbush, was installed. Honorary regent of this chapter is Miss Florence Atwood of Lakefield, a granddaughter of Mrs. Traill.

COE Chapter in Lakefield

As organizing secretary of municipal Chapter, Mrs. C. M. Scott formed a COE chapter in Lakefield which is called Katchewanooka for the lake around which the village is built. Mrs. J. Wright took the position of regent and received the charter on March 7, 1947.

Members of all chapters will on Sunday, February 12, attend the evening service at St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, and bow their heads in memory of the Order's founder, the late Mrs J. Clark Murray of Montreal. And they will comment on realization of this Scottish woman's dream who envisioned an organization of women's and children's chapters in every city and town of Canada, and other parts of the Empire, federated in chapters for service to King and country and tion of the Chapter in Fredericton, N. B. and with steady progress during 50 years they now stretch from PEI to the Yukon and have spread to Bermuda, Bahamas, and India. They are associated with the Victoria League in England and the Daughters of the British Empire in United States. By the wish of the founder, headquarters of the Order were moved to Toronto in 1901 and have remained there. The Provincial Chapter of Ontario has its offices in Hamilton.

Prominent Leaders

Many prominent women of Canada during the past half century have been connected with IODE and in Peterborough there are many whose names are synonomous. Foremost in this respect is Mrs. W. Gordon Hall whose name is on the charter of the first Peterborough Chapter and she has been a member continuously since that time serving as regent and in many executive positions. She is now regent of Municipal Chapter, and is also the honorary regent of Major Bennett Chapter.

First regent of the 57th Regiment Chapter, which in addition to being the first is also the only strictly military chapter was the late Mrs E. B. Clegg. She was its organizer and she also organized Major Bennett Chapter with her daughter Miss Doris Clegg as first regent.

Veteran Members

Other names on the first Chapter's charter are Mrs. Jos Mills Mrs. L. M. Hayes, Mrs. Vincent Eastwood. Miss Minnie Higgins Miss Flora Davidson, Mrs. J H Eastwood, Mrs. T. Hounsell and Miss D. Langford. A year after its formation Mrs. T. A. S. Hay was among those to join the ranks and though now in her 98th year keeps up her membership and interest.

Chapters are bound together by one over-all name and purpose though each may choose a particular phase of education and charity in which to submerge efforts. They are distinguishable by a badge embodying the flag which they wear to signify themselves as loyal subjects. The Order also has a prayer in which praise is given for homes, for the opportunity of service, and asks for blessings upon the royal family those who direct the policies of the country and those in service. To be true in word and deed to British ideals is the members standard; their effort to promote all good works and endeavour to help the helpless, especially those who have suffered from the wars.

Each of the primary chapters in Peterborough is providing funds to furnish a room in the new Civic Hospital, now nearing completion, the donations ranging from $400 to $1,000. The junior chapter has made a donation and Lakefield chapters have signified their intention of doing so.

Having upheld the founder's lofty ideals during 50 years, IODE women are now endeavouring to open the way to a broader and more peaceful future.

If Toronto Amalgamation Passes City Nearly Size Of Montreal

By TIM DICKSON

TORONTO, Feb. 11 — (CP) — Hustling, bustling Toronto, which in a little more than a century has devoloped from Muddy York into Canada's second largest city, is getting ready to push its population over the million mark.

In a controversial amalgamation plan that may go into effect within a few months, the city seeks to add to its present population of roughly 700,000, the 350,000 persons now living in 12 suburbs to the east, west and north.

That will still leave Toronto slighty smaller than Montreal, biggest city in Canada. But mayor Hiram McCallum believes the expanded Toronto could provide living space for close to 2,000,000 citizens and solve the housing problem that has dogged the city for more than five years.

The suburbs, despite the water sewage, transportation and other facilities provided by the city cannot now provide service sufficient to go with the large-scale construction that would alleviate the housing shortage.

Province Favors It

Toronto has applied to the Ontario government for amalgamation. Premier Leslie Frost favors it. Toronto is trying to persuade the suburbs into joining the city. But the province has indicated that it favors unification of the 13 municipalities and some form of merger appears imminent.

Toronto officials picture the expanded city as beautiful and efficient, with park and green belts within easy reach of all citizens, with arterial highways ending traffic jams, with ample school facilities, all the houses the citizens need, accelerated industrial growth and top-notch fire and police protection for the entire area.

Of the suburbs concerned, only the town of Mimico, with population of more than 10,000, has expressed approval of the amalgamation plan.

Opposed are New Toronto, Long Branch, Swansea, Weston, Forest Hill, Leaside, and the townships of Etobicoke, York, North York East York and Scarboro.

2 Main Objections

Two main objections have been raised by the suburbs. They will have to give up their independence, a big concession for the communities that take pride in their local government, and they may have to pay more taxes.

Toronto now supplies water, pumped from Lake Ontario, to several suburbs and is expanding its water system to meet increased demands. It helps at least four neighboring communities with sewage disposal. Its transportation system carries thousands of residents of the suburbs to and from jobs in the city.

Provincial officials see the likelihood of ending the Toronto-area housing shortage as one of the strongest arguments for amalgamation. The city proper is almost entirely built up. Virtually the only space available for building is in the suburban townships —and at the moment the suburbs cannot provide the facilities needed for large-scale housing developments.

Debate Rages

The debate over amalgamation is raging in the news columns and on the editorial pages of Toronto's three daily newspapers and of every suburban weekly, in every council chamber in the area and at a number of public meetings. Leaside citizens are circulating an anti-amalgamation petition and decision will be reached when progress and amalgamation can walk hand in hand.

Stock Markets Steadying By End Of Week

By The Caadian Press

Stock markets were in a two-day movement this week. Selling pressure pushed prices downwards early in the week but support appeared and markets firmed.

Demand continued highly selective. Individual issues and groups reacted more readily to good news.

Bad news was largely ignored by the market. The coal strike and increased unemployment figures had little effect. Observers say that this apparent blindness to bad news is a characteristic of a bull market.

The present bull market has held sway for more than seven months and some streeters say that a reaction is overdue. They believe that reaction would be sharp to sensationally bad news. Others think that the market will become even more selective with investors taking profits in groups that have been rising steadily over the seven months and switching into comparatively forgotten stocks.

Edge Higher

New York dipped the first two days of the week, steadied Wednesday and edged higher Thursday. Profit-taking tended to push prices slightly lower yesterday despite an early buying rush. The Associated Press 60-stock average closed yesterday at 73.5, a loss of .7 from the previous Friday.

Canadian markets completely recovered early losses to edge into higher ground over the five days. Paper stocks held a large share of the limelight, leading the upturn late in the week.

In Toronto, industrials showed a gain of 1.96 from the previous week on the exchange's index of representative stocks. Small gold stocks traded heavily for good gains on development news but market leaders eased, pushing the gold index down .30.

Base metals sagged steadily under moderate pressure for a loss of 1.78.

Western Oils showed the biggest decline—2.13—in dropping to the lowest average price level since late Dec. 1949. Increasing concern by traders over the problem of marketing Alberta oil has been putting pressure on the market.

BONN, Germany, Feb. 11 (AP) —The West German Parliament voted Friday to trim the recently increased prices of gasoline and fuel oil and approved the Federal parliament's proposal to end rationing of gasoline. The action was taken as a parade of 3,000 trucks demonstrating against fuel prices tangled traffic in the capital's narrow streets.

Commoner Has Privileges Denied King In Parliament

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(CP)—The plain, ordinary commoner has more privileges in parliament than the King or his representatives. The commoner can listen at any time during a session to debates in either the House of Commons or the Senate. But time-honored rules and precedents bar the King or the Governors-General who represent him in the Commonwealth countries, from the galleries of either chamber.

The rules and precedents were adopted by Canada when Canadian statesmen decided to copy most British practices in the parliament established with confederation in 1867.

As a result, the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, will preside next Thursday at the opening of the second session of Canada's 21st Parliament. But he won't be around when the Senate and the Commons actually get to work.

Will Read Speech

From the speaker's dais in the stately Senate Chamber, Viscount Alexander will read the speech from the throne. The speech, prepared by Prime Minister St Laurent and his cabinet, will forecast some of the legislation to be presented during the session.

The reading completed, Viscount Alexander will leave. He may come back during the session to give royal assent to legislation but he will never be present during debates.

The record indicate that only one Governor-General — the late Earl of Dufferin, whose term ran from 1872 to 1878—ever attempted to breach the rules. He was promptly told by Sir John A. MacDonald, then Prime Minister, to keep away from the Commons.

Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, who retired last year after 25 years as clerk of the Commons, refers to the incident in the third edition of his book on Parliamentary rules and forms.

Lord Dufferin wrote to Sir John asking that arrangements be made for "some little closet for me in the House of Commons from whence I could hear what was going on."

Breach of Privilege

Sir John replied that opposition speakers would say it was unconstitutional and a breach of privilege for the Crown to hear what was going on in the Commons. They might ask that the chamber be cleared of strangers or they might direct insulting remarks at the representative of the Crown.

Sir John added:

"I do not suppose the opposition leaders would use an unsavory phrase, but there are several truculent blackguards in the House — annexationists and the like—who would like nothing better than a chance of snubbing the sovereign. . ."

Lord Dufferin let the matter drop and his successors have never attempted to gain admittance to the Commons.

Ontario Hydro Plans Office In City

Rural electric light and power consumers will continue to pay their accounts at the Simcoe St office of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, and not at the Aylmer Street office as indicated on their bills. This arrangement will continue it was announced today until the new office of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario is opened. The location of this office has not yet been made public, but it definitely will be in the city.

Since its inception in 1926 the Peterborough Rural Power District, together with the Lakefield Rural Power District, organized in 1931, have been operated by the Peterborough Utilities Commission on a cost plus basis, under and arrangement with the Ontario H.E.P.C. However, due to the increased volume of work in the city, coupled with an equally increased demand for power in the outlaying district, the Peterborough Commission decided to cease rural operations as of December 31, 1949. This decision, the Commision feels, will enable them to give more adequate service to its city consumers.

The Peterborugh Rural Power District in 1926 consisted of a few houses on the outer fringe of the city. These houses were served from existing city lines. Today there are 1,943 consumers taking power from 192.33 miles of primary line, all constructed since that time.

First To Get Rural Power

The village of Bridgenorth and the cottagers on Chemong Lake were among the first to take advantage of rural hydro, the first light being turned on at Bridgenorth during the summer of 1928. The village of Keene was next, being electrified in 1929.

The Lakefield Rural Power District, formed in 1931 was also constructed and operated by the Utilities Commission, until pressure of other work resulted in the Ontario H.E.P.C. opening their own office in Lakefield last fall.

Since 1931 the Peterborough Commission has been responsible for the construction of lines to serve Apsley, Buckhorn, Douro and Crowe's Landing on Stony Lake

That rural electrification based on the general prosperity of the country as a whole is evident from the following figures. The years 1928-1931 saw some 57 miles of line constructed. From 1931 to 1936 the depression years, construction amounted to only 29 miles. From 1937 to the outbreak of war in 1939 some 87 miles of line were completed. Due to the war with its resulting shortage of materials and scarcity of man power only 28 miles of line were built. Since the conclusion of the war rural expansion has again come to the force with 58 miles of line completed at the end of 1949. The demand is still pressing and new lines are being constructed just as fast as the material can be obtained.

Two Courses Open To Gov't Hannam Says

Urges Price Support As Alternative To Big Surpluses

TORONTO, Feb. 15—(CP)—H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said today that Canada should support the price of farm products as an alternative to letting surpluses pile up on the market.

In a prepared speech to the Canadian Club, he said adjustment of agricultural prices is not a farm problem alone.

"Our farm people are calling upon business and labor and the Canadian people as a whole to help us face and meet this situation. We consider it in the interests of the general welfare that they do so.

"The people of Canada naturally want an abundance of food produced in Canada. They like to have enough to supply all their needs and some reserves. So it is best to plan for more than we need.

"With a society based on the family unit and agriculture based on the free enterprise family farm, it is humanly impossible to arrange to produce in any given season the exact supply which the market would take . . .

"Since we are able to produce abundantly in Canada, we have two choices to deal with surpluses which may arise above market requirements.

Two Courses

"We can let the surpluses pile up on the market without support prices, thereby demoralizing the market for that commodity, seriously depressing the farmer's price and destroying his purchasing power. Or the people of Canada as a whole can accept the responsibility for supporting the price of farm products, for holding the surplus and for moving it into consumption either at home or abroad."

Mr. Hannam said that if Canadians want to hold the balance that existed between major economic groups in 1949, they must be willing to share the responsibility for doing so.

3 Men Injured In Plant Blast

TORONTO, Feb. 13 (CP)—An explosion rocked a two-storey metal plant on downtown John St. today sending three employees to hospital and blowing out windows a door and wall partitions. Damage was unofficialy estimated at $2,500.

Robert Hughes and Robert Gray suffered burns and Walter Sims facial cuts.

The explosion was believed caused by a cigaret igniting illuminating gas escaping from pipes.

Some 60 employees of the plant, Hanby and Harman Ltd., were waiting for work to begin at 8 a.m. when the explosion occurred. A change in their habits saved some of the workers from possible serious injury. Instead of sitting on a window sill to await the start of work as was their custom, the men waited in small adjoining rooms. The blast blew the window across the street.

Girl 16 Risks Life To Save 2 In Fire

CHISWICK, Ont., Feb. 13 (CP)—A 16-year-old girl emerged as the heroine in a $6,000 farm home fire here Sunday. She is Evelyn Gagnon, daughter of Louis Gagnon, whose home was levelled in the blaze. Chiswick is 28 miles east of North Bay.

At the height of the blaze she dashed upstairs, hustled two children from their bedroom and dropped them from the head of the stairs to men waiting below. She was then forced to jump from the stair head to avoid being burned. However, her face was singed by flames.

The Gagnons have 14 children, 12 of whom live at home.

Ask 50 Below Zero For Arctic 'War'

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Feb. 13—(CP)—Real winter warfare is feasible in the brutal mountainous "Icebox of America" between here and Alaska, a Canadian general said Sunday, even though the efficiency of the troops drops an estimated two per cent with every new degree below zero.

A column of 900 Canadian soldiers in jeeps, trucks and snow-mobiles struck into that frozen, snow-covered terrain along the Alaska Highway today as the spearhead of an allied Canadian-American force of 5,200 that will meet an "agrressor" invasion and drive it out over the next 10 days.

But the icebox still wasn't cold enough. The planners for the continent's first joint sub-Arctic manoeuvre, Sweetbriar, are hoping for temperatures of 40-50 below zero to put their men and equipment to the full test, to try their infantry and paratroops, their jetplanes and their transport at the northland's bitter best.

As he Canadian column chiefly made up of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, moved towards an "agressor" force of Alaska-based Americans, the weather prospects showed only 20 below, there was snow in the air, plows stalked the vital highway to keep it clear.

ero hour was midnight Sunday night, Yukon time, 4 a.m. EST

Suspect Slain By Police, Plan Inquest

Find Farm Woman Bludgeoned To Death In Kitchen Of House

TORONTO, Feb. 13—(CP)—Commissioner W. H. Stringer of the Ontario Provincial Police said today there will be an inquest into the death of Louis Raes, a tenant farmer slain Saturday night at Comber by a police bullet. Inspector R. H. Wannell of the Criminal Investigation Branch was assigned to the case Sunday, the Commissioner said. Raes, 44, was fatally injured apparently by one of several warning shots fired by three Provincial officers who sought to question him about the murder of Mrs. Ellen Wallace, 48. Mrs. Wallace was bludgeoned to death.

Mrs. Ellen Wallace, 48, a Comber housewife, was found dead in the kitchen of her home when her husband returned to the house after working at his carpenter shop.

Police investigating the slaying went to a farm two miles from here to question Louis Raes, 44, the tenant who had been advised to vacate the farm by Mrs. Wallace, who was named as custodian of the farm by the will of its former owner.

Three Ontario Provincial Police officers approached the farm house after dark. The three, Cpl. Bill Gilbert and Constables Jim Denver and Stanley Cragg, said that after identifying themselves as policemen they ordered Raes to accompany them.

His reply, according to the policemen, was: "Get the hell out of here, or I'll shoot."

Open Fire

When Raes rushed from the house, the officers said they all opened fire with warning shots, but Raes dropped. He was taken to hospital in Windsor where he died late Saturday night from a bullet wound in the head.

Police said the only weapon they found at Raes' house was the steel-headed machinists' hammer with which he attacked the three officers. No gun was found.

William Wallace, 50-year old carpenter husband of the slain woman, found her dead on the floor of her kitchen. Her head had been battered by blows from a stout kitchen chair which lay in pieces near the body.

Wallace told police that Friday he had mailed to Raes a registered notice from his wife, ordering Raes' eviction from the farm by March 1, because Raes had not been working the farm properly and Mrs. Wallace's share of the crop was not large enough.

Wanted For Questioning

Sgt. W. M. Durnford, commanding the Essex Provincial Police detachment, said "I sent those men to that farmhouse to bring him (Raes) into Comber for questioning."

After the shooting at the farmhouse police said they found a steel-headed machinist's hammer lying near the spot where Raes fell.

Raes, who farmed the land for the last four or five years, was seen heading for Comber on Saturday afternoon, according to the police. They added, however, that so far they had not found anyone who saw him enter the Wallace residence.

U.S. Official Dies

TORONTO, Feb. 13—(CP)—Word was received here Sunday of the death in hospital at Washington, D.C., of George L. Tolman, formerly on the staff of the U.S. Consulate here, who was stricken in Newfoundland two weeks ago and taken by air to Washington for treatment. He died Friday.

Joplings Pay $17,000 To Department

Payment of nearly $17,000 to the Department of Revenue resulted in a withdrawal of 12 charges in police court today against four members of the Jopling family of making or letting be made "false statements" about their incomes and hence the amount they should pay in income taxes and excess profits taxes.

The four men charged were: Harry L., James G., Charles G. and Jack H., all of Bridgenorth.

Wilfrid F. Huycke, KC, who was conducting the prosecution said taxation officials felt the offences were not the result of deliberate attempts to evade taxes.

He said he did not want to appear to be using the court as a method of collection.

"It's very similar to it," Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, observed.

Ralph Standish, representing James G. Jopling, said there had been no evasion, no false statements and no fraud on the part of his client. He said mistakes had been made by auditors in interpreting some records of transactions.

Reresenting Harry L., Charles G. and Jack H., Alex L. Elliott, KC, said there had been no attempt by his clients to hide their activities. He said the whole story of their business dealings was told in their record of bank negotiations.

He said it was merely a case of the Joplings relying on auditors to estimate correctly income taxes to be made.

Six of the charges were against Harry L. Jopling. They involved false statements concerning his income for 1941, 1942, 1943 and 1944. He was also charged with making false statements concerning his excess profits tax for 1943 and 1944.

James G. Jopling faced four charges, three of them of making false statements about his income for 1941, 1942 and 1943. The fourth was of making false statements about his liability for paying excess profits tax for 1943.

Both Jack H. and Charles G. Jopling were charged with making false statements about their 1944 income.

Two Gunmen Lie In Wait At His Office

2nd Official Robbed Of Society Funds, Also Loses Good Ring

TORONTO, Feb. 13—(CP)—More than $12,000 was reported stolen from officials of the Lebanese Society and the Hebrew Benevolent Society in separate holdups Sunday and today.

Naiffe Stephen, 40, Toronto business man and head of the Lebanese Society, told police he was robbed of $11,800 today by two holdup men who waited for him to arrive at his office. He said it was his personal money, which he had brought to his midtown Dundas penthouse office to deposit in a bank.

Two thugs Sunday robbed Sam Drillisky, 68, secretary-treasurer of the Hebrew Benevolent Society, of $595 belonging to the Society and a ring valued at $350. Drillisky said the masked men attacked him in the basement of his home and battered him unconscious with gun butts.

Stephen's office in the Hermant Building is reached by elevator to the 15th floor and then by the stairs to the 16th.

Behind Door

Two husky men were standing behind a door as he entered, Stephen told police. They used telephone wire to tie him to a chair. Two handkerchiefs were stuffed into his mouth.

The robbers cuffed him across the face, he said, grabbed his wallet, containing the $11,000 and a watch. One man threatened to throw him out the 16th floor window, Stephen said.

Police said the office door had not been forced, indicating the bandits had a key.

Don Wright, a radio announcer, found Stephen about an hour after the holdup. He heard the moans coming from Stephen's office.

Youth Breaks Back In Bush

TORONTO, Feb. 13 — (CP)—Red-haired Francis Vocal, 21, a lumberjack-teamster from Cinq Camille de Belle Chasse, is in hospital here today with a broken back after an acicdent last Tuesday in Northern Ontario.

He was brought to Toronto on Saturday after a trip by sled, truck, train and aircraft following an accident in sub-zero weather near White River.

Vocal was carried eight miles over deep snow by brothers Leo and Jacques Lambert to White River after he was struck by a log falling off a sled.

He was taken to hospital at Chapleau, where he spent four days, and then flown to North Bay. A second aircraft brought him to Toronto.

Armed Bandits Shoot It Out, Escape Police

HAMILTON, Feb. 13—(CP)—Two armed bandits fleeing in a stolen car shot it out with police late Sunday night and finally escaped through a barrage of gunfire after their car crashed on MacNab Street North.

The bandits, in the wild chase through downtown streets, fired over a dozen shots at pursuing officers and gave a final blast as they emerged from the car and escaped in the darkness of a laneway.

The chase started after police spotted the car emerging from an alleyway. Suspecting that something might be amiss they started after the vehicle with the intentions of questioning the driver.

In a matter of seconds the chase was on. The high powered car was owned by Dea Barrett and reported stolen earlier in the evening.

One of the bandits opened the door of the stolen car and blasted three shots at the pursuing police car but fortunately none hit.

The police then took not shots at the fleeing car but the speed of both machines eliminated any hopes of accuracy.

Abrupt End

In a matter of minutes, however, the chase of nearly three miles came to an abrupt end. As the bandits reached Main Street their car was struck in the rear by another car. The stolen vehicle travelled from curb to curb until it crashed into a meter almost in front of a cocktail lounge.

During the chase Detective Sgt. Howard Moreau kept up a running description over the the radio to other police cars which were now joining in.

Constables John Fraser and Donald McFarlane were the first to reach the scene after the stolen car crashed. As they emerged from their car three shots were fired, one narrowly missing them.

Hearing Delayed

TORONTO, Feb. 13 — (CP) — Toronto's application for annexation of 12 adjoining municipalities may not be heard by the Ontario Municipal Board before March 13. W. P. Near, vice-chairman, said today that the board has only one free day, Feb. 27, before March 13. The Feb. 27 date is being given to an assessment hearing. "If there is some real urgency for the Toronto hearing, however, the board will cancel another date," Mr. Near added.

ALONG THE FROZEN BORDER between Alaska and the Yukon, US and Canadian airborne troops are taking their positions for the sub-Arctic manouevre, "Exercise Sweetbriar". More than 5,000 troops are assembled at Whitehorse (marked by flags on map). From there will be launched an airborne attack on Northway Airfield as part of a drive to repel "aggressor forces" (A) in Alaskan territory between Anchorage and Fairbanks. Below are rows of Jamesway huts at Northway Airfield, which provide shelter for troops in the exercises.

Only A Stone Hits Windshield

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Britain's director of naval intelligence raised a furor Saturday — soon quieted by Scotland Yard and Uxbridge police—with a report that gunmen had shot at him from a speeding automobile.

The windshield of Rear-Admiral Longley-Cook's car was smashed and he said he thought the missiles were bullets. But police authorities suggested a stone was to blame. Moreover, the owner of the mysterious car had been seen and everything was all right, they reported.

The rear-admiral created the sensation in the midst of a country-wide counter - espionage check-up touched off by the Fuchs atom spy case. He reported that two bullets from an American-made sedan crashed through his windshield as he and Mrs Longley-Cook were driving on the main street of Uxbridge, on London't western outskirts.

After investigators had examined the rear-admiral's car, police at Uxbridge said there were definitely no bullet holes in the windshield. A spokesman speculated the windshield might have been shattered by a stone thrown up from the road by the car he had chased.

Towers Sees Sharp Contrast In US-Canadian Economy

OTTAWA, Feb. 13—(CP)—Graham F. Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada, said today in his annual report that there was a sharp contrast between the trends of the Canadian and United States economies in 1949. The report was presented to Finance Minister Abbott.

Mr. Towers said that changes in United States business conditions normally exercise a very strong influence on the Canadian situation. "It is a matter of interest, therefore that there should have been such a sharp contrast between the trends evident in the two economies during 1949," he said. "Broadly speaking, Canada did not show any serious effects from the rather sharp recession which took place in the United States during the first half of 1949."

During this period the seasonally-adjusted index of industrial production declined 12 per cent in the United States while the Canadian index rose slightly. Retail trade in Canada during the first half of 1949 continued to show appreciable gains over 1948 while United States retail sales no more than held their own in relation to the previous year.

Sharp Contrast

In the first six months of 1949 United States wholeale prices and cost-of-living declined five per cent and one per cent, respectively, while the comparable

Twisters Strike Death Toll 34

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 13 — (AP)— Tornadoes twisted death-dealing winds through Northwestern Louisiana, East Texas, and Southern Arkansas during the week-end. Thirty-four persons were reported killed and 200 injured.

Twenty-six were believed dead in Louisiana, all in a 40-mile radius of Shreveport. There were eight known dead in Texas.

Louisiana's injured was estimated at 100. So was the number of persons hurt in Texas. Hundreds of homes and other buildings were smashed.

The tornadoes—spawned Saturday when a mass of cold air collided with a mass of warm, moist air — struck at least 20 times in less than 24 hours.

Twisters in Texas killed three women near the little sawmill town of Haslam and an 18-months-old boy and his father in a community south-west of Lufkin.

Arkansas reported much less damage and no injuries from a single tornado.

Driving Snow Storm Hits Western Ontario

WINDSOR, Feb. 13 (CP) — Driving snow blanketed Essex county and Windsor today, threatening highway traffic with its drifts. Between its beginning early today and nine a.m., three inches of snow fell and the weatherman predicted another two inches before the storm abates.

The storm extends throughout Essex, Kent and Lambton Counties, highways officials said.

Coroner Races To Body Finds Corpse Alive

CHATHAM, Feb. 13 —(CP)—While his shocked mother mourned his death and a coroner rushed to examine his body, pale-cheeked Donald Doan slumped on the Canadian National Railways tracks at Bothwell Saturday and shuddered over the closest call of his 24 years.

He had faced death a few moments earlier when a freight train plowed into his 1940-model car leaving it in a shattered, shapeless heap. But Doan got up and walked away. After the train had stopped, members of the train crew took a look at the wreckage and telephoned Coroner R. H. Walker. Others called the boy's mother and reported her son had been killed and in hysterics she ran to the scene.

But Doan was alive, having suffered nothing more than scratches, and shock.

Einstein Warns Mankind H-Bomb Means Annihilation

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Dr Albert Einstein warns mankind to stop fighting—or disappear from the face of the earth.

Development and use of the oxygen bomb, he said, possibly could cause "annihilation of any life on earth" through radioactive poisoning of the atmosphere.

The man who gave science the theoretical knowledge needed to make the H-bomb presented a general two-point formula Sunday for saving the peoples of the world from "general annihilation":

1. A ban on violence among nations, "not only with respect to means of mass destruction."

2. Creation of a "supra-national judicial and executive body superior to any country to decide questions of immediate concern to the security of the nationals."

Einstein's views were given in the first of a series of television shows conducted by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The scientist, a leader in the institute for advanced study at Princeton N.J., did not appear on the program in person. His statement was given by transcription in a discussion on the H-bomb.

Calling for peace moves to "do away with the mutual fear and distrust," Einstein said the present arms race between the United States and Russia has developed a "hysterial character."

"Every step," he said, "appears as the unavoidable consequence of the preceding one. In the end, there beckons more and more clearly general annihilation."

Happy Days Again!

OTTAWA, Feb. 13—(CP)—The revenue Department has shipped 20,000,000 income tax forms for the 3,250,000 persons who must pay taxes on their 1949 incomes. There's one consolation for them this year, however. About 2,000,000 of them will split an estimated $53,000,000 in refunds. That many taxpayers, the Revenue Department said today, overpaid their taxes during the first three months of last year before taxes were reduced in the 1949 budget. The refunds won't be paid until 1949 returns are filed.

Grady Doing Fine Has 110-Pound Son

YUKON, Okla., Feb. 13 (AP)—It's a strapping 110-pound son for Grady the cow, who upset the whole country a year ago by leaping into a silo.

The famed Hereford, not half so jittery now, is doing fine. Grady II is too.

Last February Grady's calf died almost immediately after birth. It was then she made the frenzied leap into a silo which became her prison for five days.

After hundreds of well-meant but fruitless suggestions, Grady's liberator came: A good greasing by farm editor Ralph Partridge of The Denver Post, and she slipped right through. Cow lovers everywhere breathed easier.

Fear Red Rally In Berlin Will Have Repercussions

BERLIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—A half million young Communists have an appointment in Berlin this May.

The west views the scheduled Red youth rally as one of the most potentially explosive situations ever planned by the Communists in their never-ending putsch to expand in Germany.

The question now being pondered by the west Berlin city government and the western allies is simply this: What will happen with 500,000 young fanatics in this town? The answer can be trouble. The problem is how to avoid it.

Communist plans for the giant youth congress already have been announced. Rallies, sports carnivals and a climactic torchlight parade are scheduled for May 26, 27 and 28. Ostensibly these activities are to be held in the Soviet sector, but there is no guarantee. In fact, Communist spokesmen hint strongly they would like to extend the rally into the west sectors.

Since December, allied intelligence has been considering all the angles. A new factor crept in when Gerhart Eisler, Communist press agent, said the rally would like to use the British sector's Olympic stadium for a sports carnival. An official request was made for its use.

The west thus finds itself in this position:

Shall the stadium be loaned to the Communists for a sports carnival that is frankly political? Or shall the request be denied on the ground that West Berlin wants nothing to do with a Communist activity?

Angry Miners Continue Walkout Policy, Defy Truman And Lewis

U.S. Federal Court Order Finally Issued After President Decides Health and Safety Of Country Endangered

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 13—(AP)—Thousands of angry coal miners continued their "no contract, no work" strike today in defiance of the government and their leader, John L. Lewis. First reports from the big soft coal states of West Virginia and Pennsylvania indicated the majority of the 370,000 strikers in the United States will stay at home regardless of President Truman's decision that opened the way for an injunction under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act ordering the strikers back to the pits.

The Federal court order was issued after the President decided the "national health and safety" of the country was endangered by the country-wide strike.

The government indicated it will not seek contempt of court citations if all the diggers fail to report immediately. An official explained this is because of the time required to get the back-to-work orders to the fields.

An indication of sentiment came as overnight crews failed to report at six mines in West Virginia and two in Pennsylvania. The mines employ 6,190 diggers.

Three-day Week

While the soft coal strike continued, some 80,000 anthracite (hard coal) miners continued to work in eastern Pennsylvania under the three-day work week imposed by Lewis on the industry at large. And about 30,000 miners covered by new contracts obtained by Lewis with minor soft coal operators also were ready to dig.

The anthracite miners got time and one-half pay, though, for foregoing the traditional Lewis anniversary holiday. The UMW chief quietly observed his 70th birthday Sunday but is a holiday today under the old anthracite contract.

The soft coal diggers don't get the holiday under their contract. Last year, however, they observed it by simply staying at home

And 6,000 diggers in Oklahoma and Arkansas said they wouldn't work today because of a double celebration—the birthdays of Lewis and Abraham Lincoln. Union officials wouldn't comment on what might happen tomorrow.

Not Much Effect

The government's double-barrelled legal action during the weekend didn't have much effect on the striking miners. Neither did Lewis' demand that they return to work forthwith. In rapid-fire order there were these developments:

1—President Truman's fact-finding board told him it was "imperative" to protect the national health and safety by getting coal production resumed.

2—Truman asked for an injunction ordering the diggers back to work.

3—Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech issued a 10-day temporary order for Lewis and his miners to end their strike. He also set a hearing for February 20 to determine whether the directive should be continued for the full 80 days provided by the Taft-Hartley Act.

4—Keech also signed an order directing Lewis and his union to drop four major demands in future negotiations for a new contract. This order was requested by major coal operators.

Judge Keech also asked Lewis to resume bargaining in good faith. Lewis telegraphed major operators he would meet with them on Wednesday.

Expect Russia Return To U.N.

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 13 (CP)—Russia's return to United Nations' meeting within a month is predicted by Western diplomatic sources.

They base their prediction on an expected switch in French, Egyptian and Eucadorian policy to vote for ousting from the Security Council of Dr. Tingu F. Tsiang, top Chinese Nationalist delegate.

Britain, India, Norway, Yugoslavia and Russia are the council members which have recognized Communist China. While Britain and Norway continue to abstain on any moves to oust the Chinese Nationalists, they are reported ready to vote for their removal when there is a majority ready to do so.

France and Egypt are not expected to recognize the Peiping regime but they could nevertheless vote for Tsiang's ouster, diplomatic sources said. Ecuador has been reported preparing to break relations with Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa government and give outright recognition to the Chinese Communists.

New Committee To Replace Atomic Group

OTTAWA, Feb. 13 (CP)—The Atomic Energy Committee, after a one-session stand in parliament, probably won't be resurrected.

At the new session opening Thursday the government is expected to propose in its place a parliamentary committee on the National Research Council.

Purpose of this committee, which would include members of all four parties in the Commons, would be to make parliament and the people more familiar with the work of N.R.C.

Since the council is responsible for atomic energy development and the Chalk River plant, the committee will also get another chance to see what Canada is doing on nuclear research.

However, there might be an attempt to limit the committee's opportunities to check up on the atomic energy side of N.R.C. work. This could spark argument in the Commons.

The committee could, however, help familiarize Canadians with the industrial side of atomic development in which Canada is a world leader.

It is understood the government would oppose reappointment of a committee to deal with atomic energy development alone on the rounds that it would serve no useful purpose beyond what was accomplished last session.

U.S. Foreign Policy To Get Overhaul

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The United States Government was reported today to be taking a new, over-all look at American foreign policy to determine just where the U.S. now stands in the conflict with Russia.

The study is being made by the National Council. This agency embraces the State Department, the Defence Department and other government agencies.

Responsible officials said that the present review is not expected to produce any new turn in the direction of major foreign policy. It may, however, lead to some answers of questions raised by the long argument over the projected hydrogen bomb, its possible uses and its impact on world affairs.

Open questions are said to include: whether the United States is more powerful in relation to Russia as the result of the H-bomb possibilities, how long it may be expected to hold any edge it has, what effect the possible new weapon will have on strategic planning by the U.S. and how the bomb should be used.

Prices Dip Lower On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 13 — (CP).—Prices dipped lower in moderately active dealings on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Western oils led the steady decline on losses ranging up to 15 cents.

Volume for the first three hours was 522,000 shares.

The decline in Western oils was a continuation of last week's steady drop that pulled the list to the lowest average price level since late December, 1949. Calgary and Edomnton dipped 15 cents at $7.10 and Central Leduc, Royalite and Pacific Petroleum were off 10 cents.

Base metals also sagged on penny losses. Steep Rock, Sherritt, Golden Manitou, New Calumet and Falconbridge showed declines ranging up to 7 cents. Noranda eased ¼ at 68¾. United Keno Ill found support for a 10-cent gain at $3.80.

Declines ranged up to 5 cents in a handful of junior gold producers. Seniors were at a standstill.

Market leaders dipped in industrials: Losses ranged from fractions to a full point.

Second Drunk Charge Man Fined Fifty

Charged with a second offence drunk charge, Ralph Winters, 51, of 431 Chambers St., pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court today.

James Heffernan, 56, of no fixed address, was charged with vagrancy today in police court. No plea was taken. Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said an attempt had been made to have Heffernan taken in by the Anson House, the House of Refuge in Lakefield, or the House of Providence without success.

He will appear in court Tuesday in answer to the vagrancy charge.

Canada Leads Way

SHERBROOKE, Feb. 13—(CP)—Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of air staff, Ottawa, Saturday night told RCAF veterans that Canada was two years ahead of England and the United States in the field of all-weather fighter planes. Speaking at a banquet of Wing 303 of the RCAF Association, Air Marshal Curtis revealed that the RCAF was now operating an all-weather aircraft with a range of more than 500 miles.

Dynamite Blast Shakes Valley, Diverts River

MATTAWA, Ont., Feb. 13 (CP)—Hydro officials termed "entirely successful" the great man-made explosion in which 13 tons of dynamite here used to blast a temporary diversion channel for the Ottawa River Sunday.

The big, deep artificial channel had been dug previously for nearly half a mile on the Quebec side of the river near this town, 40 miles east of North Bay. The river will flow through this channel until the great new hydro-electric dam at LaCave is completed some time in 1952.

The dynamite had been placed in 3,000 separate holes, some of them dug deep in the rock, to remove the 500-foot-wide rock that had been left as a "plug" at the upper end of the diversion channel.

Detailed arrangements had been completed before the big blast. Special buses transported men, women and children from the two residential colonies for construction workers to the police barriers a mile from the scene of the blast. An ambulance and first aid workers stood by, but no injuries were reported.

Last-minute inspection of the area and long warning whistles preceded the explosion. A veteran dynamite man, Aylmer Backa, pushed the plunger.

Shakes Valley

From specially - constructed vantage points officials saw the mighty cloud of smoke shot with flame as tons of earth, rock and ice hurtled into the sky. The explosion shook the river valley for miles around.

As huge pieces of rock flew through the air there was some damage. Holes were torn in the steel Bailey bridge across the river, hydro poles splintered like match-sticks, cat-walks were shattered and some steam-pipes burst. Telephones were torn from their hooks and one big boulder crashed through the roof of a work shed a quarter mile distant.

But repair crews of construction men, electrical, pipe-fitting and other workers were all ready and they poured into the area immediately after the "all clear" to clean up the debris.

High officials present for the event included A. A. Richardson, project manager at the Des Joachims dam.

Towers Sees

Canadian indexes declined only two per cent in the case of wholesale prices and the cost-of-living index rose one per cent.

"It woud seem that part of the explanation for the difference in business trends during the first half of 1949 was the fact that the United States recession appeared to originate largely as an inventory adjustment and more or less remained confined to this sphere thanks to the well-maintained aggregate demand for goods and services in finished form," said Mr. Towers.

Elsewhere in the report, Mr. Towers made these points:

1. Net profit from operations of the publicly-owned bank in 1949, after providing for contingencies and reserves, was $20,667,378. Payment of a dividend of $225,000 on capital stock held by the Minister of Finance left $20,442,378 available, compared with $19,107,147 in 1948.

2. The bank's note issue at Dec. 31, 1949, was $1,307,424,146, an increase over the year of $18,343,813 as compared with the increase of $77,729,948 during 1948.

3. In 1949, the government was able to reduce the outstanding direct domestic funded debt by approximately $900,000,000, of which $286,000,000 represented the repayment of refundable taxes.

Chinese Unable To Choose Gov't

VANCOUVER, Feb. 13 (CP)—The masses of Communist-dominated China still are without a government of their choice, a former Chinese newspaper publisher who rejects Reds and Nationalists alike, said Sunday.

"Neither side represents the Chinese people," said John T. T. Ma, who lost six daily newspapers when the Communists swept over his country. "The Nationalist force today does not represent the Chinese people any more than do the Russians."

The publisher, his wife, who acts as his interpreter, and their six-year-old daughter, Joan, arrived here from Hong Kong Saturday aboard the SS Washington Mail. They are en route to Washington, D.C., where he will edit a Chinese magazine.

In an interview Sunday, he said the flag of Soviet Russia cloaks his homeland.

In Peiping when the Chinese "people's army" occupied the city he said the first Russians appeared about two weeks later.

Some 20 reporters Sunday heard Maj.-Gen. M. H. S. Penhale, Canadian army chief in western command, say it would be feasible under real war conditions to fight a force of 5,000 men up here. The primary limitations, he said, would be logistics and supply.

Gen. Penhale said one of the lessons to be learned from this exercise is the ability of the forces of the two countries to direct an operation with an interlocking command, that's why Sweetbriar is being run by a complex and elaborate headquarters setup big enough to run a show much larger than this.

PRAGUE, Feb. 13—(AP)—A Moravian State court at Jihlava Saturday sentenced three men to death on charges of plotting to assassinate prominent leaders and overthrow the Czechoslovakian government. Two other defendants were sentenced to life terms and 18 were sentenced to from four to 25 years. Only one had pleaded guilty.

Britons Face Food Rations Another Year

Dr. Summerskill Sure No Relaxation No Matter Who Wins

LONDON, Feb. 13—(CP)—The long-suffering British householder must face the prospect of another year of food-rationing.

Authority for this statement is Dr. Edith Summerskill, parliamentary secretary to Food Minister Strachey, who believes rationing will continue throughout 1950 no matter what party comes out on top in the Feb. 23 general election. She even doubts if it will be possible to relax existing restrictions.

Dr. Summerskill says that during the 4½ years she has been associated with the Food Ministry she has come to realize that too many factors enter into the rationing picture to risk glowing promises.

"But I do feel generally optimistic," she said. "I don't think we shall have to ration any foods that are not rationed now. On the other hand, I cannot promise that any further staple food will be taken off rations this year."

Encouraging Progress

With an increased allowance of many necessities, and milk, potatoes, bread and jam off the restricted list, she thought encouraging progress was being made in the derationing program.

Those who complain about rationing in Britain while other European countries — even Germany—are not restricted, should realize, she says, there where derationing has occurred, supplies available are largely governed by price.

By way of explanation, Dr. Summerskill said that food subsidies in Britain worked out at about 14 shillings (about $2.17) a week for a family of four. Controls on food probably could be lifted by abolishing these subsidies, but lower income groups would not be able to buy their share.

"When we abolished sweets rationing there was not enough to go around and the greedy got the big share," she declared. "We are not going to risk that with staple foods. We are determined to pursue a policy of fair shares for all until supply equals demand."

Mayor Resigns As Manager Cobourg Arena

COBOURG, Feb. 13—(ENS)—Mayor Joseph Smith today revealed that he has resigned as manager of the Recreation Centre. The board of directors received the following letter from the mayor: "I am sending my resignation as manager of the recreation centre and I would point out it is based on personal feelings as my association with the board has been most pleasant. However, I feel that you should have a manager who can put his whole time to the job.

"I am prepared to stay with you until a new manager has been appointed, but I find the hours long and tiring."

The board of management, in confirming the resignation today, said it would advertise for a new manager.

Face 8 Theft Counts

TORONTO, Feb. 13 — (CP) — Two youths were arrested at gunpoint Sunday and charged with eight counts of auto theft, breaking and entering, and carrying a concealed weapon. William Duffy, 18, and Clifford Hogarth, 23, both of Toronto, eluded Ontario police Saturday night but were arrested after a brief automobile chase Sunday.

Have Own Wool Plant

DINAS MIAWDDWY, MERIONETHSHORE, Wales, Feb. 13—(CP).—A wartime dream of Welsh sheep farmers has come true. A co-operative woollen factory is now operating at Dinas Miawddwy. More than 700 Welsh farmers subscribed a share capital of £30,868 ($95,690) to start the factory. Idea of the factory was born before the war when raw wool prices sometimes fell as low as 4½d a pound. It gave farmers the incentive to start production of their own raw wool.

Five Groups Of Boy Scouts Meet In Cobourg

COBOURG, Feb. 13 (ENS) — Boy Scouts of Port Hope, Castleton, Brighton, Campbellford and Cobourg met here during the week-end for the Bronze Arrowhead Training Course. In the past few months, the Scout movement has been stimulated by the efforts of adults interested in boys' work and there has been a gradual growth of the project.

The sessions were held in the Salvation Army Hall and opened Friday night. Junior Butler was in charge of registration and the opening session was led by Art Jackson, Trenton, field commissioner for eastern Ontario. Lou Griffith of Cobourg, district commissioner, welcomed the Scouts to the course. Also present was John Ewart, Cobourg, assistant district commissioner.

The first study group was taken by Lieut D. W. Rae of the Salvation Army, former Scout commissioner, with "Patrol Spirit" as the subject. At eight p.m. Art Jackson took the group on "Patrol Instruction." A study group on "Patrol Organization" was in charge of John Ewart. The evening session closed with a "camp fire", a sing-song and hot dogs

The Saturday session opened with Art Jackson presiding and after games conducted by Junior Butler, the scouts were given a talk on "Troop Patrol" by John Ewart. Cyril Murphy instructed the Scouts in mapping and Art Jackson gave them instruction in the Boy Scout Court of Honor.

The afternoon session opened with games after which Cy Winters gave a demonstration of Scout knots. Session discussions covered height and distance" by Lieut. Rea; signalling by John Ewart: wood craft by Cy Winter; patrol system by Art Jackson.

At a dinner in the evening, held in the Baltimore Hotel, Lou Griffiths was chairman. Earl Shoemaker, president of the local Boy Scout Association, welcomed the visitors. Movies were shown by Win Fisher. Grace was said by Lieut. Rea and the closing prayer was said by Rev. P. J. Collins.

Speaking to his congregation in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church on Sunday, Father Collins said he was glad to see the Scouts organized again in Cobourg.

U.S. Airmen Say Paratroopers Saved Lives In Mountain Crash

By GRAHAM TROTTER

WHITEHORSE, Y.T., Feb. 13 (CP)—"Everyone had a helluva sinking sensation in his stomach as the aircraft hit the mountain top. It was as though we had been in an elevator and the floor had dropped out from underneath us."

Those were the words of Lieut Don. King, of Belleville, N.J., as the 28-year-old pilot described from a hospital bed how the U.S.A.F. Dakota search plane crashed on a mountain peak 84 miles northwest of here Tuesday

The story of the crash, the three days spent in 20-below-zero weather by the plane's 10 survivors on the desolate mountain peak, and the rescue Friday by helicopter is an epic of the north.

"We were flying through a mountain pass when the weather glommed in on us," said King. "We hit one air pocket and then another. We were caught and just couldn't get out. Visibility was practically nil. We swerved away from jutting rocks and just before we pancaked at the top of the mountain I pulled the stick back."

Moved In Time

Said Master Sgt. Charles Dunne, a radio operaor from Los Angeles: "I didn't realize we were about to crash until I looked over at the assistant engineer and saw his eyes open like saucers. I had got half-way out of my seat when we hit. A propeller came through the fuselage and broke my leg. If I'd still been in my seat it would have killed me."

Pte. Ray Sweeney of Halifax, N.S., one of the five Canadian paratroopers aboard the plane as scanners, said "Everyone screamed 'fire—get out, she'll burn'."

"Gasoline was running out of the tanks and the crew was soaked with it. We all got out fast and there was no fire.

Made Splints

Leiut. King and Pte. Dick Clappisan of Halifax, another paratrooper, made splints for Dunne's broken leg. The injured radio operator stayed in the wrecked aircraft throughout the three days, wrapped in 10 sleeping bags But he never slept a wink, the pain was so intense.

"Those paratroopers were wonderful," he said "They took care of us. If it hadn't been for them we'd have frozen to death."

Sgt. Edward Wesloski of Milwaukee and the co-pilot, Lieut Homer Zachariae of Tulsa, Okla cracked out distress signals on the Gibson Girl set for two hours after the crash.

Sweeney and two other paratroopers, L. Cpl Mike Chimko of Kelvingston, Sask., and Pte Jack Shaw of Winnipeg, hacked an igloo-like shelter out of a snowbank and most of the survivors slept in it the first night

See Signal

A search plane was seen passing overhead the next morning and Chimko fired a Very pistol The plane crew saw the signal and dropped rations

"They dropped us a message telling us to make the letter O in the snow if none of us was injured and the letter X if any were injured," said Sweeney

"We built our first fire that day when the planes dropped wook to us and we thawed out the canned fruit juice It was bitterly cold all the time and the wind seemed to cut right through us.

"Then the para-rescue men and a doctor parachuted down, landing about 300 feet down from the plane. We ran to greet them. All I could say to them was 'welcome. I was so happy . . . .

"On the third day we started down the mountain to the helicopter which was waiting at the base to take us off. The mountain sloped at a 45-degree angle most of the way doyn. We rolled down most of the way."

Mail Car Joyrides

ROSENEATH, Feb. 13 (ENS) —Leaving his mail car at the top of Atkinson's Hill Saturday to seek assistance from J. S. Atkinson in taking it down the slippery slopes, Leslie Sherwin return from the Atkinson house to find the car was no longer in the place he had left it. Walking to the brow of the hill, he saw it had slid down the hill and was resting in the ditch, caught by two stumps. He had left it with the emergency brake on.

Tracks in the snow showed the car had swerved to both sides of the road before going into the ditch. It was removed by a tractor without having sustained much damage.

Looking Ahead In Ottawa

May Dump Freight Rates In Cabinet's Lap Again

OTTAWA, Feb. 12—(CP)—The turbulent freight-rates issue may be dumped in the lap of the cabinet again. There is a possibility that a new appeal to the cabinet will develop from a rate decision of the Board of Transport Commissioners, expected in the next few weeks.

The Board has finished hearing a railway application for the remainder of a 20-per-cent increase it sought in 1948, and of which the Commissioners awarded eight per cent. last September.

Should the Board award the carriers a hefty additional increase—say a total of 15 of the original 20 per cent—informed sources say the seven provinces objecting to rate increases very probably will carry an appeal to the Cabinet, which can review decisions of the Board.

The provinces took their first rate appeal to the cabinet in 1948 after the board had granted the carriers a 21-per-ent hoist. The cabinet ordered the board to review the case and, while the commissioners did not reverse their decision, the review did set up a different basis for establishing rates and had the effect of holding down the amount of the second increase granted last fall.

A second outgrowth of that appeal was the establishment of the Royal Commission on Transportation, currently in the last stages of hearing investigation into national transport problems.

Within the next week the Canadain Maritime Commission is expected to begin advising shipowners on the answer to applications for subsidy or permission to transfer to United Kingdom registry.

The applications were made under the federal government's program to salvage part of Canada's shipping industry. This is to be done by providing a total of $3,000,000 in subsidies to be split among about 40 ships while permitting others to transfer to U.K registry where it is easier to get freight jobs

Ship-owners have been discussing their applications with the commission in Ottawa for the last 10 days. The commission now has a fair idea of which owners want subsidies and which want transfer

Berlin Blockaders Could Learn Tricks From U.S.

There has been considerable criticism of the manner in which the Russians are acting at Berlin. Their recent blockade has called forth a fresh outburst of criticism, but it remained for an American correspondent to point out that his fellow country men could probably teach the Russians a few tricks. The correspondent is Peter Edson, who writes from Washington for the NEA service.

* * *

Mr. Edson cites the case of John L. Lewis. In July, Mr. Lewis ordered a three day working week in the coal mines east of the Mississippi. On September 19, he ordered a full strike. On November 11, the miners went back to work. On the 1st of December, the three day week was reimposed. The Russians would find it difficult to equal that record. They would also find it difficult to equal the ingenuity of Joseph Beirne, of the C.I.O. Telephone Workers' Union. He has invented a new technique in blockading—a speed-up instead of a slow down. Contemplating a strike, Mr. Beirne has recommended that all union men make as many telephone calls as possible in order to flood the switchboards.

* * *

Organized labour, however, is not the only offender. Certain business groups do rather well in this respect. The dairy industry's lobby has been behind the legal blockade imposing tax and colour restrictions on the sale of margarine for many years. The United States Congress is currently trying to repeal these restrictions, but as the bill is now framed, it would require the sale of margarine in triangular shapes only. If the Russians want to be really difficult, they could take up this idea, and insist that only three-wheeled, triangular trucks be used for interzone commerce. As Mr. Edson points out, this requirement would not be much worse than many American state laws which restrict the movement of trucks across their borders. These laws cramp the free movement of interstate commerce by imposing varying regulations on trailers, weight, length, tires, loading and lights.

* * *

Even more expert on blockading, however, are certain minority groups, in the U.S. Congress. Perhaps the most outstanding example of this was the blockade against President Truman's Civil Rights program. The administration tried last year to secure passage of a rule which would end filibusters. The Senate opposed this by conducting a two week's filibuster. The weakness in the United States legislative structure which permits this thwarting of the majority is foreign to Canadian politics, and it is rather surprising that the great republic to the south continues to tolerate this condition.

People Must Not Be Terrorized

Recently a man appeared before an Ontario judge, to be sentenced for five armed robberies of which he was guilty; hoping to reduce his sentence, he pleaded that the gun he used in the hold-ups was never loaded. The judge gave him twenty-five years, and rightly so.

The man's plea that his gun was not loaded was beside the point. His victims throught that it was loaded, and they were put in terror for their lives. A fine point of ethics is involved in this matter—too fine, perhaps, for a robber to understand; nevertheless, robbers must get it into their heads somehow that it is a very reprehensible act to terrify people in order to extort money from them.

To terrify a man is an unwarrantable and serious invasion of his rights as an individual. To make him feel that his life depends upon the will of an armed robber is to diminish his dignity as a free man and a citizen. It is for this reason, just as much as for the protection of property, that armed robbery is regarded so seriously by the law. In armed robbery the rule of force is substituted for the rule of reason; such conduct cannot be tolerated, and the fact that a gun is not loaded does not in any way mitigate the crime of a man who has used it to inspire terror.

Was Canada Found Under A Gooseberry Bush?

Foolish people, seeking to conceal the facts of birth from enquiring children, sometimes tell them that they were found under a gooseberry bush; there are people who would like to tell the children of Canada the same thing about their country.

The Canadian flag controversy, though Parliament has smothered it for the present, continues to exercise a few people everywhere in the country. The Alberta Liberal Association last week passed a resolution asking for a national flag "free from the national flag or emblem of any other nation". A Windsor Star columnist, commenting on this action, says that a Canadian flag should not be "a patchwork of historic European hand-me-downs" and continues:

Ancestor worship dies hard here, because generally it's found in the same package with habit, and with too many habit has almost the force of law. The Albertans, however, have set up a prairie beachhead of undiluted Canadianism. And after the first shock of it has passed, it won't seem so daring after all.

There is another point of view, of course, and it has been forcibly expressed by the Edmonton Bulletin in these words:

> We had looked to Britain as our mother because she gave us freely her magnificent conception of law and equity, her devotion to freedom and justice, a tremendous literary and artistic inheritance, her money to develop our resources and, for a long time, a wise and kindly colonial government.
>
> We looked to Britain as our mother because we were of her blood and lived in her traditions.
>
> But the new passion for equality, which exists nowhere else in nature, has been too much for us. We must assert our nationhood. We must spit in Britain's eye.
>
> For, like Topsy, we had no mother. We "jist growed".

In this controversy we unhesitatingly ally ourself with the Bulletin. We do not see "undiluted Canadianism" is an attempt to pretend that this country sprang, full-fledged, into the world, with no colonists, no inheritance from the old world, and no debts of gratitude toward those who made Canada possible. We consider such an attitude silly. And we do not imagine that any Canadian government will make official a flag which does not make it plain that this country is a part of the British Commonwealth, the oldest and most workable league of nations in the world.

Canada is now a nation, standing firmly on its own feet. It is still suffering from a slight dizziness, however. Real Canadianism is not expressed in these barbarous yawps and boasts of virgin birth. We have no reason to be ashamed of our ancestry, and we would behave shamefully if we denied it.

Check This Trend Now

We were startled a few weeks ago by a radio newscast in which the president of the Brink's Company of Boston was quoted as saying that he wanted the robbers who had recently stolen a large sum of money from his company alive or dead, but preferably dead. Understanding the natual annoyance of such a man, we felt that his desire for revenge had carried him too far. But now we read in the columns of the Brantford Expositor that a store in Nashville, Tennessee has advertised that it will pay $2,000 to anyone "who lawfully kills any person or persons while in the act of robbing or burglarizing a Logan store, or resisting arrest for the commission of said crime."

This is utterly indefensible. What this store is doing is inciting people to kill robbers who might be taken into custody without bloodshed. And the irate banker who was quoted on the radio was urging people to kill men who might perhaps have been captured without killing. It is entirely beyond the right of any private individual to urge that people be killed on suspicion, or even if they are known to have committed a crime.

This sort of nonsense takes hold quickly, and because we have a tendency in Canada to take up some of the sillier notions which gain currency in the U.S.A. we think that it should be made clear that no man has a right to kill another man who is thought to be guilty of a crime. The police may, as a last measure, threaten to shoot an escaping criminal; the police, in such cases, do not shoot to kill. But it would be a bad day for everyone, guilty and innocent alike, if the idea gained currency that the killing of escaping criminals is a sport in which amateur sleuths may indulge with impunity.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A devout tribute to domestic bliss on tour comes from "J.T.W." writing in the Saturday Review of Literature, who says that a friend of his always protests formally to hotel managers when he finds a room equipped with twin beds and only one Gideon Bible. We forebear to ask what is the response when this friend finds only one bed and two Bibles.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

APART from his veneration of Handel and gilt-edged securities there is little of the conventional Victorian in the make-up of Samuel Butler. His famous book, Erewhon (Erewhon is an anagram of "nowhere") is ostensibly a description of a fantastic country where everything goes by opposites; for example people are sent to hospital for stealing and punished for being sick. Butler describes the curriculum of the Art School of the Colleges of Unreason (or University) of this topsy-turvy land. "Here I found that the course of study was divided into two parts—the practical and commercial—no student being permitted to continue his studies in the actual practice of the art he had taken up unless he had made equal progress in its commercial history. Thus those who were studying painting were examined at frequent intervals in the prices which all the leading pictures of the last fifty or a hundred years had realized, and in the fluctuations in their values when (as often happened) they had been sold and resold three or four times. The artist, they contend, is a dealer in pictures, and it is as important for him to learn how to adapt his wares to the market, and to know approximately what kind of a picture will fetch how much, as it is for him to be able to paint the picture. This, I suppose, is what the French mean by laying so much stress on 'values'". It is a pity that a similar course of studies does not find its place in the curriculum of our Conservatories and the Music Faculties of our Universities! It would be most instructive to follow the career of X, the famous pianist, relating his income to his choice of programme, style and so on. Balance sheets of concert agencies and publishers would be the subject of intensive analysis. Preferences of various types of audiences would be studied: samples of length and intensity of applause would be taken at concerts by special measuring machines. Learned these such as "The economics of the Encore" would be written for degrees. Soon the music critic might find himself superfluous. The artist's financial (and consequently his social) status would be greatly improved. The word "studio" would be "verboten" and would be superseded by "office". The great transformation would be accomplished: musicians would become businessmen.

◇ ◇ ◇

SUNDAY evening before last the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra performed Prokofief's Fifth Symphony on the radio. This difficult work was played with a precision of attack and an efficiency which would have done credit to any of the best orchestras in the world. Certainly Toronto and Montreal will have to look to their laurels.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE orchestra as we know it today emerged somewhere around the middle of the eighteenth century. Before that date there had, of course been orchestras, but in comparison with what followed they were more or less haphazard collections of instruments, and composers were less interested in problems of tone-colour and blend. There are instances in the work of these earlier composers of specific attempts at orchestration in the modern sense of the word, such as the bassoons that Handel used in Saul to accompany the raising of the ghost of Samuel by the witch of Endor, they are isolated examples. The main characteristic of this earlier type of music was the "continuo"—the director of the orchestra would sit at the harpsichord or organ and fill in the harmonies at the keyboard. His part was never written out in full; instead he played from a bass part with figures written underneath the notes to indicate the harmonies (figured bass, or thorough bass). From his vantage point at the keyboard he was usually able to give signals to the singers and players much as a church organist does nowadays to his choir. Without the harmonies provided by the continuo the music would sound bare and unattractive. A good continuo player would not content himself with merely filling in the harmony but would add on the spur of the moment all sorts of embellishments and decorations.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE succeeding age felt that this arrangement was too happy-go-lucky; so much depended on the continuo. Moreover the continual twanging of the harpsichord without a pause from beginning to end seemed inartistic to a generation that was becoming more sensitive to beauty of instrumental tone. In addition the standard of orchestral playing, though low by present-day standards, had improved considerably and there was not the same need to hold the players together by means of a keyboard instrument. Haydn and Mozart laid the foundations of modern orchestration, with its four-fold division into strings, woodwind, brass and percussion. The keyboard instruments were banished from the orchestra, and only appeared normally as "guest artists" in the concerto, their role changed from the maid-of-all-work to that of glittering prima donna.

◇ ◇ ◇

SIGNATURE tunes on the radio have become a mannerism, a compulsion mania, an addiction to programme builders, and like all unpleasant mannerisms they have become extremely irritating to discerning listeners. This is the sort of thing that happens. About five bars of some very hackneyed "classic" are played. Then the announcer starts talking and the music "fades out". If the listener likes the particular music that has been so misused he feels cheated at it being switched off—if he has already heard it a hundred times too often to enjoy it he is irritated too. I fail to see the reason for putting the listener in a bad frame of mind before the programme starts. Heaven forbid that this infection should spread to our concert halls. Fortunately some of the best programmes on the radio are still presented by hide-bound reactionaries, dyed-in-the-wool stick-in-the-muds, who still adhere to the old-fashioned straightforward "take it or leave it" method of announcing their programmes, without all this fancy stuff. I am sure that the great majority of performers, if their opinion were canvassed would be glad to escape from the thraldom of the "signature tune". And so, to the strains of Schubert's immortal Mazurka we sign off until next week, same page, same column, and... Oh dear, I seem to have caught the bug myself!

THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER

Letters To The Editor

ON MARRIED WOMEN WORKERS

Sir: I'm getting very fed up reading letters in your paper about married women working.

First of all to home-maker's letter of Jan. 31 edition. She must be a very lucky person if she owns her own home, a car and has a nice savings after only 12 years. I notice no mention of how much hubby's salary is. It must be considerably more than the average working man's, that's for sure. If not would Home-maker please print a budget on how we could pay $8,000 for a home, $2,000 for a car, $50 per month rent, plus food, clothing, hydro and phone bills, insurance etc. on $45 per week.

Yes that's an average man's pay, not salary, just plain day to day pay. And if he's sick a day or fails to punch the clock he doesn't even get that much.

Secondly, any woman who takes all day to clean house, and cook and wash for three people must be a very slow worker, compared to girls who go out to work. You wouldn't last long in a factory lady, where speed and efficiency are essential. Try getting up at six in the morning and slug it out all day until 5 p.m. and see how "lucky" the rest of us are, who are doing just that and our housework besides. Not because we like to as you think, but it is necessary if we are to have any hopes at all of owning all the things you do after 12 years. The cost of living what it is today, we wouldn't even have the down-payment on a house in 12 years if I didn't help earn it.

I've seen enough harrassed men, and broken homes, caused, in lots of cases, by girls who married and became human parasites, who lie around home all day complaining about all the things they'd like to have, and that dream house they were promised before marriage, but which poor hubby just can't seem to get enough ahead to start on. So what's wrong with putting your shoulder to the wheel and helping out? That's what our ancestors did, helped their men in the fields and to build their homes, and whatever else they could to help. They didn't receive actual dollars for their effort, but it amounted to the same thing. They, like us, were working side by side with their men for a common goal.

And don't say married women are taking work from men and boys. That's a ridiculous statement, if I ever heard one. If an employer wants girls he advertises for girls and a man just wouldn't be able to comouflage for that no matter how much he needed work.

I have noticed all complaints are coming from those lucky married women who do not have to work. Is that green-eyed monster biting you? I'm sure the single boys and girls are quite capable of voicing their own complaints, and probably don't thank you at all for lashing us over their shoulders. One correspondent mentioned boys and men hanging around street corners and pool-halls out of work. Well, we had them during the war years, when there was lots of work for every one, so it's hardly fair to blame that on married women workers. Work just doesn't appeal to some people.

One last gripe. Some one hinted our homes probably aren't clean and comfortable. Although I'm not a fanatic about a speck of dust, I'll wager our homes and clothes are just as clean and respectable as any one else's. And it doesn't take us all day to keep them like that either. Thank you Editor for using so much space in your paper, but this gripe just had to come out.

"AMBITIOUS WIFE".

HUSBANDS OF WORKING WIVES NOT UNHAPPY

Sir: Thank you, Mr. Editor, for your recent article on "The Working Married Woman". Your treatment of the subject revealed the fact that you had appraised the situation from all angles in an understanding manner, and which was applauded by those of us who are, according to One Neurotic Wife, "Anti-Christians".

If this neurotic wife is finding complete happiness and fulfilment in her own life, why is she so incensed about the women who work outside the home? There is some reason why every married woman is working, and if those who criticize this practice were to listen to those reasons, perhaps they would feel less qualified to judge.

Doesn't it boil down to the fact that those who are beefing about the working married woman are lacking something in their own existence, likewise those who are working have a real reason to be doing so? Of course, there is the odd shiftless character in each category, but these are present in every walk of life.

If there should be a crisis when working married women were keeping from employment qualified single persons, I am sure the married women would relinquish, or share, their employment, but at present I question if this crisis is apparent, as I am led to believe that employers are not meeting with much success in their search for efficient help. And must employers be criticized for employing married women when it is a distinct advantage to themselves to employ the one who is best qualified to fill their requirements, whether that person be a single or a married woman?

As long as the husband is not made unhappy by having his wife work, and they both share in the responsibilities of the home, making the sacrifices which are there to be made, who else does it concern?

ONE OF THE ANTI-CHRISTIANS.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand: that I will break the Assyrian in my land, and upon my mountains tread him under foot: then shall his yoke depart from off them, and his burden depart from off their shoulders.

This is the purpose that is purposed upon the whole earth: and this is the hand that is stretched out upon all the nations. For the Lord of hosts hath purposed, and who shall disannul it? and his hand is stretched out, and who shall turn it back? (Isa. 14: 24-27.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding. (Isa. 40: 28.)

◇ ◇ ◇

For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name. (Amos. 4: 13.)

◇ ◇ ◇

O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgements, and his ways past finding out!... For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever. Amen. (Rom. 11: 33, 36.)

Peron Learns From Washington

A committee to investigate anti-Argentine activities, modelled on the American original, has been established by Dictator Peron in order to strengthen his police state. And the United States, which instigated such hunts in the west, is this time the witch. Person has discovered that there are more subtle means of eliminating opposition than by formally banning it. It is unhappily true that he learned his lessons in the Western hemisphere.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

A BRITISH OPINION

Marlies Clip Dutchmen

By The Canadian Press.

Three last-period goals by Bill Johnson gave Marlboros a 4-1 victory over the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen Saturday night and started the Dukes on the playoff trail for [illegible] senior hockey honors.

In the first game of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A round-robin playdowns, the Dukes and Dutchies were tied 1-1 after two periods of listless play when the red-headed Port Arthur flash took over and settled the issue.

In junior contest Saturday, Toronto Marlboros strengthened their first place lead by belting St. Michael's College 5-3, Windsor Spitfires bounced Oshawa Generals 6-4 and Guelph Biltmores shaded Galt Black Hawks 3-2.

The Dutchmen and Marlboros had traded markers in the first two periods. Art Hurst opened the scoring for Kitchener and Marlboros had to wait until 13:37 of the second before Frank Sullivan, the Duke's husky young rearguard, evened the count.

Comfortable Margin

The Junior A edition of Marlboros now have a comfortable seven-point margin over Windsor Spitfires, resting in the runner-up spot.

Big George Armstrong was cast in his usual role as hero of the junior circuit. In Saturday afternoon's game the husky centre plunked in four goals and could have had at least three more except for the brilliant work of young Lorne Howes in the St Michael's nets.

The Dukes led 2-0 at the end of the first and 3-1 going into the third when Armstrong and Will Marshall took turns scoring, Marshall potting two in the Irish cause and Armstrong duplicating his feat for the league leaders. Danny Lewicki scored the Marlboro single with Bob Sabourin notching the other St. Michael's counter.

Settle Issue

Three goals in the first six minutes of the final period settled the issue at Oshawa.

The unpredictable Generals matched the Windsor crew goal for goal until the final end led the second place club twice. Earl Reibel was the big gun for the winners, clicking for three goals and assisting on another. Eddie Stankiewicz notched two and Earl Zorica counted the single. Lou Jankowski, Bill Berwick, Rio Caron and Enso Zannatta clicked for the losers, now hopelessly out of contention for a playoff spot.

The surprising Galt Black Hawks held a 2-1 lead over Guelph Biltmores going into the third period.

The clubs had traded goals in the opening frame, Jack Price clicking for the Hawks and Herb Dickenson counting a single for Guelph. George Ford pumped home one for the homesters in the second and set the stage for a third period Biltmore rally.

Herb Dickenson and Ron Plumb notched the winning counters in a torrid final session.

DIVISION WINNER — Don Best's Peterborough curling rink won out in the division match of the British Consul preliminaries in Lindsay on Saturday, defeating Dr. Ralph Clark's Peterborough rink in the final, 13-9, to qualify to meet the Oshawa winner. Rinks from Bobcaygeon, Oakwood, Peterborough and Lindsay competed. The Best quartet included R. Harrison, K. Bissett, V. Brown and the skip. Shown above are, front row, left to right: J. Dutton, Dr. R. Clark, Don Best and V. Brown; back, left to right; G. Clark, D. F. Rankine, Jack Ashmore (a fan), R. Harrison and K. Bissett.

Two Peterborough Rinks Meet In Division Final

LINDSAY, Feb. 13. — Rinks from Peterborough, Lindsay, Oakwood and Bobcaygeon competed in the Division match in the British Consul preliminaries with two Peterborough rinks meeting in the final game.

Don Best, the elongated "veteran" from Peterborough curled a magnificent game to eliminate Dr. Ralph Clerk in the final 12-end game. Incidentally Dr. Clark's rink was the same as the one which entered the finals in this event at Hamilton last season.

In the first game Best defeated Cecil Barry of Oakwood, by five points, while Harvey Forsyth, of Lindsay, defeated Milt. Endicott, of Lindsay on the last end by chalking up a four and winning by two points.

Dr. Ralph Clark, who had a bye in the first round, took on the Forsyth rink, winning by 14 to seven in 11 ends.

Don Best's rink had to extend to the limit to defeat Ab. Woollard, of Bobcaygeon. The rinks were tied on the home stretch with Best winning by a digit.

A large gallery followed the play of the two Peterborough rinks in the final. Best was fortunate in tacking up a five-end in the second and this lead he maintained for half way, when Dr. Clarke tied the score. Best came back with another four, which cinched the game, the Clark rink quitting in the middle of the 12th end when they had not enough rocks in the ring to win or tie.

Dr. Clark played a splendid game but was unufortunate in that whenever the Clark rink had a good end looming up, Best happened to have the last rock and was deadly.

The Best rink will now play Bill Brownlee, of Oshawa, winner of the Oshawa division.

R. Harrison, K. Bisett, V. Brown, D. Best, skip—13.

Hastings Wins

HASTINGS, Feb. 13—(ENS)—As the teams enter the home stretch of TVHL the standings is:

	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
Marmora	8	3	1	102	62	17
Campbellf'd	8	3	0	70	50	16
Norwood	6	5	1	72	79	13
Hastings	2	7	3	58	84	7
Frankford	2	8	3	77	104	7

Hastings has been informed that their midget and juvenile entries will play a doubleheader Tuesday night at Orono Arena in the OMHA playdowns.

The juveniles take on Harmony at 7:30 in the first of a two-game series, while the second game will see Hastings and Orono midgets tangle.

Thursday Orono midgets come to Hastings for their return game and Harmony juveniles will be here on Saturday.

Hastings juveniles were defeated 5-3 at Wellington Saturday night, but took the round 12-9, and are now slated to meet Harmony. It was a gruelling contest on soft ice, that got heavier as the game went on.

Morrow, McMillan and Laver stood out as forwards while J. Fairman was best on defense. For Wellington the line of Pettingiel, French and Goziera was a constant threat, while Stacey and Green played a tight defense. Ingraham in goal was practically unbeatable, robbing the visitors time after time.

Hastings—Goal, A. West; defense, J. Fairman, B. Chambers; centre, J. Morrow; wings, K. Forde, A. McMillan; alternates, F. Lynch, W. Wartman, D. Forde, R. Isaac, M. Laver, R. Lockhart, D. Fairman.

Wellington—Goal, I. Ingraham; defense, K. Stacey, B. Greer,; centre, A. Pettingiel; wings, V. Gozier, J. Moreland; alternates, J. Walker, Lightell, L. Cunningham, J. Ackerman, J. Simpson, J. Tripp.

Two-Year Contract

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13 (AP) —Sam Chapman, hard-hitting Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder, has signed a two-year contract with owner-manager Connie Mack, at a "pretty good boost in salary."

Terms of the contract were not disclosed, but one unverified report said Chapman, who rapped 24 home runs and batted across 107 runs last season, would get $30,000 for the two years.

Weekend Stars

By The Canadian Press.

New York's Charlie Rayner, who was brilliant Sunday night as he shut out Detroit Red Wings 4-0 for his fifth goose-egg of the season.

Gerry Couture and Gordie Howe of Detroit who Saturday night were brilliant against Boston. Couture scored four goals while Howe got three goals and two assists to step into third place in the NHL scoring race. Detroit beat Boston 9-4.

New York's Jack Lancien and Montreal's Bob Fryday who each scored initial goals. Lancier racked up his first goal of the season to open the scoring against Detroit Sunday. Young Bob Fryday, up for a trial from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior League, counted against Boston as the Habitants tied, 3-3, Sunday.

Trenton Trounces Lindsay Club 8-2

TRENTON, Feb. 13—A shorthanded Lindsay Club which brought down only nine players and finished up with eight when Bill Hicks received a nasty skate cut on the forehead in the second period, proved no match for No. 6 Repair Depot of Trenton and suffered an 8-2 defeat in the an OHA intermediate A fixture played here Saturday night.

Reece Jackson paced the winners with four goals and an assist while Cy Johnson, Moe Gobeil, Moe Jones and Doug Beale accounted for the other tallies. Gassiens and Connolly scored for Lindsay.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Jim Thorpe, that almost legendary figure of the sports world, had additional laurels heaped upon his brow Sunday when U. S. sports experts named him the greatest male athlete of the half-century.

Previously voted the No. 1 football player of the last 50 years, the spectacular Indian became the only double winner in The Associated Press poll when 252 out of 393 sports writers and radio broadcasters accorded him the ultimate honor.

"Old Jim," greatest track and field athlete of his day, and, later, a good enough baseball player to draw big league pay for six weeks finished far ahead of Babe Ruth, the runner-up. Ruth, earlier chosen top baseball star of the era, drew 86 first place votes.

The rules committee of the Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union met Saturday at Montreal but did not make any public announcement following its meeting.

It was understood, however, that the committee spent most of its time discussing possible rule changes. Representatives of Central Canadian universities are expected to make recommendations concerning the proposed changes to the Canadian Rugby Union when that body meets later this month.

Before Saturday's meeting, Dr. Everett F. Crutchlow of McGill University, Montreal, said medical representatives to the committee would seek two changes: 1—an increase in player strength from 24 to 30 for each team; 2—extension of the rule barring metal cleats to ban players wearing plaster casts.

Dr. Harry Batstone represented Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., at the meeting.

Don Smythe of the Toronto Boulevard Club won the Ontario Men's Singles Badminton Championships at Toronto Saturday, downing Glen Thomson of Toronto Carlton 15-6, 15-6.

Joan Warren of Carlton Club captured the ladies' singles crown and teamed with clubmate Barbara Ince to cop the ladies' doubles. Dick Birch and Bud Porter, both of Carlton, downed Smythe and B. Westcott, 15-9, 15-10, to take the men's doubles. Birch teamed with clubmate Ev Roberts to trounce Porter and Edith Marshall, 17-15, 17-14 in the third event.

At Flesherton, Ont., Bill McFarlane of Collingwood took top honors in the travelling ski school Sunday, nosing out his cousin Bob McFarlane by a half-point. Terry Roberts of Toronto won top honors in the women's class.

Others now qualified to teach professionally include Homer Pequegnat and Bob Petznick of Kitchener. Those qualifying as amateur ski instructors include Arnold Bast, Kitchener; John Edwards, Kingston and Bill Nilsson, Kitchener.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs defeated University of Toronto Blues 50-39 Saturday night in a hotly-contested intercollegiate basketball game. The loss left Toronto in last place.

At Montreal, Billy Talbert of New York Saturday night won the singles title in Canada's first international indoor tennis invitation tournament in 15 years, defeating Montreal's Henri Rochon 8-6, 6-0, 6-3.

Betty Mitchell of Winnipeg won three senior women's events at the 10,000 lakes speedskating championships Sunday at Minneapolis to nail down her second major title in two weeks. She took the North American crown at Pittsfield, Mass., last week.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Detroit's Gordie Howe closed in on his Detroit Red Wings linemates in the National Hockey League scoring race during the week-end with five points Saturday night that moved him into undisputed possession of third place.

Ted Lindsay stayed on top of the list with a goal and an assist while Sid Abel, third member of the line, also picked up two points. Lindsay now has 19 goals and 38 assists for 57 points. Abel with 28 goals and 27 assists has 55 points. Howe, who scored three goals and two assists against Boston Saturday night, has 25-25 for 50 points.

Howe thus stepped easily ahead of Chicago's Doug Bentley who has 45 points. Maurice Richard of Montreal and Paul Ronty of Boston are tied for fifth place with 44 points each. Abel has also pushed Richard out of the goal-getting leadership. His 28 markers are one better than Richard's 27. Lindsay leads in assists with 38.

Metrot Prystai of Chicago stepped up into seventh place with one weekend point. He now has 42. Teammate Roy Conacher has 41. He went scoreless over the weekend to be pushed out of the lead.

The leaders	G	A	Pts

Deseronto Beats Havelock 9-5

HAVELOCK, Feb. 13 (ENS)—Deseronto defeated Havelock at the local arena on Friday in the OMHA playoffs by a score of 9 to 5. This eliminates the Havelock team by a majority of two goals as the local team won the first game in the playoffs at Deseronto on Wednesday by a score of 3 to 1.

Sexsmith opened the scoring for the visitors in the first period the assist going to Edwards. In the same period Chevalier of Havelock scored for the locals tying it up.

Early in the second period Sexsmith scored again for Deseronto. Houle of Deseronto got the third goal for his team, unassisted, and repeated the performance near the end of the period. Havelock team got one goal during that frame by B. Pollock, with the assist going to Albert Smith.

D. Houle who placed a spectacular game for the visitors scored a goal unassisted early in the third, and came back with a second one at 1:40 unassisted and a third at 4:42 assisted by Edwards. Fred Smith of Deseronto got two goals, both unassisted, while A. Smith of Havelock, also got two, one unassisted, and with Heath being in on the other. Cosgrove scored the last one for the local team about the middle of the period which end with a score of 9-5 in favor of Deseronto.

TCS Whips Ridley

PORT HOPE, Feb. 12—Trinity College School defeated Ridley College, 58-50, in a fast basketball game here on Saturday. The game marked the first time a Ridley team has played at TCS. Pierce led the winners with 30 points and played an excellent game throughout. Greenwood, the TCS captain, followed with 16 points, King was top scorer for Ridley, netting 16 points.

Should a father keep up-to-date with his family?

Of course he should — in many different ways!

As the youngsters grow and develop new interests, every father should try to share them. And when the rest of the family want to go new places and do new things, he should say, "Count me in!"

More important, every father should also keep up-to-date with the family's needs for life insurance—needs which keep changing through the years.

A new addition to your family, for instance, may suggest the need for more life insurance. Or it may now be time to plan to use life insurance to help send a boy or girl to college.

Or revise your programme so that it will provide more savings for retirement.

But to make these or any similar changes in your life insurance programme, you need expert help. And fortunately that help is always available to you through your life insurance agent.

He is trained to review all the facts related to any new life insurance problem that may confront you today. He knows just what policies will best meet those needs. And when he's made his analysis, you'll have a plan that's complete and up-to-date.

Rely on him! More than a million Canadian families have benefited by the advice of the modern life insurance company representative!

A Helpful Citizen in your Community When a life insurance representative sells you a policy, he also helps to improve your community. For a large part of each life insurance dollar is put to work, through investments, to build schools, bridges, highways, industrial plants and many other projects that create jobs and make for better living.

Kingston Vics Beat IOOF As Penalties Mar Tussle

Kingston Victorias defeated Oddfellows 7-2 at the limestone city Saturday night in a junior "B" hockey fixture, marred by 25 penalties, including five misconducts and three majors. Referee Holway awarded a penalty shot to Aitken at 12.51 in the first as Wasson left his net to save which equalized Floyd's early tally. From there in, the game turned into a comedy of penalties by Holway bitterly protested by both teams and spectators to turn the battle into a coaches' and scorers nightmare. It was almost completely out of hand midway in the third as the teams fought with the minimum players allowed under OHA rules, most of the way, with the penalty box jammed. Misconducts were meted out to Fennell and Latimer following minors in the second and third respectively as the former skated over to ask the condition of a rival he accidently clipped and the latter for shooting the puck against the boards as the arbitrator waved him to the hoosegow. Many penalties were meted out for minor offences as the officials vainly sought to maintain order.

Deserved Win

Notwithstanding this, Kingston deserve credit for victory at home, having been defeated 4-2 Feb. 1 by Oddfellows in Peterborough.

McGaughey combined nicely with Aitken and White to put Vics one up, late in the first but Ron Turner put Links back on even terms midway in the second on a sharp 30-foot ice-cutter from Wyatt.

Gord Fennell, who had played a solid game to this point went off and Ron Andress and Aiken from Tinkiss and White respectively potted goals to give Vics what turned out to be a safe lead

Tired In Third

Play continued fast and furious with Oddfellows, tired after Friday's hard Belleville game and a long trip, giving everything they had to drawn on even terms. But Lady Luck frowned on Bun Kingdon's boys in the final chapter as the home squad added three more despite shortages on both lineups.

Cliff Aitken emerged the individual star of the game with four goals and one assist as he teamed with McGaughey and White for the most effective line, while Anderson played well in the nets. The game showed fine hockey during the first 30 minutes for the most part as both teams fought evenly and fairly clean despite seven penalties.

Peterborough: Goal, R. Wasson; defence, D. Wasson, Richlark; centre Desjardins; wings, R. Mason, B. Mason; alternates, Birch, Doris, Baker, Armstrong, Wyatt, Floyd, Fennell, Turner

Kingston: Goal, D. Anderson; defence, Bender, Andress; centre, McGaughey; wings, Aitken, White; alternates, Shepherd, Reese, Monigomery, Gonimer, Tinkess, Anson, Latimer, Wiskin.

Referee — Bill Holway, Belleville; linesman, Bill Reason, Kingston.

The summary:

First Period

Peterborough—Floyd	3:00
Kingston—Aitken (pen. shot)	12.51
Kingston—McGaughey (Aitken, White)	16:14

Penalties — Shepherd 2, Latimer (major), R. Wasson, Bender (major), Doris, D. Wasson (major).

Second Period

Peterborough—Turner (Wyatt)	10:10
Kingston—Andress (Tinkess)	14:46

Trinity College Trims Lakefield Firsts 6-2

PORT HOPE, Fb. 13—Trinity College School Firsts showed fine form as they trimmed Lakefield Firsts, 6-2 at Lakefield.

On the whole, play was very even but the goaling of Gordon kept Lakefield from scoring more than two goals. Cooke opened the scoring for TCS from McDerment early in the game and TCS wasn't behind thereafter. Other scorers for Trinity were McDerment with two; Little, Church and McGregor, with one each.

Scorers for Lakefield were Wilkes and Boyt. For TCS Gordon was best, while Little, Maier and McDerment also played well. For the losers, McCullagh and Clarke played well.

Dog Sled Champion

OTTAWA, Feb. 13 — (CP) — International dog sled champion for 1950 is Wilf Lepine, Quebec City musher who sent his long-legged, cross-bred hounds around the three-day derby's 90-mile course in a total time of eight hours, 41 minutes and 30 seconds.

Snead Texas Winner

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 13 —(AP). — Sam Snead, the West Virginia slammer, rolled home with an 8-under-par 63 Sunday to win the $10,000 Texas open with a 72-hole card of 265. He thus became the second man in history to take this storied golf tournament twice. Sam first triumphed in 1948.

RCGA Officers Change Golfing Rules

TORONTO, Feb. 13 (AP) — Canadian linksmen competing in club matches and national tournaments, will have some studying to do when the 1950 golf season gets under way.

The Royal Canadian Golf Association has come up with some rules revisions. At its annual meeting Saturday, the association announced:

1. The RCGA rules book has undergone several changes, particularly with regard to clarity and definitions. Principal changes are the reduction of penalties for lost ball, ball out-of-bounds, and unplayable ball. The penalty now is one stroke instead of one stroke and distance.

2. Non-residents will not be permitted to play in the Willingdon Cup inter-provincial team championships unless they have played the majority of their games during the 12 preceding months at the club in which they hold membership. The object, says the association, is to avoid possible attempts to "ring in" strong players for the tournament.

3. The RCGA has revised its handicap table to aid higher-handicap players, especially in tournaments with United States players. The United States Golf Association's table and the Canadian rating now are the same.

It was also announced that following RCGA representations the Professional Golfers' Association of America now will permit the Canadian open to count in points toward representation on the Ryder Cup team.

This year's Canadian amateur will be at the Saskatoon Golf Club July 17-22. The Willingdon Cup and the Canadian Junior Open goes to the Royal Montreal Club Aug. 24-27.

The 1951 and 1952 venues for the open will be held at Toronto and Winnipeg, the amateur at Ottawa and Vancouver respectively.

On Tuesday evening we have the final game of the Neill Consolation event between W. Harvey and Dr. C. McKee, and also on Tuesday evening double-headers in the vice-skips' competition for the E. G. Patterson trophy.

The schedule for the remainder of the week will be the same as usual.

We're always learning something. At the rink on Saturday there was a 14-rink bonspiel and when the scores were all handed in it was found that seven of the rinks had qualified for prizes. Just imagine, 50 per cent of the entry receiving prizes. It may be a good idea, but how they finance it, we don't know. We'll wait until we hear some more about it.

The winning skips Saturday night were J. Ruttan and D. Charlton.

Turning to the best player of the foursome, the novice asked, "How would you have played that last hand of mine?"

"Under an assumed name," was the prompt answer.

Friday night 9 o'clock results: B. Scott 10, C. Westbrook 6; A. Malby 8, B. Switzer 10; L. Ackford 8, E. Northey 10; R. Bacon 12, J. Fanning 8; J. Dutton 16, J. Lowes 1; M. Hardill 10, J. Walker 11; D. Bell 8, J. Johnston 10.

Dutch Hiller Resigns

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 (AP) —Wilbert (Dutch) Hiller has resigned as coach of the Los Angeles Monarchs in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, owner Charley Cord announced Sunday. Hiller's resignation came on the heels of a similar move by Dave Downie, coach of the Seattle Ironmen in the league's Northern Division.

Kingston Nylons play the Petes at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena to wind up the OHA senior "B" schedule in Central Ontario, playoffs commencing Friday. The hottest club in the circuit—which includes the provincial champion Legionnaires—those Nylons are really flying, and have been for a month or more. The Petes have started to come now, and showed they are a definite contender for group honors when they won 7-5 o'er Diesels right in Belleville last Friday. They might be the squad to stop that long winning streak of the Gerow-Partis-Catlin cuties. It adds up to one swell senior scrap, and should draw a hefty crowd.

Walls of the nifty new arena at Warsaw bulged Saturday eve for the official opening as more than 1100 packed the place. A dandy crowd and a big night for a community that deserves much credit for putting that project over. Both the village and the folks in the surrounding area who aided. G. K. Fraser, MP, the Hon. Harold Scott, the reeve and many other dignitaries on deck for the doings. Legionnaires took a puck exhibition—11-4 or some such—over the TVL all-stars, mostly from Marmora and Campbellford, but that was incidental. A fast, clean and interesting match, and the ladies of Warsaw treated the players afterward to lunch. Good show.

Ref Was Whistle-Happy

Down in Kingston on Saturday night, the Vics took a 7-2 junior "B" win o'er the Oddfellows. Nice number the first half but Referee Bill Holway went whistle-happy the rest of the route to ruin it. Gave out 25 penalties, 11 in the third, five of them misconducts and three majors, in a game not unduly rough. He had about as many in the sin bin as on the ice through the third, and that spoiled the game for both teams and fans. Latter didn't like the reffing, nor did the IOOF-ers, though the latter said the Vics earned a win. Even the Vics were sore at his nibs, so he won't likely handle any more games for these teams. Orono plays the Triple Links here on Wednesday.

Looking at a Nova Scotia paper the other day, we noted where Sydney Millionaires trimmed Glace Bay Miners. One item said: "Ron Nelson, Trent Anderson, Jack Thaler and Jake Wade"—yeah, Jake of this city—"were battlers all the way for Glace Bay." Glad he's back in action after the eye injury. Don McRae led the attack for the Millionaires, he having been a resident here for a space en route from Western Canada to the Maritimes, a summer's stopover. Bob Greenlaw, leading Legion sniper last semester, had a couple of assists. Quite a few hockey followers figure the Millionaires might take the Allan Cup this year.

PMHA-ers Clear Decks

Two important Peterborough Minor Hockey Association games tonight in Civic Arena early, both playoffs to clear the way for entries in provincial playdowns. Marines and Southend midgets mix at 5.30 in a sudden-deather to decide first place. Loser tackles Trojans on Wednesday with the survivor of that the i having a two-game final with tonight's winner. At 6.30 this p.m., St. Peter's and Clapper's juves go in a sudden-death fray, winner then meeting the Oddfellows in two games, goals to count, for the right to hit the playdown path. Clapper's Grab Close One From Marines

By brilliant shooting and ragging the ball while a man short for the last five minutes, Clapper's staved off Marines Bees drive to win the second tilt of the men's basketball league Saturday night 42-41. Ted Payne left the Clapper squad with only four men as the departed the game with five fouls.

Jimmy Thorburn's 22-ponit barrage for Shockey's in first game of the doubleheader was the main feature of Shockey's 39-22 win over Kawartha Sports. The Cleaners' quintet is well out in front of the league with five wins and no losses.

The Thorburn 11-point effort in the first half was more than the first half score of the Kawartha Sports' squad as their shooting was off. They managed to sink 10 points in the first. Doug Plunkett assisted Thorburn in the first half as he sank seven points while Joe Stewart added two more to give the Cleaners a 20-10 score at the half. Thorburn remained unchecked in the second half as he equalled his first half effort to be helped by Moorehead with six points. The Sports' boys, under Bill Trim, began to move more in the second as Thompson, Grafstein and Hugh Dibben tried to whittle down the Clapper points.

Thorburn easily led the scoring with his 22 points while Harold Grafstein of the Kawartha Sports was good for eight. Plunkett, of the Cleaners, had seven as Neil Thompson, of the Sports, also went went well.

Tough Battle

Clappers and Marines Bees battled well in the second tilt as Clapper's took their first win. Besides Payne leaving with five fouls Gordie Burns of the Bees left. Al Stewart had four fouls while Nicholls and Edger of the Bees had three each. Vic Griffin, Payne and Evans whipped in points in the first half for Clapper's but fell short of taking the lead at the half as the Marines, led by Darrell Ackford, kept ahead 18-14.

Al Stewart took over as top man for the Clapper squad in the second half as a spirited drive gave them the lead. Ted Evans worked with Stewart as they outscored the Marines in a torrid second half 28-23 to take the game by a point. Smith and Nicholls counted 14 points in the second half for the Bees but couldn't match the scoring of the Clapper men. Al Stewart, besides playing well on the defensive, racked up 16 points while teammate Evans had 11 and Nicholls of the Bees 11 points.

Counting the Saturday night games, Jimmy Thorburn, of Shockey's Cleaners, has a seven point lead over the Marines Bees' Eddie Nicholls in the league scoring. Thorburn has massed together 72 points in five games while Nicholls has 65 points for five tilts. Warren Smith, of the Bees, is in third place well behind by 30 points.

Saturday's results leave the Cleaners out in front in league standing with five wins. The Marines Bees sit in second place with two wins and three losses. Kawarthas and Clappers each have one win against three losses.

Lineups for Saturday night's games:

First game: Shockey's Cleaners —MacPherson, Thorburn 22, Dundas, J. Stewart 2, Moorehead 6, Young, Hanbidge 2, Plunkett 7.

Kawartha Sports—Trimm, N. Thompson 7, Dibben 3, Sergeant 1, B. Thompson 3, H. Grafstein 8, Hall.

Second game: Clapper's—A. Stewart 16, Griffin 7, Smith 2, Payne 6, Evans 11.

Marines Bees—W. Smith 8, Gillespie 5, Nicholls 11, Burns 2, Edger 6, Green 3, Ackford 6.

Norwood Peewees

NORWOOD, Feb 13 (ENS)—Black Hawks and Boston Bruins battled to a 2-2 tie Saturday morning in Norwood Arena. The Pee Wee series is now well under way, the boys showing great interest. Fifty of them were on hand to play, with new members being added to the teams.

Pete Rusaw and Doug Lochhead continued to open the scoring for the Hawks, Don Smith, with G. Millett and M. Hannon assisting, tied it up a few minutes after, M. Hannon from Smith put the Bruins in front.

Doug Lochhead from Max Millett tied it up late in the third.

Both goalies, L. Hie and Neil Telford, turned in a great performance in the nets.

Red Wings secured their first win, trouncing the Leafs 5-2. Elwood Begg, in the net for Red Wings, made quite a difference. C. Mainland, F. Rooney, Hayden Scott and Eldon Van Volkenburg put on the pressure. G. Kavanagh, Bob Hanivan were hurt in play but returned to the game. W. Smith tallied for Leafs, also Burtt with Billy Brady getting the assist.

Big seven in Pee Wee League:

	G	A	Pts
C. Mainland (Wings)	5	1	6
Delvin Rusaw (Hawks)	4	1	5
Bunny Miles (Hawks)	1	4	5
Frances Rooney (Wings)	0	3	3
Doug Lochhead (Hawks)	2	1	3
Dan Smith (Bruins)	2	1	3

Seven players tied for seventh place with two points each: J. Ferguson, Carl Burtt, W. Smith, H. Scott, M. Hannon, F. Van Volkenburg and G. Millett.

Team standing: Black Hawks 5, Bruins 3, Red Wings 2, Leafs 2.

Marmora Team Beaten 11-3 By Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 13 — (ENS)—The Campbellford T V L team moved into first place in the T.V.L. Friday night by turning back Marmora squad 11-3.

The Marmora goalie, R. Borland was injured at the 14.30 mark in the first period, when a hard shot from 20 feet out, by W. Blake of Campbellford deflected off a stick and struck him on the forehead. The game was delayed about 45 minutes while the player was patched up. Dr. W. Grant had the injured goalie removed to his office where five stitches wre required to close the gash. Borland refused to leave the game, and when he returned to the ice at the start of the second priod, he was given a rousing ovation by the fans.

The fact that Borland received his injury did not seem to bother his net minding abilities to any great extent and the one-sided score was established by the hard fighting Campbellford boys, who threw rubber at the Marmora nets from every direction.

Marmora put on the pressure with 10 minutes of the third period remaining, but were turned back by Laverne who played in a remarkable game in the Campbellford goal.

The Citizen's Band was in attendance and supplied music between periods. Referees were Liggett and Nigh of Peterborough. Doug. Free was top man for Campbellford, Scoring 5 of his team's 11 goals. A near record crowd of more the 1,200 witnessed the game.

Line up

Marmora: Goal, Borland; def. E. Leonard, W. Nayler; Cen. F. Stewart; Wings, Lavender and Trumble; alternates, Kerr, Loveless, Goodchild, McInroy, Gray, Darrah.

Toronto Gets Win Here In Volleyball

Ontario championship volleyball play saw Toronto Central YMCA defeat the local YMCA squad 15-10 and 16-14 in two sizzling tilts Saturday afternoon in the "Y". The Toronto net crew were composed of new Canadians hailing from Estonia where volleyball is the major sport. This was evident from their powerful hitting. The Centrals found the local floor to their liking in the first game as they built up a lead with their hitting and never relinquished it. They finished it five points to the good.

A Good Game

The locals played excellent volleyball in the second game and deserved to win it. At one time they needed only three points to cinch the game as they led 12-3. However, they bogged down at that point and saw their lead gradually wiped out.

Suddenly they were behind the eight-ball with Toronto out in front 14-12. The YMCA's came out of their coma here to force the game into extra points before the Toronto crew won 16-14. The locals suffered a setback as Cliff Cadd, the star spiker, was out with a sprained shoulder. It is expected that Cadd will be in the games with Toronto YMHA next Saturday in the "Y" gym.

Linups:

Toronto — Paide, Tallmeister, Roos, Toop, Talve, Kesler

Peterborough—H. David, K. Kingston, J. Gillespie, E. Hanbidge, D. MacTavish, N. Stanger, S. Payne, S. Csumrik.

Leafs Secure Second Place Two Goalies Steal Show

By HARRY ECCLES,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

The goalies garnered the laurels in week-end National Hockey League games, particularly Claude Rayner of the New York Rangers and Walter (Turk) Broda of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Rayner was magnificent as his Rangers blanked Detroit Red Wings 4-0 Sunday night, while Broda took the lead in shut-outs when Leafs whitewashed the Montreal Canadiens 2-0 on Sunday. It was Broda's eighth shut-out, compared to seven for Bill Durnan of Montreal Canadiens.

The Wings had walloped Boston Bruins 9-4 Saturday night. Sunday the Canadiens and Bruins deadlocked at 3-3, and Leafs were held to a 1-1 tie by the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks.

Today's standing shows Detroit's lead reduced to nine points over Toronto with Canadiens third another full game back. Detroit has 66 points, Toronto 57, Montreal 55, New York 48, Boston 45, and Chicago 41.

End of Scoring

Harry Watson and Joe Klukay counted Leaf goals at Toronto within 19 seconds of each other, early in the first period. That was the end of the scoring for the night as a crowd of 14,583 at Maple Leaf Gardens saw a close-checking struggle in which 13 penalties were handed out, seven to Toronto. Six penalties went to Montreal's big Ken Reardon.

The other Saturday night game was the exception in goalie feats as Jerry Couture scored four times and Gordie Howe collected three in the Wings'Bruins clash at Boston. Ted Lindsay and Sid Abel got the other Detroit goals. Norman Poile, Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart and defenceman Moe Henderson scored for Boston.

At Madison Suare Garden Sunday night goalie Chuck Rayner stole the show. He had 24 saves, many of them sensational, as the Rangers overwhelmed the Wings.

They'd played a 5-5 tie in their previous clash. Defenceman Jack Lancien, Ed Slowinski, Allan Stanley and Alex Kaleta were the Ranger goal-getters.

Sent For Rest

The Wings announced that Captain Ted Lindsay now goes to Hot springs, Ark., for a week's rest, an unprecedented mid-season vacation for a high-scoring player. The Renfrew, Ont., star will be back for the game at Toronto Feb. 18. There's nothing wrong with Lindsay but the club figures that a week's relaxation will do both the star and the club considerable good before the stretch drive.

When the Leafs and Black Hawks collided at Chicago Sunday night captain Ted Kennedy scored the Toronto goal late in the first period. Roy Conacher tied it up in the middle frame.

At Boston the Bruins came from behind to gain the tie with Canadiens. Boston had its third goalie in as many games, using Dick Bittner from the Boston Olympics of the Eastern League in place of the injured Jack Gelineau, out with a groin injury. Bittner had just previously worked a 4-0 shut-out over Atlantic City Seagulls in an afternoon game.

Kenny Smith, Bud Poile and Pete Horeck scored for Boston, Horeck's goal being the only counter of the last frame. Bob Fryday, up from Montreal's Senior Amateur Royals, Ken Mosdell and Bob Curry scored for Montreal.

Church Club Has Crokinole Party

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 13 — (ENS)—More than 30 members of the St. John's Young Adults club held a crokinole party held in the basement of St. John's United Church on Thursday night.

First prize for the lady with the highest score went to Marg. Wannamaker, and Earl Nelson received first prize for highest score among the men. The award for the highest number of "20's" obtained during the evening went to Bruce Barnum and the consolation prizes to Ralph Atkinson, and to the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Archer.

An enjoyable lunch, was served by the ladies.

Mission Band Children Have Valentine Party

MILLBROOK, Feb. 13 (ENS) —St. Andrew's United Church Mission Band held its annual "fee party" in the Sunday school room on Thursday. Each child after paying his fees, joined in the Valentine parade.

Dorothy Ball, last year's treasurer, was the Valentine queen, wearing a crown and carrying a large heart with streamers attached, held by the other children.

The work period was spent making dolls to be dressed in oriental costumes later.

There were 32 children present Alice Hawkins, the president, was in the chair for a brief business period. Reports were given by the secretary, Dorothy Ball, and the treasurer, Janet Hobbs.

Glenna Sloan lighted the candles on the worship centre.

Mrs. Arnold Fallis, the leader, gave a talk on the seven aims of the Mission Band.

Homemade candy was passed by Dorothy Dawson, who with her sister Frances was hostess. Mrs Fallis gave the children valentine cookies.

In the absence of the World Friend's secretary, the magazines were given out by Barbara Ann Thompson ad Bernard Ingham.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Ken. Moncrief, Mrs. J Thompson, first vice president was in the chair. The scripture lesson was by Mrs. S. Pritchard.

WMS Meets At Home Of Miss Finnemore

MIILLBROOK, Feb. 13 (ENS) —St. Andrew's United Church W.M.S. met at the home of Miss Finnemore on Wednesday.

Mrs. Matchett, the president, was in the chair. Mrs. David Lunn led in prayer and Miss Finnemore read a poem.

Mrs. Thorn and Mrs. Hetherley gave reports on the presbyterial held in Peterborough recently The discussion of these reports was led by Mrs. Matchett.

The chapter of the study book was given by Miss Estella Hetherington.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Will Go To Chair

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—Lewis Wolfe, wealthy Montreal contractor convicted in 1944 in the slaying of his wife, Mona, Saturday was ordered to be brought into court Feb. 15 to be sentenced to the electric chair. A jury found Wolfe guilty of murder in the first degree. The state charged that he bludgeoned his Viennese actress wife to death with a steel-tipped shoe in their Brooklyn hotel room after she allegedly confessed infidelity.

Husband Kills Wife

DETROIT, Feb. 13—(CP)—A jealous husband shot and killed his young, estranged wife and then took his own life with the same pistol, police report. Dead are Benjamin Picker, 30, and his wife, Sarah, 24. The couple was married eight years and had one five-year-old son. Police said the dead woman's mother reported the marriage one of constant fighting and separations.

Re-Elected President

KINGSTON, Feb. 13—(CP)—Mayor W. Fred Reynolds of Brockville was re-elected president of the East-Central Counties Tuberculosis Association at its annual meeting during the weekend. Prof. K. Grant Crawford of Queen's University was re-elected vice-president. Leo Lafleur of Kingston was named secretary and W. D. Stewart, Kingston, treasurer.

Fire Protection Area Planned In Smith Twp.

Acting upon a petition from ratepayers, Smith council decided Friday night to prepare a by-law defining a fire protection area in the southern section of the township to which it is planned to buy approved equipment.

This proposed bylaw would also provide for the financing of the project which has been taking shape in the municipality since the city announced toward the close of last year that it could not continue its fire fighting service into the townships after Jan. 1 last.

Cost of equipment which ratepayers have been considering, is estimated at $13,500, of which the government pays thirty-five per cent. Site of a suitable station possibly a garage, has not yet been determined, but it would be adjacent to the northern suburban fringe of the city.

Boundaries of Area

The rural area which has been canvassed is bounded on the west by the Emily border, on the south by the city, on the east by the river, and on the south by the fifth concession line from the river to Chemong Road, then south to the fourth line and westerly to Emily. Both sides of the fourth and fifth concessions are included.

The survey has been carried on during the last two weeks. Among those active in the enquiry were Leslie Gordon, Orville Deyell, Melville Moncrief and N. Hicks. It was reported that the response of farmers in the area west of the Chemong Road was around 75 to 80 p.c. in favor of setting up rural fire protection, as indicated by the signatures to the petition.

Levy On Farm Buildings

The arrangement of levying only on farm buildings, apart from land, for the purpose of setting up a fire fighting service, was said to have appealed to many farmers who were previously indifferent to the project.

East of the Chemong road definite opposition was encountered and a deputation from that section Friday night told the council that they did not wish to participate. They said they were not opposed to fire protection, but they were not persuaded of the effectiveness of protection which could be supplied to them. Lack of water sufficiency on any rural property, distances to be travelled, doubtful condition of roads in winter, these were several of the obstacles which inclined the eastern group of farmers against the value of the plan to them in any emergency.

Go To Municipal Board

This group was heard separately from the petitioners who are reported to have expressed confidence in their project. The decision of the council, by resolution, was to proceed with the drafting of the required bylaw, give it two readings and then submit it to the Ontario Municipal Board. At that stage objections could be presented from any ratepayers in the entire area who wished to be heard.

The committee promoting fire service in the township contemplate financing it by a levy on the suburban property and on the adjoining rural estate to the extent of the assessed value of buildings, exclusive of land. Although there has been some initiative shown in the Chemong Park and Bridgenorth areas as a joint community which might establish a fire station of their own, it is also considered by the south committee that northerners desiring fire protection might buy it from the suburban group.

They investigated the system which has been set up by Omemee, whereby residents beyond the municipal area could obtain fire protection at a yearly charge for fifteen years. That method, it is felt, could be applied in Smith for the advantage of the Bridgenorth-Chemong section residents who wish to avail themselves of the enterprise of the area nearer the city. The proposal is that with a fire station near the Chemong Road, and a pavement to the north, fire apparatus could make a fast run. On that side of the proposal, also, is that it would be easier to provide and pay for a service day and night.

Indian Is Found Unconscious Lying On Road

ROSENEATH, Feb. 13 — (ENS) —Victor Gray, 25, Alderville Indian, is today lying critically injured in Cobourg hospital with head injuries sustained when he is believed to have been struck on Saturday night by a hit-and-run motorist.

He is still unconscious.

Mr. Gray was walking along a county road west of Alderville near the residence of Norman Marsden shortly before midnight Saturday when he was struck by a passing motor vehicle.

Don Smoke, of Cobourg, found the injured man lying in a pool of blood in the centre of the road suffering from severe head lacerations. He was taken to Cobourg hospital.

Provincial Police Constable Lyle Erskine and Frank Clough are investigating.

ADVISORY MEMBER

John R. Marshall was chosen one of the Ontario advisory members to the National Council of Young Men's Christian Association at its annual conference over the weekend in St. Catharines.

Tourist Inquiries Already Arrive

Inquiries from American tourists requesting information on the Kawartha Lakes district are beginning to flow into the office of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. It has received directly over 50 letters and cards asking for information on the area. Another 50 to 60 inquiries have reached the office through the tourist inquiry lists from the Federal and Provincial travel bureaus.

James Fraser ,manager of the local office, explained that a reply is sent to each of the Americans, giving the information requested. Fishing is one of the most queried subjects; others are healthiness, bathing, and golf facilities. The inquiries about the accommodation are equally divided between lodge and cottage.

Residents of Ohio seem to be most interested in the Kawartha area; a third of the inquiries are from that state. The Order of the Kawartha Muskie which was introduced by the Chamber last year is often asked about by the democratic Americans. Inquiries have been received from Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, North Carolina, West Virginia, Oklahoma, North Dakota, and Michigan.

One request for information was addressed to "The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Peterborough, Ontario." This inquiry was made by a resident of Rock Island, Illinois, who is planning to take a trip through the lake regions of Canada.

One of the typical letters received is that from a Pittsburgh man who writes: "We are interested in obtaining as complete information as possible concerning the lakes in the area around Peterborough. We are particularly interested for this coming summer in places which have cabins for rent. Our long term idea is to obtain land with or without a building on one of these lakes after we have determined via personal investigation which seems most suitable."

On 3rd Drunk Charge Asks For Reformatory

Pleading guilty in police court today to being a third-time drunk, Michael Hynes, Lakefield highway, asked for a four-month sentence in a reformatory rather than the usual three months in the county gaol.

He was arrested in Lakefield Friday night by the village's Chief Constable Garnet Samis. Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw told the court Hynes had been drinking rubbing alcohol he had obtained under a false name.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, sentenced Hynes to four months definite and one month indefinite.

60 Entries In 12 Events Of Figure Skating Club

The three-year-old Peterborough Skating Club on Sunday held its first championship meet at the Curling Club with some 60 entries participating in 12 events. Judges, in summing up afterwards, said they would not have believed a club could have provided such a high level of skating ability in only three years. All contestants were club members.

Winner of the Senior Ladies Singles was Marilyn McInroy with Sherill Lashmar coming second.

Joan Begley took the Intermediate Ladies' Singles followed by Arline Ferguson and Nancy Zolyomy.

Eleven-year-old Elenora Standish was the winner of the Junior ladies' singles. Diane Turner was second.

Contestants in the singles were required to perform school figures and free skating, while those in the doubles did free skating and dancing (waltz and 10 step) Trios were limited to free skating.

Junior Division Crowded.

Largest number of contestants was in the Junior Ladies Singles. A list of some 20 girls entered the preliminaries on January 31 but the number was cut down to six for the final competition.

The lobby of the Curling Rink was crowded from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. while friends and well-wishers watched the judging.

Feature of the day was generally considered to be the exhibition put on by the three Martin sisters (Dorothy, Lillian and Lona). Their skill drew sustained applause from the spectators.

The Peterborough Figure Skating Club is now affiliated with the Dominion Figure Skating Association and judging is done as laid down by the latter. President Ralph Standish described the championship meet as a "great success."

Ernest Ferguson, chairman of the skating committee, was the founder of the three-year-old club, together with his wife and Miss Phyllis (Tommy) Denne.

Boy 6, Suffers Head Injuries

Knocked down by a car when he ran out into George St. on Saturday, Garry McCall, six, of 149 London St., suffered head injuries and was taken to the Civic Hospital.

Hospital authorities said today his condition was improved and no skull fracture was reported.

Driver of the car, Herbert Stenson, 267 Charlotte Street, told Traffic Officer Harold Mesley and Constable John Conlin he had been driving north on George St.

Just north of London St. he saw the youngster run out from behind a car parked at the east curb.

Stenson said he braked the car but it skidded on the wet pavement and hit the boy with the front bumper, knocking him to the pavement. He was first taken to the Clinic then ordered by Dr. Ross M. Matthews to the hospital for observation and X-rays.

The youngster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McCall.

UE SOCIAL EVENING

Union strife was temporarily forgotten Saturday night as about 200 stewards and officers of Local 524 UE, together with their wives and friends, enjoyed a social evening at the Empress Hotel Kawartha Room. Guests included C. S. Jackson, Canadian UE president, and officers from the Toronto and Cobourg plants.

Little Theatre Will Present Play Written By Synge

One of the greatest geniuses of modern Ireland was John Millington Synge, whose play "The Tinker's Wedding" will be presented by the Peterborough Little Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday next at the P.C.V.S. auditorium. His best known play is "The Playboy of The Western World." His one-act tragedy "Riders To The Sea" was presented by the Little Theatre in the Peterborough Theatre Festival in December.

"The Tinker's Wedding" is a comedy about a class of people unknown in Canada. The tinkers who still roam rural Ireland and Wales are gypsies, highly skilled as tinsmith and coppersmith; they are strongly nomadic in character and their social customs are not those of ordinary people. The comedy of Synge's play arises from the desire of a tinker's girl to be married; such a thing has never been thought necessary by her companious, and they do everything in their power to thwart her.

Synge's plays are especially remarkable for the richness of the language in which they are written. He spent two years of his life roaming in Western Ireland, making himself familiar with the speech of the country people which fascinated him by its wealth of imagination and its wonderful store of words. The beauty of Irish speech, applied to such a comedy situation as that in "The Tinker's Wedding" produces an uproariously funny play

In choosing this piece as one of its offerings during the present centenary year, the Little Theatre is not unmindful of the debt which Peterborough owes to the Irish people who settled this district over a century ago. A feature of the production is the setting by Jack Hamar.

As well as the Synge Play, "The Voice of the People" and "The Play of the Weather" will be presented each evening.

Ontario Hydro Orders 36,700 GE Motors

Peterborough works of Canadian General Electric Company has received from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission an order for 36,700 fractional horse power motors.

Total value of this order is approximately $500,000. Delivery will be made at the rate of 1,000 motors a week.

The announcement in the CGE Works News says: "This will assure Peterborough works of steady demand for the next twelve months."

These motors are required in the Hydro conversion from 25 to 60 cycle power that is now in progress. They are to replace motors now used in many domestic, commercial and industrial appliances. The change has been necessitated by the new policy of the Hydro-Electric Commission switching the electric power of the province from 25 cycles in some of the areas, especially in Toronto and the western section, to a uniform 60 cycles.

The following information is quoted: "Total of orders now on the books of HEPC for 1950 conversion is just over 50,000 which is 45 per cent of their total requirements for the period.

"As the conversion program was being studied it was evident that one of the major problems would be the conversion of the 1,000,000 odd fractional horsepower motors connected to the lines. These motors operate washing machines, refrigerators, blowers, stokers, oil burners, air conditioners and so on.

"There are one hundred and one applications in commerce and industry."

Defines Cycle

For the benefit of the layman, the Examiner asked W. T. Fanjoy for a simple explanation of the word cycle as term of electrical engineering. Electric power from batteries is by direct current, Mr. Fanjoy said. It flows continuously in one direction.

Electric power generators of common use produce an alternating current, which means as it suggests, flowing in one direction and then in the opposite direction. This reversal is called a cycle, and 25 cycles signify 25 reversals a second; likewise 60 cycles mean 60 reversals a second.

Peterborough is supplied with 60 cycle power. Laymen have noticed what may be called flicker when they go to some place using 25-cycle power in illumination, because the alternation or reversal is slower or fewer per second than the 60-cycle circuit

At one time there were some advantages and economy in the use of 25-cycle power in the operation of heavier machinery, but they have become subordinated by the advantages which have developed in the use of 60-cycle power.

The conversion which the Hydro decided to proceed with after the war has been a huge undertaking. Part of its effects relates to the change of fractional horse power motors in a great number of appliances. For instance the washing machine equipped with a motor made for a 25-cycle circuit will require 60-cycle motor, and it is for this necessary substitution that the Hydro has let the Peterborough CGE contract.

Five Elders Ordained At Mark St. Service

Five new elders were ordained at the morning service of Mark Street United Church on Sunday by the pastor, the Rev. B. S. Morwood. They were Robert Knox, Fredrick Edgeworthy, Stanley Wood, Ralph Hendren and Floyd Samis; the last three men acted as elders last year under the late Rev. A. M Partridge, but their ordination could not be arranged until Sunday.

The special service was largely attended and the five new elders now bring the church's total eldership to 12. The term is for a period of six years.

Outboard Man Burns, Dies Alone In Flaming Cottage On Week-End Fishing Trip

TORY HILL, Feb. 13 (ENS)—An employee of Outboard Marine factory, Peterborough,, Earl Mitchell, 40, of St. Paul St. Lindsay, was burned to death early Sunday morning in the flame-swept ruins of his wooden cottage half a mile south of here. Mitchell, father of three children, was on a weekend ice-fishing trip. Cause of the fatal blaze is unknown. Coroner Dr. L. Carroll of Haliburton and Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan of Lindsay have decided that an inquest will not be necessary.

Mitchell had gone on the trip with his next-door-neighbor in Lindsay, Peter Orchyk, who also has a cottage at Tory Hill. Approximately 3 a.m. Sunday Orchyk saw Mitchell to the door as he started toward his own one-storey frame house about a hundred yards away. It was the last time Mitchell was seen alive.

Ernest Bonham, another Tory Hill resident, at 5 a.m. noticed flames coming from the Mitchell house, purchased about a year ago, and ran over to lend assistance. He smashed in the front door but was driven back by the flames and heat of the interior.

Could Not Assist

Bystanders were unable to lend any assistance nor could they salvage anything of value. The wooden structure was burnt to the ground. Loss to the building is set at not less than $1,500.

Dr. Carroll found the charred body among the ashes. Funeral details have not yet been announced.

Mitchell was employed at Outboard Marine since July 1946 as a timekeeper, working nights.

Provincial Constable A. R. Edwards investigated, assisted by Provincial Constable B. Milligan.

Skiing Said Good At Bethany, Kempts

Skiing was good at Bethany and Kempt's Hill over the weekend, Peterborough Ski Club officials said today. Both tows at Bethany and the tow at Kempt's were in operation.

Depth of the snow varied from six inches to three inches in both areas. The chalet hill was tramped down at Bethany providing a fast surface while the other slopes were crusty from Saturday night's cold snap.

If the present weather continues there will be skiing under the floodlights at Kempt's Tuesday night.

J. D. Cumming, secretary of the Belmont Ski Club near Havelock reports in his weekly snow report that on the ski and tow slopes there is six inches of fresh snow and seven inches on the trails and bush. Skijoring in the area is tops, he said.

Youth Suffers Blackout For 24 Hours

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 13 (ENS)—Two Lakefield youths narrowly escaped asphyxiation early Sunday morning when they became unconscious from monoxide gas fumes while sitting in a parked car with the engine running.

Raymond Redpath, 16, owner of the car, is in Civic Hospital recovering from the effects of the gas. He regained consciousness early today after a blackout that lasted nearly 24 hours.

His condition is described by hospital authorities as "improved."

Redpath and his 'teen-aged chum, Ward Trotter, had been to a Gospel Hall youth rally until shortly before 10 p.m. Saturday night. Later they went to the garage of Ken Reid on Strickland St where the car was being repaired

As soon as the car was fixed they drove to the Redpath residence on the southern outskirts of Lakefield. Before retiring for the night they were listening to the radio and chatting.

Engine Was Running

The car engine was running and the heater was on.

Last thing the two remember is Redpath complaining of smelling gas shortly after 2 a.m. Trotter realized something was wrong and attempted to open the car door but was too weak and lapsed into unconsciousness.

The pair was found about 7 a.m. by Roy Redpath, brother of Raymond Both the heater and radio were on but the car had run out of gas.

Roy took them inside the house and summoned Dr. H. E. Gastle of Lakefield. Trotter came to after treatment some time later but Redpath was removed to Civic Hospital still unconscious.

He began to come to about 1.30 a.m. today and was fully conscious by 4 a.m.

HIGHWAYS SLIPPERY

Motorists reported that Highway 7, in particular, was hazardous for vehicular traffic Sunday afternoon. Several cars slid off into the ditch. There were no serious accidents. A car driven by William J. Mackwood, of Pontypool, went into the ditch near the Chemong turn, where it struck a stone and received about $50 damage

Juniors, Babies Enjoy Parties In YW Gym

Valentine parties created a furore of mirth and enjoyment in the YWCA gymnasium Saturday morning. One was for 125 juniors who brought valentines and to drop in a large decorated box for distribution later, and wrapped candy for a candy scramble

The committee of juniors in charge included Joan Cunningham, Carol Hewitt, Leona Jones, Dorothy Kitchen, Wanda Grills, Patsy Harding, Millie Sutherland, Barbara Sucee, Ardythe Halchrow, Bernice Callan.

Winners of the races were: novelty, Polly Sucee, Jean Hewitt; best stunt, Wanda Grills, Bernice Callan; hopping, Donna Livingstone, Jean Jackson; contest for best dancer, Margaret Dobson; novelty, Leona Jones, Bernice Callan.

Miss L. Brownscombe, YW executive director, presented prizes for posters made for health week to Dorothy Kitchen, Wanda Grills, Nancy Townsend and Marie Waite.

Seventy babies were on hand for their party which followed the juniors.

Winners of the races for those under three years were Joy Ann Russell and Joan Poolman; under five years, Andy Allchin, Sharon Gallagher; under eight years, Carol Barnes, Faye Sharpe. Best dancers were Barbara Northrop and Annabelle Morton.

Prizes for health posters went to Margaret Monk, six years old, who made a striking poster herself, and Sharon Gallagher.

Mothers of the babies assisted Miss C. Littlefield with the party.

Thos. G. Robinson Marries In Kirkland Lake

A wedding of interest here took place at Kirkland Lake on February 4 of Thomas Gordon Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Robinson, 447 George St. N., Peterborough, and Birte Nielsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Nielsen, Kirkland Lake. Canon J. A. Watton officiated at the ceremony which took place in St. Peter's Anglican Church, decorated with iris and daffodils for the occasion.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a gown of gold embroidered brocade fashioned with fitted bodice, buttoned to the waist in front, deep Queen Anne bertha over gold nylon yoke and a bouffant skirt. Her gold - embroidered shoulder veil was caught to a skull-cap of matching brocade and she carried a bouquet of mauve iris. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Frank Wank, was in turquoise taffeta, similarly styled, and wore a crownless small picture hat and mittens of matching material and carried a half hoop of roses and daffodils.

The groom's attendant was Sidney Spafford and the ushers were Hugh and Edward Lee.

A reception was held at the Park Lane hotel where the bride's mother received in coppertone crepe with graceful draped skirt, brown accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore an attractive dress of dusty rose crepe with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Later the bridal couple left for a trip to Northern Quebec, the bride travelling in a green suit with black accessories and grey kid coat. On return they will live at 7 Main St., Kirkland Lake.

Guests from Peterborough were the groom's parents and his aunt, Miss A. M. Robinson.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

QUESTION: Being one of your constant readers I am taking liberty to write asking you for a recipe for "Banana Muffins" I have never had any in this district but used to buy them frequently in....bake shop when we lived in Moncton. I've scoured a good many cook books but so far have had no luck, but perhaps you may be able to help me. Thanking you for any assistance you may be able to give me.

Mrs. F. E. K.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The recipe I have is for Banana Muffins. I believe you could reduce the bran to ½ cup and increase the flour to 1½ cups if you would lnke to, although I have not tried the recipe that way.

Banana Bran Muffins

One cup flour, ½ teaspoon each soda and salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 tablespoons shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg well beaten, 1 cup shredded bran, 2 tablespoons milk, 2 cups bananas sliced or chopped coarsely or cubed. Sift the flour and measure it and sift it with the salt, soda, baking powder. Cream the shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add egg, bran and milk. Mix and allow to stand while slicing or chopping bananas Add bananas as you cut them and mix well. Add sifted dry ingredients, stirring as little as possible. Bake in well buttered muffin tins at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes.

If this is not satisfactory write to me again and I will send you my recipe for banana cake, which could be baked in muffin tins.

Donna Stemp Is Bride Of John F. Christmas

All Saints' Anglican Church was the setting on Saturday for a lovely wedding in which Donna Isabel Stemp became the bride of John Frederick Christmas. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gilders, and the groom is son of Mr. and Mrs F. Christmas, all of Peterborough.

The Rev. W. J. Gilling was the officiating minister, in absence of the rector, the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite. Wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. A. Logan. Daffodils and fern decorated the altar for the occasion.

Mr. Gilders gave his stepdaughter in marriage. She was lovely in a gown of Queen Anne style made of satin with a long train edged with lace and the skirt caught up at the front with pearls to show tiers of matching lace. Her train-length veil of embroidered net was caught to a crown of orange blossoms and she carried a white prayer book topped with a corsage of red roses and the satin streamers were tied with rosebuds.

As matron of honor for her sister Mrs. Norman Beach wore a pink taffeta frock, made with fish-tail back, high neckline and cape sleeves and she wore matching mittens and a halo of pink net. Mrs. Terry Barum as bridesmaid wore a similar frock of pale blue taffeta. Junior bridesmaid Alda Smockum of Uxbridge was in yellow taffeta dress and matching poke bonnet tied under her chin. Each carried a ring bouquet of daffodils and blue snapdragon edged with satin ribbon in the shade of her frock. The bride's step-sister Veronica Gilders was her flower girl and she wore blue Swiss dotted voile and poke bonnet to match and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

The groomsman was Mr. Terry Barum and ushers were the bride's brother Charles Stemp, and Norman Beach.

The reception was held at Club Aragon where the bride's mother received, gowned in a forest green crepe and wearing a grey hat and accessories. Also receiving, the groom's mother wore a black dress trimmed with pink and hat of winter white felt Each wore a corsage of red roses.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a navy tailored suit, grey hat and accessories and a grey topcoat. On return from Toronto and other points, the couple will live on Wolsley St.

77 Ways to Use Potatoes Canadians Know Only Few

By MARY MOORE

Europeans have something to learn from us on how to get along with their neighbors—be they of different color, creed or country.

But, friends, they have us beaten when it comes to getting along amicably with what foods they have on hand.

This is what I mean:

We average Canadian housewives think there are about seven ways to serve potatoes: mashed (but sometimes lumpy), scalloped, French fried (which we seldom cope with), pan-fried (good but overworked), baked, plain boiled or creamed. (I know you will argue with me about those choices, and that is what I hoped.)

I was riffling through a Hungarian cook book and counted 77 ways to use potatoes.

This made me hungry and made me yearn for time—time and energy—to try them out on my family and friends.

Well, I did try four of them and they all passed muster in great fashion.

Potato Dumplings (Grumberra Knepp)

Peel 6 medium-sized potatoes, cook until tender, in boiling salted water, and force through potato ricer. Soak 2 slices stale white bread, then press out the excess water and add to potatoes, along with 3 beaten eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour. Mix into a paste—if this is too sticky to handle add just a little more flour. With buttered hands shape paste into balls the size of walnuts and drop into stew. I served these with a stew made from boiling a piece of shin beef, bone in, with salt, pepper and bay leaf. I did not have any other vegetables on hand, nor time to prepare them so I whipped up these elegant dumplings and served the works with a tossed salad. My family loves me!

But—these dumplings are traditionally served with what is called Sauerbraten in Germany, and it is high time such a glorious dish became part of every Canadian housewives' cooking repertory.

Clip the following recipe if you are making good resolutions to broaden your cooking field.

Sauerbraten

Rub a 4-lb. piece from the top of the round with salt and pepper. Place in large earthenware or pyrex bowl. Cover with 3 cups vinegar heated with 3 cups water, 1 onion sliced, 1 bay leaf, 1 teaspoon peppercorns, 2 tablespoons sugar and 2 cloves. Do not boil this—just bring to simmering point and pour over meat. Let cool. Cover and let stand 24 to 36 hours in refrigerator, turning the meat over 4 times.

Melt 2 tablespoons fat or drippings in heavy kettle. Dredge the beef when lifted from vinegar mixture, with 2 tablespoons flour, then sear it in the hot fat, browning on all sides. Pour the vinegar "marinade" over it, bring just to boil, reduce heat and cover and simmer until meat is tender — about 3 hours. Liquid should be cooked down to half. Traditionally the liquor in pot is thickened with about 5 crumbled ginger snaps, and strained over the meat on the platter. But I am of English origin and do not like this.

What I do is keep the beef very hot and add water to the liquid and cook the potato dumplings in that, and strain what is left over the meat and dumplings on platter.

Swiss Potatoes

Peel 6 medium-sized potatose and grate them on a medium-sized shredder directly into water (to prevent browning). Melt 4 tablespoons butter in heavy frying-pan. Drain and dry potatoes and spread evenly over the butter in pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover, reduce heat, and cook until brown crust has formed underneath—increasing heat at end if necessary to form crust. Carefully remove to hot platter, serving them crust side up, garnished prettily.

Potatoes In Cream

In top of double boiler heat 1 cup top milk or rich cream. Into it drop 4 medium-sized potatoes which have been quickly cut into ½-inch cubes when raw. Add ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ to ¼ teaspoon white pepper, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, cover and let soak over boiling water until potatoes are just tender and cream has become a little thickened from the starch in the raw potatoes.

Slitherybacks

(I'm giving you this chiefly because of that nifty name. They are good though.)

Mix together about equal quantities of cold well-flavored mashed potatoes and flour. Knead them with the hands until of right consistency to form into cakes about ½-inch thick and 3 inches in dameter. Fry in butter or bacon fat until golden. To dress these up when you want to use them for an otherwse meatless meal, surround each cake with a strip of side bacon, fastening it on with a toothpick, and frying until golden, as above.

What's Right

You and your wife are having dinner in a restaurant and it takes her longer to decide what she wants to order than it does you.

WRONG WAY: Give your order first.

RIGHT WAY: Wait until she has decided what she wants before you order and then give her order first.

Ordination of World Doom If Man Exalted, IODE Told

"The world's present situation is as black as it has ever been since the dawn of history," the Rev. C. G. Boyd said Sunday evening from his pulpit in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. "We are living in the mental and spiritual atmosphere of the first Christians who expected the end of the world at any time. Fearsome omen of final stages is the new hydrogen bomb."

There are two things to do Mr. Boyd said "heed the message of the church and become better Christians; heed the message of the IODE and become better British Canadians." More than 200 members of Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire were in the church for this service.

"Christianity, through the churches, must resist pernicious totalism of communism with its own better version of social justice, directed by a faith in God that will keep it alert" the minister declared. "We will have to summon to action all our British tolerance and patient understanding, not base our strategy on a show of power which may blunder us into a war that will end civilization."

Human Arena

Likening the people of the British Empire to the tree of the parable which "rose up and exalted itself and was cut down," Mr. Boyd said "we stand obsessed of our physical survival. From the time of the old days when grand Imperialism was fashionable, people have thought certain prophecies in Bible referred to the British."

"We are still riding through the 20th century on a "streetcar named disaster" but the tracks have been torn up and we don't know where we're going. The shape of society has changed as interest in God has given way to interest in man. Man has come to believe in absolute omnipotence to the exclusion of God, the world has become an arena of human destiny and the necessity for any other world has become irrelevant."

"Supremacy of things of spirit has been displaced by matter Science has come to dominate culture; cosmic reality has come under human control, and God is just an instrument of human progress," he summarized. "Wants of man increased and made it impossible to find social security and the result is wars which have come to be purely economic struggles, no longer aristocratic pastimes and sport of kings."

"Perhaps the most alarming phenomenom of the mid-twentieth century dwellers, do-christianized and terrified by the threat of extinction, is that multitudes have been willing to submit to great leaders and have become a semi-depersonalized mass of humanity—automata passively submitting to a new kind of slavery —and ripe for the plucking by the left or by the right."

Mr. Boyd referred to Soviet Russia where man has taken the place of God. "The deification of man in that country has turned into daemonic pride. We see masses deluded into consciousness of power. They have made Marxian communism stink in our nostrils, turned it into a cynical corruption of conscience."

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Wrong to Forbid Wife to See Her Family

DEAR MISS DIX: During the fifteen years that I have been married my husband's attitude toward my family has been a heartbreak to me. He has nothing against them personally. They have always been good and kind to him. But it makes him furious every time I go to see my people. He says that when a girl gets married she should forget her own family, but I think that would be inhuman. My dear mother is dead. My father is nearly 70 and in spite of my husband I always go to see him once a week and when I go my husband says something cutting to me and tells the children I should stay at home. Do you think I do anything wrong in going to see my old Dad?

WORRIED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course not. You owe it to your father to show him that much affection and attention, and you would be doing a cruel and heartless thing if you failed to visit him as often as possible.

May Make Concessions

I believe in wives making concessions to their husbands' prejudices and going even more than fifty fifty in trying to adopt themselves to their husbands' whims, if that is the only way in which they can keep the peace, but when a man demands that his wife shall commit the unpardonable crime of turning ingrate to the father who cherished her, then I think the time has come for her to defy him.

Of course, it is nothing but jealousy but jealousy that inspires this kind of conduct in a man. He is determined to monopolize his wife and he cannot endure the thought that any part of her affection goes to any one else. Also, this vanity makes him want to be supreme with his wife, and it infuriates him to know that her family have any influence with her.

And it is strange that any man or woman who tries to alienate a husband or wife from his or her family has not intelligence enough to see that loyalty and love and gratitude are not spasmodic virtues, but that they are integral parts of a character, and that the husband or wife who could be weaned from their parents and their brothers and sisters could also be weaned from them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 21, engaged to a man ten years my senior whom I love very much. He is a man who has been around, as the phrase goes, and he has fallen in love with me because he believes me so nice and sweet and innocent. Six years ago when I was a kid I had an experience that is like a nightmare to remember, but since then I have gone absolutely straight. What I can't decide is whether to tell my fiance about it or not. I am not afraid he will break the engagement and refuse to marry me. It is just that his love is founded on his belief that I am exceptionally fine and good, and if he found out to the contrary he would lose the respect he has for me and both he and I would be miserable. Should I or should I not tell him?

M. H. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Just taking it as a general proposition I think that men and women make a great mistake when they confess to each other their past indiscretions before they are married. It simply destroys their faith in each other and gives each one endless food for jealousy.

Marriage should wipe the slate for both parties. What matters then is whether they are going to lead clean lives and be faithful to each other. It is far more important than some error they have committed before they even know each other.

Of course your case has a little stinger in the very fact that your fiance, having been a rounder himself, demands absolute purity in his wife. That will make him more resentful of your having a splash on your skirts, although his garments are covered with slime. Knowing this, it may be best for you to tell him before marriage and at least deprive him of the privilege of saying that you deceived him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is so jealous that I dare not even speak to another man. If I were to meet a minister I would be afraid to say hello to him. I am a faithful and devoted wife, yet his jealously makes him accuse me of every kind of crime and overwhelm me with the lowest abuse. To leave him will break my heart, but to stay with him will drive me crazy.

B. E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There is no cure for jealousy because it is a form of insanity. And there is no happiness with a jealous man. You have to either make up your mind to take it and like it or leave him.

Bakers' Rolls (hot—see notees)
Shredded New Carrot and New Cabbage Salad with Chopped Apple Salad
Double boiler Stewed Rhubarb (see note) Sponge Dropcakes (Bakers') Coffee

Directions

Some of the nutritionists who are writing columns and advice for reducers include angel food cake in their menus twice a week. This is because it contains no butter—but—it does contain plenty of sugar so do not be misled, for angel food cake contains plenty of nourishment, and calories.

Pan broil your meat cakes with sufficient fat and calt and pepper and remove to hot platter and keep hot. There should be 3 tablespoons fat in pan Add one-quarter lb. washed and sliced mushrooms and saute gently for 5 minutes, then add 2½ tablespoons flour, stir until flour is mixed in. Add 1½ cups boiling water and stir until thick. Pour over hot Beef cakes.

An mproved filling for lemon pie goes like thtis: preheat 2 cups milk. In top of double boiler mix 1 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons cornstarch. ¼ teaspoon salt, and when milk is hot stir it into the mixed dry ingredients. Cook over low heat stirring until thick. Place over boiling water in bottom of double boiler and cook 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Mix together 1 tablespoon soft butter, 2 egg yolks, 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 or 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, and into this stir the hot mix. Return all to double boiler, and cook stirring, for two minutes to cook egg. Pour into baked pie shell: cover with meringue made by beating the leftover egg whites until frothy, and adding 4 tablespoons sugar, and beating until stiff. Bake meringue in oven of 325 deg Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes.

When the corned beef and cabbage are cooking the rolls may be heating in a bag on the inverted lid, over which place an inverted baking dish—awkward, but it works.

The double boiler rhubarb method is suggested because it keeps the shape and color of the rhubarb intact, and this is important when we have to pay imported food prices. Wash rhubarb, do not peel, but chop it into inch pieces. Place in top of double boiler, and for each 5 cups add 1 cup sugar. Since the rhubarb wilts down to about 3 cups this is plenty of sugar. Stir it only when you start cooking. Cover and let cook over boiling water until just tender.

Crowther-Coit

The wedding of Ann Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Coit, RR 3, Peterborough, to John William Crowther, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Russell Crowther, 553 Chamberlain St., was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at the bride's home. The Rev. E. J. Whan of Park St. Baptist Church performed the ceremony in a setting of beautiful spring flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a navy crepe afternoon dress with pink hat and gloves and a shoulder bouquet of pink carnations and blue iris. Her bridesmaid Miss Lois Paddock was dressed in wine and wore grey accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Robert Crowther was his brother's attendant.

A reception followed at which the mothers of the bride and groom assisted, Mrs. Coit was wearing blue and Mrs. Crowther a grey suit and each had a corsage of roses.

The couples are spending their honeymoon in Toronto and Hamilton and on return will live at 553 Chamberlain St.

Standards Borne to Church For IODE Jubilee Service

Standards of the local IODE Chapters formed an impressive background in St. Paul's Church Sunday evening when the golden jubilee of the order was marked in Peterborough in conjunction with coast-to-coast church services. Two hundred women, representing seven primary and two junior chapters, sat together in the body of the church.

Headed by Municipal Chapter's own standard, carried by Mrs. M. E. Clarke, the standard bearers entered from the front of the church, walked in solemn procession to the rear and then down the centre aisle to the chancel where they deposited their flags. Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, municipal regent, and her executive were next in line, followed by the members attending from each chapter. At conclusion of the service they retired in similar order.

"We congratulate you on your promotion of good citizenship and education and your war service which will go down in the annals of the British Commonwealth" said the Rev. C. G. Boyd in welcoming the women who were of all denominations. "We hope for success in all your efforts to promote unity of the Empire."

Music was chosen specially for the occasion by Christopher Gledhill, organist, and an ensemble of IODE members sang "The Lord is my shepherd" with Mrs. Cora Hendren fo Lakefield taking the solo parts.

Mr. Boyd gave the invocation, following presentation of the standards, and led the IODE members in an anniversary prayer. The title of his sermon was "The twentieth century and Christ's Empire."

Archbishop Remains Silent In Controversy

QUEBEC, Feb. 13.—(CP).— A prelate of the Roman Catholic church remained in seclusion on the west coast today, silent in the face of controversy that stirred about him.

Ending weeks of speculation and rumor, the Vatican announced Saturday that Most Rev. Joseph Charbonneau had resigned as Archbishop of Montreal and had been appointed Titular Archbishop of Bosphorus. The reason, as reported by the Vatican newspaper, Osservator Romano, was "because of the condition of his health."

The 58-year-old Archbishop, for more than nine years head of Canada's most populous Catholic ecclesiastical district, had no comment on the announcement. Since Jan. 29 he had been staying at the Mount St. Mary Nursing Home for the Aged in Victoria, B.C., enjoying what informants there termed as a good rest.

Have No Comment

Here in Quebec, church leaders also refrained from public comment but some persons professing to have information attributed the resignation to reasons other than ill health. One informant said the Archbishop recently flew to Rome to tender his resignation in person to the Pope; lacking confirmation from the Vatican or Msgr. Charbonneau himself, this remained strictly a rumor.

But one report was productive of vigorous denial. In a dispatch from Rome, Reuters news agency quoted Vatican circles as understanding that Bishop Philippe Desranleau of Sherbrooke also had sent his resignation to the aVtican. To this the 67-year-old bishop retorted:

"It is not true. There is no question of my resignation. This news was prepared but not by Rome. I am not going to resign and that is final."

Bishop Desranleau did not explain what he meant by "this news."

In the background of recent widespread speculation and rumor about possible forthcoming church appointments were Archbishop Charbonneau's activities in labor matters. It was reported reliably, too, that he had disagreed with certain civil authorities here over proposals concerning the University of Montreal of which he was apostolic chancellor.

Ponder Edges Citation In San Antonio Race

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 13 — (AP). — The one-two punch of the feared Calumet racing stable struck again Saturday, but it was Ponder first and Citation second in the $50,000 San Antonio Handicap. As 51,000 turf fans broke loose in a swelling roar of excitement, Ponder, the 1949 Kentucky Derby winner, came under the wire a length ahead of the mighty Citation and thus, for the time being, again put the damper on the latter's comeback hopes. It was the first time that Citation has ever been beaten in two successive races. He lost to Miche in a tune-up two weeks ago.

Psychiatric Nursing

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 13—(CP) —A three months' course in psychiatric nursing at the University of Western Ontario School of Nursing has been announced by Edith McDowell, the dean. The program is for graduate registered nurses and starts March 1. The course is believed to be the first of its kind in Canada sponsored jointly by a university and the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Close Dowson College May 31, James Says

MONTREAL, Feb. 13 — (CP) — Dawson College, a McGill University school at St. Johns, Que., will close next May 31, Dr. F. Cyril James, McGill principal and vice-chancelor announced Sunday.

Dawson was estabished September, 1945 to absorb an infux of war veterans studying on Department Affairs grants. The college was a former R.C.A.F. Air Observer School and was the first such establishment taken over from the government by a Canadian university.

See Parliament In Long Session

OTTAWA, Feb. 13 (CP) — If advance signs are any indication, the second session of Canada's 21st Parliament, opening Thursday, will be active and lengthy.

The government has maintained customary silence on the legislation it plans to introduce, but opposition parties have indicated there are many things they want to discuss.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said in an interview that he has made it a practice not to anticipate what may happen at a session. However his recent statements and speeches have indicated that he will criticize the government's trade and employment policies and trade and employment policies what he terms the government's and what he terms its "complacency" in dealing with Communist activities in Canada.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said he also plans to bring up the question of loss of trade markets and of "increasing" unemployment.

Solon Low, Social Credit Leader, in a recent speeeh recommended adoption of his party's financial theories as an antidote to the loss of markets and the unemployment problem.

Police Capture Daring Raiders

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 13 — (CP) —Three local youths who allegedly stole about $450 in a daring daylight raid on a downtown loan company office Saturday will be arraigned today on charges of armed robbery.

They are: Allan Brown, 19, Ronald Hardy, 18, and Harry Peterson, 17.

Brown and Hardy were in jail within half an hour of the holdup and 10 minutes after the alarm went out he was involved in an accident with a car police said he had bought earlier in the day.

Police said Peterson paid $300 for the auto, and he had $150 in his pockets when arrested.

Canadian Cat Wins

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 13 (AP)— Pinky, a Canadian cat who tips the scales at a hefty 28 pounds, won two blue ribbons at the All-American cat show Sunday. Pinky, owned by Edythe Wiles, Toronto singer, took first prize among the household pets. He also snagged a ribbon for being the largest cat in America. The cat already holds a similar title in Canada.

Retires As Violinist

CHICAGO, Feb. 13—(AP)—A young Canadian physician and violinist says he is going to give up music as a career and devote his time to medicine. Dr. Robert Graham, 24, of Toronto, appeared as guest soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra Saturday night. Graham said in an interview that he is "planning to retire as a professional violinist in about six months."

Norwood Man Suffers Injuries In Crash

A Norwood man, Richard Gallagher, was slightly hurt when his forehead struck the windshield of a car in an accident at Lansdowne and George Sts. early Sunday morning.

His forehead was badly bruised and cut. A car driven by W. Frankovitch, 654 McKellar St., east on Landsdowne St., stopped at George St. to wait for traffic before making a left turn into George St.

While stopped his car was hit by a car driven by Gordon Murphy, Norwood, in which Gallagher was a passenger.

The right rear fender was crumpled and rear bumper dented on the Frankovich car. The Murphy car had a damaged front bumper, left front fender and left front wheel.

Constable Douglas Farthing, who investigated with Constable Donald Jones, reported the road was icy.

3rd Anniversary Of Leduc Oil Discovery

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor.

This is the third anniversary of the day which made Canada a major oil producer, an event which is sending a stream of money through the country, creating jobs and wealth.

On February 13, 1947, Imperial Oil Ltd. brought in the first well near Leduc, 20 miles south-west of Edmonton.

Because of that event $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 yearly now is being spent on oil development in Western Caanda. Edmonton is virtually a boom city and Alberta virtually a boom province—if the word can be applied to a prosperity built on real wealth.

Before the event, Canada had almost resigned herself to being an oil-hungry country, with no major find since Turner Valley in Southern Alberta in the '30's. One thousand exploratory wells had found close to nothing, and most oil companies had turned away in disappointment.
